THE CONGER FAMILY OF AMERICA

If you could see your ancestors all standing in a row,
Would you be proud of them? Or don't you really know?
Strange discoveries are made in climbing the family tree.
Occasionally one is found who shocks his progeny.

If you could see your ancestors all standing in a row,
Perhaps there may be one or two you wouldn't care to know.
Now turn the question right about, and take another view.
When you shall meet your ancestors, will they be proud of you?

PREFACE

It appears that our first family genealogist was SAMUEL HAYES CONGER, born 10 Dec 1796 at Newark, N-Jr. Records reveal, "An attempt being made in 1845 to utilize the old burying ground in Newark, by appropriating it to other purposes, Mr.Conger's interest in the remains of his ancestors therein deposited, led him to take an active part in the opposition to the so-called improvements;and extended researches into the genealogies of the families interested were the result.

"He became a member of the New Jersey Historical Society in May 1848, and was appointed librarian in 1852, an office for which his tastes rendered him particularly well qualified. The genealogies which he contributed to the volume issued by that society in 1866,in commemoration of the bi-centennial celebration of the settlement of Newark, added material to its interest; and he also took an active part in editing the town-records published by that society in 1864." He wrote many articles in the "Newark Daily Advertiser".

Although Samuel spent a good deal of time recording his ancestry, there is no record of posterity. There is no record in the Conger files of his son Henry born 15 Aug 1835, and died 21 Feb 1904.

CHARLES GREENWOOD BARKER CONGER was the next one to work on the records.Little is known about him, other than he was a bachelor and he published the records of his line in 1903. He probably obtained most of his data from the efforts of Samuel Hayes Conger. Apparently he worked for the government,for there are copies of several letters in the files that give his address as "Room 553,War Dept,Washington, D.C.", dated 1899 before his book was published.

Charles GB mentions the CONGER UNION in one of these letters, which he must have formed. He said his only interest was the tribe of Job, but that he kept names and addresses pertaining to other lines.

Apparently the Conger Family League members up to 25 May 1905 were: Rev. Edward Bryan, 1530 52nd St.,Brooklyn, N-Yr; R.W.D. Bryan,Albuquerque, N-Mx; Mrs. A.G. Conger, Litchfield, Mich; Mrs. A.L.Conger, Irving Lawy, Akron, Ohio; Arthur Conger, Harrisonville, Mo; Asbury Bernard Conger, Oak Ridge, La; Charles G.B. Conger, 1744 Willard St, Washington, D.C.; Charles Henry Conger, Mulberry, Tenn; Charles L. Conger, McIntosh, Minn; Chauncey Stewart Conger, Carmi, Ill; Dixie Lamar Conger, Mulberry, Tenn; Frank H Conger, 262 Prospect St., Cleveland, Ohio; Frederick Albert Conger, 499 Selby Ave, St. Paul, Minn; George Henry Conger, 613 W. 147 St., N.Y. City; Dr. H. A. Conger, Duncan Indian Territory; Hiram James Conger, Honesdale, Pa; Iliff Conger, Sewanee, Tenn; Ira Conger, Cherokee, Iowa; John A. Conger, Goldfield, Iowa; Prof. John W. Conger, Arkadelphia, Ark; Mrs. Martha Conger, Gouverneur, N.Y.; Miss Olive Conger, 1028 16th St. Washington, D.C.; Robert Alonzo Conger, Mulberry, Tenn; Mrs. Martha J. Corley, R.F. D. 1, Liberty, Tenn; Mrs. John Hays Harmer, Bancker Place, New Rochelle, N.Y.; Mrs. Jerit W. Hopkins 2805 S. Grand, Los Angeles, Calif; George Heston Miller, 620 Clinton Ave, Newark, N.J.; Mrs. Anne Mims Wright, 408 State St., Jackson, Miss.

Also Miss May Conger, Jonesville, Mich; Frank H. Conger, Yates Center, Kans;Mrs. Sophronia Conger Snell, Ozona, Fla; Eugene D. Conger, 314 South College Ave,Grand Rapids,Mich; Daniel Conger, Chisholm, Minn;Mrs. Zilla Keziah Teeple, Marengo,Ill; Charles Teeple, Marengo, Ill; Cassius R. Conger, Dannsborg, Neb; This was in Collomer's Historical Bulletin #56, published from December 1903 to August 1906. Mention was made that Charles L. Conger of McIntosh, Minnesota,was undertaking the tracing of the lines of Moses.

Rev. Everett Lorentus Conger of Pasadena, Calif., was the president of the Conger Union in 1905;Iliff Conger of Sewanee, Tenn., Treas; Miss Wilhemina B. Conger, 65 West 95th St, New York City, Sec., and Charles GB Conger of 1744 Willard St., Washington, D. C., was Editor. This union financed the publication of data in Collamere's Historical Bulletin in Washington,D.C.,and in Fernald's Genealogical Exchange in Buffalo,NY.

CHARLES LESLIE CONGER compiled the bulk of the material now existing. It appears that he spent thousands of dollars to have research done, and it is said he died a poor man, although he had been a banker. He died in 1934 when the country was still feeling the effects of the 1929 "Crash". His only son, William Lloyd Conger, had but one child, Jean, who died unmarried.

Charles L. Conger wrote a letter dated 23 Feb 1932 to Clement Ellis Conger in which he said he intended to place his records with the New Jersey Historical Society. He added, "I have not done much to add to the records in the past twenty years and there are other sources of information that I would like to tap, but I guess it is out of the question. Among my other so-called troubles is my eyesight that is failing me, so much that I can hardly to see to read large print (can not read newspapers, except the headlines and glasses will not help. However, I am not kicking. My race is nearly over and I have had a very good time on this earth until recently." (He died two years later, age 65.)

Another letter to Clement, dated 20 Mar 1932, reads, in part, "I wish the first time that you go to The Congressional Library in Washington that you would ascertain for me whether or not they would be interested in unpublished manuscripts such as I have, regarding the Conger family. I have three copies of my work, one of which I have always wanted to place with The Historical Society of New Jersey, one copy in the Newbury Library at Chicago and if there is a genealogical department in the Congressional Library at Washington I should like to place a copy there. I have a large amount of data all classified and in fairly good condition."

Clement E. Conger adds a note of humor to this as he wrote on 26 May 1970, "It would amuse you to know that when I took the Conger genealogy book to the head of the Genealogy Section of the Library of Congress many years ago, he asked me how many Congers were in the book. I made a trivial remark that we Congers were like rabbits because in ten generations there were 25,000 people in the book. The head of the Genealogy Department replied the Congers had not done their duty. In ten generations the average American family is 35,000 people! He was so delighted with all this work that the book was placed in the Rare Book Section where, I presume, it may be consulted at any time."

ETHEL CONGER HEAGLER would contest the last statement if she were alive today. She wrote to your compiler on 18 May 1962 and told of attending a DAR National Conference in Washington D.C. the previous year (at age 80). She wrote, "I went to the Rare Books Department of the Congressional Library to see the seven volumes of typed bound books left by Charles Conger of Minnesota. You have to almost swear your life away to get in. A guard sits at the door with a rope across the opening. I told him what I wanted and he said, 'What references do you have?' I said, 'I am here as a delegate to the DAR Conference', and I gave him my membership card. That didn't mean anything. 'What else do you have?' I showed him my cards of the Pen Women of America, Farm Bureau and Home Bureau of McLean Co. Ill., He then asked to see all my cards, and what did he take, but the credit card from the Chicago Motor Club! A young girl stood by me and she had no reference with her, and they would not let her in.

"Then I went in and they brought me the seven books and sat me down in front of the desk and that lady never took her eyes off of me all afternoon."

Mrs. Heagler published her line in 1941, through the help of Charles L. Conger who had established her lineage.

As indicated above, a copy of Charles' material was placed in the Rare Book Division in the Library of Congress, including the correspondence. Then in about 1941, ELIJAH HAGENS CONGER of Caliente, Nevada, made these records available to the public.

In a letter to Mrs. Leonard, March 4th, 1963, Elijah's wife Carrie wrote: "My husband did so much research and received so much information from so many different people. I am quite sure that he received the information from Charles L. Conger's widow that he had deposited these eight volumes in the Library of Congress in Washington DC. I know he wrote to the library and made arrangements to have the eight volumes microfilmed. Cost $32.00. Then he had to buy a reading machine, $75.00, so that we could type them back into book form. As my husband was practicing his profession (dentistry) at this time and we could only do this typing in our spare time, it took us three years to complete the assignment. As you can see the spelling is far from correct. That was one thing my husband just couldn't master. He wrote a beautiful hand, though. When we finished typing the films my husband deposited them in the Genealogy Library in Salt Lake City, Utah."

In another letter Carrie explained that Charles L. Conger's eight volumes were made into four books in re-typing the records, and that there were 990 pages. They made two sets--the original and one carbon. One set was given to Dan Conger (nephew Dan Lewis Conger?) and after Elijah's death the other was given to his sister, Era Conger Jones of Overton, Nevada. (Of the 990 pages, much space was wasted by so many indentations. Copies of all correspondence was included also.)

You could say these records were handed to your compiler on a "Silver platter", thanks to Era Conger Jones, who let me copy the books one at a time. Why did I, Helen MAXINE CROWELL LEONARD, get involved, when I am not a Conger--my closest relationship is that of my great grandmother, Mary Conger Croel, born 1814 in Monroe county, Ohio.

I have been "Conger Conscious" since about the age of eight. I, with my folks, visited the cemetery in Monroe county, Iowa, where Mary is buried with her son Wilbur and his wife Margaret, my grandparents. As I stood beside her grave I had the strongest feeling about her--the urge to know her. I liked the sound of the name CONGER. I knew that in some way she was very special.

In 1956 I was stricken with Rheumatoid Arthritis and was bed-ridden for three months, as stiff as a board. Through prayer, food supplements, exercise and diet I was able to assume a fairly normal life.Five foot operations alleviated a lot of pain, and both hands and wrists were restored to good use through surgery. Through all this I needed something to occupy my time and mind, and genealogy seemed to be the answer.

I "met" Era Jones through correspondence, and in 1962 we had the opportunity to visit her. It was then I began copying her books. When I finished I thought,"Someone should index all this", for it was impossible to find anything specific. And so I made file cards for everyone, and recorded the Conger spouses. Every place my husband's Army travels took us, I looked for Congers and interviewed them.

My husband retired from the service in 1967 and we settled at Janesville, Iowa. I had no idea what to do with the records,for I really didn't know any Congers.I thought of typing all the material and sending copies to the Library of Congress and the Genealogical Library in Salt Lake City, and keep a copy for myself.

Then in July 1968 I received a letter from BEACH CONGER of Pleasantville,New York. He was planning to up-date his line,that of Job,which Charles GB Conger had published in 1903. He heard of me through correspondence and wondered if I could help him.When he learned what I had, he offered to finance the publication if we worked together to put all the Conger material into one book.

Since Beach lived near a large library,I suggested he search telephone directories for Congers throughout the country. This he began to do, and contacted about 150 people of this name. For six months he sent material to be catalogued--and then he died 6 Jan 1969. Marion, his widow, sent me his files, which contained the booklets of JOB A. CONGER AND HIS DESCENDANTS by Ivan Albert Conger, and the story of NORMAN HURD CONGER, by Roger N. Conger (included herein with their permission.)

LAUREN TENNEY CONGER of Lake Forest, Illinois, came to my rescue by helping with telephone directory search in Chicago--and by slipping me a couple of $10.00 bills to help defray the gigantic postage costs. Later I spent an entire day in the St. Louis library to finish the project,and about 1,000 Congers were contacted;over 2500 letters have been written. In this way the past three or four generations have been added to the existing records.

Special credit goes to the following people for many hours of research--reading census reports on microfilm, checking courthouse records, writing letters and personally interviewing people:MARION BARTON for checking all the Vermont Vital Statistics and libraries;GENEVA CLARK, finding and identifying the Congers in Marion county, Kentucky; WILLA DEAN EAVES for research in Georgia; BEULAH FREHNER and daughter CONNIE MONEY for finding the missing link to establish Jonas Conger in Georgia; LEONA ROBERTSON and LESBA THOMPSON for finding the descendants of Jonathan Conger of Pike county, Indiana, and proving him for D.A.R; (WILLIAM) RUSSELL CONGER for further search of the Ohio branch; and GEARY H. WORTH and DON RUTH MERRITT for checking Tennessee census films.

(JOSEPH) CLYDE CONGER went that extra mile to round up the descendants of Lucius Lee Conger in Mississippi; SIDNEY L. CONGER found most of the descendants of Jeptha Conger of Louisiana, and ILDA PEARL CONGER MENDENHALL has kept records of James Westfall Conger's descendants from Kansas. MARY E. WOODS has done a splendid job in preserving the records of the descendants of Abijah Conger from Athens, Georgia.Many letters were written by NOEL WILLIAM CONGER to find the descendants of Colvin Conger o f New York, and IVAN ALBERT CONGER keeps the descendants of Job A. Conger together by an annual family reunion at his home in Owoso, Michigan. Although Abraham H. Conger 1810 of Lowndes county, Georgia, can not be linked to John Belconger, his prolific posterity has kept in close contact and JOHN ROBERT CONGER prodded them into submitting their records. There are many others, too numerous to mention.

Now, after 120 years, several thousand dollars, and the devoted efforts of many kinsmen, the CONGER FAMILY OF AMERICA is assembled into one cover. I personally have not done much research; I make no claims of any kind. I have compiled the existing material, which undoubtedly contains errors. In many instances additional children have been found,so the reader must bear in mind that these records are not necessarily complete; none probably ever will be. When known, the religious denomination is given as an aid in directing further search and verification.

This is only the beginning! There should be a supplement every five years, giv - ing additions and corrections. The family should become "Conger Conscious" and make sincere efforts to keep individual records henceforth. There should be more family reunions to preserve your rich heritage. Seek out your Conger cousins wherever you go. Unless there is another volunteer, I promise to continue in the roll of "compiler" so long as I am able. If I have no successor, the records will be donated to the "Geneaoligical Society"of Salt Lake City, Utah.

Charles Leslie Conger spent a fortune trying to find descendants of John Belconger's six sons, and brought the records up to the generation born around 1880. Before his death in 1934, he placed his un - published records in the Rare Book Division of the Library of Congress.

His only child, William Lloyd Conger 1900, died in 1952. He and his wife, Dagny Oppegard, had one daughter, Jean Catherine 1929, who died at the age of 34, unmarried. Jean had lost her hearing as a teen -ager, and became a free-lance writer.

Five Generations of The Conger Family All Living

The accompanying picture is of the five generations of the William Jonas Conger family taken when they gathered at a family reunion at Las Vegas on November 26, 1942. Standing left to right is William Jonas Conger, the great great grandfather, age 84. Seated next is Elijah H. Conger, D. D. S. great grandfather, 64 years of age. Standing in rear on right is William Lonzie Conger, the grandfather, age 40. Seated in front of him is his daughter, Betty Jean (Conger) Young, age 18. The youngest member of the family seated on his great grandfather's lap, is Robert Allan Young, age fourteen months, whose father is now with the armed forces.

William Jonas Conger was born in Cobb county, Georgia, May 8, 1858, and is hale and hearty. He drives his own car, and does as much work as most men of fifty. Dr. Elijah H. Conger was born in Randolph county, Alabama October 22, 1878. He still practices his profession and keeps regular office hours at his dental office. William Lonzie Conger was born January 12, 1902, at Parowan, Utah. Of course he is just a mere boy at the age of 40, and works twelve and fourteen hours a day as owner and manager of his laundry. Betty Jean (Conger) Young was born May 30, 1924, at Salt Lake City, Utah. She is now residing with her parents at Las Vegas, Nevada while her husband, Robert E. Young, is serving his country in the Air Corps. Master Robert Allan Young was born September 25, 1941, at Massillon, Ohio. At this time he keeps the whole family busy trying to keep up with him, as he has just learned to walk.

William Jonas Conger emigrated from Alabama to Parowan, Utah in 1901. Dr. Elijah H. Conger also moved from Alabama to Parowan, Utah, arriving there January 1, 1902.

Elijah Hagens Conger, D.D.S., pa to have the records of Charles Lesl Conger microfilmed. He then purchas a reader and, with the help of his wi Carrie, re-typed them, making thr copies. The project required abo three years. The film was then donat to the Salt Lake City Genealogical S ciety.

Maxine compiled and indexed all the existing Conger records, contacted over 1,000 Congers to up - date the material, typed the manuscript and did most of the mimeograph work. The project was begun in 1963 and completed in 1972.

Special credit goes to Larry for his patience and understanding, and to Karin for her assistance in the housework so that more time could be devoted to "The Book".

Seymour Beach Conger began telephone book search for Congers to contact by mail.

Lauren Tenney Conger assisted in telephone book search after the death of Beach Conger.

Roger Norman Conger published account of Norman Hurd Conger 1826 of Texas.

Ivan Albert Conger contributed his published booklet about Job A. Conger 1817.

Marion Conger Barton checked all the Vermont Vital Statistics.

Geneva Wilcox Clark found and identified Congers in Kentucky.

Willa Beall Eaves verified and extended search for descendants of Jonas Conger 1794 in Georgia.

Bessie Conger Ward kept records of Albert Marcus Conger 1843 of Missouri.

Joseph Clyde Conger organized descendants of Lucius Lee Conger 1860 of Mississippi.

Milton (Pete) Conger researched on family of William J. Conger 1827 of Iowa.

William Russell Conger extended Ohio research on Elias Darby Conger, 1763.

Sidney Lamar Conger found descendants of Jeptha Conger 1819 in Louisiana. His wife Bette-Lee Davis and children Sidney Lamar, Jr., Edmund Lee and Carey Kathlene Conger are pictured.

JOHN BELCONGER

No one to date has been able to prove when or from where John Belconger came to this country. He simply appears on the marriage records of Newbury, Massachusetts when he married Mary Kelly on 12 Apr 1666.

The existing shipping lists for that period do not have any Conger or Belconger listed. However, Clement E. Conger wrote: "The information about John Belconger which I received from my Aunt Grace Conger who did a lot of correspondence on the Conger family was that he had come to Massachusetts in the early 1660s in his own ship called 'The Elizabeth Anne'. He is said to have lived at Newburyport, Massachusetts for about a year, but that he did not get along with the Puritans and set sail again in his own ship for northern NewJersey where he is said to have had a grant to a portion of northern New Jersey. I believe there is extant in the records of the New Jersey Historical Society or some other organization in New Jersey an account of the original John Conger's agreement with the Indians in that area. I regret to say I have nothing to substantiate this information personally."

Charles C. Gardner, employed by Charles Leslie Conger to do research, submits the following report: "I have been unable to find anything of interest as throwing light on the home in England (if there was any) of John Conger of New Jersey. I first tried at Newbury, Mass., and had a search made there of all the old town records,prior to the settlement of Woodbridge. The name 'Conger' in any form is absolutely unknown in the records.

"Before writing you in the first place I had noted that there was a CONGER living in Suffolk county temp. Elizabeth, and I looked the matter up.

"In the Report 5 of the Royal Hist. Mss. Commission there is mentioned a petition to the church wardens of Mendelsham, probably dated 159-, regarding excessive amount of service required in the train bands. To this petition are signed the names of John Mather, Henry Dixon, John Beale, WILLIAM CONGER and John Manning. This mention led me to think that possibly the Congers came from this vicinity,especially as a very little search showed me that the name was exceedingly rare in England, and even where it does appear it is in some cases, I feel sure, an error, for CONYER, or CONYERS.

"I have had a search made of the Probate Records of Ipswich county, Suffolk, England, which shows that from the year 1444 to 1700 there was no CONGER estate administered under authority from that office. I have searched all the works obtainable regarding county Suffolk and the town of Mendelsham, without finding a single mention of the name CONGER.

"In 1674 a sort of census was made of all the heads of families in the county.The name of CONGER does not appear. The Parish Registers of Mendelsham begin 1558 and it might be worth while to have these searched.

"The British Record Society and the Yorkshire Archealogical Soc, of which I am a member, have printed indexes to the probate registries at Gloucester, North Hampton, York, Litchfield, Bristol, Blandford, Liecester, London, etc, where are filed perhaps two thirds of the wills of England. I have carefully examined these indexes and find no reference to the name CONGER. The publication of the Harleian Society were evidenly examined when your search of England was made. These include the registers of Bath Abbey, where --- of FRANES CONGER was buried in 1658,and the registers of St. Michael Cornhill, where NICHOLAS CONGERS (CONYERS), servant to Mr.John Merriton was buried in 1672.

"I have examined scores of volumes of English Genealogical journals without finding a trace of the name CONGER for the period prior to 1700. One reason I have never been willing to accept a French tradition of the Conger family, is that in all records of Woodbridge and New Jersey I have never come across a spelling of the name that would when pronounced by a Frenchman, sound like your name.

"You state in one of your letters that there is a name 'du CONGUER' in France. My search of early New Jersey records, which have been quite exhaustive, shows that John Conger did not write his name, but when he affixed his name to papers the name was written by a scribe, who would be, of course, English." This paper was not dated, but was probably written in the early 1900's.

Elijah Hagens Conger had a theory as follows: "Webster's dictionary says that the word 'Conger' or as it is spelled in the dictionary, 'Kong-Ger', means a large sea eel.

"Some 2,000 years ago there was a man some place in Normandy who made a living by fishing and his principal catch was the Sea Eel. In the early days a man was usually named from his daily vocation, therefore the neighbors called him the Eel Man which meant 'Kong-Ger'. Later this same tribe of people lived in Alsace-Lorraine, then a French province; then they moved to Holland. It is my opinion that we are descendants from that race.

"However, some historians say that we possibly are of the German origin. Let that be as it may, we were living in France at the time of the St. Bartholomew Massacre. All of our ancestors belong to what is known as the Huguenot Order. That order was opposed to Catholicism and there was a great massacre of the Huguenots by the Catholics. Only a few of our ancestors got out alive and went into Scotland and England, and there the name was Anglicized to 'Conger'.

"John Conger (Primus) who emigrated to this, the United States of America, was known as John Bellconger, but he dropped the Bell part of his name soon after coming to this country. He, John, was a bellmaker in the old country and in order for his neighbors to distinguish him from several of the other Conger men, they spoke of him as the Conger that made Bells, or 'Bell Conger.'

"Some of this information I took from Webster's dictionary, and some of it from a Genealogical book put out by Charles G. B. Conger of Washington, D.C., in 1903, and some of it is from a history written by Charles Leslie Conger of North Wood, Iowa."

As of 1972, nothing conclusive has been established about the origin of John Belconger. One of the Conger Family bulletins written by Charles GB Conger in June 1905 tells about the Huguenot tradition and adds: "A curious fact in connection with this is that John Koniger, an Alsatian, came to Keneckee, St. Clair county, Michigan, about the middle of the last century. He was immediately known by his neighbors as "Conger" and all his descendants so write the name. We have been told that John Belconger came from County Antrim, Ireland; that he came from Jersey, Channel Isles; that he came from Wales; that he came from Lincolnshire, England; and that he came from Bristol. But all the assertions are unsupported by any proof. He was not probably of sufficient note to have his origin very well known, and was probably an artisan or farmer. That he was an Independent in religion is proved by the fact that he held office in the town-office being forbidden with the usual liberality of the New Englanders, to all w h o didn't belong to their church."

Another bulletin dated August 1906, page 38, said: "The English genealogist made a brief preliminary search a short while ago for a book entitled, 'The Voyages of Captain David (?) Congar, a noted English Navigator of the last century.' This captain Congar is said to have been an officer in the British Navy, and to have explored the South Sea Islands. A first cousin of the Secretary (Miss W. B. Conger of 65 West 95th St., N-Y.--secretary of the CONGER UNION) told her he had seen this book in the library of Hon. A.B. Conger of New York, which library was sold some years ago, and all traces of this volume was lost. (This was probably Obediah Congar 1768, whose memoirs were found after fifty years and placed in the Congressional Library.)

"The Secretary has just received from the genealogist above referred to, a report of a search made in the Prerogative Court at Canterbury from 1605 to 1705, which includes all possible variations of Conger, Conder, Koeniger, Koniger, etc. Among these names he found one, 'Conguard' which he thinks might be a clue, and possibly the original way of spelling the name:

"'NICHOLAS CONGUARD', who lived in London, his will being filed in November 1666; David Conguard lived in London,his will being filed in March 1694; Elizabeth Conguard, otherwise de Sens, who died abroad,and whose will was filed in March 1743; and Daniel Conguard, who lived or died in London, and whose will was filed in May 1843'.

"He states these people were Huguenots from France,and seems to think there is a clue which might be worth while following, in fact that the will of Nicholas Conguard be investigated for the possibility of finding a clue to our first American ancestor.

"The branch to which the Secretary belongs preserved the tradition of the original French origin of the family,which seems to have been lost in the other branches.The name CONGUARD would be pronounced CONGER by a Frenchman, and English people spelled names as they sounded in the 18th century and earlier. With the August number of The Historical Bulletin, it publication ceased. (F.B.G.)."

Evidently the "Miss W. B. Conger", Secretary of the Conger Union, was Wilhelmina Bogart Conger.A letter dated 21 Mar 1904 to her from Leonard Warner, Rector of Conger-Stone Rectory nr Atherstone, Leicestershire, England, reads in part: "Undoubtedly, in the remote past, this place was the 'Town of Conger'; at least I suppose so.

"The first record herein, 1180, of whom there is any record, was called William De Congerstone. My Registers only go back to the beginning of the 17th century, the early ones having been lost.

"I wish you could prove your connection with the Founder of Conger-Stone, as I should then come down on you to commerate the past by erecting a Stained Glass window, to your departed ancestors in our ancient church.

John Beall Conger 1905,son of Iliff Conger who was treasurer of the Conger Union, submits his assumptions: "Congerton and Conger family is still known in Leicester county, England. The name originated from Anglo word COEN (bold) and GAR (spear, or brave warrier). Then when John Beall Conger took out his marriage license to Mary Kelly at Newbury, Mass., somebody never noticed that the middle name had become the surname and continuity was lost.

"Now here is some information that is sheer surmise on my part from a fragment from a neighbor who got into DAR through Minton Beall of Maryland. She said that John Beall and his brother attempted to assassinate Oliver Cromwell and John inserted an"A" in his name to avoid capture. Now, John Bell and John Beall Conger appear quite freely in the family history--is it 'reaching' too hard to suppose John Belconger's mother was a Bell and that they had to flee the country in the 1650's?"

Since the origin of John Belconger cannot be positively established,your compiler is of the opinion that a Coat of Arms for CONGER or KONIGER would not be authentic, so far as his descendants are concerned.

Perhaps John couldn't write--but he left his mark! Nearly all the Congers in this book are descended from his six sons--John 1674, Jonathan 1683, Gershom 1685, Joseph 1692, Job 1694 and Benjamin 1700. There are only thirty-seven broken lines, out o f 1740 families. One Conger did write to say he was descended from John Koniger who emigrated from St. Clair county, Michigan, and J. Conger of Jersey City, New Jersey,said his name was Danish--changed from Kongersilis. A Jacob Conger supposedly was with 80 Palatines who imported in the ship Mortonhouse on 24 Aug 1728 and settled around Philadelphia. There was a Valentine Conger born 1817 in Bavaria who appeared in the 1850 Ripley county Indiana census who had sons Jacob 1844 and Francis 1846, but nothing further has been found on any of these families.

That John Belconger of Newbury, Mass., and John Conger of Woodbridge, N-Jr, were identical seems to have been established by Ora Eugene Monnette in his book, "First Settlement of Ye Plantations of Piscataway and Woodbridge." In the first place, there is no further Newbury record of John Belconger and family. The New York Archives contain the New York Colonial MSS report 23,277 in N.Y. State Library of "Capt Kuyff and Liut Snel," dated "14 of 7ber, 1783," and to "Aghter Coll" to administer the oath of allegiance. This was in such poor condition to permit copying, but Mr. Monnette was furnished with a photographic copy of the single sheet of manuscript. It was in the Dutch language, contains in double column and numbered the names of the male inhabitants of Piscataway and Woodbridge, and as reproduced (printed) by Monnette shows the name of Belconger as No. 46 on the list of 54 male residents of Woodbridge.

In other reproductions from the original records of Woodbridge, he occasionally follows the name "John Conger" with (John Belconger), without indicating whether the name in brackets appears in the original records in this form or whether it was added by himself. He fails, in fact, to comment on the appearance of the name of John Belconger in the Dutch report but states throughout his work that John Conger and John Belconger were identical, without giving the reasons for his statement.

The name was frequently pronounced "Conjer", so one branch of the family changed the spelling to "Congar", but reverted back to the original spelling in 1890. Rev. Everett L.Conger of Pasadena once asked a lady, "How much lonjer are you going to call me 'Conjer'?"

In the south the name was often called and spelled "Congo".

JOHN CONGER (Primus) IN WOODBRIDGE, NEW JERSEY

The Woodbridge Town Land Records (N.Jr Historical Society, Pg 17) gives the following account of JOHN CONGER:

Oct 18th, 1669. Laid out for John Conger by virtue of the Governor's warrant dated Aug 18th, 1669,one house lot, and addition containing 15 acres bounded North by the Meadow of Papiack, in length 15 chains to a great white Oak marked on 4 sides; from thence extending S.E. 10 chains to a tree and a stake by it marked on all 4 sides;from thence running S.W. 15 chains to a walnut tree marked on all 4 sides standing next to the highway; from thence 10 chains N.W. to the Meadow side where we first began.

Item: $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres of Meadow next adjoining to his house lot and addition;bounded North upon Papiack Creek, S.W. by the Meadow of Matthew Moores; N.E. by the Meadow of Daniel Robins.

Item: 120 acres of land butting upon Rahawack River, beginning at a Red Oak near a cove called George Little; from thence running East along the river 30 chains to a stake marked with 3 notches; from thence extending South 40 chains to a walnut marked on all 4 sides and 4 notches; from thence running West through the great Swamp to a beach tree marked on all 4 sides and 4 notches; and from thence running North crossing a small fresh brook 40 chains to the Red Oak where we first began, allowance being given for Highway to fetch hay; to small bits of meadow joining to the front of said land at each corner.

Item: 30 acres of Meadow at Rahawack or else where not yet laid out in all containing 170 acres English measure. (This record attested on the certificate.)

New Jersey records show that the patent for 170 acres of land bought and paid for by John Conger as soon as land was allotted to him, was not issued until 1670. This tract was ten times as long as it was wide and had its Northern boundary on the Rahway River, at that time a navigable stream to any vessels then in use, and it was about three miles from the village of Woodbridge, which was located in the center of Woodbridge township,which was a little more than six miles long North and South, and about six miles wide East and West. As this region was immediately adjacent to what was later known as Rahway Village, it became known as Rahway Neck.

In 1670 John Conger sold a meadow,and "he did deliver a twig and turf, declaring that he delivered that part in relation to the whole."

24 June 1672-- John Conger sold to Richard Smith of Newton, L.I., for 16 lbs,60 acres of upland on the Rahway River, and 6 acres of Meadow.

5 Nov 1674-- John exchanged 39 acres of his land with Obediah Winter to an equal amount, at a place called Chestnut Plaine.

3 Dec 1683--he sold to Michael White the 10 acres,house lot and 6 acres addition that he had originally been granted, to Jonathan Hains.

Late in the year 1685, eight men were chosen by the Town of Woodbridge to protect the common land from the depredations of timber thieves. John Conger and Noah Bishop were chosen for Rahway and part adjacent. In 1687 they were the victims of a suit, brought against them by Thomas Thorp for removing from the commons some of Thorp's dressed trees - by mistake, probably. The costs fell upon the town, as Conger and Bishop were acting as its agents in the matter; and to prevent further litagation the meeting of February 14th sent a committee to the victorious Thomas to ask for a cessation of hostilities.

16 Feb 1687--John Conger was one of a committee of 10 appointed to lay out the second division of Common Lands. 60 acres of this land were given each freeholder. From "Woodbridge and Vicinity" (Dally): "from the Order for the Survey: for the Efecting and Leying out of the Said Land, the towne hath appointed ten men for that End... the ten Men appointed for this Service are Viz: Mr. Robert Voquillin, Jonathan Dunham, Saml. Moore, Saml Smith, John Bloomfield, Ezekiel Bloomfld, John Pike, Matthew Moors, John Conger, Jonathan Bishop, and if is Desired that these ten Men would make their Business forth with to Ley out the Said Divisions of Land; Six hands to be each Day about the Said work and to have for their pains three Shillings per day."

1 Apr 1691--recorded the survey of 5 acres of Meadow and 16 acres of upland for John Conger, by virtue of a grant from the Town Committee dated 1 Apr 1684.

9 Oct 1691--he purchased from Josiah Winter the 30 acres of land which he had formerly traded off to Obediah Winter, Josiah's father.

In 1691 the Town Constables were John Conger and Garvin Lockhart.

24 Mar 1692--John sold to Ebenezer Foord of Woodbridge at the West "of my accomadation".

"In January, 1694, Nathaniel Fitz Randolph and John Bloomfield were sent to d i scourse with John Browne of Amboy or any other person that May be Sutable to secure his services as a teacher. On the 27th of February, 'It passed by Vote that John Brown of Amboy should have twenty-four pounds a yeare allowed him for keeping a free school in this towne this next yeare.' John Conger protested against this vote, on what ground does not appear. He demanded that his protest be recorded, which was done. Doubtless he thought 24 pounds too lavish an expenditure for teaching one year. His views of a liberal educational policy were well illustrated in the signature he attached to an important township paper a year after--subscribing his name with the cabalistic X-- 'his mark'." (Page 178 of Woodbridge and Vicinity.)

In 1702 John Conger deeded to his three motherless grandchildreh eighty acres of land as a token of "love and affection".He named the children as John (b. 15 Feb 1685) Allen (b. 12 June 1687) and Edward, sons of Edward Wilkison of Woodbridge.

26 Dec 1708--Sarah Conger became a Communicant of the Christ Church,Woodbridge.

4 Apr 1709--Sarah Conger, Midwife, was present at the birth of a son of William Webster, Quaker, at Woodbridge.

12 May 1709--John Conger Junr and wife Mary (Tuttle) joined the Christ Church at Woodbridge.

Monnette (Vol I, p 119) indicates that John Conger later removed to the town of Newark. He gives the alphabetical list of the founders of that settlement (who came in a body from New England) with a second list of later settlers containing the name of John Conger and the annotation that he was one of the founders of Woodbridge. The New Jersey register of deeds shows that John Conger very shortly after receiving his patent to 170 acres in Woodbridge began to dispose of parts of his holdings but his will shows that at the time of his death he was still the holder of a "plantation" in Woodbridge.

John Conger's first wife was Mary Kelly. According to Giles M. Kelly, her father was John Kelly--"one of the early settlers of Newbury, Mass., is said to have come to that place from the town of Newbury, England, in the year 1635.

"Nothing can be said respecting the origin, ancestry and connections of John Kelly beyond what is contained in a few meager family traditions. Of these, the one which can be traced farthest back, and which has come down in a direct line of transmission, asserts that he was born in Exeter, county of Devon, England, and suggests a connection with some branch of a family which took its name originally from the parish of Kelly in Devonshire, which has held its seat there seven centuries and probably longer.

"In Coffin's History of Newbury a different account is given. It is said that he emigrated from Ireland to Newbury, England, became attached to a lady of rank, and, having on one occasion by his courage successfully defended her father's house when attacked by robbers, obtained his consent to a marriage with his daughter. This statement is wholly unsupported by corroborative facts or historical reference. John Kelly died 28 Dec 1644. Besides his daughter Mary he had a son John born 2 July 1642, who married Sarah Knight on 25 May 1663.

Since Mary Kelly was born 12 Feb 1641 (at Newbury,Mass.) it is probable that John Belconger was born about 1640. They were married 12 Apr 1666 at Newbury. It appears that Mary died between 1686 and 1690; John died September 1712. Their first two children were born in Newbury, and the others at Woodbridge.

If John Conger and family had removed to Newark, it may be that Mary died there. No Woodbridge records have revealed her death date or John's marriage to Sarah Cawood. Franklin Barker Conger of Washington, D.C., was of the opinion that John only had one wife--that "Sarah" was often a nickname for "Mary". If Mary Kelly Conger died about 1686 she was around 45, having had nine children on record. It isn't likely that she would bear seven more children up to the age of 60 in 1700. Charles L. Conger has placed Sarah Cawood as the second wife of John. She was the daughter of Thomas Cawood and Rebecca Potter, and had a brother named Thomas.

Franklin Barker Conger found an Abigail Conger, born 1690, in Vol. 4 of Monnette's works and wrote to Charles L. Conger about it. The latter answered in part: " You state that Monnette mentions a daughter Abigail, born 1690. I am quite sure that this Abigail solves a problem that has been puzzling me for 25 years, as there are indications that she married a man named Brown, and that she was the Abigail Brown who witnessed the will of her brother-in-law, Thomas Cawood (either Rachel 1696 or Lydia 1698) and that Abigail Brown had a son Thomas, who in 1767 was named in the will of John Conger of Hanover, Morris county, as executor and was designated by John Conger as his trusty friend and brother. If this is true, Thomas Brown and John Conger of Hanover were cousins."

Abigail is placed as the daughter of John and Sarah because it isn't likely that Mary would have a child at age 49. John's second family is as follows:

1. Abigail Conger.....	1690--		--Mr. Brown James Clarkson
2. Joseph Conger.....17	May 1692--		--Mary Marsh (Pack?)

WILL OF JOHN CONGER

In the name of God, AMEN, the 11th day of January 1711. I, John Conger of Woodbridge, in the county of Middlesex, and Province of East New Jersey, Planter, being in bodily health and in perfect mind and memory, thanks be given to God, therefore: Calling in mind the mortality of this body, and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my Last Will and Testament, that is to say, principally and first of all, I give and recommend my soul into the hands of God that gave it, and for my body I recommend it to the earth, to be buried in Christian-like and decent manner, at the discretion of my Executors, nothing doubting but at the general Resurrection I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God, to bless me in touching such worldly estate, wherewith it has pleased God to bless me in this life. I give, devise, and dispose of the same in the following manner and form:

ITEM: My will is that my farm or plantation on which I now dwell to be equally divided into two parts, beginning at the River and running with a direct line through the whole length of my said farm or plantation, the Eastern division whereof I will and bequeath to my son, BENJAMIN CONGER, to be by him quietly and peacable possessed, and enjoyed as soon as he shall arrive at the age of 21 years, and if my son JOSEPH please, he shall have the liberty to live upon it 10 years after my decease, paying the charge arising thereon.

ITEM: The use and improvement of the western division of my said farm or plantation, and my dwelling house standing thereon I give to my wife during her state of widowhood and when her condition shall change either by marriage or death I will and bequeath the said Western division of my farm together with my now dwelling house and all other buildings standing thereon to my son JOB CONGER.

ITEM: I will and bequeath to my son JOSEPH all my freehold right in the towne of Woodbridge (Will also specifies as conveyed to Joseph his rights to Woodbridge common lands yet to be divided.) I give to my son my Carts and Ploughs with all the tackling belonging to them to my son JOSEPH, to have liberty to use them when they can be spared so long as he lives upon the place, he being at equal charge at repairing them.

ITEM: My Will is that if either of my three sons above mentioned, Joseph, Job or Benjamin, shall die without issue, then what land I have willed to them do descend to the survivor or survivors, and be equally divided between them.

ITEM: I give to my son JOHN ten schillings; to my son JONATHAN five schillings, to my son GERSHOM five schillings; and to each of my daughters five schillings, all to be paid by my son Job, if demanded.

Lastly, I give all my cattle, horses, sheep and household stuff, to my faithful and beloved wife, Sarah Conger, whom I do nominate and appoint my sole Executrix, to see that this, my last Will, be punctually fulfilled, and I do declare this to be m y last Will and Testament, hereby revoking and making void all other wills by me formerly made. In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand and seal, the day and year above written. JOHN CONGER X (His Mark)

Signed, sealed, published and declared by the said John Conger, as his last Will and Testament, in the presence of us, the subscribers viz:

James Connet, James Connet,Jr., Richard Pangbourne, John Bishop

CODICIL: June 14, I the above named John Conger, being very sick in body and not expecting many hours of this life, and my son GERSHOM being born since the making of this my Will, above written, do declare that my will and desire is that my three sons, Joseph, Job and Benjamin, as they come to age, give unto my son Gershom, ten schillings, each of them, and that seven pounds out of my movable estate be put out for his use when he comes to age, this I declare to be my desire before these witnesses, John Stille, John Moore and John Bishop.

Proved before Thomas Gordon, the 27th of August, and approved and sealed by his Excellency, Col. Hunter, the 17th day of Oct 1712. (He died in September 1712.) J. Bass. Liber I, folio 382, New Jersey Wills, Secretary of States Office.

The naming of this youngest son Gershom has caused more or less confusion and conjecture, owing to the fact that the elder son Gershom was named in the will of John Conger (Primus) dated 11 Jan 1711. At this time the elder son Gershom was married and was the father of David, born 1707,and Phebe, born 1708. Charles L. Conger places this Gershom 1711 as the son of Gershom 1685.

Gershom 1685 supposedly died before his father, although no death date is given. If John was the father of a son born 1711, this is probably why he named him after the son he lost.

It seems more reasonable to believe that John may have been having hallucinations in his last days--and that the family pampered him in his belief that his grandson was indeed his son. It is possible, but not probable, that he would father a child during his ill health at the age of 70 or older.

The Will of Gershom 1711 is equally confusing. He died at the age of 25, unmarried. He speaks of his cousin, Gershom Cawood--which would be correct if his mother was a Cawood, and had a brother with children. He also mentioned loving brothers, Thomas Cawood and Robert Mitchell. If Gershom was John's son, he would have had sisters Rachel and Lydia who may have married these men. If he was Gershom's son, he had but one sister Phebe. He referred to himself as "Gershom, Junr", indicating his father was Gershom; yet if he was named for a brother he was probably called "Junior". The mystery remains unsolved.

WOODBRIDGE, NEW JERSEY

"Where the Raritan Flows" by Earl Schenck Miers (submitted by Katherine Farnham Stewart) gives us a vivid glimpse into the life and times of John Conger: "The harshness of New England's winters, its grubby farmland, its constant religious bickering, among other causes, drove many colonists southward. Among these wanderers was the Rev. John Woodbridge of Newbury, Mass., who gave his name to the oldest township in the county. The township itself was part of a vast tract of land, known as the Elizabethtown Purchase, bought in 1664 from three Indians for '20 fathom of trayden (trading) cloth,2 cotes, 2 Gunnes, 2 Kettles, 10 barres of Lead, 20 Handful of Powder, 400 fathom of white wampum or two hundred fathoms of Black wampum.

"And early description of Woodbridge sparkles with enthusiasm: 'Nature had furnished the country with all sorts of wild beasts and fowl, which gave them their food and much of their clothing.' The following list must have whetted many a colonial appetite: 'Fat venison, turkeys, geese, heath-hens, cranes, swans, ducks, pigeons,and the like. The streams abounded with fish, etc.

"Nor was that all: 'Here you need not trouble the shambles (meat market) for meat, nor bakers and brewers for bread and beer, nor run to a linen-draper (cloth merchant) for a supply, every one making their own linen and a great part of woolen cloth for their ordinary wearing. Here one may lodge in the fields and woods, travel from one end of the country to the other with as much security as if he were locked within his own chamber, and if one chance to meet with an Indian town they shall give him the best entertainment they have, and upon his desire direct him on his way.'"

"The charter for Woodbridge, granted June 1, 1669, stipulated that at least sixty families,'and as many more as shall be thought proper,' must settle on the land and pay the proprietors an annual quit-rent of a half-penny an acre. Settlers were entitled, subject to the Governor's approval, to choose their own magistrates, justices, and military officers and to send two deputies to the General Assembly.

"What manner of people were these early settlers of Middlesex county? John Bishop and Thomas Bloomfield were carpenters, John French a mason and builder, Samuel Hale a surveyor, Jonathan Haynes a cooper (cask-maker), Daniel Pierce a blacksmith, John Smith a wheelwright, Adam Hood a weaver. These men and women who cut down the forest of Woodbridge were self-sufficient, industrious, strong in their faith in God, devoted to family. They had come here to endure, to prosper, to be happy, and their values reflected these wishes."

EXPEDITION OF SIR MARTIN FROBISHER - 1577

During the second expedition by Sir Martin Frobisher from England to find a shorter route to India the company had sailed to the northern part of Canada and the following was included in his account of the voyage:

"After they had come down the hill, some Eskimos appeared and made signs of friendship--and each side sent two men to do a limited trade in "pinnes and pointes and such trifles." Frobisher and his partner, hoping to secure hostages to trade for the five sailors captured on the previous voyage, tried to grab two "salvagies", but the maneuver failed; the greasy Eskimo slipped out of their clutches, recovered their weapons, and chased the two Englishmen ignominiously back to their boat, Frobisher suffering an arrow wound in the buttock.

One of his boatmen, Nicholas Conger, "being a Cornishman, and a good wrastler," grappled with an Eskimo and showed him"such a Cornishe tricke, that he made his sides ake....for a month after." All had to spend the night in the open, "keeping verie good watche and warde.....upon harde cliffes of Snowe and Ice, both wet, cold and uncomfortable." (From "The European Discovery of America" by Samuel Eliot Morison, pg 523; contributed July 1972 by Noel William Conger 1913. This Nicholas Conger was born about 1550. Perhaps he settled in Canada and John is descended from him. His being a Cornishman is a clue towards further search.)

This stone and log dwelling, built during the very early 1800s, was home for Isaac Conger and his family for several years on the Lincoln County farm which has been in the family ever since.

Eunice is standing in the front entrance of the house built by John 1803, in which she was raised. In her feature story, she suggests calling her father's former childhood bedroom "The Nuttery" instead of "The Skunk Room."

Elmer Bronson Conger 1875, was the first mayor of Peninsula, Ohio, in 1901, and served in that office for 28 years. He was born in the house built by his grandfather, John Conger 1803, now restored and owned by his daughter, Elizabeth Conger Bender.

H O N O R A B L E M E N T I O N W A L N U T S

By Eunice Evelyn Conger Halls

I know. We had to beat the squirrels and a family of Italian neighbors to our own hickory nuts. If the other kids got there first, there would be a pile of outer shucks from the hickory nuts showing they had "come it" and beaten us. They would have marched home with a cloth sugar sack of nuts hung over a shoulder. I have seen that, too, on one occasion when we almost met under the tree.

I don't remember my cousins, Uncle Elmer's 7 children, six boys and one girl, raiding the nut trees on the farm. I am sure my father and his three girls were the prize nutters in the family.

Posthuminously, Daddy had the last laugh, too. When the old American Gothic brick homestead underwent its preservation-restoration, bushels of black walnuts poured out of the walls where rodents had stored them. They, too, hate waste.

The old back kitchen is now a family room with a black walnut floor and chestnut shutters on the window interiors. This old back kitchen with no cellar underneath, in my time was a store room. With disuse, no heat, and dampness, plaster loosened and the walls and partitions became a kind of a nutty granary for the rodents.

I have seen a granary on the second floor of a pre-federal Hudson Valley stone house with pine the width of forbidden King's Pine for flooring. I propose that the present black walnut floored, chestnut-shuttered family room be known as the Nuttery. That gives our 1840 brick house a status somewhat equal to the pre-federal stone house of one hundred years earlier.

It seems to me only fitting honor that this room, the southwest corner of which was my father's bedroom in his boyhood, and where his nuts were still stored in the partitions after his lifetime, be known as the Nuttery. No one else then or now in the family has gathered five kinds of nuts in one day; no one else ever won Honorable Mention in the statewide contest for prize black walnuts.

Legends accumulate in place of family lore in old families. One of ours was the two large pine trees in the front yard, brought to Ohio after the Battle of Chicamogua. Trouble is, no one in the family was in that battle. The two trees were Norway Spruce, and their graceful low sweeping branches were popular lawn trees of the Victorian Era.

Another false legend that I regard as downright smelly is that my father cleaned skunks in the back kitchen. As a boy he earned money for school books and clothing by selling furs and hickory nuts. If he trapped skunks then, his fastidious Eastern college-bred mother would never have permitted skunks to be cleaned in her spotless kitchen.

In my girlhood my father bought furs. He did not clean them. He liked to stretch the skinned furs properly himself, but did not skin them.

He never bought skunk hides either. I once heard Stinky Metcalf plead with him to buy a skunk pelt, and he flatly refused, absolutely no.

Someone in the family concocted what they regarded as a colorful legend that my father cleaned skunks in the back kitchen. They told the story to the architect on the preservation-restoration. With a flip remark, the architect said, "Then let's call this the skunk room".

I hope the present descendants of this old American family will honor our John Conger by calling the family room the Nuttery because Uncle John got Honorable Mention in the whole state of Ohio. A man with his command of English, a conservationist, fifty years ahead of his time, a farmer who loved his occupation second only to writing, deserves better than to be falsely remembered as one who cleaned skunks.

Disabled But Busy:

Rosiclare Man, 36, Writes (Hard Way)

By BARRY EYSMAN
Sun-Democrat Staff Writer

ROSICLAIRE, Ill., March 23 —Jerry Conger, 36, is a writer.

He also is a quadriplegic. For the past 20 years he has not walked, played basketball, turned the pages of a book with his fingers. When he was 15, he dived to the bottom of the Ohio River and broke his neck.

He has no use of his legs or the fingers of his hands. His vehicle is a wheelchair. He can move his arms to some extent and is able, with the help of arm splints, to feed himself.

Conger does not pose for photographs.

In the ensuing years the Rosiclare native has discovered his goal in life—to become a published author. He always has been interested in writing, but he became seriously interested about 10 years ago.

He devotes his afternoons to long sessions at his carriageless electric typewriter which is stationed in the living room of the home he shares with his mother, Mrs. Hazel Conger.

Conger types by using a mouthstick.

The mouthstick is a quarter-inch dowel stick capped with a Teeth-molded acrylic mouthpiece and tipped with an eraser. It was while he was in therapy at the Institute of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation in Peoria, Ill., that an occupational therapist suggested the mouthstick.

The instrument has opened up a new world for Conger. It is the world of the mind. It is a world where he can go anywhere he wants, do whatever he feels like, and create a universe all his own. In the past 10 years he has written novels, a few dozen short stories, and a number of poems, as well as numerous other articles. It is with the articles and poems he has had success. An article he did on himself appeared in the June, 1971, issue of "The Exceptional Parent." This is a magazine for parents of children with disabilities.

In the article he told of his mouthstick and his love for writing and his philosophy about himself. He does not live in the past, although the past is an important part of life for him and he draws some of his fiction from it. But this is not his dwelling place. He writes and his writing keeps him geared toward the future.

Conger was in the hospital for three months after his accident but he was able to receive his diploma with the rest of his graduating high school class. After high school, he took a number of correspondence courses through the University of Illinois. The courses included rhetoric, literature, and psychology.

Serious fiction is what interests Conger the most. He turns out an average of 2,000 words each afternoon. So far he has not been successful with having his fiction published. Fiction is the hardest market to break into and, with so many magazines folding, Conger finds the obstacles on the road to being published are large.

But he keeps writing. Two more articles have been accepted by "The Exceptional Parent." He received mention in recent issues of "Time" and the "Saturday Review" in connection with the new magazine. "Time" carried a quote from his article—"One Adjusts to Realities. I Try to Forge Ahead."

Although fiction is his first love, Conger also writes articles which require a good deal of research. Although the Rosiclaire library is small, there is a good library system in Illinois which allows libraries to borrow from larger libraries such as the one at Springfield. The research for his articles also come from government books and brochures.

A writer must be willing to accept any assignment. Perhaps the oddest assignment Conger tackled was an article on the louse. Robert Burns wrote a poem on the louse, so Conger decided maybe there was a louse market somewhere out there in publishing land. The article was not published. To his dismay, one magazine informed him it had already published an article on the louse.

Like Ireland's famed Christy Brown, the author who is completely paralyzed and types out joyous novels such as "Down All the Days" with his left foot, Conger has overcome numerous obstacles. He is not bitter. He is not angry over what has come to be his fate. He adjusts as best as he can.

In his article for "The Exceptional Parent," Conger wrote:

"One does not accept the unacceptable. One adjusts to realities, living always with hope. I try to forge ahead as everyone else does, fully aware that life may never be full, but determined never to accept less than I must. This doesn't mean I never despair. Depression, a sense of frustration and failure, lurk just outside conscious thought, ready to spring when something goes wrong."

Son Walter Cornelius Conger 1890 explains the above picture as being a benefit baseball game between the Fat and Lean Citizens of the community of Owego, New York to assist the ill and homeless suffering from the horrible 1906 earthquake at San Francisco.

"The game was declared in favor of the Leans for at the fifth inning Dad batted a 'three - bagger'. Dad, however, was not satisfied without giving the last ounce of effort. He whizzed by third base and ran for Home - thereby collided with the 370 pound catcher of the Fats. It required minutes and considerable assistance to get the bodies untangled. The game was discontinued for it - had experienced its climax. Dad learned later that among the beneficiaries was his future daughter-in-law."

Hope of Safe Harbor

Through ocean's monochrome of wave and sky
Our steadfast ship, day after weary day,
Threads by some miracle its pathless way
And to a far-off foreign shore draws nigh.
But shadows show where peaceful valleys lie,
Bright spots are little towns along a bay;
Ere long we see men work and children play-- Familiar sights of home life greet the eye.

So, when the soul's dear ship, from death's wide sea,
The haven, Immortality, descries,
May scenes familiar through our mists appear!
May we be there what we have tried to be
And in that light now hidden from our eyes

Miss Conger's Style Still Steals Show After 33 Years

Anybody who thought Miss Maybelle Conger would be speechless Saturday at her retirement party didn't know her very well.

In the "Miss Conger" style known to two generations of Oklahoma City students, she stole the show as 200 of those former students feted her.

Seated in a canvas-backed director's chair on the stage of the small auditorium in Oklahoma City University's Fine Arts Center, Miss Conger accepted gifts and kind words while calling loud hellos to the friends who surrounded her.

She graduated from Central High School (then, Oklahoma High School) and in 1937, returned there as a teacher of speech and drama.

"Miss Conger remains the hell raising-est teacher that ever stormed the halls of Central High School," declared Gene Dillehay, the master of ceremonies, and the audience cheered its agreement.

"Which, I might add, is what it took to teach anything to the likes of you and me," he added, and was met with a new round of cheers.

"Today," he continued, "we do the talking and Miss Conger does the listening."

"You wanta bet?" asked Miss Conger in a voice that steamrollered through the room.

Miss Conger had known that some of her students would go far, and the home towns of those attending the party proved it.

Maybelle Conger steals the show at retirement party.

Newcomb S. Hayes, class of '46, was there from Anchorage, Alaska, and others had come from Texas and Colorado, Louisiana and Pennsylvania, Ohio and a dozen cities in Oklahoma.

Jim Johnson, director of secondary education for the public schools, read a proclamation from Mayor Norick naming Saturday "Maybelle Conger Day."

Dr. Dolphus Whitten, president of OCU, cited her with a distinguished alumnus award, noting that she had made "a significant contribution to the youth of Oklahoma City."

He said "those who have been proteges of Maybelle are a little bit different," paused while Miss Conger's proteges laughed, then noted seriously that he was sorry he had not had their advantage.

Curt Schwartz, former head of the Oklahoma Arts and Humanities Council, engineered the party and kept it rolling full-speed ahead — the style to which Miss Conger had made them all accustomed.

As former students stood to be recognized (or not recognized after so many years) as the actors and actresses from near-forgotten senior and junior class plays, Miss Conger called nearly everyone by name.

A special alumni was David Black, now a successful celebrity accompanist in California, who flew back especially for the event.

While the program was underway, students who hadn't seen one another since graduation day, 1938 or '48 or '58 were enjoying the reunion.

There was nothing formal or stuffy about the party.

Ceremony Honors Heroic CHP Officer

LOS BANOS—Highway Patrolman Robert D. Conger of Los Banos has been presented a meritorious award by the California Highway Patrol for his part in saving 9-year-old Victor Navarro of Hollister from drowning after the boy slipped into the O'Neill (forebay) Reservoir last October while fishing.

The boy's father, Jose Navarro, 45, drowned while trying to rescue his son.

Conger and David Wright, also of Los Banos, were fishing on the bank opposite the boy and his father when they heard the youth's cries and saw the father jump into the water.

By the time they got the boy out Navarro had drowned. His body was recovered several hours later.

Conger was given the award by CHP Supervising Inspector G. A. Stokes, commander of Zone IV, Fresno. Assisting in the presentation were Capt. D. A. Cumings, Merced area commander, and Lt. Richard Bradford of the Los Banos substation.

ABOARD WASP—
IT'S THUMBS UP AND RED CARPET

N.Y. Herald Tribune 8 June 1965

By The Associated Press

ABOARD USS WASP.

Smiling and waving, America's Gemini 4 astronauts received a loud roar of welcome as they stepped from their pickup helicopter onto the sun-washed deck of this aircraft carrier yesterday, about an hour after their spacecraft splashed into the Atlantic Ocean.

Neither James McDivitt nor Edward White showed any ill effects from their four-day space journey in the crammed capsule.

After giving the traditional thumbs-up signal to the massed Navy personnel, they strode across the flight deck with no indication of stiffness.

Their unshaven faces were drawn, and they looked tired as they perspired in their heavy silver spacesuits in the 81-degree heat.

'SOMETHING'

Asked about his historic walk in space, Maj. White said: "Boy, that was something."

Maj. McDivitt threw his arms around his space twin and gave him a hug as they posed for photographers.

A spokesman said the men appeared to be in excellent condition but were thirsty and hungry.

They came aboard after splashdown 390 miles off the Florida coast. Hundreds of officers and men were massed on the flight deck, and their welcome to the space heroes roared out from every inch of observation space.

The loud strains of a march played by the Wasp's band added to the rousing greeting, and sailors tossed their white hats into the air as the helicopter carrying the men touched down on deck.

A white tarpaulin bearing the legend "Welcome aboard USS Wasp" was spread out. A Marine honor guard held banners, including the flags of the Wasp, the space agency and the various services.

The recovery mission from the floating spacecraft was one of the fastest yet performed in the U. S. space program.

The previous Gemini team had been greeted in more restrained fashion on the carrier Intrepid, in part because of requirements that the men be shielded from outside influences.

Majs. White and McDivitt did not have much of an opportunity to talk before being taken below for medical examinations.

GLAD

"They said very little except that they were very damned glad to be aboard," said Adm. William W. McCormack, recovery-operation commander. He and Wasp Capt. James W. Conger were the first persons on the ship to welcome the spacemen aboard the carrier, which will be their home for the next three days.

Adm. McCormack and Capt. Conger escorted the astronauts between a double line of Marine honor guards and down a red carpet to a door leading below.

In the sick bay, as they doffed their spacesuits for examinations, Maj. McDivitt was quoted as wisecracking: "I knew we'd wind up in the hospital.

Although both astronauts clearly were tired, neither needed any assistance in descending the steep ladders to the sick bay several decks below.

As the examinations began, Maj. White again was asked about the space walk. "It's enough to make a person speechless," he was quoted as saying.

While the doctors examined them, Maj. McDivitt and Maj. White drank water and grapefruit juice. At one point light-haired Ed White yelled to dark-haired McDivitt:

"Hey, Jim, if this is a beard-growing contest, you win."

When the Gemini spacecraft splashed down, and the WASP began speeding to the scene, every one on the ship grabbed binoculars and tried to spot the capsule. But it was 55 miles away and could not be seen.

An estimated 1,000 persons were on deck to welcome the astronauts.

Maj. White commented later: "What a reception!"

Congers Keeping Walking Stick Tradition Alive

By Glennis Nagel

Some children are born with a silver spoon in their mouths, but Andrew Ival Conger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ival Conger, Newark, Ohio, was born June 12 with a walking stick in his hand.

Of course, no one expects Andy to walk with the stick. The walking stick hasn't been used as a walking stick in more than 105 years. The walking stick is a part of Conger tradition.

"In the last 105 years, at least, it hasn't been used as a walking stick, but it has been handed down through the family," Andy's grandfather, Robert Conger, 802 W. 27th st., said.

Through the years, the walking stick has been handed down from oldest son to oldest son.

Although Mr. Conger doesn't know how far back the tradition goes, he said, "I think that you may assume this was made in the early 1800's."

"A lot of the story is probably folklore, but the story is that the walking stick was made for one of my great grandfathers by Joseph Tibbles, who was called Uncle Joe," Mr. Conger said. "It was made with the stipulation that it was to go to the oldest son in each generation."

However, the tradition was in danger of dying out.

"My father, Finis, was the oldest of eight boys. Out of eight boys, there were only four boys born and I was one of those boys. And from those four, there was only one boy, my son Ival, and he was born 27 years ago," Mr. Conger explained.

"My oldest brother had two daughters, so I got the cane because I did have a son. Of the Congers, there is only my brother, my son, and now my grandson left. Nowhere in the United States is there any more of our family line except us," he said.

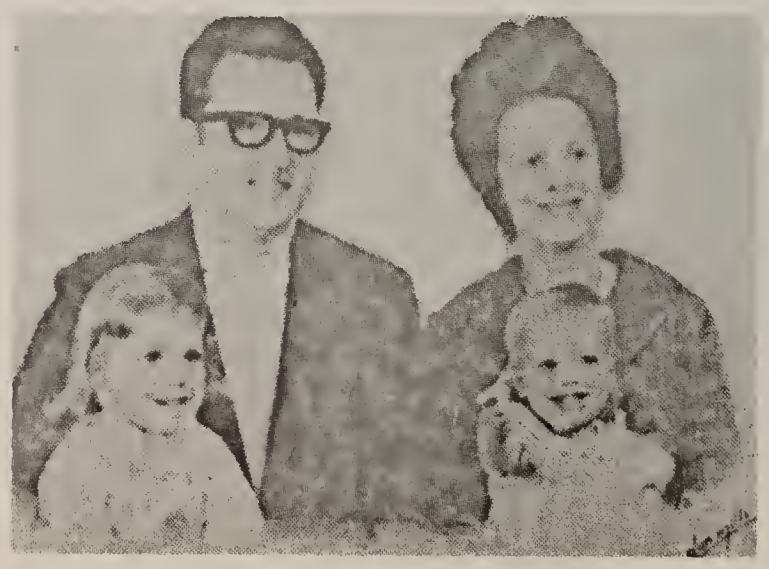
Just which great grandfather the walking stick was made for Mr. Conger doesn't know. It could have been made for Finis's father Sigel, or Sigel's father Elias, or for Elias's father Enos.

Whoever it was made for, Uncle Joe reputedly was very particular.

"It is a hickory stick. He hunted all over the woods until he found the branch he wanted, then he tied it. And in two or three years he returned to it, and it had grown straight by that time," Mr. Conger said.

SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY. Mildred and Robert Conger hold a walking stick which will be given to their new grandson when they arrive in Newark, Ohio, this week.

Mr. Conger has promised the infant a hand - made, gold - plated baby cradle like the cherry wood one shown in the photograph. (Hub Photo)



CONGER FAMILY. Infant Andrew Conger was born to the Ival Conger family; Ival, Almeda, and sisters, Sherry and Tammy.

"After he had cut it, he thr it up in the barn and left it for year. After that year was up, went and got it. He peeled t bark off of it and threw it there for another year.

"The next year he began whittle. The walking stick w carved into four separate se ments with each segment ma in the form of a different to handle: a hammer, ax, adz a mall," he said. "Once each the handles was carved, t wood was smoothed with a pie of broken glass. There was sandpaper in those days."

"Some people say I should r do it, sand it and refinish it, b I think it should be handed dow in its original form," Mr. Cong said.

In keeping with the traditi of handing down the walki stick, Mr. Conger has made old fashioned baby cradle f each of his four daughters a his son. The cradles are to handed down from generation generation.

"I made the first one for o son's wife, Almeda. Hers made of walnut and the othe are of cherry wood. We ha hoped that the first baby woul be a boy," Mr. Conger said.

However, the first two gran children to use the walnut cradl were girls, Sherry, who will b four years old this Fall, an Tammy, a year - and - a - ha old.

To encourage his daughter - i law to provide the Conge family with a son to carry o the family name, Mr. Conge offered her a $100 bill and a gol - plated baby cradle.

"Knowing her blowing i twice, I didn't think I'd have t make one," he said with a smile "I haven't figured out how I'l gold plate it yet."

The Congers left for Newark Ohio, this week to take the walk ing stick and $100 to the new arrival.

In 1824, Aaron and Mary McVey Conger left Pennsylvania and purchased a new home n Licking county, Ohio, near the north county line. Here the remainder of their family s born and they lived till their death. They never went back to the home in Pennylvania or saw their parents again. When Ethel Conger Heagler visited the family in 938 she was told she was the first of any of the descendants ever to go back in 115 ears.

Aaron and Mary are buried in the beautiful Bell Cemetery located by the church here they were members. This church is a land mark in that community. It sets on a ill overlooking a panoramic view of the country. It is 12 miles north of Newark. This s pictured on page 15 of Ethel Heagler's booklet, "Conger History 1664-1941".

The following story is taken from her booklet also, written by Clara A. Watson:

Aaron Conger and his blue-eyed wife, Mary McVey, who was of Scotch ancestry, moved rom Pennsylvania to Licking county, Ohio, in the 1820's. This woman was very energetic and ambitious in a material way, but found little time for study or reading in the hard life of pioneer days.

The couple bought a tract of hilly, stony, timberland for a home. The young man had been a school teacher in Pennsylvania,but found all the work he could do in making a home on the new land.

The first work necessary was to provide shelter. Felling of trees and hewing of logs provided the material for house and out-buildings. After this was done,the stones with which the land abounded, were carefully gathered and used for building fences - a back-breaking task.

A wonderful spring in a shallow ravine was an outstanding feature of the homesite A spring house was built over it, and to this day, more than one hundred years later, a spring furnishes all the water needed for this farmhouse.

Within twenty-five years following this marriage, twelve children were born. As they grew up each child assumed certain responsibilities. The sons all learned to chop down trees and hew them into logs; clear timberland, and split rails for fencing the farmland. They learned to build fences that were "horse-high; hog-tight, and bull-strong."

The oldest daughter learned the milliner trade and carried on a business in the home, which was far from a town of any size. The oldest son learned to repair boots and shoes. He provided a cobbler's bench and tools,which he used to keep the family and neighbors in comfortable footwear. The third son learned to weave when he was 13 years old. From that time until he was 21, he did most of the weaving of the materials for the family clothing, including linen, woolen, and linsey--woolsey, a cloth made of both flax and wool.

The fireplace served for years for heat, light and cooking. One or two members of the family assisted with the cooking, under the mother's supervision. Buckwheat cakes comprised the winter breakfasts. The buckwheat was grown on the farm; the butter,which fast disappeared with such a breakfast, was churned in the spring-house, where the flowing cold water kept the milk and cream, sweet and cold. Maple syrup, made from the sap of their own trees, was not a luxury, but an every-day food. Sorghum molasses, for eating and cooking, was always on hand,as sugar cane was one of the crops grown by the family. Honey was also a common food as the father kept bees, which found plenty of material to work on, in the clover with which the land was re-newed, the buck-wheat blossoms, and the blooms from the fruit trees.

The orchard set out by this young couple was bearing fruit in a few years. Apple, peach, pear, cherry, and small fruits mad an assortment which was dried and preserved each year, until later, when the art of canning in tin cans sealed with sealing wax came into use. Vinegar was made from cider. A drying shed, with trays became an important adjunct to this busy home.

The flax and other small grains grown on the farm were cut with a cradle and then threshed with a flail. All the material used for clothing the family were spun and woven in the home. There were two spinning wheels, a large, and a small one. No doubt one was in use most of the daylight hours. The materials were dyed with walnut hulls and coperas. The yarn for knitting the hosiery for the family was all spun and dyed by the mother, from the wool sheared from their own sheep.

The wheat was taken to mill on horseback. The miller's toll for grinding was taken out, the remainder of the flour put into the sack and carried home on the horse. The father,who became quite rheumatic in middle age, once let a sack of wheat fall off the horse. He was unable to put it back, so dismounted and sat on the wheat for several hours until someone happened along the little traveled road,and helped him with his burden.

In the garden and truck patch all kinds of vegetables were grown. These were stored, for winter use, in a cave or outdoor cellar. Apples and potatoes were buried in pits lined with straw and covered with dirt. Hominy was made from shelled corn, the hull being removed with lye, made from wood ashes. The same kind of lye, from the ash hopper,was used with refuse fats, to make the family soap. This was a semi-annual task ig had been fastened, was necessary in winter to enable the needle workers, knitters, sinners, and weavers, to spend the long evenings preparing the family clothing.

Of the twelve children in this family, nine lived to maturity, married and reared fmilies. These descendants, to the fifth and sixth generations, are now living in nny parts of the United States. All trades and professions are represented in the esent living members. Most of the second generation became farmers. One son who was asuccessful farmer in the middle west often remarked that he learned soil fertility fom his father, who knew how to renew the soil,on a poor clay farm in the Ohio hills, b the use of clover.

Once a year a wagon load of produce was hauled to Newark or Zanesville. This was sld or traded for supplies not grown at home. This load consisted of extra fleeces c wool, bolts of linsey-woolsey, linen, yarn, together with things grown on the farm, died fruits,dressed poultry, and everything possible that was sale-able in the market.

As the years passed the older children went out into the world to make homes for temselves. They had been reared in an atmosphere of industry and thrift. Their par-e.ts were members of the Christian Church, having been Presbyterians who embraced the fith of Alexander Campbell, and who insisted on being called "Campbellites".

Comforts unknown in the early days were gradually added to the home. One luxury w.s a dulcimer, a musical instrument of the 50's, which the youngest daughter played skillfully. This provided amusement and entertainment, also developed talent in a rturally musical family.

The youngest son and daughter remained at home with their parents, who continued t reside on the farm all their lives. The father was an invalid during the latter prt of his 72 years. He suffered from a form of rheumatism which made him an almost helpless cripple. No doubt this was brought on by exposure and hard work. The mother lved three years after the death of her husband, enjoying fairly good health. She was ble to visit her children in their homes in other mid-western states, within a year f her death in 1870.

The parents are buried in a picturesque spot in Licking county. Bell Church stands n a steep hill commanding an entrancing view in all directions. Winding roads from ree sides lead to this beautiful"God's Acre."Here,with other relatives and friends, leep Aaron And Mary McVey Conger, in a beautifully kept country cemetery. A visit to his spot, by motor last summer (1934), was an inspiration. The contrast with the ays of horseback travel, affords satisfaction to one who enjoys dreaming of the past nd visioning the future.

Aaron Harvey Conger was reared in his native county, and was educated in the typ-al log school house, with its rude benches and wide fire-place. While his opportun-ies for acquiring an education were not of the best,he made the best use of them, nd by extensive reading in after years he became a well-informed man.

He was reared to farm life, and remained at home assisting in the farm work until e was twenty-one years old. He then went to work in a woolen mill, and in three years astered all its branches. Leaving the mill at the expiration of that time, he went to ork for a stock buyer,raising and marketing his stock, and with him he continued four ears. He first received eighteen dollars per month, but before leaving the employ of hat gentleman he was getting fifty five dollars per month.

Aaron saved his money and went to McLean County in 1859,where he purchased eighty cres of land for $12.00 per acre. His acreage later totaled 280 acres. He also con-ucted a grain and coal business at Fletcher, a small station near his home for many ears.

Ethel Conger Heagler said of her parents: "Father was a staunch temperance man nd voted the Prohibition ticket for many years. He never lost an opportunity to speak gainst liquor and the downfall it caused. Father and mother were members of the Bap-ist Church at Towanda, Illn. They are buried in the Smith Grove Cemetery two miles ast of Towanda where are also mother's parents, George C and Julia Noel White, and hree of her brothers and two sisters.

"Mother's ancestry goes back to the Whites of Mass. Tradition says to William hite of the Mayflower, and I have reason to believe this is correct. George White who arried Sarah Bumpas at Rochester, Mass in 1728 had a son George b. in Mass, 1737, who ecame George White of the Revolutionary War in New York. He and his wife Patience and ll their family were members of the church at Amenia, N.Y. (N.Y. Gen & Biog Record, ol 35 p. 203). Their oldest son Nathaniel b. 1759 was a sergeant in the Revolution. e married Hannah Finch in N.Y. in 1785 and they were mother's grandparents."

Aaron Harvey Conger once ran on the Prohobition ticket as a candidate for the tate senate, and polled a heavy vote. He was also a candidate for sheriff of McLean ounty and again polled a heavy vote. He always felt he would rather be beaten in a ood cause than to be successful in a bad one.

In his township he served as collector a number of years,and for thirty years was school director and took particular pride in his home school. He always gave special attention to the employment of competent teachers, and as a consequence this one schoo sent out more than twenty-five pupils who held responsible and prominent positions.

Aaron traveled quite extensively from coast to coast, and always felt he could learn much from every one with whom he came in contact. He was greatly esteemed in his community.

10. Emily Conger..... 8 Oct 1827-- --Mr.Bell & Mr. Brown

A letter written by J. E. Brown of Los Angeles, Clfr on 6 Oct 1905 states that h was a grandson of Abijah Conger, late of Athens, Grg; that Abijah Conger was born i New Jersey about 1780. He also stated that his information concerning Abijah was quit meager, and entirely verbal and traditional.

He stated that Abijah Conger was said to have ten brothers and sisters, but tha the only ones of whom he had heard were Emily Conger who married a Talmadge, and brother John who lost an eye as a youth, learned the blacksmith's trade and settled i New York City;that his grandfather Abijah emigrated to the South long before the Civi War, going first to Blount County Tennessee, where some of his children were born, a thence to Athens, Grg, where he lived the remainder of his life.

Mr. Brown further stated that Abijah was a strong Presbyterian. He claimed tha all of the Congers descended from three brothers who came from England; that his gra father Abijah was one of the three, and that they were of Irish and Italian descent.

The History of Morris County, New Jersey, mentions that Abijah Conger was a Tru tee of the Rockaway Church in 1818-19 (page 340). On page 355 it mentions that in 18 Abijah Conger built a cider mill on the north side of the road from Dover to Frankli and on the same page mention is made of his teaching school at Rockaway,in the absen of the regular teacher, or when no teacher had been engaged.

Miss Mary E. Woods, great-great-grand daughter of Abijah, gives more informati through the newspaper clippings of the ATHENS ADVERTISER (9 Sep 1964) and THE ATHE DAILY NEWS (Banner-Herald) 12 June 1966, pg 9.

Abijah grew to manhood in Rockaway and served in the war of 1812. He married h neighbor Phoebe Tappan and they began their family. At this time Abijah was teachi in the academies of New Jersey.

From 1808 to 1820 his name frequently appears in land records of Morris Count On 14 Sep 1819 he appointed his brother,Judge Stephen Conger, to be his attorney, wi full power to take care of and dispose of his land, and after this date there is onl reference of his disposing of any land himself, and that was on 5 June 1821, when sold some lands in Hanover to his brother Stephen.

On 1 Apr 1814 Abijah Conger bought some land in Newark, Essex, N-Jr, from Mos Rolf and wife Mary, of Hanover (Essex County Deeds C 2:96). He sold this on 4 Jan 18 through his attorney Stephen Conger,to William Jackson of Pequanock Twp, Morris Coun The deed recites the power of attorney, issued to Stephen Conger (Essex Coun Deeds Y 2:422).

These records state that Abijah was the son of David Conger and Elizabeth Ay grandson of John Conger & Sarah Tuttle, great-grandson of Joseph Conger & Mary Mars and 2nd great-grandson of John Conger & Sarah Cawood--which seems to contradict t foregoing statement about his grandfather being named Abijah also.

The Conger family were strong Presbyterians, and when the call went out for mi sionaries to preach to and teach the Cherokee Indians, both Abijah and his sister a brother-in-law, John and Emily Talmadge, responded. Both families left prosperous N

Jrsey to take up life at the mission at Brainard Station,now the site of Chattanooga, Innessee. While the fathers taught and preached to the Indians, the young Conger and Ilmadge children grew up with Indian playmates, speaking several Cherokee dialects.

The Federal government began in 1831 the mass removal of all Indians from the re-gon east of the Mississippi River, and the Cherokee tribes were among those to be re-sttled in Oklahoma. The missionaries at Brainard Station divided; part went west with t.eir Indian charges, while other families sought to begin life again in the "White Mn's World". The Congers and the Talmadges went to Athens, Georgia to settle.

Abijah Conger, with typical vigor, began to build houses for himself and others. H purchased land in the vicinity of Baldwin Street, now on the University campus, and erected a story-and-a-half dwelling for himself, wife and unmarried children,and built he house still lived in by his descendant, Mr. A. Y. Woods Sr. on the Danielsville oad, for son David and his family.

Abijah lived to see his children and grand-children go off to war,and died short-r before the final surrender of the Confederacy. His contribution to mankind--faith, nd hard work, a heritage of which his descendants can be justly proud. His grand-aughter remembered him as an old man, wrapped in a cloak from shoulders to shoes in old weather, always present in his pew on Sunday.

Mrs. W. B. Brook, great-great granddaughter of Abijah's sister, Emily Conger Tal-adge, found an article about the Brainard Mission in "Torchlights to the Cherokees". his includes a sketch made by Thomas E. Paine in 1821; which shows locations of the oy's school house,boy's cabin,Mission House, Girl's House,Girl's school house, barn, armer's house, Carpenter's house, sawmill, garden and graveyard.

Bessie Tift Conger Davis wrote that Abraham Benjamin Conger was a veteran of the Seminole War. He went south for this purpose and was stationed at Troopville, west of Valdosta, Grg. He was buried there. He told relatives that he left brothers in the "North" (New York?) His son George Washington Conger described his father as a man of good physique, with high moral principles. He died while attending a Masonic meeting at Lenox, Grg--a lodge the family thinks he organized. His Seminole war sword is a treasured family heirloom.

Bessie gave his dates as 1812-1856. In talking with her brother, Dr. George D. Conger 1897, she was told Abraham was 59 when he died, and was born around the turn of the century in 1800--that he was a captain under command of Zachary Taylor during the Seminole War. Dr. George and his grandfather, George Washington Conger, were very close, making exploratory trips together, to the wilds of West Florida over 50 years ago.

Martha Conger Hardison quoted Dr. George as saying Abraham Benjamin Conger was born in New York City on Fifth Avenue. While stationed in Valdosta he met and fell in love with Renee. After the war he married her and went back North and brought four or five of his brothers back with him.

The 1850 census (Lowndes Co. Grg) states that ABRAHAM H. CONGER was 40--born abt 1810. If he died at age 59 this would have been 1869. His widow Renee was head of the house in 1860, and Joseph, the youngest child was a year old. So it seems that Abraham was born in 1810 and died at age 49 in 1859. Furthermore, the census states that he was born in New Jersey, though he may have lived in New York as a child.

Tradition also said he left home at age 16 to fight in the war. His war record states, "Abraham H. Congar (the "a" underlined) was enlisted on the 23rd day of Nov, 1837, at Newark, N.J., and was assigned to Co."F", 1st Reg of U.S. Inf, joined company at Fort Bassinger, E. Fla, from general depot Jan 23, 38. Roll Dec 31, 38 shows him discharged Nov 23, 38, by reason of disability, a private. The company was stationed at date of his discharge at Fort Brooke, E. Fla.

"Stations as follows: Feby 28, 38, Fort Bassinger, E. Fla; April 30, 38, on the march; Aug 31, Oct 31, 38, and to include Nov 23, 38, Fort Brooke, E. Fla. Pvt Conger reported present on rolls. The signature of the enlistment paper appears to be Abraham H. Congar" but he is home on all rolls of company as "Conger".

According to this, he did serve under Gen. Zachary Taylor, who did not assume command in the Seminole War until 1837 and stayed only three years.

The declaration of widow for pension, dtd 27 Mar 1894, says in part, "Areny Conger, aged 74 years, a resident of Colquitt County, state of Georgia, was the widow of Abram H. Conger, as a Private in the company commanded by Captain Hiram Hall, in the service of the United States, in the Florida Indian War.....and died at Lowndes County, State of Georgia in April 1853...that she was married under the name of Areny Willis to said Abram H. Conger the 10th day of May, 1836 by Griff Williams of Lowndes County, state of Georgia--that she has not remarried since the death of said Abram H. Conger--that at the time of entering the service claimed for, her said husband was (age left blank), with blue eyes, black hair, dark complexion, by occupation a carpenter, that he was born in the County of New York, State of New York....that she has not heretofore applied for pension....that said husband did not apply for pension....that he did not apply for bounty-land....that her post-office address was Tifton, Berrien County, Ga."

A letter dtd 25 May 1896 signed by T. M. Greene, Postmaster of Tifton, states that Mrs. Arrena Conger widow of Abram Conger, died August 1895."

Abram's parents are not identified at this time. His middle name was not "Benjamin"--that his middle initial was "H". The descrepancy about his death date may be due to the fact that Renee could not read or write in 1850, and probably never learned. Perhaps the legend about leaving home at 16 pertained to her, for she was 16 when married. As for the brothers coming to live in the area, most of the state has had census readings, and none of the other Congers were born in New York or New Jersey. The rest have been identified as descendants of Benjamin 1757, born in the Carolinas.

Albert Lee Conger and Maggie Walters had no issue. She was born 24 Sep 1879 at Springfield, Mo. He died at Kansas City.

Albert Marcus Conger attended Ft. Edward College. One day while at home he was working in the garden. He stopped and leaned on his hoe, and decided to enlist. The records show Albert M. Conger, Private of Co. F, 118th Inf Reg, New York Volunteers, enlisted 11 Aug 1862; honorably discharged and mustered out 14 June 1865.

He knew the pangs of hunger and thirst in the dismal swamp; the weakness of dysen-ty, the shelter of a snow drift; suffered from sun stroke and left on the field for ead.

On Sunday morning, May 16th, the battle of Drury's Bluff was fought. They misunderstood orders; the two flanks retreated. The Cavalry closed in around the center and he was wounded and captured. He went through many trials.

He was put in a pen with no roof, then to what they called "Castle Thunder", which was an old cellar where the wounded lay on boards with sticks in their hands to fight off the rats. Finally he was taken to Libby Prison, where he was a prisoner for three months. Libby Prison was an old tobacco warehouse. They used to soak tobacco in water to mop a space on the floor, lay down for a rest ahead of the vermin.

Small Pox broke out, and many died. Their rations were mostly small pieces of corn bread, often with whole kernels of corn in it. He often shared his with some that were ravinous for food, and said many times he had closed the eyes of boys whose last words were asking for food.

When he was released he went through the main street of Baltimore clad in an old undershirt with sleeves partly torn off, and the old under-drawers with legs torn off, one above the knee. He was never bitter. He said, "The South could not give what they did not have."

He was later a guard at the White House, and said that Mr. Lincoln used to come out often in the middle of the night. He would pace back and forth, and would stop and ask if they were getting enough food.

Arthur Latham Conger was a scion of a sterling old pioneer family of Ohio, born in Boston Twp, Summit County on 19 Feb 1838. His parents, John and Hannah Beals Conger, were natives of the state of Vermont, and both were descended from Revolutionary ancestry. They were honest, hospitable, hard-working people, who came to Summit County in an early day, and through their industry and good management, became well established.

On the farm home, Arthur Latham Conger spent his boyhood years and received a meager education, in the rural schools of the neighborhood. While still a mere boy he began supporting himself by working in a brick yard for ten cents per day. Though early deprived of the educational facilities that he so ardently desired, he largely made up for this lack by persistent study at home and during his leisure moments, thus forming habits of study which remained one of his notable characteristics throughout his life.

So well did he equip himself, that he was qualified to teach school. He also spent two years in canal boating. When the Civil War broke out he evinced his patriotism and loyalty by enlisting in 1862 in Co. G., 115th Reg., Ohio Inf, of which he was elected 2nd Lieutenant. Later he was promoted to 1st Lt, and finally was placed in command of his company. For the years he saw service with the army of Cumberland, he won the confidence of his men, and the approval of his superior officers. Gen. Thomas, who commanded the great army, recommended him for promotion to the rank of Captain and commissary of subsistence, but the war ended before his appointment could be confirmed.

He served efficiently as Asst. Adj General, and Provost Marshall of Covington, Ky, and was assistant inspector of railroad defenses under James R. Willett. He received an honorable discharge and returned home, and thereafter gave his attention to civil pursuits.

In 1866 Col. Conger was elected treasurer of Summit County, and was re-elected at the expiration of his first term. Desiring to enter upon a business career, he moved to Akron, Ohio, in 1867, and soon became identified with the various businesses. In 1870 he became a stock-holder and director of the Whiteman and Miles Mfg Co. At the close of his service as County Treasurer, he became a traveling salesman for the company. And in 1876 he was elected vice-president.

In 1877 the Whiteman and Miles Co. consolidated with George Barnes and Co. of Syracuse, N-Yr, under the name of Whiteman and Barnes Mfg Co., and of this concern Mr. Conger was elected vice-president, and later president, which position he held until 1888. In 1890 he became president of the Akron Steam Forge Co., which was afterward moved to Munsie, Ind. He was also largely interested in the American Strawboard Co., the Enterprise Mfg Co., and the Thomas Lumbering and Building Co.

He was also one of the largest stock holders, and president, of the Diamond Plate Glass Co. of Kokomo, Ind; the Elwood Tin Plate Co. of Elwood, Ind; and the Hartford Glass Co.. Eventually he was one of the organizers of the Plate Glass Trust, into which the Diamond Plate Glass Company was merged, and he became director of the consolodated company.

He was also interested financially in the Zanesville Street Railway Company, and was one of the organizers of the American Harvesting Machine Co., and served as president of the National Assn of Agricultural Implement and Vehicle Manufacturers. He was a director of the Second National Bank of Akron, Ohio, and was interested in the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co., the Akron Woolen and Felt Co., various street railway systems, and most every important industry in Akron, Ohio.

Mr. Conger was one of the promoters of the Pittsburg and Akron Railroad, a director of the Cleveland, Akron and Columbus Railroad, and was associated with the late Senator Calvin S. Brice in the purchase of the Pittsburg, Akron and Wheeling Railroad, being interested in Mr. Brice's scheme to secure an East and West front-line through on.

Arthur Latham Conger was the founder of the S. S. Still College of Osteopathy at es Moines, Iowa. This, like all of his undertakings, proved to be a great success, and e became the editor of the Cosmopolitan Osteopathy.

Col. Conger never relinquished his interest in military matters. He became in- l ential in the work of the Grand Army of the Republic, of which he was a department o nander in 1886. He was a member of the military order of the Loyal Legion of the n ted States. He was prominent in the States Militia, and in 1884 was commissioned a c onel of the 8th Regiment, Ohio National Guard. He was a member of the Masonic Order a ing attained the Knight Templars Degree, in the York rite, and the 32nd degree in h Scottish rite.

He was a member of the Episcopal Church. For several years he was president of h Akron Charity Association, placing the same on a good financial basis.

Col. Conger was active in political matters, as he was in business. He was one of k National Leaders of the Republican Party, wielding a wide influence in the middle e t. His advise was frequently sought by candidates for office, high or low. And his c nsel was followed with gratifying results. For a period of twenty years, he was c irman of the Summit County Republican Committee, during which time he was largely r ponsible for the success of the party. He was chairman of the State Central Com- m tee in 1880 and 1882, and was several times chairman of the State ExecutiveCommittee.

In 1884 and again in 1888 he was the Ohio member of the Republican National Com- m tee, and had much to do in directing these two important campaigns. He was always a d egate to Republican local state and national conventions, and was always a leader, m ing his influence felt for the good of his party, in all the gatherings which he a ended, from county caucuses to the great national conventions. He enjoyed a close p sonal friendship with many of the leading men of the nation, such as James G. Blaine, J seph B. Foraker, William McKinley, J.S. Clarkson, Joseph H. Manley, and other leaders i the Republican party. He also served as a member of the staff of Gov. Asa Bushnell.

Emily Conger and Lloyd Burr had Homer Burr and Gertrude Burr Haight.

The first mention of Asher Conger at Danby is in October 1780, when he served in Captain Stephen Calkin's Company of Col. Ira Allen's Regiment of Militia. And he also served in Capt Ebeneezer Wilson's Company (Goodrich:Vermont Revolutionary Rolls,pg372.

On 27 Oct 1787, Asher Conger of Hinesburg, Addison, Vt, deeded to Henry Wilbur of Danby, Vt, 24 acres in Danby, being the South-west corner of 50 acres of land laid out to Enoch Conger as fourth division in the right of William Barton (Right No. 35). On the same date, 27 Oct 1787, Asher Conger deeded to Abel Irish, his brother-in-law, of Danby, 11 acres of land in Danby, being a part of the same lots as the preceding item. These deeds indicate that between 1782 and 1787 AsherConger had moved to Hinesburg,Vt.

One of the descendants writes that at the time of moving to Hinesburg the country was a wilderness, and he had to make his own road as he went. There were but three families in that vicinity when this removal was made.

Asher was mentioned at the division of his father and mother's estate on 5 July 1794 as being of Hinesburg, Vt., on which day he sold his interest in his parent's estates to his brother, Coddington Conger.

Mary Ann Stafford Conger was said to have been a very powerful woman. She could sand in a half bushel measure,and shoulder a two bushel sack of wheat.

Kathryn Farnham Stewart of 107 Boulevard, Mountain Lakes, N-Jr, 07046, is in the process of searching for descendants of Patty Conger and husband Gaius V. Farnham. In 1970 she made a trip to Brocton, New York and was given a small ladder-back chair that was one of three that had belonged to Patty. A new rope seat is being put in, and the repairman believes it had been a buggy chair. The family still has a cow bell that belonged to Patty and her husband.

Experience's parents were members of the Hanover PresbyterianChurch in Morris Co In about 1743 the Baptist Church at Morristown was organized, and Experience and he husband Benjamin Conger were original members, having been received by a letter fro the Hanover Church.

Very little is known of the early live of Benjamin Conger. He was perhaps abou twelve years old when his father, John Conger, died. He is mentioned in his father' will, and is given one-half of the farm home, but with the express provision that hi brother Joseph was to have the use and improvement of Benjamin's portion for the en suing ten years, when it would revert to Benjamin.

Benjamin's children, mentioned in his will in 1762, include among others, Daniel Enoch, Sarah, Elizabeth and Lydia. In the case of Lydia, she was to be paid 50 pound on her marriage day. If she were to die unmarried the 50 pounds would go to grand children, Sarah and Martha Goble, daughters of Simeon and Abigail (Conger) Goble; t Lydia, daughter of Benjamin and Elizabeth (Conger) Goble; to Zipporah and Abigail, th daughters of Daniel and Mary Conger.

Benjamin's will, dated at Morristown, was proved 10 Mar 1762. He described him self as Yoeman. To his wife Experience he left one third of the proceeds of his per sonal estate, and the use of the profits of one third of his real estate.

To his son Daniel he left the use of 10 acres at the east end of his plantation adjoining Jonathan Wood. At Daniel's death it was to go to his son Jonas. Anothe piece of land was given to Daniel for life, then to go to his son Benjamin.

To Enoch he left wearing apparrel and the rest of his real estate.

To daughters Abigail and Elizabeth, 10 pounds each; to daughter Lydia, unmarried 50 pounds as mentioned. Executors, son Enoch and friend Jonathan Stiles. Witnesses Samuel Oliver, John Primrose and Ezekiel Cheever.

Benjamin Conger is mentioned in the division of the estates of his father's a mother's wills. Both he and the heirs of his brother Samuel were provided for. 27 Jan 1795 Benjamin Conger of the Town of North East, Dutchess county,New York, dee ed to Gershom Conger of Danby (his brother)"all the lands which fell to me, by will Enoch Conger (father), late of Danby, deceased, and all my right to lands of Zill Conger (mother) deceased." (signed) Benjamin Conger--witnessed by Coddington Cong (youngest brother).

It is believed that Benjamin's son Samuel went west at an early date. It is b lieved that he was the Samuel Conger who enlisted as a private in Capt George McGlas in's Co., 15th Reg of Inf, U.S.A. (The New Jersey Regiment)

If so, he enlisted at Elizabeth, New Jersey on 14 Feb 1814 for five years; tran ered to Capt Armstrong Irvine's Co. H., Light Artillery, on 1 Oct 1815; promoted to Corporal on 3 Nov 1815; Sergeant on 1 Mar 1816; discharged at Fort Independence, Boston, Mass on 1 Jan 1819. (N.J. Adj Gen Records, pg 187). If he is this Samuel, he was probably born in the 1790's instead of the approximated 1800.

BENJAMIN CONGER 1757 & RACHEL*******

BENJAMIN CONGER, b. 1757, Morristown, Morris, N-Jr; d. 21 Dec 1841, Cobb Co. Grg, is believed to be the son of DANIEL CONGER 1730 & MARY. His wife RACHEL, b. in N-Jr, d. after applying for a pension on 22 Oct 1845.

If Benjamin was the son of Daniel, the records show that he married PHOEBE ARMSTRONG, but this is questionable after reviewing his widow's application for a pension. It is the compiler's belief that Rachel's name may have been Armstrong, and a mistake was made in listing the spouses, as Benjamin's brother married a Phoebe Johnson.

In any case, Benjamin was a Revolutionary Soldier. He entered the service as a private in 1776 for 3 months in Morristown, New Jersey. He was in the company of Capt. Seeley under Col. Martin, and Gen. Sterling. He marched to Bargan (?), then to New York, then to Long Island, where he was in a battle, then back to New York, to Fort Washington, to White Plains and was guarding some prisoners until his 3 months were up and then discharged.

In 1777 he enlisted again under the same captain, under the command of Co. Lindley for three more months. He marched from Morristown to near Elizabethtown where he fought in three battles. From there he marched to near Woodbridge where he was in a battle at Strawberry Hill and another above Woodbridge at Asward (worth?). He was then discharged a second time.

He volunteered again in 1778 at Elizabethtown in the artillary under Capt Clark to serve until the close of the war. He was not in a battle; it was a guard artillary stationed at Elizabethtown. He helped cut off the retreat of the Monmouth Battle and returned back to Elizabethtown where he remained until the close of the war in 1781.

After the war, Benjamin lived in Morristown, New Jersey for several years. He then moved to Henry Co. Virginia, and then to Rockingham Co. N.C.. It is presumed that he was the Benjamin Conger living in Rockingham in the 1790 census, but it could have been a son of Jonathan 1732 who settled in Rowan Co. N-Cr.

At any rate, this Benjamin moved to Pendleton Dist. S.C. where he lived until 1821 or so. He then moved to Gwinnett Co. Grg, where he lived until 1840. He received land in the 1832 Cherokee and Gold Land Lottery. It was taken up (deeded to him by Cherokee County) on 24 May 1841. On 1 Dec 1846 Zachariah Conger of Cobb County sold it (40 acres) to Edmund Coffee for $100. It now belongs to Georgia Power Company.

Benjamin Conger died 21 Dec 1841 at Cobb Co. Grg. His widow was named Rachel. She states in her application for his pension in 1845 that she married Benjamin in Morris County, New Jersey after he returned from service in the army. She says they then moved to Pendleton Dist. S-Cr.

In 1845 Rachel was about 80 years old. She was still alive in 1848 and living in Cobb Co. Grg. Bird Stegall, her daughter's husband, states in his deposition that he knew Benjamin and Rachel Conger for more than 40 years as man and wife, since they lived in Pendleton Dist. S-Cr. This would mean that Rachel was the wife of Benjamin in 1820 when the census shows him as having no woman in the household.

Benjamin's close friends were in the Suwannee Baptist Church at Buford, Grg, so it is likely that Benjamin and Rachel were Baptists. It isn't known whether Benjamin was an educated man, but he could write his name. His son Simeon wrote very well.

There is still no proof that this Benjamin was Daniel's son, but he was born at proximately the same time. The names Jonas, Simeon and Benjamin were very common in hi line of Congers before Benjamin, and these names are prevalent among the descen- ars of this Benjamin The Morristown records have information concerning the other hildren of Daniel, but nothing on Benjamin after he married "Phoebe Armstrong". Per- ap he did marry her and she died--that Rachel was a second wife. Or perhaps Rachel's an was Armstrong. Further search is necessary. (Connie Frehner Money, Susanville, lf and her mother, Beulah Conger Frehner researched this family.)

The 1810 census indicates there were two more boys and one girl than can be ac- ounted for. One of these missing sons was probably John Conger b. 1806 in N-Cr,list- d in the 1860 Cherokee county census. Issue as known:

BENJAMIN CONGER abt 1758*******

The Charles Leslie Conger records listed this Benjamin as the son of Jonathan Con- ge 1732, on the basis that he was in Rockingham, N-Cr in the 1790 census. Your com- piler believes this is the Benjamin listed above, from Morris County, N-Jr.

Excerpts from a letter by Bessie Conger Johnson Ward, dau of Albert Marcus Conger and Cyrene Annabel Lee, dtd 1 Mar 1963:

"My grandfather, Caleb Conger, was a fine Christian gentleman; in fact he was a CONGER, and that always stood for integrity and honor. He was a farmer and stock raiser,made a specialty of sheep for wool. My father told me of his taking a shipment of wool to a warehouse, and his insurance was $1.00 an hour, and when he went home he had $96,000 in a little black bag.

"Their farm was some distance from the village of Willsboro, which used to be spelled 'Willsborough'. They lived on what was called "The Point". It extended to Lake Champlaine.

"My grandfather went every morning to the village and got the mail, and operated a little post office in his house.He was postmaster for years and years until he died.

"My grandmother, Nancy Morehouse, came from Germany. Her folks settled in New York on what was known as the "Dutch Patent", which means 'land for public persual',or a 'claim'. I believe this was in the Mohawk Valley. I never knew her, but from all I ever heard about her she must have been a wonderful kind, patient woman, and a wonderful person to the needy. When she was buried, people came from far and near to pay their respects and tell the family of her kindness to them."

Albert Marcus was given clerical work, and given the honor of making out his own discharge papers. He was offered a commission with ephalets on his shoulders. He was a promising young man for law and politics, but plans through reverses and sickness fell through He died 13 Sep 1912 at the Soldier's Home, Leavenworth, Kans, and is buried there.

From family recollections: During the Civil War, Charles was taken prisoner in irginia near where his brother, Captain George P. Conger of Co. B., First Vt Cavalry, a stationed. When brother Charles heard how George felt he took the oath of allegince to the U.S. and was paroled.

So far as we know, nothing was heard from him since that time. (by Marion Barton)

I was glad to know you had taken up ths work, which was so ably conducted by our lamented relative, Charles G. B. Conger of Washington, D.C., whose social, mental and generous qualities endeared him to all tose who were fortunate in knowing him.

"I knew him personally and intimately, and regretted exceedingly that he should be cu off in the midst of his vigorous manhood and usefulness. I spent the greater part of one winter at his home in Washington, and had much pleasure in looking through his voluminous correspondence regarding the Conger family, and I feel pretty sure if I had undertaken this intricate task I would have been crazy long ago.

"I was very glad to hear from you, and appreciate your generosity in undertaking so laborious a task, and hope you will be eminently successful, and the relatives may all interest themselves in contributing to your assistance."

Charles Atkinson Conger moved to Iowa in the year 1849, and located near Appanoose Conty. He graduated out of Duff's College, Pittsburgh, Penn, in 1858 and engaged in th mercantile business. Charles Henry Conger was a telegraph operator in 1893. The R.R. Repair Shop (cutting shop) sent him to New London, Conn, to work on passenger trains. When on the way to work he used the R.R. tracks in walking. There was another train on the trestle above him, so he didn't hear the one behind him. His hand was severed; a blood clot formed. He died before they could operate. (The beam on the engine hit him on the head, and he fell with his hand on the rail.)

From the AKRON BEACON JOURNAL, 12 Sep 1965:

Hustle, whiz, rush, dart....there are more than 60 words synonymous with speed. Every one of them could apply to the world of Peninsula's Charles Henry Conger.

As president of the Akron TruckingAssociation and sales vice-president for Bender and Loudon Motor Freight in West Richfield, his life is dominated by speed. He deals in freight...the business of moving material from one point to another as quickly as possible.

Wiry and prematurely gray, Charley Conger is at home in a world of fast deadlines and rapid deliveries. Shortly after five each morning, he whirls out of bed and hurtles into the indoor swimming pool adjoining the master bedroom of his home at 1570 Stine Rd. in Peninsula. While the rest of his family sleeps, he swims 40 laps, then shaves, dresses, eats and rips off to his office. He is at his desk by 7:30, ready to answer a customer's frantic question about a badly needed shipment, or scurry off on a sale trip to Detroit.

"I hate to wait for anything," says Charley Conger. His friends will tell you he isn't kidding. It would seem that the only thing Charley ever waited for was the stork.

He was not the first son of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Conger of Peninsula. He was the fourth in a family of five boys and one girl. Born on May 4, 1917, Charley looks back on his younger years in the easy village of Peninsula as rich and rewarding ones.

"The chance to grow up and live in a small town was one of the most valuable things of my life," he said. "It gave me a different outlook. In a small town, you do things yourself. You don't wait around for someone else to help you with your problems."

It was only natural that he made a home for his own family only a short distance from the original Conger homestead. While there was the usual swimming, fishing, running barefoot and berry picking, Charley never adopted the ambling pace of rural life.

When he was six years old he began delivering the Beacon Journal and another area newspaper. He continued this until he finished his college career.

In 1935, during the lean years of the Depression, Charley was graduated from high school. "There wasn't any money for college then," he said. "At that time, we had seven small gardens going just to raise food for the family."

Charley went to work with Bender and Loudon as a night billing clerk. During the r he attended Hammel-Actual Business College. The next year, after completing the ram at Hammel, he entered Kent State University. He would work from 6 p.m. until m. at Bender and Loudon...banging away on the billing machine. The next morning e ould be in the classroom at Kent State at 8:a.m. He attended school on a year- d basis. "There wasn't much time for a social life," Charley recalls. "It was or, study, sleep, eat and that was it."

But somehow he managed to meet and marry the former Velma Early of Akron during is years of academic bedlam. They honeymooned between the Summer and Fall sessions of . Two years later, Charley was graduated from Kent State. He was one of the top f his class. While working full time, he had managed to complete four years of lege in three and earn high honors doing it.

A fellow worker at Bender and Loudon recalls Charley's years as a combination t billing clerk, husband and student. "He'd come in at 6 and we'd hear the billing ine going like mad in the next room. Pretty soon it would start to slow down. Then ould stop. Somebody would go in and wake him up and the machine would start roar- again. Frankly," said the fellow-employe, "I don't know how he did it. He used to rage three or four hours sleep a night...seven days a week."

After graduation, Charley was appointed Cleveland terminal manager for the truck- firm. At 22, he was the youngest terminal manager in the business. This was in).

One year later, Charley fell in love. "Greasepaint and footlights got me," he a.. And so he became one of the charter members of the now well-known Peninsula lers.

The first production was a theatrical unknown called "The Spooky Tavern." It was ented in 1941 for the benefit of the local PTA. Charley was in it. He has been in tless productions since then...ranging from lead roles to bit parts.

In 1963 he played the lead part of "Wingergreen" in the musical "Of Thee I Sing." lid sing, too. In fact, he sang so hard that he strained his voice and was forced tay off the stage of the barn on Rt. 303 during the 1964 season and this year.

Charley lost more than his voice in "Of Thee I Sing." He also lost his gray hair. part called for a younger man, and while Charley is only 48 years old,his snowy made him look much older on stage. The mistress of theater is a demanding one and rley ended up with brown hair. Consequently, a great many purchasing agents, traf- managers and other business friends were surprised to see a new version of Charley ger enter their offices while "Of Thee I Sing" was being presented.

A member of Peninsula Players says of his love of community theater, "It was nev- a question of "where's Charley?" He was always there. "Whenever he was in a show, ow it would probably be a good one.He approaches each role like a professional.He always one of the first to learn his lines. It rubs off on the rest of the cast."

There are about 625 people living in Peninsula. Nearly all of them know Charley. e phrase 'community leader' has become awfully trite," says one resident. "But it's best way to describe Charley."

He was one of the leaders of a drive to turn a dangerous, water-filled quarry o a new safe and lovely swimming facility in Peninsula. Charley was also one of the idents who went to Washington and convinced governmental highway planners that Pen- ula should not be served by a major, interstate highway.

"Charley really loves this place," said a neighbor. It 's not surprising. His ther, E. B. Conger, was mayor of Peninsula for 27 years.

"We've got something valuable out here," Charley says. "It's beautiful country d there's less and less of that in our world. We have a way of life that's good, too. ving out here, you get to do things that you might not do in a big city. There's the PA, the Boy Scouts, your church, the community theater and a lot of other things. In a big town, you might not find the time for these things. And you'd be less of a per- sn because of it."

Charley Conger is a proud man. He is proud of his community. He loves his home, ich sprawls under a thick woods. He and his wife built a good part of it. Business iends were not too surprised when many of Charley's customers at Bender and Loudon came out to the house to help saw and paint in the woods.

He speaks warmly of his family. He and his wife Velma adopted three children during the early years of their marriage. Son Don, 18, will enter Michigan State University this fall. Their 17-year-old twin daughters, Jane and Janet, will complete high school this year. And of course, he is proud of the pace he keeps. "I guess I am just the impatient type," he says. "I've got to be doing things. I'm not interested in slow people or the easy life."

You could say that Charley Conger has come a long way since those younger days in the little village of Peninsula. But he's less than a mile from where he started. True, he's vice-president in charge of sales for a major Ohio trucking company. He was appointed to the position in 1959. But, as he might tell you while racing for the door, "I'm still a small town guy having a lot of fun in life." His friends report this description is most accurate.

Charley's description of himself for the Conger book was, "Actor, Whiskey Tenor, whistler, 'Mouth Organist', chcrister, salesman, employed at Bender and Loudon Motor Freight continuously since 1935 in clerical, terminal management, sales management, presently Executive Vice-President."

Your compiler tried searching around the Minneapolis area for Charles's son, William Lloyd Conger, but to no avail. Only by chance in sending form letters to the telephone book contacts, was his widow found in San Francisco, Clfr. Her letter, dtd. 13 Oct 1969, reads, "Dear Mrs. Leonard--forgive for needing your 'last call' to get the form filled in on this last branch of the Congers.

"I'm sure Mr. Conger's dad would have scolded me, too, for not getting this final information off to you sooner--as you know, he spent many hours in this research work. Maybe there is where Jean (her daughter) got her patience in all the research work she had to do for her published articles and then finally her book. It all had to be so accurate, so I should appreciate what you are going through.

"I spent three weeks in June in Minneapolis and even carried your form with me, hoping to get it done there. But everyone was too kind to me and kept me on the run, as they were all admirers of Bill and Jean. Even though they have both gone on, I feel I must be grateful for having shared those years with a wonderful husband and daughter

"If this 'last call' had not arrived today, I would have felt it was too late to send this form on. My best wishes to you in your completion of this big task!" Signed (Mrs. W. L.) Dagny Conger.

Clement Ellis Conger 1912 was written up in THE SUNDAY COURIER AND PRESS of Evansville, Ind. on 1 Mar 1970 by Dorothy McCardle, as follows:

"Together President and Mrs.Nixon twisted the arm of Clement E. Conger to pursuade him to take on a White House Americana Project comparable to the one he heads at the state department.

"Conger had three other job offers. A top U.S. Museum was trying to draft him.The Bicentennial Commission wanted him as a commissioner. The Secretary of State dangled an ambassadorship.

"Conger, who now relinquishes his job as deputy chief of protocol, finally decided to accede to the President and Mrs. Nixon's wishes for two reasons:

"'The challenge at the White House is terrific,' says Conger. 'I shall do my best.'

"His second reason is that the White House job leaves him time to continue with the State Department Americana Project....his first love.

"Clem Conger has won a world-wide reputation as an antiques sleuth.He has tracked down more china,silver, paintings, and furnishings from America's beginnings than most men ever see in a lifetime. And he is determined to get the best of America's cultural heritage for the two spots in Washington where it will be displayed in an international show-case--the White House and the State Department.

"He won't discuss just what he will do at the White House. It has been learned from other sources that a top reason he was asked to move his talents there is because of wear and tear on the public rooms by the hundreds of tourists who go through them daily and the scores of guests entertained there nightly.

"Conger is expected to stock-pile a substitute collection of Americana at the White House which will be as historic as anything that has to be replaced or repaired.

"The idea got started last November when President Nixon attended the Governors Conference at the State Department. For the first time, the president took in the full significance of what Conger and his special fine arts committee have done to give an authentic historic setting to the rooms in which the Secretary of State entertains the heads of foreign governments. The President was astounded as he inspected various items of the five million dollar collection of American antiques on view in the State Department's hospitality suite.

"This is one of the most important projects of its kind in the American government" the President told Conger. Then he added: "Clem, could you help us over at the White House?" Conger did not take this at face value until he was summoned for a talk with the first lady.

"When he spoke of other job offers, he was assured that he was much to valuable to the State Department and could be, too, at the White House, for him to leave. He did not want to leave, anyway.

"An antique desk, designed and used by Thomas Jefferson, illustrates the fast action and sleuthing ability of Conger. He heard about the desk at a party in the Thomas Jefferson Room at the State Department. He didn't let one day go by before he headed for Philadelphia, where the desk was in private hands. He interviewed George Holcombe Parsons, a wealthy Philadelphian, who told him he planned to give the desk to a museum in Philadelphia. Conger talked him out of it. He gave Parsons statistics of the number of presidents, prime ministers, kings and queens who would see that desk if it was at the State Department.

"That's where the desk is right now. On loan, it may be given later as a permanet fixture. The top of the desk lifts up into an architect's drafting board. Jefferson designed it this way because he liked to stand up when he wrote. The 'great pen - men' of his day drafted the Declaration of Independence on this desk."

Conger's ability has been listed as "having a practiced eye, a discriminating taste, and an appreciation for excellence--things found in a rug merchant, a horse trader and a Florentine aristocrat --rolled into one."

Clyde is the genealogy fireball in his branch of the family. Upon receiving for pertaining to the book, he immediately reproduced them and sent them to his immediat relatives--which number 34 first cousins.

Clyde still has his father's black medical bag. Speaking of his family he wrote "I remember my grandmother most because she was such a remarkable woman..deeply re ligious, active, alive and very alert even to the end. She and my grandfather raise a wonderful family of their own (9 children) and then borrowed some from the orphans home to raise, I'm sure they had little of earthly value but a lot of the spiritua igs.

"As an example of my grandma's love of life, she suffered broken limbs at an ad-ed age and healed completely. Later she became addicted with "tic della rue" (?) d the intense pain could be relieved only with opiates. When she realized that she s in danger of becoming a drug addict she arranged for this then dangerous operation hich the trigeminal nerve was severed inside the skull. Of course this paralyzed e side of her face but relieved the pain and she became normal again.
"Mother, after my father's death, married L'Grand Capers Wilson. They had one ghter, Mary Capers Wilson, my half-sister. Mother died quietly in her sleep from a 't attack while I was in the Aleutian Islands in 1943.
"As kids, Sue (my sister) and I were never so happy as when we planned a visit to ndma, or Aunt Susie or Uncle Ben. These were our favorites, but we loved them all much. We visited Aunt Susie in Drew, Miss. this summer (1969)."
Although Clyde and Suzanne have lived in New Jersey many years, their Southern vl delighted the Leonards when they stopped overnight on their camping trip in 1969.

Fish Creek, Wis. 25 Feb 1866

Father: Today I take the opportunity to give you a few notes from the western country as I see it. In the first place I am satisfied that this is the country for a man to live. For me he can get better wages and live cheaper so you see he must have something left providing he only lives there.

Now as to the section of country that it is best to go to is yet to be told, every place has its drawbacks. If you go to Missouri you have a delightful climate, a good harvest (if it is not too dry) plenty of fruit. Wood, if there should be any about, and very often fevers, small pox, with numerous other diseases inerdent (?) to humanity such a continual shaking of the bones, etc.

In Minnesota you have good health. Good crops, plenty of wood and water, but cold winters.

Now then if you want to come and think it is best for you to come and can make it so that it will be all right if you do come, I should like very much to look about and see if I could find a place that would suit us. Perhaps Squire had better come in your stead. Whoever comes wants to get ready and that in time so as to start as soon as the boats start in the spring.

First you want a good team and harness, a good light wagon one that will stand hardships one like John Silts's with a box like his and that will be as good a one as you can get. Then cover like an ambulance with good cloth. Some blankets, cooking utencils, & then you are ready to go where you like, stop when night overtakes you.

You and Gerrit can arrange things to suit yourselves but if you are ready to go when navigation moves I will be with you to stand my share. One span of horses is as many as you better bring, the folks better stay with Squire this summer for I think he will be in Minnesota in less than one year or I miss my guess.

Now to sum the matter up, if you are coming get ready, be ready one month before hand you can write to Johns folks probabily I shall not be here long enough for you to write to me. See Gerrit see what he thinks about it and except this from.....

N. W. Conger To: Colvin Conger

Dear Mother: Today finds us all well and hoping you are the same I will endevor to write you a few lines I hope what I have written to father and Gerrit will not be the sorse of any trouble to you for I do believe that there is a better place for us then Macomb. We can do less than look at any rate.

Mother John & Helen (John Parker Conger) are seeking for a newness of heart in Christ Jesus, there is a great work being done in this section of country for the building up of the Church of Christ.

Mother I shall ever try to do for you as is my duty and I realize that I never do enough to cancil my obligations to you. I know that I have not allways showed you the respect that was my duty to do for which offense I hope you will forgive me and I will do better hereafter and see if I can not in a measure attone for the many unhappy days that you have seen through my misconduct. Now mother let us all try and see if we can-not make our home glad again where ever it may be. Give my love to the girls I feel so sorry for Willie (William Lewis Conger) had you not better have M. C. Monagil see him, do all and have all done that can be done for him and I will help some.

Love to all the folks and accept a share for yourself I remain as ever,

Mother: N. W. Conger

Dear Brothers and sisters: I have just returned from a hunt, been gone 2 weeks, go a few deer, one bear and geese and ducks till you cant rest, but I went more for th purpose of practising then hunting. The more I see of Minn. the better I like it an if John sells his place this week we shall start for Sauk Center immediately. If no we will work this place this year.

I have said all there is to say about this country and I will say it again. If man has not got enough there to live comfortable and contented I say he can do bette here in Minn. For instance I know of a clame as good land as you ever saw and all goo plow land in a lot ½ mile square. Railroad serving with less than 5 miles for the su of $550. All prairie but you can get timber near for 200 for 40 acres. This isn' where it is settled and has been for 8 or 10 years there is plenty of government lan but you must look it up. I say if a man wants land cheap Minnesota is the place, fo grassing or farming.

I have not much to write this time if we go to Minn this fall we shall move in t spring then there will be a chance for you all to come. I know a man can do bette where land is cheap and keep his money to improve it then he can there but every ma for himself. When I write again I will tell you how things are, my love to all.

Hang on and keep things together until you hear from us if we go to Minnesota an then you can come on. Yours....N. W. Conger

Fish Creek, Wisc Oct 14, 1866

Dear Brother and Sister: Pardon me for not writing to you before it is some tim since I rec'd a letter from you and I have been so long I have neglected answering but I will try to do better in the future. We are all well, the boys are here, th horses are looking gay.

I told them to plow share all they liked but the first one that lay hands on the Lake Crystal, Jan 20, 1870

Dear Mother: Your kind favor came to hand last week, it finds me well. We had st sent a letter to you and father directed to Gouverneur. We write all the news in at so I don't expect to make out much of a letter this time. I was wondering why you d not write. We always like to hear from you.

You and Will dine well in your garden. I am glad to hear Will is going to school
d to see that he can write so good I shall expect a letter from him every time anyone wites. Mother I do hope to see the time when we can visit at least once a year all round. The tide may turn yet and bring us together again. One thing is truly certain i all goes well with us until we get a deed of this place we will come and see you were ever you are. I should like to see old Macomb once more and if you stay there pobably I shall but I think there is better places to live all I miss is my friends.

Old Pete & Sam are all right they have a warm stable and all the hay they can eat d more oats than they could find in Macomb. I guess I have to look sharp when I take tem out to water.

I shall look for you all up here about next fall then we will make up for lost time Iwish Will was here with his sheep he could match them on the ----- prairie until he hd so many that he could not see them all. How I wish you would all come out and live wth us and I hop you will some day. Will when you and ----come up we will make the chickens climb and the rats hunt their holes, Mr. Mott and I are going to build a boat tis winter and then watch the fish catch it----Will you must bring father and mother along with you, I will be at the depot with Pete & Sam. I can't begin to tell all the tricks that Minnie cuts up so Louise must write. Mother write to us often and Father d Will write, all write. Except this with much love, Noel.

What kind of a chance would there be for us if we should come back, what could we do?

Feb 1: Mother you must excuse this short letter as this is a nice day and Minnie d I are going to town to mail it. We think Minnie is a little lady, she is beginning talk some and helps her mother. Mother be of good cheer perhaps we shall meet again efore many years I hope days. Give our love to all and excuse this, from N.W. Conger.

Lake Crystal Feb 18, 1871

Dear Sister Till (Matilda): We rec'd your letter the other day and were glad to hear that you and the rest of the folks are well. We are all pretty well now, though we were under the weather last week. I slipped and fell on the ice and hurt my back so that for one week I could not do my chores, then Louise was sick a day or two and then the babies were sick with colds. The baby came near having the croup but we are all pretty well now.

I went to the woods 2 times last week and I am going to start for the woods in the morning to stay 2 or 3 days and chop as there is no sleighing. We have had but very little snow so far not over 4 inches and that the sun melted off the next day except where it filled up along the fences and small piles at that. We have had but a very few cold days yet, the fact is this has been the nicest winter I ever saw. Our cows have not been shut up a night yet, they have a shed to run under and they have not suffered any with the cold.

Matt and I bought one acre of timber for 13 dollars, the Methodists have been having a meeting at the lakes with good success, some over 40 joined the church. Aunt Jane (Jane Conger Haskell?) is coming out here next month. I guess she will stop at Castles. Robert has given up his claim for his mother. Has Bill Aldees given up coming west? Any man that is a farmer and cant buy a farm there is a fool to stay there.

In 17 months more we shall have papers for 80 acres and something besides how many is there around there that in the same time with same means will have a deed of 80 acres of land and clear of debt.

Till you better come out here instead of going to Canada. Does Mother & Will talk about coming? I wish they would come they need not be afraid of starving for we set a very good table especily this year. Till write some news. Will, Sport gave a wolf a pretty sharp turn yesterday as we came onto loon lake he run about 8 rods from me and Sport close to his heels. Come out with your dog and we will go for some of them. Mother, Father & Caroline we are waiting to hear from you. Give our love to Squire's folks. Will come out and work for me this summer I must have some one. N. W. Conger

Hammond Sep 20, 1902

My dear brother Noel: Just a few lines as a reminder of the day. I hope you are feeling much better. We have all been very well this summer and oh so much to do, especially since the first of July. Nothing but hay and grain. Well that is what we look and hope for is good crops. I suppose you are getting ready for winter by this time.

Squire & Symantha came across the lake with their boat the day before Dan (Dad?He died 6 Feb 1902) was buried & walked from the lake up here. He seems as well as can be & looks younger than our Gerrit now. Symantha does not look well, grows old fast. I hope you & Louisa will visit these parts another year, try to. We have had very changable weather here this summer, more cold than heat. Yesterday & today high wind. Write. Very much love.....Carrie (Caroline)

Dan says tell you for him that he is still kicking about. That he has put in about 260 loads of hay & will have 15 or 15 hundred bushels of grain. Thrashed one field out of doors drew grain to machine. Hay is selling for 8 & 10 dollars some less. I have not sold yet, have lots of work to do this fall. Elstorp has had a great crop of hone this year expects to take about 10 or 12 ton to N.Y. next week.

Warren & Noel (Sigourney) have gone to church tonight. Warren commenced school last week. Noel is going to stay home this fall & help us. Helen & her husband are in the cheese factory yet.

All join in wishing you a happy birthday and wish you many returns of the same--to N. W. Conger.

(Compiler's note: Noel's birthday in the records is 20 Dec 1842.)

It is thought that David Conger was married twice. There is a tradition to that effect and that he had a son, ISHMAEL, by the first marriage--that he was only married about a year when his wife died. An Ishmael Conger does appear in the 1790 census of Washington county, Penn., where Elias Darby and David Conger (his brothers?) settled.

David died during the Revolutionary War. From the office of the Adjutant General ir Trenton, N-Jr we find the following:

It is certified that the records of this office show that David Conger served as a Private in Middlesex County, New Jersey Militia, received certificate 1571 amounting to £8:2 for the depreciation of his continental pay in Middlesex County, New Jersey Militia during the Revolutionary War.

Any of his descendants are eligible to membership in the Sons or Daughters of the American Revolution.

Mary Darby Green, his wife, was the daughter of Deacon William Darby and his wife Mary. Deacon William was the son of William and Elizabeth Darby who were of a group of English settlers of Elizabethtown, N.J. in 1688. He appears in the Scotch Plains' land owners in 1690. His children, according to records, were William b. abt 1693, Benjamin, John and Ephraim. Deacon William Darby organized the Scotch Plains Baptist Church on 2 Aug 1747.

Omer T. Conger 1835 of Indianapolis, Indn, grandson of David and Elizabeth, made quite an extensive study of the genealogy of the descendants of his grandparents. He spoke of them having 13 children, but only 11 are listed. The Register of Deaths of Morristown Presbyterian and Baptist, gives the following: Mary, dau of David Conger, fits, d. July 28, 1796 (no age). Also, Child of David, fits, Oct 3, 1805 (no age). These children do not seem to tie in with the other David Conger 1760 of Morristown.

Not much is known of the Morris county life of David Conger, other than he was said to have been a captain of a militia company. This may have been the David Conger 1760 who married Elizabeth Ayres.

Omer T. Conger goes on to say that his grandfather was a private in Capt. James Rea's Co. 7th Reg of Inf USA. He enlisted 7 Nov 1808 for five years, transferred to Gilbert C. Russell's Co. 26 Mar 1810; promoted to Sgt 9 Oct 1810. Reduced to Corp. 1 May 1812; promoted to Sgt 12 Feb 1813. Discharged and re-enlisted at New Orleans on 1 Feb 1813, for the war, as a Private in Captain Uriah Blue's Company. Discharged at New Orleans, La, 8 Apr 1815.

It doesn't seem likely that this is the same David. There were several Davids in the New Jersey area who could have had this service.

This David 1760 had at least 9 children and it is questionable that with a family of this size he would enlist for five years at the age of 48. In 1801 he inherited his father's homestead of 90 acres.

Omer T. describes his grandfather as "tall and strong. Being the eldest son he inherited all his father's estate, English fashion, leaving the other three children poor. He married Elizabeth Blue, of excellent spirit, of North German descent. A small woman but very staunch,with blue eyes, could stand inside a half bushel measure,and shoulder a bag containing two bushels of wheat. She was of the salt of the earth in spirit. He was not successful in finances, and his estate became involved, and when he reached Indiana, in 1820 with a family of 13 children, he had barely enough money to buy a quarter section of land from the government. He lost about $4,000 on the journey west; nobody knew how, and he never told. He was a corker on a drunk and smashed things generally. He and wife both died about 84 years of age, in Dearborn county, Indiana."

Perhaps he could have been the David with the military service mentioned. He does appear to have been irresponsible....being reduced in rank could have come from drinking. One thing for certain is that Elizabeth did not lead a dull life!

Omer T. described the other members of the family--those who apparently reached maturity:

Peter Conger, born about 1790, was 6' tall, weighed 190 pounds. He was born in Morris county, N.Jr. He was an officer in the war of 1812; a first lieutenant,and served as Aide-de-camp under Gen.Jackson in the battle of New Orleans. About the close of the war he went to Canada and married a Miss Williams. He lived to be old and died of cancer. He was said to be one of the finest looking of men, having a magnificient physique. Peter witnessed a deed executed by his grandfather Enoch to his father David on 4 Nov 1801.

Zacharia was born about 1794 in Morris county, N.Jr. He was 5'11, weighed 200 pounds. He was a lieutenant in the war of 1812; was wounded and pensioned. He married Tacy Barr at Philadelphia, Penn. They lived in Dearborn county, Ind. until about 184(and then settled in Iowa, south of Ottumwa, where he died of fevor about the age of 6(He was a man of splendid and powerful physique, tall and strong.

Theodora died of Cholera in Cincinnati, Ohio, in 1831, leaving four children and her husband, Lewis Tutthill.

Margaret was born in Morris county, N.Jr about 1798. She married Zenas Stewart and lived in Decatur county, Indiana; had two sons.

Enoch was 6', weighed 175 pounds. He was very straight and had black hair. He was 14 years old when his father moved to Indiana. He was a famous wood chopper, and desperate worker. He was said to have been his parent's favorite. They lived with him until his father died of old age. He was a farmer, a trader, and owned a mill. He moved to Illinois in 1844 and became a hotel keeper in Oquawka, where he died at 5 years of age, worn out.

Nancy lived in Dearborn county, Ind. after marrying Cyrus Mills. He was a Justic of the Peace, clerk and chorister in the Baptist Church. Their only son Henry die with cancer. They had daughters Mary, Susan, Carolina, Nancy, Ann, Martha and Harriet Eliza was a very pretty woman of medium size. She married Benjamin Powell. The lived and died near Winterset, Iowa. Her children were David, Elihu, and others--al farmers.

Lewis was the shortest of the family; only 5'5", weighed 135. He was the famil hunter, farmer, business man, politician and school teacher; also a county assessor He moved to Rochester, Fulton, Ind. in 1845 and died there an old man.

Samuel was 5'10, weighed 145 pounds. He became a tanner and worked at Elizabeth town near Cincinnati, Ohio. By honesty, industry, economy and careful management h became a man of wealth. He died at Manchester, Dearborn county, Ind. at age 78 years The last half of his life he was a Methodist.

John died at Manchester, Ind. about 1836. He was a man of powerful physique,weigh ing 185 pounds. At a 4th of July celebration in Lawrenceburg, Ind, in a lifting contest, the article being lifted was a large cannon,and while he succeeded in his under taking, something broke internally, and he fell into decline, and died of consumptio at 24 years of age.

There is no record of any military service performed by any David Conger from Morris county, New Jersey, in the Revolution that we have been able to find (1925?). We have been informed that the New Jersey Revolutionary War records, and some census records, were destroyed and burned by the British,when they captured the City of Washington in the War of 1812. However, the late Adjutant General Stryker of New Jersey, compiled a list of officers and men serving in the Revolution from New Jersey.

David Conger, son of John and Sarah Tuttle Conger, born in 1760, would have been rather young to be a captain. Crayon states that he had no service in the Revolution, but that he was a captain of militia on general graining days after the war.

Mrs. Louise Conger Dietrich has a DAR Lineage (Vol 78 p 156-157) traced to David Conger who was a private in the Middlesex County New Jersey Militia. Chances are that this is in error--this was probably the David born about 1741, son of Jonathan and Ann Ayard Conger, who died during the Revolution in 1778. David 1760 was living in Rockaway, N.Jr in 1793. (See David Conger 1760 & Elizabeth Blue.)

The will of David Conger of Hanover Twp, Morris county,New Jersey, carpenter,dated 5 Jan 1807 and probated 21 Feb 1807, leaves to wife Elizabeth the use of all of his estate, real and personal, provided that she take upon herself the care, expense,and trouble of bringing up and educating my small five daughters, until they are eighteen. The names of the children being Mary, Emily, Delia, Cynthia and Elizabeth.

The will also mentions three daughters viz.. Sally, Anne and Phebe, and forgives them "all that I have against them on my books". None of the sons are mentioned in the will. The executors were the wife Elizabeth and friend Col. Joseph Jackson. The witnesses were Stephen Jackson and James Jackson. The inventory taken 18 Feb 1807 by John Hinchman and Job Tallmage, showed a valuation of $435.50 (Morris County Wills for 1803 to 1807).

Elizabeth Ayres was a grand-daughter of Gen. Joseph Jackson of Rockaway, N.J. After the death of her husband David Conger in 1807 she married Titus Berry on 18 Sept 1812. On 5 Apr 1813 Titus Berry and wife Elizabeth, widow of David Conger, sold some land in Hanover, Morris county, New Jersey to William Jackson. Elizabeth married David Beeman on 21 Mar 1816.

Henry Herschel Conger, son of David Conger & Mary Bell, gives the following information about his grandfather David: "He fought in the Revolutionary War, for our Independence. He was buried here in Dunn's Station, on the W & W R.R. in Morris Twp, Washington Co. Penn. This is near my grandfather's old home farm, which is now owned by the heirs of my brother, David Allison Conger. It was willed to him by his father David Conger in 1792, and he fell heir to it from his father David about 1833.

"I don't know if my great grandmother was buried there. The grave at this place was marked with a rough undressed stone, without name or date, and I saw this many times when I was a small boy. The plot of ground has been worked over and cultivated for more than 60 years (in 1908), and there is not a thing to show there was ever a a grave there. Standing on this Plot is a Black Smith's shop and garden.

"Grandfather and Grandmother were buried 5 miles from this point in a grave yard on Bates Fork Creek. Their graves are properly marked with granite.

"I saw the old pocketbook a few days ago that belonged to my great grandfather, the date on it is 1758. It is made out of heavy leather, about seven inches long, and folds like a mussel shell with a pocket on either side. When it opens it is about seven inches square. David A. Conger's heirs have it, and prize it very highly."

(The owner of this pocketbook would have been David 1741, who died in the Revolution).

David 1767 and wife Sarah and baby Elias came from N.J. to western Pennsylvania in 1791. They were accompanied by his brother Elias Darby Conger, wife Mary Goble, and their five children. Tradition says that David and Elias'es mother came with them, but this has not been proven.

David and Sarah took up their home in the hills and valleys of Washington county on the extreme southern edge. He cut down the trees and built their home and hewed the logs and made all their furniture on a hillside overlooking a beautiful valley and stream. He was an Indian fighter and was a captain of a company for the protection of the settlers.

David and Sarah were people of faith and he supplied for a time The Ten Mile Valley Presbyterian Church as its minister. This was the first church in the valley. Their ildren, with the exception of the last one, all had Bible names.

On this farm of 500 acres the family grew to maturity--seven boys and three girls. he mother and father passes away here and were taken down the valley a few miles and ail away in Bates Fork Cemetery. The son, David, stayed on the old farm and raised a mily, and then his son David and wife Hannah raised their family; their son David and ife Adeline are now living on the old homestead (1940). This old home is beautifully ocated on a bluff over the road, and the view from the veranda across the stream t o he wooded hills beyond is charming. (Ethel Conger Heagler)

The tax list for George's Twp, Fayette Co. Pa. recorded an assessment for David onger for the first time in 1799, taken for the year 1798. He was a farmer with 1 o and a cabin; in 1801 he had 3 cows and 1 horse. In the year 1806 the record stated David Conger moved out". He was dismissed from Great Bethel Baptist Church of Union own, Pa. on 9 Feb 1805. David was also a school teacher.

David Conger was married to and divorced from Jessie Harrison; then married May Caldwell on 21 June 1946.

Beulah LaVoun Conger Frehner, oldest child, wrote the following:

This was dictated to me March 1, 1965, at his home 4300 Evergreen Place,Las Vegas, Nevada. Papa was 82 years old on the 12th of February 1965. His health is goo he is active, drives his car to Overton and around Las Vegas. He doesn't take lo trips alone anymore. He mows the lawn and last summer painted his house. He and h wife May have been married since 1946. They have a dog Bobo who Papa says can talk him.

Papa believes his name is Simeon David Conger, but was known only as "S.D."Conge until 17 years old. At that time he needed to write his name out in full and wrote as Samuel David Conger, which was later shortened to Dave. His records in Salt La City are Samuel David.

I asked Papa when he first came to the Valley, he said, "on August 2, 1905". will try to tell it just like he did.

I had been living in Milford, Utah.....Pa and Ma, Era, Agnes and Zeke had moved the Wiser Ranch and the girls were lonesome, because they had no one to take them do the valley. My folks had been on the ranch two or three months.

I came from Milford to Moapa on the train, then on a buck-board. I can't remembe the name of the man who drove it. He was the first person I met from the valley. left in September and went to Arizona, New Mexico, California, and Old Mexico. Th was the year 1906 when San Francisco had its great earth quake. Bill Gann and Be

Thomas went along with me and we swam our horses across the Colorado River at Greggs Ferry. Then I came back and went to work for Old Man Gunn. I worked for him about two years, from 1907 tp 1909.

In 1910 the first day of January the big flood came down, it washed out the railroad track in the Meadow Valley, leaving the train on an island. It was six months before the train was moved back to Las Vegas. But they took the people off the train the day after the flood.

(Note from Connie Frehner Money, Beulah's daughter: At the time of the flood the Arthur Lewis family was living on the Capalapa Ranch between Logandale and Overton in wooden floored tents. Dave went with some other men on horseback to see if the family needed any help. This was the first time he met Maybell Rosalie Lewis, a very lovely, talented girl who used to sing with her two sisters in the Tabernacle Choir. The Lewis family wasn't too happy that Dave was courting their daughter for the next six months. He seemed too wild a young man, racing his horse through town, but Dave married Maybell and they lived on the Pixton ranch.)

The water from the flood was from one side of the valley to the other. The Wells, Bowman and Gunn homes were all that was in the upper part of Logandale. The water came all the way from Panaca and down the Meadow Valley wash. Some parts of Logandale and Overton didn't get water.

In 1902, an Indian named Swain that I knew went on a rampage (maybe it was his lady) and he killed Albert Jones's half-brother. He was tried in St. Thomas and turned over to the Indians to kill. Now it was either the son had to kill his father or the father had to kill his son, I have forgot which. They tied the Indian to his horse, his feet under the horse's belly and his hands around the neck, and sent him towards the reservation. On the way the Indians shot him in the back and buried him at the reservation.

Two years before, Pa was selling fruit trees in the valley. Pa was in St. Thomas and sleeping on one side of the hay stack. On the other side was an Indian who had run away with another Indian's squaw. During the night he was killed by the squaw's buck. He killed him with a wagon horn. A wagon horn was used to hook wagons together, then the teams would be put at the front to pull all the wagons.

The first family who lived in Logandale was Bert Mills. Pa had leased the Wiser ranch and I lived with them, Elijah was still in Parawan, Era, Agnes and Zeke and Ma were there but the rest were still in Alabama. I didn't get married until four and a half years after I first came to the valley. I lived, or we lived, in Overton, but I rode a horse or drove a buggy to the Capalapa Ranch where I worked for Dan Livingston. I helped build the three houses, then we moved into one of them. We raised sheep and alfalfa, until Livingston went broke. He owed me $1200. I went to a lawyer in Las Vegas to collect it, and he did for half. The lawyer's name was Bustead.

There was another flood while we lived on the Capalapa Ranch, but it had more channels to go down. I had to pick the pigs, sheep and chickens out of the water on horse back. That was about 1918, when there was lots of flu. I took you kids and your mother down to Overton in a hayrack. I don't remember where you stayed. The pigs, sheep and chickens were put in an empty house next door to where we lived to keep them alive or from drowning. We raised hay and grain and asparagus. The Lewis family raised cantalopes when they first moved to the ranch.

We moved to the Weber ranch and lived there about three years. That was where Dan was born, May 10th, 1921, and that was where we had small pox. I had already had the small pox when we lived in Parowan, so I was able to nurse many people who were sick.

While we were living on the Weber ranch, I bought our place in Kaolin. That was in 1922. I also owned a piece of ground next to Perkins store. Beatrice was born on June 28, 1917 when we lived there. We thought she wouldn't live. Mrs. Lytle was the midwife in those days. I don't know how many of our children were delivered by her.

We also lived in the house that Clarence McDonald had lived in. You kids rode the bus to get to school. Except when you and Dave and Carl Marshall drove to school in a wheeled buggy with one horse. That was when you (Beulah) were in first grade. We lived on the Overton Ranch, just a little way from town. That was where we were living when Whitehead's tractor went through the corner of the house and just missed Elinor's buggy.

When we lived on the Overton Ranch, Harry Hill came to town. He helped me and from then on when he came back each spring he camped somewhere on my ground. Brig Whitmore had a store in Overton when I first went there. I mean the valley. He also was the first Bishop in Overton. His wife was named Mame Perkins.

I was ordained an Elder by Willard Jones. We were married in St. George on May 10th, 1910 and about two and one-half years later went through the Temple in Salt Lake City, Utah. That was the 9th of October, 1912.

I was the first Scout Master in Moapa Valley, and for twelve years. I was a counselor in the M.I.A.. Edwin Wells was the president. We had a long way to go in those days. (He remembered something else and forgot to say how far they traveled.)

When we moved from the Webber Ranch to Kaolin I had already built chicken coops & runs, and bought 500 chickens from Bert Galloway. I built a cellar to put my incubators in. I could hatch about 2500 chickens at a time.I sold baby chicks in Overton, Bunkerville and Misquite. I sold fryers to a meat market in Las Vegas for 15¢ each. I also sold eggs to a cafe in the old Overland building. I went into the egg business with Albert Jones, Clarence Lewis and John Lewis, and one other person. I can't remember the person but I do remember all the dirty eggs that had to be washed.

I was water boss for about 10 years. I didn't have anything but trouble. If the water got turned off at the upper Muddy it took 24 hours for it to get turned back on and down the ditches again. If the Indians turned it off we couldn't do anything about it because there was some kind of agreement with the government.

We were living in Kaolin when Maybell died. When you kids went to school I took Naomi and Charles with me in the "Puddle Jumper" that I drove to tend the water. The kids had Scarlet Fever after Mama died and I would leave water for the ones who were too sick to go to school or go with me and tell them not to get out of bed. I don't think they did much, because the others would tell on them.Maybell and I had ten children. I lived in the valley 28 years altogether.

When the government bought us out I had married Jesse Harrison and we moved to Hurrican, Utah. We lived together for five years, then we divorced and I moved back to Overton for a while.

I married May Caldwell in June 21, 1946. Kent was my youngest. He asked May what her name used to be, and she said, "Change the name, not the letter; change for worse not for better". Kent became most indignant and said, "And what's the matter wit Conger?"

We used to have good times on the 4th of July and other holidays. We would have horse races. I remember Joe Perkins had a gray stallion, and John Bunker had a gray mare. John bet Joe his mare could beat his stallion in a race, but Joe's stallion won. John was so sure that his mare would win they set up a race for the 24th of July and bet $5.00, but Joe's stallion won. The mare was fast at running but not long-winded.

We had cross-lot pulling. I had the best horse, her name was "Gyp". She pulled eleven men on a cross wagon. I won $5.00 off Huntsman. We pulled in a street across from where Bishop Jones lived. We chain-locked both wagons.The horses were on the end of the tongue. She had to pull 10 inches by stretching, without raising her feet. We each had ten men on each wagon. I told little Joe Perkins to get on because he didn't weigh much. Gyp pulled eleven against the other ten. The horses were owned by Huntsman, who lived by Windy Jones.

Connie Frehner Money adds that after the completion of the dam, Dave worked as a guide in the dam for a number of years. He met May Caldwell in Boulder City, and they lived there many years. Dave and May at one time ran the station at Wheaton and later he was the night clerk at the Charleston Hotel in Las Vegas.

During his lifetime Dave became noted for his unselfish assistance to needy families, sometimes much to the chagrin of his own family. Once he brought home a woman with her six children, and they remained for two weeks, including the Thanksgiving ldays.

May was a great help and companion to Dave. Her devotion to him and her hard work rng all their time together was a source of admiration and appreciation, especially rng his illnesses, by the children, grandchildren and the many friends of Dave. Her et sense of humor and easy conversation were a pleasure to Dave as these were his tanding qualities also. A guest in their home couldn't help but feel the joy of er association and know that they were blessed with a special kind of happiness.
Samuel (Simeon?) David Conger died 30 Nov 1969 at 10:40 A.M. at the Las Vegas

A letter written by David's grand-daughter, Mrs. H. D. Lough from Grand Rapids, Mch dtd 13 Dec 1900 states:

"David Conger is thought to have been one of the children of the first marriage of Thomas Conger. In the event this is true, then his mother would have been Lydia Beeman, daughter of David and Mary Beeman, of Morris county, New Jersey. In the subsequent naming of his own children, there seems to be sufficient indication that Lydia Beeman was his mother.

"It is also quite evident that David Conger had two sisters, namely: Diadema and Charity Conger. Diadema married Joel Brown in the Rockaway Presbyterian Church on 6 Jan 1810, and Charity married James Lockwood. Our reason for this assumption lies in the fact that David. B. Conger subsequently named his youngest daughter Diadema; he named another daughter 'Charity', and gave his son James the middle name of 'Lockwood'. These are the only two instances where the names Diadema and Charity were ever used in any Conger family, that we have any knowledge of."

We find in the Morris County Deed Records that David Conger and wife Hannah owned land in Pequanack Twp, Morris County, N.J., which they sold to George Stickle in the year 1805. The name of David B. Conger appears quite frequently in the Deed Record for a number of years. In 1807 he sold to Trustum Harriman some land in Randolph and Hanover Townships.

According to Mrs. Lough's letter, she states, "My grandfather, David B. Conger, lived as a young man in Morris County, New Jersey. I do not know where he was born. He married Hannah Lockwood about 1800 and moved to central New York near Phelps and Ontario counties, New York. He went from there to Lake county, Ohio, Cleveland, Ohio and from there to Mt. Clemmens, Michigan, where he died about 1839."

Mrs. Lough further stated that Thomas and his wife went to California about 1842 in a prairie schooner; he died in Painesville, Nevada County. Lydia married John Patton and had two sons, Thomas and James. Thomas died in California. Hannah married a Vanderhoof near Canadaigua, N.Y. and had several children. Phoebe married a Capt. Ballard of the Lakes. Her only child, a son David, died of Yellow Fever in New York. Charity married George Patterson; had two young sons in the Civil War. One died at the close of the war in a military hospital in Indianapolis. Sarah married a Mr. Norden; her only child David died unmarried. Diadema married Thomas Peck, and died at 18 Years leaving one son who died at 6 months of age.

David B. Conger removed from Canadaigua, Ontario, N.Yr to Willoughbe, Lake, Ohio, where his brother Thomas was known to have been living. Then he also went to Clevelan Ohio where his brother James Lockwood Conger was practicing law, and then he and h parents and brother Thomas moved to Mount Clemens, where his father died about 1839. Not much is known of his further movements or the place of his marriage.

In 1848 he was living at Sheboygan, Wisconsin. From here he apparently moved t Janesville, Wis., where we find that on 1 June 1861, at the age of 47, he enrolled an was assigned to Co. B, 8th Wis Inf of which he was elected Captain. This regiment wa known as the Eagle Regiment. He served a little more than one year, and on 23 Jun 1862 he resigned as Captain. David, Jr. served 4 years in the same regiment from 186 to 1865.

It is not known when David Sr. went to Grand Haven, Mchg, where his son Charles Eugene was living. All that we know of Clarissa Decker is that her two sisters were th rt two wives sealed to Brigham Young. David Jr. is probably the David Conger b.abt 4 who md Fannie Raymond.

David's father and mother moved to Greene County,Penn in 1791. After his mother's death in 1804 his father re-married and the family moved to Monroe county, Ohio.

Robert O. Conger, son of John Spencer Conger, wrote the following on 4 May 1911: "Our great grandfather (Elias Darby Conger) was a hard-shell Baptist preacher durin the war of the Revolution of Long Island. He came from Essex county, N-Jr.

"David married into a family of Pennsylvania Moonshiners. Father told me all thi He says he remembers folks used to gather at his father's home. They were all raw-boned fellows,wore red shirts,broad hats, with their pants in the tops of their boots I don't know when they left Pennsylvania or Peach Creek."

Robert's sister,Cora Conger Henry, said that her father, John Spencer, was sherif for one term at Lawrenceburgh, Indn; her Uncle Ed served the next term.

David and Rebecca left Manchester, Ind in 1854 and settled at Bluff Creek Twp,Mon roe county, Iowa. They had just moved into their new house when Rebecca died of th Spotted Fever. She and David and son Elias were buried on the homestead, on Sectio 10, owned by Frank Durbala in 1961. Years later after a cemetery was established in the area relatives tried to remove the bodies but nothing was left. They built a stone wall around an area 10' x 16' and deeded it to the county as a cemetery. A tree grows in the middle of the graves, as of 1965.

Amanda's husband is unknown, but she had children William, Luther, Anna, James an Enoch.

Excerpts from letters written by Cora Conger Henry to Charles L. Conger, dated Ju 1911: "Soon I will write and give you what data I have regard to my father's sisters and brothers, but enclosed you find a book of the beginning and ending of the Mexican War which my father was a member of, from 1846 to 1848, before my father was married.

"Now you will see in this little old book where the lead pencil begins, the death of his brother, David Conger. I have several letters from his father and sisters and brothers while he was in the Mexican War, but no place mentions their deaths.

"One of his sisters, Hannah Jane Conger, died in 1854. I will find out for certai through some old letters that were sent to my father when he was in the Mexican War Please send the letters and book back,as I think when I die I will have them placed i my coffin or confined to the four winds." (See data for John Spencer Conger.)

"My cousins are scattered everywhere and they are so long in answering my letters I will write again to them, and a cousin Edward Conger in Phoenix, Ariz. His father Edward Conger, was my father's youngest brother, and the youngest of David Conger children. He died somewhere about 1870, I think, or about 1868. It was before th

hicago Fire in 1871
"Uncle Ed went to Phoenix from Indiana, sick with Consumption, was there about a ee, got no better and went back to Indiana and died. His wife by marriage was Mary or ray. Aunt Jane died before I was born. Vic Crowell did not mention her name. Will er you a letter to show you she was my father's sister."

EXCERPTS FROM THE CHATTANOOGA TIMES, 2 Aug 1965:

Dixie Lamar Conger was born in the true Southern tradition. Before the days of hospital births, he was born in the same room, in the same house, as his father and his grandfather. His grandfather and his father were both born in that room and they died in it. Dixie was born Jan 25, 1910. His grandfather, Sion M. Conger, was born on the same day, a hundred years earlier.

Dixie's father was a farmer and a banker, president of the bank at Fayetteville. He had one of the first automobiles in the town and he drove it regularly to work. Although Dixie had farm chores to do, he rode into town every Saturday with his father to see movies and enjoy the social life of the town. One day, with a dime-store cap pistol he held up the bank, demanding a nickel from every employe. His father took a dim view of the prank and sent him home, still wearing the cowboy suit.

Dixie attended a big three room public school, which was built of limestone donated from a quarry on his father's farm. It was one of the first schools to offer free transportation to students. A colored man driving two mules hitched to a wagon picked up the children every day.

Later, Dixie went to Lincoln County High where he became class orator and was graduated in 1928. He then enrolled in the University of Tennessee but in 1931, during the depression, he was forced to drop out for lack of money. He later finished his fourth year of college in the evening school of New York University. At UT he was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma social fraternity and Delta Pi, an honorary school of business fraternity.

Although during his high school years his father let him drive the family Overland, which he used to roam all over the county, he still had farm chores to perform and helped build some five miles of stone fencing around the farm.

Because his grandfather had to stand good for some notes of friends, much of the land had to be sold, and only about a thousand acres remains. But the fence, plus two stone barns, built from the farm quarry, "will last for a thousand years,"Dixie says. Some of the stones in the barns are 15 inches wide and 17 feet long, he recalls.

His memories of the University of Tennessee are highlighted by one fact that as a freshman he "was the smallest boy on campus", weighing only 85 pounds. But the next year he suddenly grew up. He also recalls that he got arrested for soaping streetcar tracks in Knoxville while at UT.

Dixie majored in agriculture at UT, where the late Dr. H. A. Morgan was department head. He later became chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority. Dixie says his father and Dr. Morgan were good friends, and that the TVA dream was hatched on the front porch of his home in Fayetteville.

Dixie had always expected to follow his father into the field of banking and after he left UT he joined a securities firm in Nashville which has since become the First American Bank. Two years later, in 1933, the firm transferred him to its branch in Knoxville. Suddenly, during an outing to Mammoth Cave in Kentucky, Dixie became dissatisfied with things and on an impulse went to New York City.

There he walked into the offices of Standard Statistics (later to become Standard and Poor) and got a job immediately. The president turned out to be a man from Fayetteville. Dixie's trip and subsequent hiring was so impulsive he had to come home and get his clothes.

His first job was to analyze the credit of the state of Maine, and he made recommendations which the state adopted. Later he was assigned an account which turned out to be Mary Pickford's. Still later he established the municipal bond department for what is now Chase Manhattan Bank, and a program which is still used as a yardstick for bond sales of small cities and towns.

He wanted to come home and when, in 1939, he heard of an opening here at Volunteer State Life Insurance Co., he applied and was accepted. He stayed there until 1943, when he joined American National Bank and Trust Co. In 1952 he was promoted to his present post of assistant vice president.

At a party in New York City he met Florence Hoyt of Des Moines, Iowa. She wa rting as a secretary to the Campfire Girls of America. Her father was an Iowa bank-nd state treasurer.

He and Eleanor were married about a year and a half later, in the Lincoln Chapel
New York Avenue Presbyterian Church in Washington, D.C., purely on impulse. Neither them had been in the church before: they just agreed to meet there to get married.
r are members now of St. Martin's Episcopal Church, where Dixie served as a warden year.

They live on a small farm, which is Dixie's hobby now, plus working around the se and raising peacocks. The expensive birds ($35.00 a pair) tend to roam and ixie has a little trouble keeping them home.

Dixie is fascinated by his job, which involves the buying and selling of bonds the bank, for customers and for correspondent banks. He estimated he has bought sold more than $1 billion in securities since he has been with American, and he les investments ranging from $25.00 government savings bonds to a million or more customers. Except for the hometown insurance companies, Dixie probably buys 75 cent of municipal bonds bought in Chattanooga in a year's time.

From the New York Herald Tribune: "Federal District Judge Edward A. Conger, 81, friend of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and an early supporter of the New Deal, died last night at St. Francis Hospital from the effects of a stroke suffered Sunday while visiting Miss Minnie Conger, his sister. Only the day before, he had attended a family reunion at the home of his son, Edward J. Conger, in Kingston, N.Y.

"As a native of Poughkeepsie, he was educated in schools there,receiving a law degree in 1904 from the New York Law School. He practiced law with the late Frank B. Lwn until 1908,when he was appointed an assistant District Attorney under John E.Mack a Dutchess County District Attorney in 1913 and served until 1918, when he was named a City Judge to complete an unfinished term. Afterward, he practiced law with Mr.Mack.

"In 1938 President Roosevelt, a Dutchess County neighbor, appointed Mr. Conger to the Federal bench of Manhattan's Southern District, which embraces the counties of the Bronx, New York, Columbia, Dutchess, Greene, Orange, Putnam, Rockland, Sullivan, Ulster and Westchester. He was president of the Dutchess County Bar Association at the time.

"On the bench, Judge Conger presided over many important cases, including one involving a contempt citation against Frank Costello, the underworld figure, Communist subversives, and many anti - trust proceedings. In one of his more publicised cases Judge Conger ruled against three baseball players who had been suspended for five years by Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler for jumping to the Mexican League. The three--Danny Gardella, Giant outfield, and Max Lanier and Fred Martin, pitchers for the Cardinals--lost an appeal, too. Among the important trials at which Judge Conger presided was the bankruptcy case involving the New York, Ontario & Western Railroad, which dragged on for years.

"In 1954 he wrote to President Eisenhower asking for permission to retire, since he was 72--two years beyond the normal retirement age. In reply, the President expressed his appreciation of Judge Conger's 'splendid service.'

"Judge Conger began to take an interest in politics early in his legal career, and rose to become a power in Dutchess County Democratic circles. In 1937 he ran unsuccessfully for Surrogate.

"He also was active in community affairs, having been a member of the board of trustees of St. Francis Hospital and the Barnard Library, a director of the Community Chest, president of the Cardinal Lay Committee for Boy Scouts, a member of the nominations committee of the New York State Bar Association, the Charter Committee of the Ninth Judicial District, the Knights of Columbus, the Elks and the Dutchess Golf and Country Club.

"Surviving besides his son and sister, are two daughters, Mrs. Catherine Haye and Mrs. Anne Elizabeth McCluskey, and 20 grandchildren."

EDWIN JEROME CONGER 1841 & MELISSA WHITLOCK & ELMA ROWENA ANNIS*******

EDWIN JEROME CONGER, b. 18 Dec 1841, Attica, Wyoming, N-Yr, d. 26 Oct 1907, Manchester, Delaware, Iowa, cremated with remains at Oakland Cem, Clfr, son of EPHRAIM CONGER 1795 & ALMIRA ABBOTT; was md 9 Sep 1867 to MELISSA WHITLOCK. No issue. He was md 6 Sep 1869 to ELMA ROWENA ANNIS, b. 20 Feb 1845, Erie, N-Yr, dau of Thomas Annis (10 Sep 1815--10 Dec 1893) & Chloe (8 Mar 1818--30 Nov 1905).

Edwin was a druggist and banker, and very prominent in civic affairs. He built th Central Opera House, which was later used as a skating rink in Manchester. He took u a collection for the town's court house clock, which began ticking time on 4 May 1896 Elma was the first kindergarten teacher in Iowa. She began teaching at age 14 and taught 28 years. On 6 Feb 1947, Horace GLENN Conger wrote to Mrs. Henry L. Monat, 1036 Bryant St. Palo Alto, Calif, as follows: "My Dear Cousin: I have delayed answering your lette for the reason that I had so little to offer in the way of assistance. First of all the Bible which you refer to is doubtless packed away among the effects of my sister Dubuque, who is the one referred to by brother Ralph as being in a sanatarium. Thi all happened so suddenly that it has taken my breath away. She had a nervous break and it seemed the humane thing to do to place her where she could be taken care f It isn't a public institution and I pray that it may continue to be a private la - at my expense, for those things are tragic, at best.

Anyway, the Bible you refer to I have seen many times and does not contain any e rence to who married who and when. It is one of those old fashioned documents hi simply shows the birth date, death date and names, but it may be that I can add itle to what you are trying to compile. A good many years back I had occasion - in o ection with applications for insurance - to have a record of the names, birth and ea dates of my ancestors and I'm going to give you some of that information.

My father's father's name was Ephraim Conger, born Oct 25, 1795 and died Aug 8, 84. My grandmother's name was Almira Conger, born Sep 13, 1799 and died May 26,1873. n our list you have a statement that they had six sons,but do not include my father, dwn Jerome, born Dec 18, 1841, and died Oct 25, 1907.

There was another brother by the name of Marvin, whose birth and death date I do ot have,but he was the one that became enamoured with a spiritualist and left my Aunt ar, and as the story went - in my boyhood days, she had a big going away supper the igt he was to leave her. That sounds a bit like Hollywood, doesn't it?

Well, some years ago a man came to my office in Des Moines and claimed to be my cuin, living in Winterset, Iowa. I was somewhat disturbed about it for I knew of no ouin that I had anywhere in these parts, but I allowed him to come into my private fce and was prepared for any emergency by having a heavy ink-well in my hand to use f t became necessary. Ha. This is quite a joke to me now, but wasn't then. It de- lped that he was a son of Marvin's and had taken his mother, Mary, with him to Win- r et and had lived there for a number of years, as a tin-smith.

He related some very interesting things about my father so I knew that he was real. Had taught father to swim, by holding him up with his hand while father paddled. This s not of much interest but it just a reminiscence. Anyway,those are two sons of lmira that you do now show.

(Glenn went on to speak of his brother Ralph but part of the carbon paper had been on off. Ralph fell when a child about four years old. A stick went into the palate of his mouth, causing his right arm to be crooked and useless.)

After a succession of crop failures, Colista became ill, so Elias loaded his family and transportable possessions into wagons and returned to Blocton, Iowa to Colista's family where she died. Elias went back to Centerville and farmed. Years later Henry Ellsworth had stones put on the graves of both parents.

Rebecca & Charles Powell had William, Elias, Darby Alexander & Sallie Powell.

Elias Darby Conger enlisted in the Revolutionary War but was too young to fight, so he "ran bullets". His grand-daughter, Elizabeth Conger Henkle, remembered him as a good sized man sitting in his arm chair reading, and that he had quite a library.

Elias and wife Mary Goble accompanied his brother David and wife Sarah from New Jersey to Western Pennsylvania in 1791. After Mary's death in 1804 Elias married Mary Gregory and they moved on into Monroe county, Ohio, where they both died. Family tradition says that Mary Darby Conger, mother of David and Elias, went with them to Pennsylvania.

To prove that you can't believe everything you read in print or what family tradition says, the following article from the Centerville Iowegian, 10 January 1934, is given in full:

"The following Conger family data is furnished by J. C. Harvey of Seymour: Appanoose county's history may not be complete without the mention of the name Conger. This family dates its beginning in America in the year of 1669, landing at Plymouth Rock. They were of French-Hugenot descent. Hence in years each generation emigrated westward until you find the name Conger in all parts of the United States. They are all related, as the original name was Koniger, and was changed to Conger by John Conger the first. (This has not been proved nor disproved).

"The Congers were first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of their countrymen. They furnished soldiers in every war from Colonial wars on down to the War. The first death recorded at Camp Dodge in Des Moines was Conger from Appa- county.

John Conger, III, was a captain in the Revolutionary War. His son Gershom was e Washington's orderly at Valley Forge, and he became the grandfather of the sons aughters of the Congers who emigrated to Appanoose county in pioneer days. (There record of a John Conger having a son named Gershom other than John Belconger. David Conger of the Pennsylvania Militia had a son Gershom born 1792, after Valley g. A Gershom born about 1763 in N. J., son of Enoch & Berzillah, might possibly been an orderly to George Washington, but no Gershom in this line could have been) Gershom resided and ended his days in Green county, Pa. (Son of Elias Darby Con-) His descendants moved over into Monroe county, Ohio, and his grandchildren moved to Iowa later (this Gershom evidently confused with his father Elias Darby). Enos ane Strayer Conger came first in 1845 (brother and wife) and homesteaded on the ton river. Then came Elias and John in 1849 (brothers) and they homesteaded claims ldwell township. They were followed in the early '50's by Benoni, James, Morris, , Max, Mark and Stephen (brothers and nephews), with cousins Charles, Elias and am.

At one time prior to the Civil War all these Conger families resided in Appanoose y, Iowa, and Putnam county, Mo., and each of these families furnished soldiers in ivil War--they were abolitionists and were interested in the underground route in ng slaves north to freedom.

John Conger (John B. 1808) was progressive in the early day movements. At one he lived in Centerville and built one of the first brick residences in the town. lped to organize the first bank in Appanoose county, and later was among the foun- of Seymour, Iowa. In the early days he owned and operated one of the first tread- ed threshing machines ever run in this section of the state. This was an advance- over the old chaff-piler and flailing system.

Benoni took to growing blooded cattle, and at one time had one of the best herds horthorns (Durhams) in the state.

Elias (Elias Gregory 1806) drifted into growing blooded horses, and Enos was l in the county as a horticulturist and farmer. All the other Conger boys became ty farmers, and their children likewise took up agricultural pursuits, at which of them were successful.

Many of the Conger descendants moved westward and became great benefactors in ling up the great west. However, at this time possibly over 500 of the Conger des- ants live in Appanoose and adjoining counties."

From the County History, Appanoose County, Iowa, Pleasant Township, pp 531 -593, iam Russell Conger of Dallas found the following pertaining to EliasGregoryConger: ER, E. G., Farmer. Sec 33: O. O. Cincinnati; born in Greene county, Penn in 1806; 312 his father Elias D., removed to Monroe county, Ohio; engaged in farming until s death in 1845; at the age of 16, E. G. ran away from home, having no advantages of holing; went to the Ohio River and engaged to push on a keel-boat; there he saw the rt steamboat on the Ohio River. At the age of 20 he returned to his native county in n., married Miss Rebecca Patterson, with whom he lived fifty years; she was born in ene county, Pa., in 1806, died 25 Nov 1876, leaving seven children: Mary A., Mark, n, Elias, Enos, Martha J., Sam. (Thomas died in 1858, Benoni was married and Robin- must have died young before Rebecca's death.)

"After their marriage they settled in Monroe county, Ohio, remained until 1848; n to this county where he now resides, owning 170 acres of land valued at $25.00 per r. He first settled in Caldwell Twp and for a time lived near Centerville; part of etown is built on the land previously owned by him, thence to Walnut Twp; thence to esant; when he came, no settlement between Centerville and the Missouri line; wolves rous. Mr. Conger is a Republican; always helped fugitive slaves when an opportun- y occurred. A member of the ME Church; his wife also. His son William enlisted in t. Infantry in 1963. At Pittsburg landing missing and was not heard from afterward."

Thomas, Enos and Mark went to Oregon in 1856, according to their neice, Minnie Ethel Conger Rees, still residing at Roseville, Clfr. in 1970, age 86. Thomas died in 1858 and was buried in the Sacramento Valley, after which Enos and Mark returned to Centerville. Minnie remembers her Uncle Enos telling how they had gone to Roseville by train. They camped awhile on the Roseville Dry Creek and then bought horses and wagons, and drove to Talent, Oregon. Talent existed before Medford.

Mark and his family returned to Oregon in 1875. Benoni became a prosperous farmer around Blockton and Mt Ayer, Iowa. John survived the Civil War unharmed and settled near Exline, Iowa; William was lost in the battle of Shiloh: no record of Robinson. Elias tried Kansas for a few years but returned to Iowa; Enos evidently went back to Oregon, for his son Hemmerly became a mortician at Medford; Martha went to Kansas in 1880 and had children Al, Maime and Roxie Crow; Samuel remained in Centerville, Iowa.

ELIJAH CONGER 1873*******

An interview with Elijah Conger was taken for the Indian-Pioneer History of Oklahoma, and is in Indian Archives of the Oklahoma Historical Society. It is as follows:

I am sixty - four years of age, having been born in November 1873 on a little farm near Fort Smith, Arkansas, and now live on Route 2, Oktaha, Oklahoma.

Father: Tom Conger, white man born in Kentucky.

Mother: Anna Harmon-Conger, born in Indiana.

I came along with my parents in 1886 from Arkansas and we first settled on a farm in the Sugarloaf mountain region near the town of Cameron, Choctaw Nation, Indian Territory, and began farming with one mule and a single stock. The next year we moved near Texanna, Cherokee Nation, Indian Territory.

The school and church buildings in these localities (The Choctaw and Cherokee Nations) were of native lumber construction and some few were of slab construction, the slabs being set up end-wise. The residences occupied by the Indians and some whites were principally of log construction with rock fire places built of native stone. Roofs were of shaped shingles and some of these cabins had dirt floors and no windows.

The English language was taught in the schools and the church I attended was of the Baptist faith.

We raised cotton and corn. We did not pick cotton in sacks as they do now but we used baskets that held about two bushels. The gin at Cameron was operated by horse-power and likewise the one at Texana. The man who operated and owned the gin and mill at Texanna was named John Pierce. Cotton seed in the late eighties were of no value. People did not feed them to their stock or send them to a cotton oil mill as they do today to get the lint, hulls, meal and oil.

We gave one - eighth of the corn for toll. Out of two bushels of shelled corn, shelled by hand, with toll out, we would get back a two-bushel sack packed full of seed.

The cost of ginning the cotton, a horse-power gin, we would have to pay three dollars a bale, which included ginning, bagging, and ties. It was tied by hand.

Our social affairs consisted of barbecues, camp meetings, horse racing, foot racing and poker games. Our camp meetings would last for two or three weeks at a time. The meetings usually would start along in the fall and we would take our bedding & provisions and just camp near the meeting grounds until the meeting time. There were old arbors. They were constructed of poles, limbs and brush. Seats were usually logs rolled into position.

There were lots of wild berries and fruits such as blackberries, dewberries, hawberries, grapes, plums and a few seedling peach trees.There was plenty of nuts, namely hickory nuts, walnuts, chinquapins and pecans. All kinds of game haunted the sections of these parts of Choctaw and Cherokee Nations, such as black bear, panther, wild cat, wild turkey, deer, quail, rabbit, squirrel, possum and raccoon. The first deer I ever saw was in the big Sugarloaf Mountains, in the now LeFlore County, Oklahoma; and the first black bear was about four miles north of the South Canadian River, near Texana, now McIntosh county.

All the streams, large and small, were full of all kinds of fish. The Indian used to catch lots of fish and the prize fish among the Choctaws was the Sun-Perch. They would cook them brown and eat them bones and all.

In the now LeFlore County and near the towns of Cameron, Bokosho, and Panama, coal was just beginning to be mined and when the Kansas City Southern Railroad came through that section, little mining camps sprang up every few miles.

There were herds of wild horses in the Sugarloaf Mountain region. They would come down on the plains to graze and take refuge in the mountains. There was lots of wild hogs in the low lands and woods on the South Canadian near Texana. If a man could show that he had turned out some three or four gilts and a boar he had what they called a hog title and that would permit him to kill a wild hog for food when he so desired. These hogs were never fed by anyone, as they lived on the moss, acorns, hickory nuts, pecans, chinquapins, roots, grass and herbs. They usually hunted and killed these hogs for meat in the late fall for at this time they would be fat on the moss.

There was considerable stock raising, cattle. The market was Fort Smith, Arkn. However, some were driven north on the Texas road for points in Missouri. The cattle grazed on the open range, herded by cow hands or sometimes called cowpunchers. These cowpunchers were men of very little education, but they were all jolly good fellows, honest and square in all their dealings, and law abiding citizens.

I might say more than law abiding citizens, for their six-shooters were the Law. A thief in their midst meant if they knew him to be guilty, that is caught in the act of rustling cattle or horses,that he be left dangling at the end of a rope tied to the limb of a tree with his body riddled with bullets. They would pull their cow ponies off a few paces after the thief was hung and with their six-shooters and saddle guns rifles, which they carried to protect themselves, and fire vollies of shots into the body of the thief. The reason they always carried these weapons was not only to protect themselves but to protect their herds from cattle rustlers,coyotes and other wild animals.

The Kansas City Southern Railroad built into what is now LeFlore County in the early '80s. I can't recall the exact year. The old steamboat landing at Skullville was missed by the railroad and the town of Spiro sprang up, back a few miles from the river. When grading through this section for the railroad hundreds upon hundreds of human bones were excavated, supposedly those of Indians who had died years before from some epidemic as they were buried side by side in long trenches, and it was nothing unsightly to see hundreds of skulls in a pile together that the railroad men would pick up on their shovels and pile back. I never did know why the steamboat landing was called Skullville, but it was a very appropriate name for it for nothing more than the above mentioned reason.

In the early 1900's, I think it was in 1903, the Midland Valley Railroad and the Fort Smith and Western Railroad built through the towns of the present Panama, Bokosh and Coal Creek and at this period the coal industry was in full blast as these railroads traversed the present large coal fields.

The first and only store for a long time was owned by John Pierce. John Pierce rished nearly all the Indians as he was the first settler and better known. Months n years he furnished them and individual families owed him thousands of dollars. He nded upon the Indians receiving their government pay and they paying him. I am a ie man but I will give the Indian credit of being honest for I don't believe that r. Pierce lost a single dollar they owed him.

COMPILER'S NOTE: Elijah's father Tom could be Ira T (Thomas?) Conger 1848, a son f lisha Conger 1820 of Crittenden county, Kntc. Ira T. and his family moved to the lhoma Indian Territory. The main question that arises is that there is a marriage crd for Ira T. and Mary E. Felker on 22 Dec 1872. This Elijah was born in November f 873. He stated his mother was Anna Harmon; there were Hammons near the Congers in rucky.

It is also possible that he could have been the son of Elisha's brother John 1820, chad a son Toby (Thomas?) born around 1856. This family lived at Johnson county, rk., but there is no record of their being in Kentucky.

In a letter to Mrs. Leonard, March 4th, 1963, Elijah's wife Carrie wrote: "My uband did so much research and received so much information from so many different orces that I am not positive, but I am quite sure that he received the information frm Charles L. Conger's wife that he had deposited these eight volumes in the Library f Congress in Washington, D.C.. I know he wrote to the library and made arrangements chave the eight volumes microfilmed. Cost $32.70. Then he had to buy a reading ahine, $75.00, so that we could type them back into book form. As my husband was rcticing his profession at this time and we could only do this typing in our spare tie and it took three years to complete the assignment. As you can see the spelling is far from correct. That was one thing that my husband just couldn't master. He wrote a beautiful hand. I think I will send you his signature. When we finished typing the fims my husband deposited them in the Genealogy Library in Salt Lake City, Utah. It sems to me that you have let yourself in for a lot of work on this Conger genealogy. I wish I could help. (She was 83 at the time). I enjoyed the work so much when Elijah and I were working together on it. At times it would seem that they were talking to me Especially in going through the Temple I could feel them right beside me.

"I haven't had a very exciting life, still it hasn't been too drab. I was born and raised in the Southeastern corner of Alabama on a large cotton plantation. I had to sisters and a brother. One sister died at the age of 2 years. My mother was a semi-invalid. We had a negro Mammy for a housekeeper and nurse. She was so good to u we thought almost as much of her as we did our Grandmother. We lived in a 2 story white frame house. We had a negro girl that did the cooking, washing and ironing and all of the hard work. My father wanted me to be a school teacher but I wanted to be a nrse. So when I was 17 years of age I got married and had a nursery of my own. I had three sons and two daughters,eight grand children and twenty four great grandchildren

"Elijah and I grew up just fifteen miles apart, but of course in those days tha was quite a distance. One didn't know the other existed until he was 15 and I 13. The his father bought a farm adjoining my father's and four years later we were married

"Four years afterwards Elijah's father and mother and the other six childre moved to Parowan, Utah. One year later nothing would do but that we should follow his parents to Utah. In the meantime I had been baptized into the LDS Church. Elijah an his family had joined the church several years previous to that time. Two years late Elijah left for Louisville, Ky, to attend Dental College for four years. Then he wa admitted to practice as a DDS and opened an office in Salt Lake City where he practic his profession for 19 years.....happy years, where we reared our family. In 1923 whe our family was grown and married we moved to Las Vegas, Nev, where he continued hi practice, except for 4 years in Caliente, Nev, then back to Las Vegas where he passe away in 1951, and I have been in Oakland, Clfr since that time."

In another letter Carrie explained that Charles L. Conger's eight volumes wer made into four books in re-typing the records, and that there were 990 pages.They mad two copies--original and one carbon. ELISHA CONGER 1805 & NANCY TITTSWORTH*******

ELISHA CONGER, b. 2 Jan 1805, Smithville, DeKalb, Tenn, d. there 12 Mar 1895, son of JOSHUA CONGER 1773 & LUCINDA ROUNSEVAL; was md 27 Sep 1828 to NANCY TITTSWORTH, b. 15 Feb 1810 at Smithville, d. 10 Jan 1892. Ch b. Smith Co. Tenn:

4. William Conger.....16 Sep 1839-- 1841
? 5. Isaac J. Conger..... 1842-- --

The family was living in DeKalb county in 1850 and 1860. In 1860 an Isaac J.Conger, age 18, was living with them, whereas in 1850 only children Eli and Martha were in the household. Elisha's nephew, Joshua 1818, had a son Isaac J. who was born in 1842. Perhaps it was this Isaac living with them to help with the farming. The 1860 census shows Martha Cheatham and dau Martha living with them also. They lived near th river, nine miles north of Smithville. Elisha and Nancy are buried on the homestead.

Martha's only child was Martha J. Corley, who lived at Liberty, Tenn. in 1903. Sh was born 30 Oct 1853, and married 28 Sep 1877 to Lemuel Corley. An excerpt of a letter from her follows: "I want to write more to you about Grandpa Elisha Conger. H was a farmer, very ingenius, could make anything out of wood or iron. He made nearly everything he used, also always had bountiful of all good things. He owned a good far scarcely ever was in debt. He was honest and religious. He could quote nearly th whole scripture without the Bible. He was so good.

"I was born in his house. He raised me. I think he was the best man I ever saw. He was very industrious. After Grandma died he lived with me most of the time, until he died here with me. He was nearly 90 years old. He was blind and deaf, and nearly helpless the last year or so. We had to feed him and lead him about. He bore it al so good, was always pleasant before he died. He said he believed he knew the way Heaven as well as he knew the way back to his home. I think he was as spotless as human being could be on earth. I hope to meet good Grandpa and the rest of them, al my good folks in a better land. I shall be glad to be of some help in the Conger Unio if I can, in the future." (6 May 1905)

Elisha Conger and his son Paton (Peyton) kept the custom of "sitting up" with a ighbor who died of Typhoid Fever. A short time later they both died of the same sase.

His widow Jane applied for a pension as follows: "On this 15th day of Oct, 1888, ronally appeared before me a County Court Clerk of a Court of Record in and for the uty and State aforesaid, Jane Conger, Resident in the county of Crittenden and State entucky, aged 64 years, who being duly sworn, makes the following declaration, in dr to obtain the Pension provided by the Act of Congress approved July 14, 1862: a she is the widow of Elisha Conger, who was a corporal in Co. "H" commanded by p. T. M. Duvall in the 20th Reg of Ky, in the war of 1861; that her maiden name was r Conger and that she was married to said Elisha Conger on or about the 19th day of r.l, 1838, at Malinda Conger's the county of Smith and the State of Tenn., by John ar aster, Esq. She further declares that said Elisha Conger, her husband, died on or ut the 20th of April, 1885, at home in Crittenden County in the State of Ky, and he immediate cause of his death was disease of heart."

Their son Joshua received a certificate for Disability Discharge from the Civil a as follows: "Joshua Conger, a private of Capt. Thomas Jewell's Co. H. of the 20th eg of the U.S. Kentucky Volunteers was enlisted by Capt. Hayner of the 20th Reg of y Vol. at Smithland on the 5th day of November 1861 to serve three years. He was bom n Smith Co. in the state of Tenn, is sixteen years of age, five feet five inches high, le eyes, light hair, and by occupation when enlisted a farmer. During the last two oths said soldier has been unfit for duty 10 days.

"'I certify that I have carefully examined the said Joshua Conger of Capt. Thomas ewell's Co. and find him incapable of performing duties of a soldier because of ex- r me debility induced by chronic diarrhea. He is only sixteen years of age and can o soon perform military duty, if ever. (signed) H. W. McCorm, Surgeon'.

"Discharged this thirty-first day of May 1862 at Louisville, Ky." He died about hee months later.

On 8 Feb 1969, Geneva Wilcox Clark wrote: "Following are some dim, and vivid, mem- res of the Conger family as told by my mother, Mrs. Dora Conger Wilcox, and deductions ae by me from the records, etc:

"The earliest record I have found of a Conger in Crittenden County, Kentucky, is u chase of land on 11 Oct 1851. No Congers are found in the 1850 census of this coun- y The deed states: Lemuel Conger of Christian County, Ky. bought from Elisha Tabor 0 acres of land on Piney Fork Creek for $150.00.

"On Jan 18, 1855, another deed states: Lemuel Conger bought 5 acres for $10.00 om Martin Hammons. On Jan 17, 1854, Henry F. Rice of White Co., Illn, sold to Elisha Conger of Crittenden County 133 acres on Piney Fork headwaters for $617.00. Elisha was y great grandfather.

"The reason for giving this information is that I believe this family of Congers arted coming to Crittenden County soon after 1850. According to tradition, they all me from Smith County, Tennessee and settled in the eastern part of Crittenden Co., Kentucky near the Piney and Piney Fork Creeks.

"Herman Conger, son of Emanuel and grandson of Elisha, told me about two years ago that our Conger ancesters lived in Christian Co.,Ky, awhile before coming to Crittenden County, and that hisfather took him there once and showed him the house where they lived. Herman died in 1968.

"Conger descendants now living in this county don't seem to know much more than I about their ancestors. So many Congers died and left young children, including my grandfather. I've also had a busy life and didn't keep a record of what I heard.

"A son of one of my grandfather's cousins says his grandfather was Richard Conger (called Uncle Dick). Now I remember the name "Uncle Dick' and believe I heard he was a brother of Jane R. Conger(Elisha's wife and cousin) and that his family was the only Conger close relatives on her side. (This 'Dick' has been established as William J. Conger 1826 who married Julia Spurr.)

"My mother told me some of her great grandmother's maiden names--two stick in my mind--Coffee and Wallace. I think Coffee belongs to the Conger family--more probably Jane R.'s mother. I hadn't heard of a John Conger relative--Eli sounds more likely.

"Elisha Conger married his first cousin, Jane R. Conger, in Smith Co., Tenn. on Apr 19, 1838, when Jane was 14 years old and Elisha less than 18 years old. They were still living in Smith Co. when the 1840 census was taken. Sometime later they traveled to Kentucky in an ox cart, carrying only such possessions as the cart would hold.

"We find the name spelled 'CONGO' in old records of both Tennessee and Kentucky. I can remember when some people 'insisted' on calling them CONGO and I would correct them as to the spelling. I wonder if that pronounciation started because of Tennessee people not sounding 'R', yet people here accented it with a long 'O'.

"One of Elisha's sons, with his family, moved to Oklahoma--then Indian Territory. I think this would be Ira. We found Ira's marriage record but I know nothing more about his family. Emanuel's daughter, Mrs. Sallie Duvall of Detroit, the only grandchild of Elisha now living, says her father only talked about 4 boys in his father's family. We believe the others died when infants or small children. The four boys would be Ira T, Lemuel, Paton (my grandfather) and Emanuel--the last three lived, died and left families in this county. Of the two daughters, Malinda Jane married and died the same year--leaving a baby girl, named Ida Turley, who lived with her grandparents her first few years, and then was taken away by her father, Thomas Turley, and never heard from again by her Conger grandparents. The other daughter, Sarah or Sally, married Granville P. Slaton, a brother of Paton's wife.

"Elisha's son, Lemuel, was a farmer and sometimes Baptist preacher. Paton, my grandfather, was a farmer and dealer in produce--going from farm to farm buying chickens, eggs, etc. His oldest son, Doss, who was 12 years old when his father died, took up the same type of business when a young man, except that he was a buyer and shipper of cattle and hogs."

It may be that Ira T.'s middle name was Thomas, and that he was the father of Elijah Conger 1873, whose biography is filed with the Oklahoma Historical Society.He said his father was Thomas Conger, born in Kentucky, and mother Anna Harmon, born in Indiana. Ira was married 22 Dec 1872 to Mary E. Felker. Perhaps she was the mother of Elijah born November 1873 and she died shortly thereafter. Anna Harmon may have been a second wife--the only mother Elijah knew. There were Hammons in the area. This ties in with the fact that Ira T. moved to Oklahoma.

From the BEACON JOURNAL of Peninsula, Ohio, 1933:

"Shrewd, with a salty wit, and a superb sense of the ridiculous, Elmer Conger, long time mayor of Peninsula, and faithful correspondent of the Beacon Journal editor, is in this dull age, that rare thing, an individual.

"Conger is a product of rural America, although he has seen Peninsula gradually become the haven of the city gentleman farmer. A lifetime in politics, far from making him stubborn and dull, has served to sharpen his tongue. His conversation actually the comment: 'Pithy'. He has been the pride and joy of whole processions of reporters and the envelope bearing his name in the Beacon Journal's reference department, is stuffed with stories about his weather prophecies,his 'store teeth,' and his knowledge of flowers and politics.

"He was the first mayor of Peninsula in 1901, and has served, with a few interruptions,for 28 years in that position until defeated by C. B. Chisholm, by a majority of seven votes, in 1929.

"I got out the whole Conger family, too, but it didn't help,' he says with a grin. The whole Conger family is 18 votes strong and no small factor in Peninsula elections.

"Conger was not only mayor but justice of the peace for Boston township and baliff of Judge E. H. Boylan's common pleas court. It was in this last position that he firs gained attention in local newspapers. When times were dull, he was a godsend to court reporters, and both Conger and the newspaper men thrived on the arrangement.

"Abruptly retired from politics by the voice of the people, Conger has been designated 'Sage of Peninsula' by copy desk men. Undisturbed by the collapse of his political fortunes,Conger spends his time hunting,raising dogs, identifying flowers, running for title of 'biggest liar in Peninsula', and building up his reputation for the great come-back.

"He lives on Boston Township road, two houses from the residence he was born in, and on a single hill live five different branches of the Conger family The children run into large numbers, with Elmer contributing six.

"You really can't see the landscape for Conger children and Conger dogs," he remarks dreamily, staring at the 'oracle.'

"The 'Oracle' is the hill opposite the Conger house. Begun as a simple joke, i has developed into one of those things that bewilder strangers and convulse those who know the secret.

"Conger, who has a taste for classic Greek mythology, once darkly referred to th 'oracle' as the source of his weather prophecies. He finds it very convenient, for h admits 'if the prophecy failed all I had to say was that the blamed Oracle must hav been off his feed the day I asked him about it.'

"Conger's letters are like his conversation--pungent, to the point, witty, with n punches pulled. He is an admirer of the Beacon Journal editorial policy, talks darkl of Woodrow Wilson, has numerous jokes to tell on the 'democrats,' and looks proud whe identified as Peninsula's republican committeeman."

Enoch Conger, son of Job and Keziah Conger, was named as executor of his father's will, and also inherited one-half of all of his father's real estate. The will was dated 29 Jan 1749, but was not proved until 17 Feb 1758, at which time it is thought the youngest son Moses became of age. The will provided that Enoch was to have the use of the inheritance of his brother Moses for a period of seven years. The will further provided that neither Enoch or Moses could dispose of their inheritance until they had attained the age of thirty years.

It will be recalled that Job Conger was the only one of his father's family who had retained his inheritance. Perhaps he meant to insure that his sons Enoch and Moses would retain theirs with the above stipulation.

As stated, Berzillah Coddington Conger was a daughter of Benjamin Coddington, who was born in Woodbridge on 8 Oct 1680 and died there 18 Apr 1753. His will proved in 1753 mentions Enoch Conger as being the husband of his daughter Zillah. Benjamin Coddington was a son of John Coddington and Hannah Gardner. And this John Coddington served under Major Willard, in King Phillip's War, 1675-6.

It is thought Enoch Conger left Rahway about 1765, or later, and removed to Nine Partners, Town of Northeast, Dutchess county, New York, a place only a short distance from New Fairfield, Cnnc, where his cousin Joseph Conger was then living. From there he moved to Danby, Vt, before 1770.

From Williams's HISTORY AND MAP OF DANBY, VT, we gather the following abstract of the settlement and organization of the town. Sixty-eight persons petitioned to the Governor of the Province of New Hampshire for a grant of land six miles square. On 7 Aug 1761, the petition was granted. Enoch Conger was not one of the petitioners.

Each one of the petitioners was to have an equal share and their share, or lot, was to be numbered. The company had their headquarters at Nine Partners, Dutchess county, New York, where the drawing took place on 5 Sep 1763. Among the first settlers who came in 1765 was Joseph Earl. The annual meeting of the proprietors was held in 1766, 1767 and 1768 at Nine Partners, and after that in Danby.

The organization of the town of Danby, Vermont, dated from 1769, and in that year the first highways were laid out, and the second division of land was made. The first road laid out was on the land of Joseph Earl. Quite a number of the original proprietors were selling their rights to new settlers. The trouble over the "New Hampshire Grants" was on, and was causing a great deal of disturbance. New Hampshire, the Province that made the Grants, was exercising authority over them, and this authority was disputed by the Province of New York. Hence the reading of the body of the deed, next to be mentioned.

These deed records are taken from the Danby Town Records, as Williams makes no mention of Enoch Conger. A deed dated 23 Mar 1771 and recorded 29 Apr 1775, Joseph Earl to Enoch Conger, "all undivided lands after the third division, belonging to the first division right of lot number 35". This was originally owned by William Barton, and Lot number 47 by William Shaw, both of whom sold to Joseph Earl.

On 20 May 1772 Enoch Conger recorded his ear mark, which is a slit in the top of each ear of the livestock. The next reference to Enoch Conger is dated 6 June 1776: "then surveyed and laid out for Enoch Conger, one fifty acre lot of land, laying on the west side of Micah Vail's third division lot. The above fifty acres belong to the right number 35, in the first division of land in said township."

The reference we have concerning Enoch Conger is his will, dated 19 Feb 1777, which was found unrecorded in the office of the Judge of Probate at Rutland, Rutland county, Vermont, on 17 Aug 1907 by Charles C. Gardner, the Newark genealogist employed by Charles Leslie Conger.

THE WILL OF ENOCH CONGER

DANBY, February the 19th, 1777: In the name of God amen. Whereas I Enoch Conger of Danby, in the county of Charlotte, and the state of New York, being low and weak in body, but in my right mind, and perfect memory, than God, do make this, and ordain the same to be my last will and testament as follows:

First of all, I will and bequeath to my dear and well beloved wife Berzillah, all that 50 acres of land wherein she now lives, as long as she remains my widow, to have the whole of the profits therefrom, arising and further, that my said widow keep her family together, as much as in her power, and convert the profits of said farm to the use of bringing up my poor orphan children until the youngest shall become to the years of maturity, or to the age of twenty and one.

necessary charges accrued in this my sickness, out of such part of my estate as can b spared, out of my family so left, and further, if my said widow shall think most con venient for herself to marry after my decease,in any time before my youngest son shal be of age, that then I hereby order my two sons here made executors to take all of m estate, both real and personal, and forthwith have the same inventoried, and appraise according to law, and give to their mother her third. Enoch Conger was named as one of the executors of his father's will, dated 19 Fe 1777. He sold his interest in his father and mother's estate to his brother, Codding ton Conger, on 5 July 1794.

Williams'es HISTORY AND MAP OF DANBY mentions Enoch Conger as follows (page 129) "Enoch Conger settled on the farm now occupied by Isaac Kelley. He built the presen dwelling house in 1812. He was twice married, first to Ruth, daughter of David Irish and second to Hannah Kelley. Although obliged to overcome the hardships and privatic incident to all new settlements, by great industry and personal endurance he succeede in establishing a pleasant home here, and became a man of considerable influence. H joined the Quaker Church,then quite numerous, and in 1820 removed to the north part o the state. His children were David, Noah, Hiram and Lydia. David married Rachel daughter of Isaac Wilbur and removed to Collins, New York.

"The Quaker Church was organized by the first settlers, at an early date. And fo some time, the meetings were held in a log house 'which stood on a hill'. In 1785, th first Quaker Church was erected. And among the list of early members of the society i the name of Enoch Conger.

It is thought that Enoch had other children, as a Freelove Conger witnessed deed. His second wife was Hannah Kelley of Danby, of whom we have no record, and ap parently there was no issue from this marriage. About 1820 Enoch removed to Hinesbur Chittenden, Vermont, where he died 5 Dec 1826. It is thought that he went there t live with his daughter Lydia, wife of Caleb Randall.

The will of Enoch Conger disposed of land at Hinesburg, as well as the home far at Danby, Vt. The will dated 2 Nov 1825 reads as follows: Know all men by these pre ents, that Enoch Conger of Danby, County of Rutland, and state of Vermont, being of sound disposing mind and memory, do make this, my last will and testament, hereby re voking all others.

Said legacies to be paid out of my personal property.

SECONDLY, I will that all my just debts, and funeral charges be paid.

erlife all of my title to the farm, I say to her during her life, and afterwards to eheirs of her body, to be equally divided with other parcels above named, among

THLY, I give to my son Hiram Conger, all the remainder of my home farm east of the re described line, with the buildings and appertenances, and also the five acres of Enoch Conger was a Presbyterian Missionary and had charge of several churches in the Western Reserve, so he had no fixed abiding place. His first child, Flavia Alsina was born at Auburn, Cayuga, New York. From there he went to Hartwick, Ostego, N.Y. a few miles south of Cooperstown. His fourth child was born at Montrose, Susquehanna Pa and constituted the family of Enoch Conger when, in 1824, they moved by the way of Buffalo, N-Yr across Lake Erie, through Sandusky, Erie, Ohio, to Strong Ridge, located in the extreme north-west corner of Huron county, Ohio, about a dozen miles south of Sandusky.

Here lived the Strong and Cook families. Elutheros Cook was born at Granville Washington county, N-Yr in 1787--the same town that Esther West Conger was born in. Jay Cook, the well known financier and his brother Henry D. Cook, once governor of the District of Columbia during the administration of President U. S. Grant, were both descendants of Elutheros Cook.

Enoch Conger served in the war of 1812 as Chaplain of a Cayuga County company, New York State Militia, and as related previously, was captured by the British at the battle of Queenston, but he escaped by crossing the Niagara River to New York State where he rejoined his company.

Enoch Conger, son of Benjamin Conger Sr. lived at Milan, N-Yr. He is mentioned in several deeds, one of which dated 31 May 1837, shows that Enoch Conger and wife Lyd fMilan, deeded to William Brewer and Burnett M. Carroll for $1228. Perhaps at this ie he was selling out, and leaving, as there is no further record.

In 1838 Benjamin W. Every sued the executors of his grand-father's will for his eacy (the ten sheep given him by his grandfather). Among the items gleaned from the cplaint are that Benjamin Conger Sr. died about 1822, and that Benjamin Every became fage on 8 April 1837. Richard Connelly, farmer (son-in-law of Benjamin Conger, aged 5 having married his daughter, and had always lived near his farm, testified that very was brought up by Benjamin E. Wildey and wife, they have had no children of hir own.

Zillah Wildey of Milan, Dutchess county, New York, testified that she had brought pEvery, her sister's son, and that he lived with her ever since; also that her husad died in February 1831.

In a letter from one L. S. Wildey on 29 Sep he states, "I know very little act the Conger family, except that Zillah Conger married Benjamin Wildey, and that hy had no children".

Clinton Conger of Milan testified that he was a farmer, aged 24 years, and that ewas the son of Enoch Conger, one of the executors. His testimony also mentions his brther Asher Conger. An H. B. Sherwood, writing from Stanfordville, Dutchess, New ck on 10 Oct 1907, said that a Clinton Conger lived at Milan for some time, and belived he died on a farm near the Pine Plains line, unmarried.

ERI LOCKE CONGER attended grade and high school at Lawrence, Kansas, and left in hi senior year to join the army in April 1917, with Co. H, 137th Inf, 30th Div, and sa combat in France.

In October 1969 he wrote, "I have followed many occupations from driving a street ca in Kansas City to teaching in Adult Education during the depression. At present I am Managing Editor and Business Manager of THE LIBERTY PRESS,weekly newspaper, of Liberty Center, Ohio.

"My biography would fill a book. I have been nearly everywhere and seen nearly everything, and am still a student, both of history and mankind.

"My father was Charles L. Conger, also born in Douglas county, Kansas, and was born in the late 1850's (1862). He was a Jack of all trades and master of none. My grandfather was John Conger 1817 who moved from New York State before the Civil War, coming overland alone and shipping his furniture by water down through the Gulf, up the Mississippi and Missouri Rivers to Westport landing (now Kansas City) and then overland to his homestead in Douglas county, Kansas. He operated the first underground station for run-away slaves out of Missouri and missed being burned out by Quantrell by a hair. He was a dairy farmer and sold butter to the army in Fort Leavenworth.

"My father Charles moved to Lawrence from Hesper when I was five years old so that he could send me to school at Lawrence. I left Kansas in 1927, and have traveled from coast to coast and border to border and followed many trades in my travels. If you (axine Leonard) think you are the 'crazy cousin', you ain't seen nothin' yet! My experiences would make Mark Twain look like a piker. I may write them someday, in spite of the embarrassment it might cause my children. I wish you the best of success in your work on genealogy. You must be a detective or a skip-tracer at heart."

I participate in its International Festivals every year. I wear a German costume and I folk dance one or two nights per week. My wife has two costumes, plus one on loan, and my son has costume. In fact, we've had an enlargement of a family picture painted in oil showing us all in costume. This gives you some idea as to how I'm interested in the genealogical research and other related subjects. I feel that we'd have less delinquency if people (young and old) felt they had some roots and a 'place' in our fluid society. Our culture is so mobile that there's little time or place which can afford any ties. For sure we have a young nation, but ties go back further. This fact could bring about a stabilizing influence."

GE RGE CONGER 1855 & FLORA ANN FERGUSON*******

Following is a letter written by E. C. Conger, 1133 Summitt Street, Des Moines, Ia on 8 Dec 1914 to Charles Leslie Conger:

Dear Sir: I learned your address through Arthur Conger of Harrisonville, Missouri. I am trying to find some trace of my people on my father's side. His name is George Conge, married Flora Ann Ferguson in Warren county, Iowa, about 39 years ago (1875). He in a short time went with a sister of his to Idaho, and wrote my mother to come to him there, but she was young, and through the influence of her people, did not go to him. I understand he later went to Ohio or some Eastern state. This is the last I can find of him. It seems he had a very old father and mother living at the time of his marrige in Warren co. Iowa. As near as I can find out, my mother cut off all communication with him. I would like very much to know something of him or my family.

Another letter dated 23 Dec 1914:

Dear Sir: I am sending you what information I can get. My father was about 20 (born abt 1855) years old at the time of his marriage, and I can not find if he had any middle name or not. His father lived at Pleasantville, Iowa (Marion co.) at this time and was very old. I cannot find what his name was. His sister's first name was Emma, and as near as I can find out, married a man by the name of Hank. They moved to Oregon. I do not know what part.

Shortly after my father's marriage his father moved back to Indiana, where he came from, but don't know what part. The marriage took place at Sandy-ville, Iowa. According to what I have gathered, this would make father 57 years of age, and I think he was born in Indiana. I have found where he worked for a man by the name of Rogers at Calhoun, Iowa, before he was married, but cannot find what his given name was. You see, this has been 37 years ago.

(As of 1971, this man remains unidentified. He may have been an unlisted son of Isac W. Conger 1818, who did live in that area of Iowa and returned to Dearborn co. In.)

ger, Vice-President, has spent his entire business career operating his own private erprises consisting of five corporations ranging from chain retail stores, light ufacturing to service companies. Mr. Conger spent his military service in financial ts in the Army, and has been active in community welfare projects and politics.
At the close of World War II some 11 million people were undergoing post-military djustment. American industry was converting from war production to peace-time pro-t development. This flux created one of the greatest personnel problems in the itory of the national economy. Industry was desperate for talent; experienced exectves, industrial managers, and professional personnel were available but, returning m the service, were in need of counseling, guidance, and direction to help them be sidered for appropriate career opportunities.
A group of far-seeing executives from business, industry and research immediately ognized this problem and did something about it. They organized a personnel service enterprise -- today known as NESINC--dedicated to the task of matching this availabl talent with industrial requirements and offering the needed direction to both corpora enterprise and the individual.

Son b. at St. Albans:

1. George STEPHEN Conger.....22 Aug 1847--26 Dec 1926--Charlotte S. Post

The 1870 census listed Frances L. Conger age 50, probably George's 2nd wife. His 3rd wife was Catherine Dunham Bliss, dau of J. W. Dunham & Sophronia Merrick.

Marion Conger Barton wrote the following: "Family recollections and a few remaining visual evidences help give us a thumbnail sketch of Captain George Parker Conger.

"He had a deep and genuine concern for his country, his family, and for future generations. He gave generously of his time to church and patriotic duties, having the courage of his convictions. Feeling very strongly about the quality of man, he brought his negro horse-boy home and raised and educated him as a member of the family.

"A very religious man, he was outspoken in his beliefs, at one time standing up in church and taking exception to a statement made by the minister. A fearless man, while in the Civil War, he was ready to do battle with a much larger force but was--perhaps fortunately--circumvented when nephew Warren Conger hit his horse, forcing it over a bank into the river with everyone following--and from which there was no return.

"The inscription on the sword given him by his men in Co.B bespeak of the esteem in which he was held, by those who worked and fought with him.

"Captain Conger left many good books dealing with the 1800's to his descendants, as well as having bought for his son's family many books he felt would be of help to them in their way of life. His will gave his son a life-lease on the home farm which was then to be divided among his grandchildren. He did his best to provide for the security of his family's future."

George P. made his livlihood as a wagon maker, freight agent, farmer and speculator. The 1880 census of Georgia, Vt, lists his estate as 75 acres tilled, 30 acre permanent meadows, orchards, etc., 25 unimproved (old lands) not wood growing far $6,000 (land, fences, buildings), $150 farm implements and machinery, $538 livestock estimated value of all farm products (sold, consumed, on hand for 1879) was $1115, 4

e mown, 40 acres not mown, 50 tons hay, 2 horses, 10 milch cows and 1 other,1 calf ed, 15 calves purchased, 15 calves sold living, 1 slaughtered, 1500 # butter made rm, 5 swine,20 barnyard poultry, 300 eggs, 3 acres barley (56 bu produced),1 acre heat (19 bu), 5 acres Indian corn (250 bu), 2 acres wheat (36 bu), 5 bushels beans acres potatoes (150 bu prod.)

A publication entitled YANKEE, Oct 1966, featured a story entitled "The Day Mor-Raiders Came to Vermont". On 17 Oct 1864, a handsome, well-dressed young man ed the steps of the American House in St. Albans, Vermont. Drawing a big Navy revolver from beneath his coat, he shouted: "This city is now in the possession e Confederate States of America!"

Lt. Bennett H. Young was the man on the steps. Fourteen others participated in aid. They had raided in Kentucky and Ohio, and their objective was to give the a taste of what Sherman and Sheridan were giving the South. The town was thrown panic, and two people were killed.

The real hero of the St. Albans raid was 19-year-old Capt. George Conger of the Vermont Cavalry. As soon as he sensed trouble, he mounted his horse and galloped gh the village shouting: 'We have a lot of rebel raiders here! Let's catch them.
our guns!"

His courage was contagious. In twos and threes the villagers joined him, sniping at the raiders from windows, trees and corners of buildings. As their numbers ined, so did their bravery. They formed lines across Main Street. Morgan's Raiders what to do under such circumstances. Knee to knee, revolvers blazing, roaring yells, they charged the lines and broke them. But--under Conger's cool leader-they reformed. Young realized the time had come to go.

Outside Sheldon, the raiders broke up into small bands and reached the border.
r and his men crossed but captured none of them. The next day at Montreal, Young a rumor that seven of his men had been captured. Taking two Navy Colts, he rode toward the border to rescue them. That evening he was captured by Captain Conger Canadian farm house near the border."

Of her father, Marion Conger Barton wrote, "Since Dad's retirement he has given much time to manual labor for the church and parsonage repairs. He also makes it point to visit his children and help them with their building projects. Recently h spent his 81st birthday helping put a garage for his grandson, Richard.

"Dad (George) was born the year a storm took over the East--the Great Blizzard o '88. One of the few adults who really enjoyed the blizzard was a buyer for a New Yo Department Store who,12 days earlier, had taken a chance on purchasing a whole carlo of unclaimed snow shovels.

"At age 16 Dad worked for 6 weeks in the R. R. Depot restaurant. He went on passenger trains with trays of sandwiches and coffee. Once he got carried to Swant before he could get the cups collected. His mother didn't much care for this job b cause the older son Charles had been killed working for the railroad that very year, rather than worry her he found other employment. He worked on a farm caring for catt and stable for four winter months in 1902. At age 18 he took over the home farm e tirely to stay home and look after his parents, giving up plans to become a jeweler apprentice. Dad was named after his grandfather, at that gentleman's request."

Grace's father, Riley Boomhower, was born 21 Dec 1864 at Stanbridge Ridge, Quebe Canada; d. 4 Apr 1942 of cancer at Montreal Hospital. Eliza, his wife, b. 19 Nov 18 d. 22 Oct 1951; both buried Harris Cemetery.

In a book written about Quebec, it states that two families (Boomhower and Wall bridge) settled in the Mystic near Bedford. They were Loyalists from the States, giv a grant of land in Canada by England after persecution in the states. They lived in sheep shack all summer until about December when their home, a log cabin, was ready. is thought Grace's great grandfather came with his parents when he was about elev years old, and is the family discussed above.

Riley's half-brother, John Grove, of Boston, bought and sent race mares to Rile in Canada to raise colts. The colts were then returned to Boston for training a racing. Granddaughter Marion spent many summers on that farm playing with and ridi these horses and colts.

HISTORY OF WASHINGTON COUNTY, submitted by George Ringland Conger 1935:
The man who devotes his life to the alleviation of human suffering is pursuing a ing which in importance and beneficial results is second to no other, for if true his calling and earnest in his efforts,he is indeed a public benefactor.Dr. George gland Conger early realized that to those who attain determinate results in the medical profession there must be given not only technical skill but also a broad huma sympathy which must become the actuating motive for helpfulness. So he has dignifi and honored his profession by his able and self-abnegating services in which, throu years of close application,he has attained notable distinction and unqualified succe

Dr. Conger was born near Amity, Washington county, on the 8th of June 1865,and the son of Henry and Elizabeth (Ringland) Conger. The father was born near Lindley Mills, spent practically his entire life in this county and died near Hackney Stati March 20, 1912. He was a farmer and owned the land on which was at one time loca the oldest Indian settlement west of the Alleghany mountains. He was the son of Da and Mary (Bell) Conger,the former of whom was a lifelong resident of Washington cou a farmer and member of the Presbyterian church.

His father, also named David, was a native of Scotland (not true), who, on com to this country settled in Washington county, where he devoted himself to agricultu pursuits. Elizabeth Ringland was also a native of Washington county and died the She was the daughter of James and Sarah (Stockdale) Ringland, the former of whom native of Ireland, became a successful farmer in this county. He was a member of Presbyterian church and a man of strong character.

Having determined to devote his life the medical profession, he then matriculated in the medical department of the Univ sity of Pittsburgh, where he was graduated in 1892, with the degree of Doctor of Me cine. He immediately came to Taylorstown and engaged in the practice of his prof sion, to which he has devoted himself continuously since.

A physician of rare attainments, broad general culture and perfected skill, it fallen to his lot to bring alleviation of suffering and restoration of health to co less afflicted ones in his community. This has been his professional contribution has naturally constituted the larger part of his labors, but it has not by any me measured the whole sum of his activities. As a valiant champion of all lines of ci and social progress and betterment he is entitled to the respect of the community. cheerful presence, his kindly manner, his utter freedom from every form of affectat have endeared him personally in an unusually intimate relation to one of the lar circles of devoted and loyal patients and friends ever posessed by a physician in locality.

Fraternally, Dr. Conger belongs to Claysville Lodge, No. 447, Free and Accepte Masons, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Kinghts of Pythias. George Washington Conger was the father of twenty-one (21) children by one mother. They had sixteen boys and five girls, all single births, and raised fourteen.

George was a fifty-year member of the Masonic Lodge, attending regularly. For many years he was a Justice of the Peace. He was a farmer, cattleman, lumberman, and sheep grower.

He cherished friends, and each 4th of July he and his sons would barbecue 2 cows, 6 hogs, and 2 sheep, make 50 gallons Brunswick stew, 50 gallons of lemonade and iced tea. Their wives cooked and baked cakes, pies, bread, made pickles and other goodies. To this big spread, under shady trees, he would invite his friends, usually about 500 attended. A shelter was built for rainy days and under this shed was an organ. Later in the day hymns and patriotic songs were sung. (by Bessie T. Conger Davis, g. dau).

RHOM CONGER 1711*******

GERSHOM CONGER, born 5 Apr 1711, has been the most controversial figure in the er history. This Gershom was born between the time John (Primus) made his will on anuary 1710 and the addition of the codicil to the will on 14 June 1712, in which d.cil provision is made "for his son Gershom, who had been born since the dating of e will."

The naming of this youngest son Gershom has caused more or less confusion and con- cure, owing to the fact that the elder son Gershom was named in the will of John er, primus, dated 11 Jan 1710. At this time the elder son Gershom was married and s the father of David, born 1707, Phebe, born 1708. Charles L. Conger places this rshom 1711 as the son of Gershom 1685. This seems to be the most accurate identifi- .on for several reasons.

The elder Gershom 1685 died before his father, although no death date is given. If h was the father of a son born 1711, this is probably why he named him after the r he lost. (See JOHN BELCONGER).

It seems more reasonable to believe that John may have been having hallucinations in his last days--and that the family pampered him in his belief that his grandson was indeed his son. The codicil reads, "being very sick in body and not expecting many hours in this life"--and nothing about being "sound in mind."

John's first wife, Mary Kelly, was born in 1641; she and John were married in 1666 so John was probably born around 1640. It is possible, but not probable, that he had fathered a child during his ill health at the age of 70 or older.

WILL OF GERSHOM CONGER

In the name of God, Amen. The 29th day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred thirty-five, I, Gershom Conger, Junr * of Woodbridge, in the county of Middlesex, in the Province of New Jersey, carpenter, being very sick in body but of perfect mind and memory, thanks be given unto God, therefore calling unto mind the mortality of my body, and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and testament.

That is to say, principly and first of all, I give and recomment my soul unto the hands of God, that gave it. And for my body I recomment it to the earth, to be buried in a Christianlike and decent manner, at the discretion of my executors, nothing doubting, that in the general resurrection, I shall receive the same again by the mighty power of God. And as touching such worldly estate, wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me with in this life, I give, devise, and dispose of the same in the following matter, and form.

Impremis: It is my will, and I do order that in the first place, all of my just debts and funeral charges be paid and satisfied.

ITEM: I will and bequeath to my dearly beloved Couzen Gershom Cawood, thirty-six pounds current money, at eight shilings to the ounce, to him and his heirs forever, to be put out to interest to the best advantage which is upon bond, and my will is, that my executors do sell five cows and their produce the next spring after date hereof, and put the money arising therefrom to the best advantage, to the sole use of my said Couzen Gershom Cawood, and his heirs until he shall arrive to the age of twenty-one years.

ITEM: I give and bequeath unto my loving brother Thomas Cawood, his heirs and assigns, one yearling bull, and one mare. I also appoint Thomas Cawood, my whole and sole executor of this my last will and Testament.

ITEM: I give and bequeath to my loving brother Robert Mitchell, one cow to him, his heirs and assigns. It is my will, and I do order my executor to sell my tools to enable him the better to pay my debts. And I do hereby utterly disallow, revoke and disannul all any other former Testaments, Wills, Legacies and Executors, by me in any way before this time named, and willed and bequeathed, ratifying and confirming this and no other, to be my last will and Testament, in witness whereof, I have hereunto set set my hand and seal, the day and the year above written. GERSHOM CONGER (L.S.)

NOTE: The will of Gershom Conger Junr. was witnessed by James Wilkison, who was probably a son of either John, Edward or Allen Wilkison, who were grandsons of John & Mary Kelly Conger.

Gershom refers to himself as "Gershom Conger, Junr", so his father would have had the name Gershom. His "loving brother Thomas Cawood" could have been his brother-in-law, husband of his sister Phoebe. Perhaps his "loving brother Robert Mitchell" was married to an unidentified sister. Your compiler is inclined to side with Charles L. Conger in placing this Gershom as the son of Gershom Conger 1685.

And I hereby appoint my two sons liam and Enoch, my executors of this my last will and testament, and hereby revoke former wills, by me made. Glenn was md 10 Jan 1946 at Des Moines to LAURA E. HESS, b. 26 July 1914 near Liberty Center, Warren, Iowa, dau of Almo Hess & Clara Angelina Johnson. No issue. Laura resides at 1316 68th St, Des Moines, Iowa, 50311.

(Horace) Glenn Conger became a druggist like his father, and later became vice-president of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, serving five mid-western states. He donated his time to the American Red Cross all during World War II; was a member of the Des Moines Club, Greater Des Moines Committee, and many things.

On 2 Feb 1969 his widow Laura wrote to Beach Conger, saying, "I have separated some of Papa Conger's papers somewhat,but oh, what a job. With his Masonic-Commandery, Independent Telephone papers, N.W. Bell Tel. papers, his first wife's clippings (Edith Edmonds) and what little there is about her family,I find it interesting reading. Also the way they both (H.G. and Edith) helped in Red Cross during World War I and the Bond raising, food cards, etc., I must say the first Mrs. Conger was quite a lady to behold.

"In reading some of the information I've found Mr. Conger loved his first wife as much as he did me, but the circumstances were different. He worked while he was married to the first Mrs. Conger and he was retired when he married me.

"My husband was so fed up with his going to the Des Moines Club(cf which he was a charter member) even before the building was built--have a drink, a bite of lunch with some of his friends, playing cards all afternoon and pool. So therefore when we wer married he wanted me by him twenty-four hours per day.

"So we spent over 19 years together, twenty - four hours per day, 365 days pe year. Therefore you can see I miss him very much, but wouldn't want him back the way he was suffering at time of death. One thing his mind was keen throughout his life.He was blind the last ten years. The last thing I said to him was, "I love you, Papa'. He replied, 'I love you too, Mama'."

Mrs. Conger told Mrs. Leonard over the telephone that Glenn was exceptionally considerate. Once he and his first wife quarreled and he left the house for work without kissing her. He left his work in the middle of the morning to go back home and "make up". When he and Laura had differences, they never let the day end without kissing and apologizing.

(SION) ILIFF CONGER 1861 & WILLIE MOORE MALONE*******

ILIFF CONGER, b. 22 Dec 1861, d. 27 Dec 1933, son of SION MOORES CONGER 1810 & BALL NORTON, was md 14 June 1893 at Tullahoma, Tenn to WILLIE MOORE MALONE, b. 7 July 1866, Memphis, Tenn, dau of Charles Wesley Malone & Caroline Moore. Had issue:
1. Caroline Beall Conger.....18 Nov 1894-- --

Sion ILIFF Conger was educated at Barnitz school at Tullahoma, Tenn; entered apprenticeship in drug business with Dr. S. W. French in 1877, and later learned watchmaking. For a time he was with Spurlock-Neal Co., wholesale drugs of Nashville, and then became buyer for the University of the South.

Willie Moore Malone Conger's mother died of yellow fever in Memphis in 1878. Her father was a physician and went through the plague. He died about 1889. She lived with relatives in Louisville for some time and began teaching in 1891; then married.

Iliff was very active in trying to compile the Conger genealogy and gave much as sistance to Charles L. Conger of McIntosh, Minn. A letter from him dated 29 Aug 190 indicates the organization had been established and a publication was being consider.

"I have just learned with deep regret of the death of Charles G. B. Conger of th 22nd inst., and presume you have also been informed of the sad fatality. The secretary wrote me about it, and I also had a copy of the Washington Star, containing an account of his death.

"The secretary was in favor of returning the subscriptions, and making a settlement with the publishers of the Bulletin, and let the affairs of the Union drop, but am not at all in favor of it. It is a whole lot of trouble to get this sort of work started and some member of the family can undoubtedly undertake to carry on the work that has been inaugurated, and it is my impression that you are the man to do it.

"The addresses of his brothers, as given in the STAR, are Clinton B. Conger, Gra. Rapids, Mich, Norman B. Conger of Detroit, and Edmund D.R. Conger, Edenton, N-Cr. I presume that one of these would be his executor, and would willingly transfer his ge. ealogical notes to the one who would agree to carry on his work.

"I will write to them and recommend it, and you can specify your willingness to undertake the work, if not permanently, at least until a permanent editor can be fou. Make a proper memorial announcement of the death of our Chief in the Sept. number, a we will soon have things in working order."

The next letter from him, dated 13 Sep 1906, indicates that Charles L. had accep. ed the recommendation. In another letter Iliff mentioned that he had sketched some trees of the different branches.

ISAAC CONGER abt 1759 & SUSANNA BARRETT (2nd wife?)*******

ISAAC CONGER, b. abt 1759, prob Rowan co N-Cr, d. 1842 at McLean co, Illn, son JONATHAN CONGER 1732, md SUSANNA BARRETT,3 June 1798 at Logan Co, Ky (2nd wife?)

1. Jonathan Conger..... abt 1802-- 1856--Lydia Howell
2. Robert Barrett Conger..... 5 Mar 1804--21 Aug 1860--Nancy Howell
3. Benjamin Conger..... 5 Jun 1809-- --Nancy Warwick
4. Daughter..... -- --Mr. Snodgrass

The unidentified daughter had dau Lucinda Gales lvg in Allerton, Iowa, in 1911.

Isaac Conger settled near Bowling Green, Ky, moved then to Missouri; a few year later moved to Springfield, Illn and then to McLean county, Illn about 1830.

The history of McLean county, Illinois, has a feature of the Conger family th was written by Miss Emma Conger (b. 1841), daughter of Robert Conger, one of the earliest settlers of Stout's Grove. As is usually the case, "family tradition" w vary from statistical facts. Emma's story is as follows:

"Isaac Conger, an only son, was born in England, emigrated to America when you and settled near Mammoth Cave, Kentucky." (He was the son of Jonathan Conger 17 descendant of John Belconger.) "He married Susan Barnett (Barrett), and they h four sons, Jonathan, Robert, Benjamin and Nicholas.

"In 1829 the family emigrated to Illinois and settled at Stout's Grove, in wh is now McLean county. Isaac Conger and his wife died soon after coming here, at e of eighty-three (in 1842).

"Jonathan, Robert and Nicholas Conger made farms adjoining each other. Jonathan ried Lydia Howell, and they lived at Stout's Grove until the year 1848. Then they to Iowa, again to endure the hardships of a frontier life.

"His neighbors in McLean county tell a story of him, which shows the conditions things in the early days. He went on horseback to Bowling Green after a sack of . The wolves chased him, and he made as good time as some of the brave soldiers the Black Hawk war. When he had nearly reached home, he said to one of his neigh-s, 'I tell you, they were coming, and oh! They looked so savage--I barely escaped my life!' His fright was the subject of much merriment, for the old settlers not fear the wolves, and were anxious only to catch them.

Benjamin Conger was a great hunter. One day while out in the grove he saw sev-l deer coming towards him. As he had no gun with him he concealed himself behind ee. When they passed him he threw his knife with all force and killed one of m instantly.

Nicholas Conger improved his farm and built what was considered a nice house in se days. He was to have been married shortly afterwards, but was taken sick and d. This was in the year 1840. He was an industrious and promising young man and od citizen.

Robert Conger, my father, lived for thirty years on the farm, which he first roved in Stout's Grove. He died in the year 1860 at the age of fifty-six, leaving ife and nine children, three sons and six daughters.

"My father was an old school-mate of Abraham Lincoln in Kentucky, and my mother o attended school with Lincoln near Springfield, Illinois. When I was quite a ittle girl I was with father in Bloomington when he met Mr. Lincoln. The latter d: 'Howd' you do, Bob?' Father then told me that Lincoln was a lawyer in Spring-ild, and that he was a good man.

"Father once told me of Ephraim Stout, the man from whom Stout's Grove took its me. Shortly after my father's arrival in the country he happened to be at Mr. tout's cabin in the evening at supper time. Their table had no cloth on it, only n pewter plates and some mush and milk, which the family were eating. The old entleman was at the hearth eating with a large iron spoon out of a kettle.

"After the death of my father our family continued to live at the home place. ve years after his death my mother and one of my sisters died. The family remained nother two years longer. Then our house caught fire and burned to the ground, and n family separated.

"The associations of our early home in McLean county have made it very dear to all. It was there we listened to our parents as they told us the hardships f their early lives. I have often heard my mother speak of her fear of the Indians d she would add, that notwithstanding all her trials, those early days were full happiness. It was great sport for her to go to the sugar camp and help make maple ar, and eat it, too, I suppose. She would tell how she spun her dozen cuts of n in one day and did her housework besides. Some young ladies would blush to el this of their mothers, but I refer to it with pride, for labor was no disgrace nthose days and ought not to be now."

SAC CONGER 1779 & MARY MOORES*******

ISAAC CONGER, b. 8 Nov 1779, Rowan co N-Cr, d. 4 Mar 1857, son of JOHN CONGER abt 74 & MARY ROSS, was md to his first cousin, Mary Moores, b. 15 Nov 1782, Rowan Co, 4 Mar 1857 (the same day as her husband?), dau of Henry Moores & Jane Ross. Ch b. an co:

5. Sion Moores Conger.....10 Mar 1810--27 Jan 1874--Beall Norton

6. Felix B. Conger.....14 Dec 1812-- 4 Dec 1834--unmd

All died without issue except Sion Moores Conger.

Isaac Conger left his home in Rowan co. N-Cr after the death of his mother, an lived for a short time with his uncle and aunt (Henry Moores and Jane(Ross).He marrie Mary, his cousin, and went to Tennessee. There they settled in Lincoln county, whic was a cane-brake wilderness.

Isaac and Mary were both deeply religious and members of the Methodist church Their home was about seven miles from Fayetteville and their nearest neighbor was fo miles away. Jane Brown Moores (Mary's youngest sister, b. 1800) lived with them an died a spinster in 1858.

Isaac became convinced that he must preach the gospel, and so decided. He mad preparation and was licensed by the ELK Conference in 1811. The diaries kept while at this work indicate that his wife strongly opposed his missionary work, which great ly depressed him. He was deeply impressed with responsibility of saving sinners and persisted in the work while his health would permit--preaching and teaching wherever he went. He preached three or four sermons a day, often two or three hours long--all interspersed with taking in new converts, excommunicating reprobates and riding horse back fifteen or twenty miles. His usual circuit covered the territory now occupied b eight or more counties, but he preached at times in almost every settlement in th state. It took thirty days to ride the circuit.

After a year of riding the circuit, Isaac turned again to his farm. The last notation in the diary: "Nov 19--started to Georgia for my workman to finish the build ings. Got there in 10 days and returned in a few days over a month. I lost a __ hun dred dollar mare and my wagon had liked to run over me but got but little hurt. Lande safe home the 22nd of December; find my family in health". This trip must have bee made to his brother's home in Cobb county, Georgia.

Though deeply fond of his homestead, Isaac seemed to have had an inquiring mind and enjoyed travel. He also took occasional trips on horseback through Kentucky, In diana, and Illinois and back through Kentucky and Tennessee. One interesting trip h undoubtedly made was to his brother, John B. Conger, at Grand Gulf, Mississippi. Thi particular brother was the owner of 10,000 acres of rich delta land with not a hill o it. His land was worked by a thousand slaves. To house them, there was a mile-lon stretch of cabins on the plantation.

Isaac obtained a government grant for about 2,000 acres of land. There is a fami ly tradition that Isaac and Mary journeyed to Tennessee with little else besides "Pigin', a pot, and a johnny cake board." They lived in a log cabin until about 180 when he had a brick house built for his growing family. This house is in use and ha been extended--and is probably the oldest house in Lincoln county, Tenn. (by Mrs. Il Conger, Rt 2, Louisville, Tenn, July 1967--filed with a diary by Isaac Conger in th State Archives at Nashville, Tenn.)

Isaac employed a brick mason and together they built the house, using clay fro the front yard to mold the oversize bricks for the structure. The two big second-flo bedrooms were not connected by a door. One was for boys and the other for girls--an they had separate stairways. Now (1965), with the addition of extra rooms over th years, it is a 14-room house, but all the woodwork, even the windowsills (made of black locust) of the original house is still intact. With 12-foot-high ceilings and foot-thick walls, the house is still in a state of perfect preservation. There is n need for air-conditioning. (Feature story on his great grand-son, Dixie Lamar Conge in THE CHATTANOOGA TIMES, August 2, 1965.)

"The original house consisted of four rooms of the two-story brick part (still i use). The one story frame was added before the Civil War. It contained two rooms an an entrance hall, and I assume the porches were added at the same time, because th ornamental appointments seem to be in keeping. Also I assume that the original kitch was still in use. According to the customs of the day, the kitchen was separate, an to the rear of the new addition. Some time after the Civil War the old kitchen wa removed and a new kitchen, dining room, butler's pantry, etc. was added behind th new frame building.

"The bricks for the two story and full basement were burnt at the site, and I ame the dirt from the basement (rock lined) was used for the brick. The old lime was discovered a few years ago about a quarter mile S.E. of the building.The sand to be hauled in from Elk River some 8 miles away.

"Over the years, little changes have been made in the original brick portion, ex- large glass panes were substituted for the 8" x 10" glass sashes, and the floors covered with hardwood flooring. Most of the window frames and doors and door aes are still sound. They are carved out of solid black locust." (John B. Conger, occupant of the house.

A paper called TEMPO ran a feature story in October 1967, in which John B. Conger interviewed about the house. He explained that "pigin'" was a leather bucket, and oail referred to by Mrs. Iliff Conger above was probably made of either wood or as.

Isaac first built a lean-to on the creek, now called Hamestring Creek, which me- drs through the farm. The area was mostly wooded then and extremely rugged. The ce and log house which the young Isaac built for his family stands directly behind comfortable home constructed later. The rocks which line the ground floor of that rt house are cut identically, inside and out. Rubble was used to fill between them. ls of the house are two feet thick.

Forming the one room second floor are hand-hewn logs 40 feet long,15 to 18 inches , and about 8 inches thick. They are carefully notched and placed. The house it- measures 20 feet by 40 feet. On the lower floor is a large open fireplace in h Mrs. Conger did the cooking. The floor was dirt,and small windows were placed he stone portion of the walls.

Isaac Conger evidently had his mind set on making housekeeping as easy as possible his wife. He installed "running water." Taking two-by-fours, the young settler a one-half by one-inch groove on one side. He did the same to another piece of od, put them together and water flowed from a nearby spring through a one-inch pipe the house.

Building the new house was a slow process, taking time out to make crops, to lo- stones for the basement, and assemble crews of workmen. In 1813, according to c's diary, he went to Georgia in search of more workmen. The house was finally ished in 1815. It had two rooms downstairs and two bedrooms upstairs, as mentioned the boys on one side and the girls on the other. The kitchen, added a little later to one side of the main house. Walls of the house are 14 inches thick. Hugh fire- ces with fancy mantles were put in both rooms downstairs. The front door,still in original state, has fancy woodworking and a glass pane.

After the main house was finished, the kitchen was added and a brick smokehouse constructed. The smokehouse is now used as a refrigerated vault to hold cured hams ch John B. Conger sells.

Two more wings have been added to the house, and it now has 10 rooms and 2 baths. Conger house has had running water throughout the house since 1901. Several pieces furniture have been retained by family members over the years, and the Congers have ed other antiques to keep the house as authentic as possible.

During the Civil War, Union soldiers "stripped the farm bare". However, the farm ses weren't burned. Before the war Sion Conger was quite a wealthy man. Property luation records showed the Sion had nine slaves valued at $1,000 each and property ued at $14,000 with between 1000 and 1200 acres.

But things changed. After the Civil War, Sion's wife developed poor eyesight. She t to Dresden for treatments, and letters found in the house written to her by Sion mised he would send her $10 "if he could get it together."

Four generations of Congers have owned the property. After Sion died, the farm owned by his son, Dixie Lamarr Conger. Dixie's son, John Beall Conger,is the pres- owner, and he has promised to sell part of it to his son, John Beall Conger, Jr. The house is located on Route 5, Fayetteville, Tenn, 37334.

Ivan Albert Conger wrote on 23 Aug 1969: "I was the one who gathered all the in-oration for the first copy of our Conger History--Descendants of Job. A. Conger. It as published in March of 1959 after about two years of gathering information Some f the chapters were written by members of that particular branch and then I put them l together and had them published. Seven of us advanced the money for printing and ha we got our money back as they were sold. We still have approximately 30 copies et and with the proceeds from these we plan to use on getting a family tree made up o distribution.

"Genealogy is very interesting and can also be very nerve-racking, due to the many orces of information and the many different dates for one single part. I enjoy it v much but do not have much time for it. I am especially interested because I now m the president of our Shiawassee County Historical Society. This all ties very lcely with genealogy. I think it is just wonderful that there have been so many mem-e of the family over the years who have had so much of an interest in getting this nformation all put together."

On 28 Oct 1970 he reported that the descendants of Job Conger & Harriet Jewell met this house in June for the 8th year in a row. He writes, "The first year (1963) we a 20 people present--an increase of 8 over 1962. We had 76 this year, an increase f 20 over last year. I had put in a swimming pool. We had many new ones for the 1st ie and many who hadn't been to a reunion for a good many years. I was just over-ood! They all love to come here to our home. We have a large back yard and plenty fshade. Have a park right behind me if some want to go play there. Everyone really a a ball and says they 'didn't know what they were missing but will be back again'. ah year they vote to come back without even asking if they can. They just insist! elove it even if it is a lot of work. Besides, with results like that--20 to 76-- o could we ever think of refusing?"

JAMES CONGER 1734 & HANNAH H. WARD?*******

JAMES CONGER was one of the three unidentified Congers of his period; namely Jos eph of New Fairfield, Conn, John of Hanover, Morris, N-Jr and James, which by a pro cess of elimination indicates that they were sons of Joseph Conger 1692.

The only record we have concerning James Conger is not found in New Jersey, but i taken from the 1896 report of the New York State Historian, page 921, which states th James Conger was born in New Jersey about 1734; and that he enlisted 23 Apr 1759 i Capt. George Brewerton's Juniors Militia Co. in New York City. The muster role des cribes him as "James Conger, laborer, born in New Jersey, 5 feet 5 inches tall, rou face, brown hair, gray eyes and brown complexion."

Whether or not he ever returned to New Jersey, or what became of him at the expi ation of his enlistment is unknown, although there is a possibility that he returned New Jersey, and was the Conger (given name unknown) who married the widow of Lab Ward. This widow of Laban Ward involves either James Conger or some other unidentifi Conger, whose given name is unknown, mention of which is as follows:

"The Hanover Church records state that Hannah Hoppen married Laban Ward on 24 Ju 1754. This would indicate that her birth was about 1735. We have no more concerni Laban Ward except that his widow married someone named Conger. On 3 Oct 1794 we s that Hannah Conger, widow of Laban Ward, deceased, deeded some land in Morris count New Jersey, to Daniel Tunis. The given name of her husband is not mentioned. Nor there anything further concerning either of them, and we have no records of anyone w might have been their descendant.

From the Akron Beacon Journal, 8 June 1965, "WASP COMMANDED BY NATIVE OF AKRON. A native Akronite played a good-sized role in the history making Gemini 4 Space shot Capt.James W. Conger, a West High School graduate, commanded the aircraft carrier WAS which picked up the Astronauts.

Conger is the son of the late Latham Hubbard Conger, and the grandson of Akron pioneers Colonel and Mrs. A. L. Conger. His mother, Mrs. Latham Conger, now lives i son, Mass., with her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Nichols.

Conger was graduated from West High in 1937. He spent the next year at Bullis chol, Silver Spring, Md., preparing for the Naval Academy. He was appointed to Annois in 1938 by Congressman-at-large Harold G. Moseir of Cleveland.

"For two years he held the Ohio high school 220 yard free style swimming championni and the State YMCA title for the same event. He was graduated in 1942 from the avl Academy. After World War II he was stationed at Norfolk, Va., as executive officr of an air-craft squadron on the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt. Since then he has ered in several assignments. He has been in command of the WASP about a year."

From the New York Herald Tribune, 8 June 1965,in speaking of the Gemini team: hy said very little except that they were very damned glad to be aboard,' said Adm. illiam W. McCormack, recover-operation commander. He and WASP Capt. James W. Conger er the first persons on the ship to welcome the spacemen aboard the carrier, which il be their home for the next three days.

"Adm. McCormack and Capt. Conger escorted the astronauts between a double line of arine honor guards and down a red carpet to a door leading below. The space twins alked with their arms slung around each other's shoulders and smiled as they left the ec:."

When asked about his part in this event, Jim wrote on 30 June 1970: "The carrier as WASP and it was the first manned recovery of The Gemini, or Twin Series (known as -4). As a result we received almost as much publicity as the first trip around the oci. It was the longest mission in space at that time and at a time when the doctors eren't very sure whether man could survive weightlessness. It was also the mission hen we had the 'space walk', a first by Ed White." In this letter he mentioned not aving seen Ned (Clayton Ned Conger, also a Naval officer) since about 1960.

ERRY RONALD CONGER 1936*******

JERRY RONALD CONGER was born 3 Mar 1936 at Rosiclare, Ill, son of OTHEL CONGER 905 & HAZEL FERRELL. Res: Box 571, Rosiclare, Ill, 62982. Phone 285-6261.

In one of Jerry's typewritten letters to your compiler, he mentioned that he wa handicapped as a result of an accident. He classified himself as a writer, and that h was a Methodist.

Having lost Beach Conger as a collaborator on the Conger book,Mrs. Leonard though perhaps Jerry could take over in the event something happened to her before the boo was finished. She approached him on this,and asked him to tell more about himself, fo all one could assume from his letter was that he was a "Methodist writer." His answer dated 15 May 1969, reads in part: "I am sorry to be so long in answering. I have t depend on one of my aunts, and she's pretty slow--which I hope isn't a family trait.

"My handicap is quadriplegia resulting from a broken neck in a diving accident. type with a mouth stick, as I can't use my hands. It's pretty slow but it gets th work done. I'm a novelist and short story writer,so far unsuccessful and unpublished, although I prefer to be called a writer. Please don't refer to me as a 'Methodis Writer', as it implies I write religious material. I live with my mother and we'r supported largely by my brothers. My hobbies are reading, writing, nature--practicall everything. I consider myself a failure who's still trying; so I like your succinc description of me. It says neither too little nor too much.

"I'm flattered that you think I'm qualified to carry on your work. Unfortunately, writing eats up all my time. I will say your records would be safe with me; if I coul not find myself capable or physically able to carry on, I would certainly never res until I found someone who was. I'm certain, though, that there are Congers bette qualified and with a more optimistic life expectancy than myself."

With Jerry's permission, the following stories are submitted:

TIGER

Tiger was always afraid of guns. His fear was more than instinctive. To be sure he had keen instincts; they partly accounted for his prowess as a rabbit dog. But re garding guns, Tiger developed a certain knowledge. He knew that a pointed gun deliver death, and Tiger feared death like every creature does.

He did adapt to guns, though. If the gun wasn't pointed at him, Tiger performe superbly. He could bring a rabbit around into the line of fire with the beast beagl But when we boys pointed the guns at him,as we sometimes did to tease him, Tiger woul cringe in terror and slink off.

Where Tiger came from or what his pedigree was, we never knew. As a pup, he ap peared at Willy Burke's house and adopted him. Will probably named him Tiger becaus it conjures everything he was not; savage, blood-thirsty, vicious. Tiger's gentl nature quickly won him the affection of the neighborhood.

One would see him, his brown ears flopping, loping on his short legs at Willy' heels. He went everyplace Willy did and a few places Willy couldn't. If Willy wa carrying a gun, Tiger would be skipping along--just hitting the high places. Once i the field, Tiger would do his beagle impersonation.

He definitely wasn't purebred--even if he did show some of the physical character istics and all the hunting skill. His huntsmanship, in fact, came to our attentio quite accidentally one crisp autumn day when he insisted on hunting with us. Willy an I did our best to discourage him, but Tiger would have none of it. Soon, he starte rounding up the rabbits,and we'd see the gray spot on his rump bounding at a liesurel distance behind a cottontail. If our volley dropped his quarry, Tiger would whimpe around our feet, rolling his eyes, before resuming the hunt.

But Tiger had a powerful enemy: Willy's mother never liked or accepted him. She smiled her tolerance as long as he earned his keep by stocking the refrigerator wit fresh rabbit. Her smile faded when a Coke truck struck Tiger, breaking his right fore paw.

"Willy, why'n't you take him to the vet?" I said, the first time I saw him afte the accident.

Willy shrugged. "Mom says we don't have the money," he sighed.

"Wouldn't take much. It'll never heal 'less there's a splint on it."

"I know, but Mom says I can't."

I can still see poor Tiger dragging the broken foot, hopping on his other foreleg. Perhaps nothing in the whole world is sadder than a hunting dog on three legs. Tiger grew morose. Hunting was simply his whole life.

"Mom wants me to shoot him," Willy confessed one day.

I watched Tiger hobble across the yard. "How come?"

"She says he eats a lot."

"Tig's a good dog."

"I know."

Tiger eventually wore the flesh off his broken paw. When summer arrived, flies became his constant companions. Like vultures, they settled on his festering forepaw, and he hobbled from one place to another in futile attempts to escape his tormentors. One hot day, I snatched my rifle off the wall and marched to Willy's house to see if he wanted to go crow hunting. Tiger was napping in the shade of a rosebush. He raised his head when he saw my .22 and struggled to his feet, the cloud of flies singing. He yawned and limped toward me.

Willy ran down the back steps. "Hi."

"Tiger's really miserable with that foot, isn't he?" I replied.

Willy stared at the ground. "Mom's still on me to shoot him. She says she'll get rid of him someway if I don't. She even said she'd poison him."

"That's an awful way t' go."

Tiger was standing before us looking up with his large brown eyes.

"Probably be better to be shot," Willy said. He ran into the house and got his rifle. We strode up the road with Tiger hobbling behind.

Mrs. Burke ran out on the porch. "Don't bring that dog back!"

As we entered the woods, Tiger stopped and sniffed the air. We turned due east toward the river. The water glittered through the trees. A covey of quail rocketed out of our path. Tiger danced on his three legs.

Beyond the trees, rows of corn stretched away toward the river. The corn stood tall and green, and the glossy leaves rattled in the breeze. We trudged the soft sides of an erosion gulley that cut across the south quarter of the field. Over my left shoulder, I saw the ancient oak towering over the know some distance to the north.

"Willy, let's run and hide from Tiger. We can shoot 'im from ambush."

"Okay," he said, and we sped away. Tiger raised his head and watched us go. We clambered up the sides of the gulley and skirted the edge of the corn field. We hid in a clump of water maples and aimed our .22s down the path. We waited a long time. Tiger came hobbling along the crooked path.

"Let's kill him clean," Willy whispered.

Tiger rounded the last clump of grass on the periphery of the corn field. He stopped, raised his nose, and sniffed the air. Then he saw our rifles aimed at him. He cocked his head.

"Now!" Willy said.

I was squeezing the trigger with dead aim at the imaginary spot between Tiger's eyes when Willy's rifle cracked. Tiger reflexively jerked his head in that split-second between shots. Tiger wheeled and retreated.

Willy and I sprang out for a clear shot. I reloaded almost as fast as Willy pumped the bold on his rifle. An uncrippled dog would have been out of sight. I squeezed off another shot and hit Tiger in the rump. He yelped, shuddered, but stumbled on. Willy fired again and missed.

"Didn't you hit him?" he hissed.

"Yes!" I ran after Tiger as I reloaded. He was moving faster than he had since the truck hit him. When I closed the bolt, I kneeled and put another bullet in his back. He dropped his rump close to the ground but kept moving. I ran after him in hopes of finishing him before he suffered too much. I caught him at the gulley.

He had made it to the far side. He was curled on a bed of young green grass, beneath the stark trunks of two Chinese elms.

Tiger raised his head and stared at me. He was fighting to stay alive; but even Tiger, it was obvious that he was through. He rolled his eyes at me.

I don't think there was any fear in him now. His eyes didn't plead for me to spare him. They seemed to say, "Finish what you started." I slid a cartridge into the chamber and closed the bolt. Tiger watched me as I aimed at the imaginary spot between his eyes. His head toppled over as I fired.

Willy seemed a little peeved at first. I'd put three shots into Tiger. He had missed twice. We pulled Tiger's body into the gulley and heaped stones over it.

I think of Tiger often. I wonder if we had the right to decide he shouldn't live. Alive, Tiger had suffering; but dead, he had nothing--just nothing.

POPCORN

Perhaps nothing in the whole world tasted better than hot buttered popcorn. Johnny Evans could sit through a single feature at the Apex Theater and eat two dime boxes of popcorn without mourning the loss of twenty cents. As he stood in a daze before the eighth grade class, Johnny thought popcorn even more appealing at the moment than Becky Mason, smiling warmly at him from across the room.

"And, Johnny," Mrs. Singer said, "you will pop the corn during the first term or two. Remember that the profits go for our class trip to St. Louis next spring."

Johnny sat down with a painful thud. Becky caught his eyes and looked out the window. Jay Snow and Willy Burke sneered. Johnny glanced at the clock. Only two hours till he would go to the cafeteria. He flipped the pages of his math book. He hated math like he loved popcorn.

It seemed like two days before Mrs. Singer motioned for him to leave. He made plenty of noise putting his books away and dragged his feet to the door. He glanced back to make certain Willy and Jay saw him. He shut the door and raced down the halls.

The principal loitered before the shiny new popcorn machine. He rubbed his bald head. "Now, Johnny, there's really nothing to it." I have the butter from the cafeteria; melted it here. Pour a cup-ful in the popper; dump in the corn." He talked on and on, making a simple operation as complex as binomials.

"Okay, Mr. Dulles." Johnny poured in the butter, dumped in the corn and waited. He sweltered behind the popper. Before long, the puffed white kernels exploded from the popper. Johnny gulped a mouthful of saliva.

Mr. Dulles still leaned against the wall, watching the boy at work. He smiled and nodded. "Good job. Now, Johnny, we don't care if you take a few bites; in fact, fix yourself a sack. Just don't eat all the profits." He waved and walked back up the stairs to work.

Johnny tossed a handful of hot popcorn into his mouth. Saliva flooded his mouth and put out the fire. He blinked back tears. He popped corn, ate some, popped corn, ate some more.

He ate dinner early, with the cafeteria staff. Because the popcorn machine was some distance down the hall, he sat where he could see it as he ate. He left the pan heating to keep the popcorn warm. In addition to the cafeteria 's excellent peach cobbler, he wolfed a little popcorn for dessert.

After the kids ate, they filed by the popcorn machine. Johnny had no time now to flip popcorn to his mouth. His younger brother, Bill, lingered at the end of the line. He beamed at Johnny and marched up for his popcorn. Johnny filled a sack and glanced around. He poured a little melted butter on the popcorn. Bill snatched the sack and held out his nickel. Johnny picked a nickel from the change tray and reached for Bill's hand. He clinked the same nickel into the change tray with the volume of a quarter. Bill grinned and stole outside with his sack of buttered popcorn.

Johnny whistled to himself. He popped some more corn in anticipation of the high school crowd. Popping corn was a cinch. Eating it was a secret rite.

Willy and Jay came shuffling down the hall. They grinned and jostled each other. "Hey, Johnny, how 'bout some o' that high-priced popcorn?" Willy piped, with a devilish gleam in his eye.

Johnny sacked up some popcorn. He didn't do it as he would have for, say, a fifth grader. He packed the popcorn into the sacks until the seams threatened to burst and luffy kernels creaked under the strain.

Plenty of butter," Jay said.
ohnny poured the butter -- hot, rich, and golden -- until the sacks were trans - et. He thrust them at Willy and Jay. Willy dug in his pocket and held the clasped over Johnny's outstretched palm. Willy unclasped his hand, and Johnny's palm was empty. Johnny jangled the change tray.
he three boys smiled at each other. "Big profit on that sale," Willy hooted.
ohnny laughed. "Big profit." He sacked up some more popcorn.
ecky Mason ambled down the hall just as the high school crowd streamed into the eria. "Hey, Becky, want some popcorn?"
he edged over to him. "Didn't bring any money."
Well, I'll give you a sack for a kiss."
'Huh!" she laughed. "The class can't go t' St. Louis on my kisses."
'I can."
'Oh, Johnny, you say the sweetest things! It's too bad you're not serious."
'But, Becky, I am. I'm mad about you."
'I know what you're mad about." She started walking away.
'Here, Becky." He handed her a sack. "Do you like butter on it?" She shook her "No". He clinked the change tray. Becky walked away, smiling and eating popcorn.
Autumn turned out yellow and sweet. Brisk winds in late October lashed the dry es from the trees. The hills lay exposed in a somber nudity. One could see most aynton across the divested hills. Johnny often stood in the eastern door of the e school and gazed out through the crisp air. But popcorn sales generally kept him
. He stood aiding the class treasury a couple of hours each day.
Snow finally powdered the hills around Paynton. Johnny's hot popcorn won him ral warm new friendships. Even Bill gave him less trouble at home--for a kid bro-e.
One day Mr. Dulles called him into his office. He massaged his balding forehead.
o a problem, Johnny," he sighed, staring at long columns of figures in a ledger.
Popcorn sales just aren't bringing in th' profit they were s'pose to." He looked up ohnny with a pained expression.
Johnny stepped back. "Can't understand it, sir."
"Nor can I," said Mr. Dulles, running his eyes back down the column of figures.
Strange thing. Maybe the popcorn-machine company oversold us. Eh?" Johnny gripped the edge of the desk, staring at the stark figures. He thought of il.'s smiling face, Becky's radiance, Willy's sneer, and Jay's laugh.
"Eight dollars under what we should have. That's a lot of popcorn. One vendor oldn't eat that much." Mr. Dulles smiled right up into Johnny's face.
"Well, darn! All that work for the class!"
"You've been a hard worker, Johnny. I'm proud of your self-sacrifice. Not many oys would have worked so hard."
Johnny's arms hung loosely at his sides. He didn't know what to do with his hands, o he rubbed his palms together until the heat became unbearable. "I must have failed ehow, Mr. Dulles."
"Well, maybe it isn't that bad, son."
Johnny gazed at his scuffed shoes. He shuffled them about. "I can go t' work af-e school, maybe. Make up the difference."
"If you haven't done anything dishonest --"
"I didn't steal any o' the money, sir."
"Why, Johnny, I know you better 'n that! I wasn't accusing you of stealing. If here's a mistake, it's an honest one."
"Thank you, sir." Johnny shuffled his feet. "I'll go t' work after school. I'll ke up the difference."
"Why, I think that's highly commendable."
Johnny stalked from the office. Everyone commented that the popcorn was especially od that day--even if Bill and Becky and Willy and Jay did have to come up with their espective nickels. Bill growled. Becky blushed. Willy and Jay protested. But the change tray held twenty cents more than usual.

Johnny shoveled snow from sidewalks, raked dead grass and cans off Steel's side of the alley, collected empty drink bottles and sold them to Stacey's Grocery, and emptied ashes every afternoon for old Mrs. Dwight. After twenty-one days of odd jobs, Johnny whistled his way to school with a pocket jingling full of eight dollars.

"Here it is," he proclaimed, emptying his pocket on Mr. Dulles' desk. "Every penny of it."

"Why, this is extraordinary!"

"No, I don't think so, sir. You see, I gave away too much free popcorn t' my friends." He turned and strode into the hall. Just before he closed the door, he saw Mr. Dulles rubbing his forehead.

JOB CONGER, b. 19 June 1694, d. 1758, son of JOHN BELCONGER & SARAH CAWOOD, was md RY KEZIAH THORP, dau of Joseph Thorp and Hannah Richards.

Various records have stated that Job was married first to Mary Percy or Pierce, as wife Keziah was mentioned in his will. According to the evidence just found among assortment of notes, your compiler is of the opinion Job had but one wife.

Job Conger's will, dated 30 Jan 1749 at Woodbridge, Rahway Neck, East Jersey, re- to himself as "Yeoman".(A freeholder; a gentleman farmer)

To wife Kezia he left one half of his moveable estate. To his oldest son Job he but ten pounds, as money to buy a plantation which had already been given him. The nce of his moveable estate he divided among his daughters, the married ones to have l as much as the single ones, they having had their marriage portions.

To his sons Enoch and Moses he left "my farm land in Woodbridge, Rahway Neck, where w dwell", when they are 18, but they could not sell same until they were 30. The utors named were wife Keziah, son Enoch and friend William Moore; witnesses Job c, Benjamin Thorp and Thomas Chapman. Will proved 17 Feb 1758.

In 1715 Job and his brother Joseph were privates in Col. Thomas Farmer's New Jer- y Militia Regiment, apparently at the time in the service of the Colony of New York.

Job, Jr. removed to Albany county, New York; Enoch removed to Dutchess county, New r and on to Danby, Vermont; Moses remained in Woodbridge until 1771 when he offered s land for sale.

JOB CONGER, b. abt 1728 at Rahway, N-Jr, son of JOB CONGER 1694 & KEZIAH THORP, was bt 1750 to LYDIA CODDINGTON, dau of Benjamin & Mary Coddington.

There has been a question as to whether Job was married to Lydia Coddington or r Carrington. Dally's History of Woodbridge gives the list of 21 children born to jamin and Mary Coddington, in which their 7th child Lydia married Job Conger, Jr. 8th child Zillah (Berzillah) married Enoch Conger. His younger brother Moses went with them but after several years Moses moved to Danby, Vermont, and Job moved to Albany county, New York. (From Franklin Barker Conger's notes)

* Keziah seems to have been a female name, but a U.S. Research bulletin lists the children of Keziah Conger & E. Hungerford, indicating Keziah was a male. Perhaps this was the Hezekiah Conger bapt 23 May 1753 at Elizabeth, N-Jr.

Job Conger was named as one of the executors of his father's will, dated 19 Feb 1777. In 1778 a roll of the Freemen of Danby was placed on the Town Records and in this list we find the name of Job Conger and his brother Enoch Conger.

Williams' "History and Map of Danby", page 129, states that Job Conger, whose name appears on the roll of 1778, settled on a farm in Danby, and that he was a brother of Enoch and Gershom Conger, but the latter is not listed as a son of Job.

An old land lease, now in the possession of William Pierce Conger of Burlington, Vermont, is a rather interesting document. This lease was from Len Allen to Asa Weyman of Georgia, Vermont, for lot 50 in the town of St. Albans, Chittenden county, Vermont, dated 15 Nov 1788 at "one Barleycorn for each acre the first four years; then three pence per acre per year, increasing one penny per acre per year until the amount was 9 pence per acre; then 9 pence per acre in perpetuity. All taxes to be paid by lessee."

This lease was transferred to Joseph Kellogg, no date. And transferred by him to John Kellogg, 20 Apr 1791, who in turn transferred it to Job Conger and Samuel Niles, no date. On 8 Feb 1798 Samuel Niles sold his interest in the lease to Job Conger for 60 pounds lawful money. This sale and transfer was witnessed by Potter and Noel Conger, sons of Job Conger.

On 13 Dec 1821 Job Conger transferred this lease to his son Reuben Conger for one dollar love and affection, reserving the right of firewood and pasture, to himself and wife.

Abel and Oliver Conger signed quit claim deeds for ½ of property inheritance after Job's death. Abel's was dated 14 Feb 1829 at St. Albans, Vt, stating his residence as Bangor, Franklin county, N-Yr. Oliver's was dated 24 Dec 1828 in St. Albans, residence Bangor, also.

Achsah Conger and husband Jacob Beeman are buried at Hinsdillville Cemetery, in Bennington, Vt. Jacob died 15 Feb 1868, age 88.

Robah Potter was the daughter of Capt. Oliver Potter of Danby who commanded a company in Col. Seth Warner's Regiment in an expedition sent by the Colonies against Cann 1775.

Susan Conger was not listed with this family in Charles L. Conger's records, but information given about her was found in the Hulburd family records, stating she he daughter of Job and Robah. If sush is the case, Mary Conger born 5 May 1785 have been born prematurely.
he following story was compiled by Marion Conger Barton:
All three brothers, Job (1755-1827), Gershom (1767-1837), and Asher(1761 - 1813) gr took part in the Revolutionary War. They served in Capt. Stephen Calkin's Co. Cl. Ira Allen's Regiment in Oct 1780, with Gershom and Asher serving in Capt. Ebe- e White's Co. in Col. Ira Allen's Regiment of Militia at Castleton in Oct 1771. tof the service seen by Vermonters in the Revolutionary War was for short periods tme - when there was a definite task to be performed or when danger threatened. en they were discharged so they could go home and look after their families and work ei farms. By law the militia could be called into service at any time.
In September 1778 the New York Congress had ordered the purchase of coarse green ot in order to provide a coat for each member of the regiment of GreenMountain Boys th red cloth for facings, and to procure two hundred twenty-five coats of a large te (From Crockett's "History of Vermont Vo. 1).
Their rate of pay was 2 pounds per month with travel rate at four pence per mile. 185 or 1786 American money was based on the decimal system but everyone was so ac- stmed to thinking in terms of pounds, shillings, and pence it couldn't be changed ernight. Vermont coined her own money from 1785 to 1788.
Job and Robah moved to St. Albans in 1800 via Plattsburg, N-Yr. They and their reen children were in the St. Albans census in 1800. Job was on the Grand List for 875 - improved land being assessed at $1.75 an acre and polls at $20. Militia and vary horses were exempt. A military troop of horses came into being soon after 1800 as kept up until 1828, the year after Job died.
Only the officers wore uniforms. They cut dashing figures in a yellow cap with id band and red feather, red flannel jacket, and yellow breeches. Capt. Jason Kel- gg Conger, Potter's son, was one of these officers. Later on he served on the North- n frontier in January and February of 1838. By 1828 with a population of 2400, three mpnies were maintained. Every man 18 years of age had to obey the warning by being esnt and armed in some way--guns, poles, whip stocks or ax-helves. Many brought dfish bound to their knapsacks for lunch. They engaged in sham fights to be prepared case of the real thing. (From "A Centennial History of St. Albans" by H.K.Adams.)
When Job died 3 Nov 1827 age 73, he was probably taken to the cemetery in a lumber gc since there were no hearses until about 1840. I wonder if the early custom of e 'tolling bell" was followed: three times three for a man, two times three for a ma and two times two for a child. The bell afterwards would toll the age, with the Lfy window opened toward that part of the town from which the death came.(H.K.Adams)
Soon after Job's death Robah went to live with her daughter, Sophia Webb, in Monk- , where she died 2 Dec 1834.
The friendly relations that characterized the lives and dealings of the people in rthern Vermont and above the border in Canada didn't extend to or exist between the governments. Great Britain was jealous of the rapid growth of strength and power the U.S. and committed many offensive acts--among which was searching American ves- ls and under the guise of claiming the personnel on board to be subjects of the king, rcing them into the service of Great Britain, even against well established proof of ar identity. This resulted in an Embargo Act March 12, 1808, prohibiting commercial ercourse with Great Britain and her dependencies. This worked a particular hardship orthern Vermonters who depended largely on this trade. As a result there was ex- nsive smuggling carried on. Georgia became known as "Hell's Gate" among the smug- ers. On one occasion intelligence reached customs officers in Georgia that a gang of uglers would attempt to pass through during the night. A group, including Potter d Reuben Conger, had assembled at a Mr. Blodgett's house about one half mile south of e town line on the main road from St. Albans to Georgia to intercept and overhaul er.

A large party of "diversionists" gathered at the tavern about one mile south o St. Albans to distract government officers so the smugglers could get by on the othe route. The government party, seeing themselves badly outnumbered, kept quiet but tha didn't satisfy the raiders. They beat Blodgett up badly, bound the Congers hand an foot, piled them into a wagon and started on their way. After a few anxious hours wh they were taken across the river at Hyde's Ferry they were finally rescued by the Pos party.

The Conger family was destined to become inter-related to the Post family by mar riage at a little later date. (from "History of Franklin & Grand Isle Counties" t Aldrich, and Hemenway's "Gazetteer")

Some time around 1811 Job Conger became the Methodist class leader in the St Albans area, an appointment he held for many years, holding the meetings in the hou in the winter and the barn in summer. This was about a mile west of the town.

Two of his sons-in-law were prominent Methodist preachers in Vermont-- John Stratton, Lorinda's husband, traveled the St. Albans circuit in 1812. He served ma areas, since, at that time, rules governing Methodist itinerancy required, "that t minister be appointed but one year at a time and in no case to exceed two years in s cession at the same place." He was presiding elder of the Burlington district, and pointment on the St. Albans circuit in 1818, and became presiding elder of what w then called the Champlain district embracing all western Vermont and much more in 18 The residence of the presiding elder of the ChamplainDistrict became Charlotte in 18 and Rev.Stratton resided there at some time between 1819 and when the parsonage burn in 1830.

A note from Mt. Holly in 1824 states "the church has been favored with the labo of many able and talented preachers,among whom may be named such men as John B. Stra ton ----." Rev. Jacob Beeman, Achsah's husband, is mentioned frequently and favorab in the reports of circuit preachers. A class in Bristol united with a class in Monk and in 1813 a class was formed at the village of Bristol with Jacob Beeman holding first quarterly meeting when in charge of the Charlotte Circuit in 1816. A temperan meeting in Feb 21, 1842, addressed by Rev. Beeman resulted in 20 names obtained,ple ing abstinence.

No doubt it was through visiting her sisters' families when they lived in the sonage at Charlotte that Sophia met her future husband, Daniel Webb.

In the cold year of 1816 (frost every month) a number of inhabitants of St. Alb clubbed together and sent Pierpont Brigham to Chambly in Canada to purchase a sl load of wheat. This was delivered to St. Albans Bay at a cost of $2.50 per bushel. 1817 seed corn sold in St. Albans at $4.00 a bushel; flour imported from Troy and treal sold at $15.00 to $17.00 a barrel.

The cold season gave a great impetus to the spirit of emigration to the mi climate of the west, and numbers removed to the "new" state of Ohio. Emigration gressed to such an extent that during the decade ending in 1820 the population inc ed but 27.

Pierpont Brigham, Louisa Conger's husband, and Richard Sackett, Keziah's (Cos husband, both privates, saw action at the battle of Plattsburgh Sept 11, 1814. battle could be seen from Aldis Hill in St. Albans.

"It was 'Uncle' Amni Alford who, in later years,when caravans traveled the pub highways, never failed to bring out a half bushel of potatoes for the elephant to when it was brought down to water at Stevens Brook near his home." (in St. Albans.

van Albert Conger 1929 compiled data on the descendants of Job Conger. According s booklet the first three children of Job and Harriet were born in Franklin coun- N-Yr. In 1847 they moved to a little settlement in Michigan's forest, known as Davi- Station, locating on Sec. 14. "Here this courageous young couple, enduring the hips and privations of those early pioneers, carved a home for themselves and all ei children in this sparsely settled community.

'Many are the stories that have been told of their early experiences. For instance, e was the twice a year trip with ox-team to Pontiac to have wheat ground into ou. This long, tedious journey of approximately 35 miles one way took four or five ys to complete.

'While on one of these trips Job Conger was thrown from his wagon and his right arm broken, leaving him a cripple the rest of his life. Returning home from this trip, found a pair of twin babies had been born to them.

'Hard work was no stranger in this household. Flax was grown and then followed processing of it into linen thread from which cloth was woven. Specimens of flax cloth are now in existence. From the cloth, Harriet Conger made clothing for her ily, doing all of the sewing by hand. Sheep were also raised and their fleeces of were cleansed, carded, etc., and finally spun into yarn from which socks and mit- were knitted for the entire family. It was from his own forge and anvil that Job his horses and did other blacksmithing jobs around the farm.

'Small groups of Indians often paid a friendly visit to this pioneer home, trading kets in exchange for something the Conger household had to offer. Stories are told he Indian women comparing their little papooses with Harriet's white papooses.

'As the years passed by, prosperity crowned the efforts of this worthy couple. The buildings gave place to frame structures. About 1873 a beautiful new house was it and 'The Old Conger Homestead' stood as a landmark until destroyed by fire in vember 1928.

'Job and Harriet Conger celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary May 29, 1892, hich time all of their seven children and their families were present.

'Job and his wife were leaders of the community in which they lived. They were ater members of the Freewill Baptist Church, helping to build the first Baptist uch in Davison, where they were very active members as long as health permitted. He s one of a group of men who organized the first school district in that community."

Job Conger assumed the initial "C" to distinguish himself from his cousin Job, son of Reuben Conger, as both lived in the same town and were deacons in the same church. It is said to mean "Canada",he being called "Canada Job", from the fact that he was at one time a miller in Canada, residing near Queenstown, at the time of the battle in which his younger brother Enoch was captured. (obtained from his grand-daughter, Gertrude M. Conger of Phoenix, N-Yr.

During the latter part of the war of 1812-14, Enoch Conger was chaplain of a Cayuga county company of New York State Militia. At the battle of Queenstown, Upper Canada, he was captured by the British. Previous to the war, his eldest brother, Job C. Conger (above) was operating a grist mill near Queenstown. He with other Americans was impressed by the British. After the battle of Queenstown, he was assigned to guard the American prisoners,and he recognized his brother Enoch among them. The next night Enoch escaped and crossed the Niagara River,to New York state, and joined his company.

There are three old Conger graveyards on these lands. Two are on Abbott's Creek.
ne one which is on the original lands owned by John Conger is on the right side of bbott's Creek, one mile north of the Yadkin River. In it is buried Zipporah Conger, eside what is supposed to be the grave of John Conger. Her grave bears the following nscription: "Deceast March the 14d in ye year of our Lord 1783, and in ye 73 year of i age. Her lays the body of Zipporah Conger." Her death occurred one year previous o that of John Conger,and as his will makes no mention of his wife, we infer that she as his wife.

The body of Jonathan Conger, son of John Conger 2nd, lies in this graveyard. The ollowing refers to this Jonathan Conger: "While excavating the right of way of the orth-bound railroad on the farm of Mr. H. L. Holmes in Healing Springs Township, this ounty, Mr. A. K. Lookabill, who has employment on the new road, unearthed an ancient rave wherein reposed the remains of one Jonathan Conger, so the inscription on the tone ran, who was among the early settlers of this section.

"The railroad will run directly through this graveyard, and it may be that other raves will be forced to give up their dead to the call of progress.

"This particular grave was six feet deep, with a vault of $3\frac{1}{2}$ feet. The bones were nact and properly arranged, with the arms, according to the old custom, parallel with n body, instead of crossed, as is the present day custom. The hair was well preservdalthough the date on the stone stated the man died May 7, 1793, more than 116 years
g. The date of his birth was given as Jan 22, 1732, his age being 61 years, three oths and sixteen days. On the stone also was his message from the 18th century to h 20th century railroad builders, whose surveyors had led them into the old- time uying ground: 'Remember, man, as you pass by, As you are now, so once was I.
'As I am now so must you be; prepare for death and follow me!'

(Clipping from the Lexington Dispatch)

Across Abbott's Creek about $\frac{1}{2}$ mile in another graveyard, we find the only tomb-tone whose inscription is legible, bearing the following: "Mary Conger, deceast on Ja the 4d, 1795. Was born Jan the 28d 1751." This Mary Conger was Mary Ross, daughter of Isaac and Jean (Brown) Ross, who married John Conger, Jr., son of John Conger 1708. In another grave next to hers, and with a tombstone exactly like that which marks the grave of Mary, probably reposes the remains of her husband John, although the inscription has peeled off.

A deed from Jonathan Conger to Leonard Smith, 3 Feb 1796, registered 12 Apr 1796, Book No. 14, page 261, says that this tract of land was obtained by John Conger, Sr., and has Jonathan and Margaret Conger's names signed to it. This, and other deeds, indicate that the Congers owned near or over one thousand acres of land in this vicinity, now Davidson county, on both sides of Abbot's Creek.

The will of John Conger of Hanover Township, "indisposed", was dated 14 Feb 1767, and proved 22 Dec 1767. To his wife Sarah he left 50 pounds, and the use of all his real and personal estate for a period of five years. At the end of that time his land was to be divided between his sons Joseph and John. To his sons Stephen, Zenas, Thomas David and James, he left each 30 pounds to be paid as they became of age, and in the case of any of them dying before reaching the age of 21, his share to be divided among the others.

To his daughters Sarah and Phoebe, he left each 15 pounds, to be paid at marriage or on reaching the age of 21, payments to be made by sons Joseph and John. As executors he named "My friend and brother, Thomas Brown, and my friend, Joseph Tuttle, Jr Witnesses were Samuel Ball, Daniel Burnett and William Broadwell.

John 1752 and brother Zenas were members of Capt: Josiah Hall's Co. at Danville Zenas was a Revolutionary Pensioner at Lansing, Tompkins, N-Yr, at age 84. No further records have been found for him.

Following were students for the year ending April 26, 1784: James Conger, Rhoda Conger. Among the proprietors was Joseph Conger. At a town meeting of Pequannock Township, Joseph Conger was appointed to a committee of observation (to watch closely those actively favoring the cause of the King), June 4, 1804.

Among those engaging to pay $2 quarterly for every child subscribed to the school were David Conger and Thomas Conger. On January 26, 1813, funds subscribed to build school in Rockaway: Thomas Conger, $10. He was a trustee of the Presbyterian Congregation.

Levi Styles went to Thomas Conger, a blacksmith at Rockaway, to get a scythe. He got one for which he paid $3, and Conger warranted it for six years; he used it every season for five years and then sold it for $2.50 (showing that in those early days there were workers who understood their business.

The first structure (hotel) stood on the site of the present hotel and was commenced by William Conger, son of Thomas Conger, who, with his three sons was a manufacturer of edge tools at Rockaway.

Stephen Conger was appointed judge for five-year terms in 1833, 1838, and 1843.

An extract from a letter written by (Sion) Iliff Conger (son of Sion Moores Con- r grandson of Isaac Conger 1779 and Mary Moores) dated 26 June 1904:

"I have two letters written by John B. Conger, dated in 1839 and 1843. The first igned 'John B. & Elizabeth Conger', and the second is signed 'John B. Conger', his f having probably died in the meantime. I will make a few quotations from them.

"In 1839 he mentions that his daughter, Martha Archer Conger, is a very pretty g woman, about 15 years old, and now at school at Donaldsonville, La., near New eans, and learning music and French, as well as other studies in literature and lteness. He wrote: 'Isaac W. (John's son who drowned in the Mississippi River)is a looking young man, about 6 feet tall, weight about 165 pounds. Has been home some . Has been traveling in the Eastern states. Was in Washington at the sitting of ress, and had an interview with the President.'

"'Brother Jonathan's children are about all dead. Phoebe, Jane and Jonathan Lee about all that remain. Uncle Isaac Ross's family are all no more, pretty much, and Wade children are taking steps to keep all the negroes in slavery. Also the same Margaret A. Reed's estate (the daughter of Uncle Isaac, formerly Mrs. Archer).She about 130 slaves, and willed them to Dr. Stephen Duncan and Zubulan Butler, with a to having them sent to Liberia.

"'Eli K. Ross is living in Louisiana, on the Ouchita River, and doing no good.

"'I am building a fine house on my plantation on the Mississippi River, where I ect to spend the remainder of my days. I have 14,000 acres of rich bottom land and 00 acres equally as rich above. More than 300 negroes, as likely as I ever saw.Will e probably 2,000 bales of cotton, which, together with sales of cord-wood to steam- ts, should make an income this year of about $130,000. With all this a man is not irely happy.'"

"In 1843 he mentions a visit just paid by his sister Hannah and husband John Rails- k, and their appreciation of his magnificent estate.

"I have heard my father (Sion Moores Conger) speak of the visits of himself and father (Isaac Conger) to John B.'s and of a visit that he and his daughter made to grandfather's, and my father's overseer says he remembers when they drove from Mem- s, he thinks, and Martha caused her father to remain in the carriage while she ran the house, and covering grandmother's eyes with her hands, made her guess who the itor was. This was some time in the 40's.

"My grandfather (Isaac)was a Methodist minister,and used to make journeys through- the South and visit his relatives in Mississippi, Georgia and South Carolina. In e of his journals he would make reference to these occasions. I have none of them hand at this time to refer to.

"John B. Conger also mentions, in a letter to my grandfather, Isaac Conger, that had one of his brother Jonathan's grand-daughters with him for company for Martha her, 'a daughter of Sally Conger, who married Felix Thompson'.

"John Conger, who married Mary Ross, wrote a letter to his son Isaac, dated 9 Apr 8. Among Isaac Conger's papers was found a cancelled note in favor of 'Joshua and Conger, executors of John Conger, dec'd.' dated 30 March 1806."

Charles GB Conger stated that there was still a John Conger at Woodbridge during the Revolutionary War, which was probably this John. "The British, in their retreat from Philadelphia and afterwards, played havoc with his belongings, drinking up four hogsheads of cider, one pipe of Endeirn, ten gallons of brandy, seven gallons of Jamaica spirits, one half barrell of cherry rum, and one third barrel of porter. Besides, they burned his barn and all his fencing, damaged his house, broke fifty panes of glass in his windows, and ripped up his wife's feather beds, scattering the good goose down to the winds of heaven." From the Akron Beacon Journal, 22 Aug 1969: 125 Years Old but Restored... HISTORIC O:GER HOME EVEN BETTER THAN NEW. Brickmaker John Conger's 125-year-old red brick o:se overlooking the Cuyahoga Valley is getting an elegant new lease on life.

For a year and a half, restoration of Conger's house atop a hill at 6376 Riverview od has been a labor of love for his great-granddaughter, Elizabeth Conger Bender. eovation of the 1844 land-mark house was also brought together a lot of modern-day rftsmen.

Results of the project, as meticulously executed as a Williamsburg, Va., restora-in, will be shown Sunday evening at a party given by Mrs. Bender and her husband, ery G..

There is much to see, both old and new, in the neat red brick house with white-anted wooden trim. The floors are eye-catchers. Original oak and ash wood are in th front rooms. An upstairs bedroom has a refurbished poplar floor with various shades of green. New walnut flooring and wainscoting decorate a ground-level family room ere a second John Conger once hung wild animal pelts. The wood came from trees on th Benders' property next door.

Workmen reglazed every window in the house. Three old fireplaces were unbricked ar a fourth new one built.

"We didn't change a single wall in the house," recalls Mrs. Bender. "New walls were put in but none taken out."

A kitchen-garage annex was built on the north side, nestled behind a gnarled arbo vitae and looking as if old John Conger had made it with his own bricks. Ceilings wer lowered to conceal the pipes for new plumbing and heating. On the second floor, minitub was installed by changing a doorway and a big clothes closet became a bathroo with shower.

Outside, near a giant catalpa tree is a stone water trough that once sat on th McDevitt property at Ohio 303 and Riverview rd in downtown Peninsula. Inside shutter in the family room came from a Center st. house once owned by Peninsula's storekeepin family, the Woods.

Mrs. Bender is quick to credit many persons for helping with the restoration pro ject. Planning started with Robert Hunker, North Summit environmental design consul tant, and Charles Willits, Hudson architect who specializes in heritage projects.Rich fieldite Buel Davidson's carpenters handled the woodwork while Elmer Luther, also c Richfield, did some brickwork.

It was a brickmaking business that John Conger started when he came from St. A- bans, Vt. He was postmaster, constable and trustee before his death at age 48 in 185; The next year his widow, Hannah, married his brickmaker-partner, Erastus Jackson. Las Conger to live in the house was Nellie,widow of the namesake son of the original Joh Conger.(grandson John Croghan Conger 1883) The house and adjoining land were purchase by a lawyer-neighbor, Ernest Genovese, from her heirs. The Benders bought the hous and grounds from Genovese two years ago after he boarded it up to protect a landmark i his hometown.

Other notes about the house state that John's son, John Croghan Conger 1835,live in the house and his son, John Croghan Conger 1883 was born and died in the house. Th latter's daughters Eunice (Halls) and Charlotte (Arnold) were also born there. Nin Conger children were born there between 1868 and 1923.

Stone was used from the local quarry. Irregular fitted stones are in the founc ation, and there are brick pillar supports....blue glass in trefoil of Gothic windov all glass original but one pane (where a courting cat jumped through).

Description of the front hallway: Greek Pediments, Tuscan arches over colore glass front doorway..woodwork handcarved (not plaster cast). Doors taper as do all : house (As Greek Parthenon columns do)...corner piece ornaments like on Parthenon.

Exterior American Gothic; not railroad Gothic or Gingerbread. A picture of th house was in the Summit County Atlas of 1874, listed as the home of Erastus Jackson- 2nd husband of Hannah Beals Conger.

James assumed the name FRANK HART and his wife was called Ida May. Delbert also changed his last name to HART, and they emigrated to Utah, where they died at Ogden

This John Conger has been the object of search for many years by his granddaughter, MyrtLe Hart Toyn of Ogden, Utah. She found the family in the 1860 census residing t Lenawee county, Michigan, before her father Delbert John Conger was born. She d not find them in 1870, but in 1880 at Otsega, Allegan county, she found John 63 (18 born N.Yr (bridgebuilder) and wife Lucie 38, born in Canada. In the same village as Cornelius Conger, 58 (1822) born New York (tailor) and his family.

Because of John and Cornelius residing in the same village it appears they coul have been the sons of Jonathan Conger 1779 and Mary Duell Shaylor of Cambridge, N. There are records of Jonathan's other sons who settled in Iowa and Kansas--perhaps a all went together and John and Cornelius stayed in Michigan.

As already mentioned, he may have been the son of Benjamin Conger 1785, whose o sons settled in Illinois, Iowa and Nebraska.

Mrs. Toyn could not find any death record for John, but she was told he died n

Vn Buren county. Her grandmother Martha died six months after her father's birth Jhn re-married a woman named Lou (Lucy?)

Mrs. Toyn wrote on 19 Aug 1963: "Father's brother Chauncey died about the time fther was born or when he was very young, for he didn't know him. He heard his folks tlk about him, especially father's brother, James, who seemed to adore the child. I cn remember Uncle talking about Chauncey and he named one of his sons Charles Chauncy. He is living here in Ogden now,but knows nothing of his ancestors and thinks I a crazy to 'waste my time looking them up'."

Myrtle Town continues: "After father passed away we learned he had changed his nme to HART instead of Conger for reasons we cannot understand unless it was because the family didn't accept their step-mother. We think he changed it when he came t his brother James, who had preceeded him to Utah. Probably James had changed his ad in order for father to be known in society as the brother of James,he had to change to. Both ran away from home. Father was 16 years old when he left."

JOHN B. CONGER abt 1784 & ELIZABETH ARCHER*******

JOHN B. CONGER, b. abt 1784 at Rowan co. N-Cr, d. 1853, son of JOHN CONGER 1734: MARY ROSS, md ELIZABETH ARCHER. Had issue:

1. Isaac W. Conger..... abt 1808--drowned in Mississippi River
2. Fielding Conger,..... abt 1810--cut by cotton gin; d. young
3. Martha Archer Conger..... abt 1812-- 8 Sep 1857--Gov.Tiglman Tucker

John B. Conger moved to Mississippi with the other families of our ancestors about 1808. His marriage probably occurred in Mississippi. He patented large tracts of land where he resided until 1845, when he sold out and moved to Grand Gulch, Txs.

In a letter dated 27 Jan 1839 he said that he had 20,000 acres of river bottom land, over 300 negroes, and an annual income of from $120,000 to $130,000. It is said that he married a young lady whose father had been an officer in the Revolution, and as a reward for his service had some large land grants.

On 16 Apr 1843 he wrote that he had taken one of the grand-daughters of his brother Jonathan to be a companion for his daughter Martha. She was about 15 and the daughter of Sally Conger who married Felix Thompson.

He planned a journey for the summer of 1843 for himself and daughter by way of Mobile, and through the states of Alabama, Georgia and to his brother Eli; South Carolina, Columbia, Canden to Salisbury, N-Cr, Virginia, Maryland and up to Montreal, Canada and back.

In one of his letters John said, "With all this a man is not entirely happy." It appears that his wife was dead at this time. His son Fielding died young of blood poisoning, after being cut by a cotton gin. His son Isaac W. grew to manhood, was educated at home and abroad, and planned to live in Washington, D.C.. On a visit home he undertook to cross to the island farm with a slave in a skiff, when they were upset by driftwood and drowned. His daughter Martha died without issue in 1857, shortly after he left for Texas. We have no record of his activities in Texas. He was about 65 when he moved, so if he did re-marry he probably did not have another family.

Mrs. William McWillie of Jackson, Miss., was the daughter of Governor Tucker by his first marriage. She had a large and very beautiful portrait of her step-mother, Martha Archer Conger Tucker. Her face is expressive of the fine character that Mrs. McWillie said was hers. No real daughter could speak of a mother in more endearing terms than did Mrs. McWillie in telling about this, the only mother she really remembered, her own having died when she was quite young.

WILL OF MARTHA ARCHER CONGER TUCKER:

I, Martha Archer Conger, of Claiborn county, State of Mississippi, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, and anxious to dispose of all my property and expectancy do make and publish this my last will and testament.

It is my wish that all just debts which have been recognized by me and which are legally provable against the estate of my Father and Brother Isaac shall be paid and also my own debts.

It is my wish that Miss Mary C. Compton shall remain at Elidon, my present residence, if she desires, and that she shall have possession of the slaves Sophia, Phil, Lucinda and Allison, and also to have $250.00 paid to her annually until the debts shall have been paid. Also during the period I wish her to remain in possession of one third of the stock of cattle and hogs which I desire her to hold. Finally and when the debts of my Father and Brother and my own debts shall have been liquidated, I wish her to have altogether eight (8) negroes of such as will be considered average value and also the residence and land known as Eldon, as her property, together with every article upon it and convenience of every kind belonging to the premises except such as shall hereafter remain. (Mary Compton may have been Mary Thompson.)

"Third" I wish Mr. Franklin F. Thomas, who resides with me, after his salary is paid to devise to him the tract of land bought from David Lee, guardian of his infant child. I bequeath him also two negroes.

"Fourth" to Rev. Zebulon Butler, I give and bequeath one Negro.

"Fifth", to Mrs. Mary A. Morene, I give and bequeath one Negro and also a pair of painted china flower-vases that ornament the front parlor mantel piece.

"Sixth" request to Mrs. Nancy Hughes, I give my mother's gold spectacles.

"Seventh" to Benjamin H. Moorhead, I give the books used in classical course of studies by my brother Fielding.

"Eighth" to Julia T. Moorehead I give my elegant center table books.

"Ninth" to Emma McAlphin, I give my watch.

"Tenth" for Agnes McAlphin, and Mary Sessions, I wish two handsome rings bought costing at least $50.00 each.

"Eleventh" to Mrs. Eliza M. Ingraham, wife of Alfred Ingraham, I give my copy of Imes' "History of England", 12 volumes; also 45 volumes of the writings of the British Essayist and the writings of Josephus as a token of my recollection of her uncermonious kinderness to me on first acquaintance.

"Twelfth" to Dr. Robert W. Harper, of Port Gibson, I give as a testimonial of my friendly regards, my brother Isaac's gold-headed walking cane.

"Thirteenth" to William Sidney Wilson, Esq., of Port Gibson, I give my father's watch and rocking chair, being a low hair-covered one sitting in the front parlor, and also my Mother's sofa, it being a very large one standing beneath the mirror in the front parlor, and also the oil painting on the mantle piece of the same apartment, as a mark of my high esteem, it being a pet ornament with me.

I also give to Mr. W. H. Wilson all the land not already mentioned, to which I may have any claim, either legal or equitable, and the other third of cattle and hogs and other 21 slaves, and all increase of the whole from this time.

John's son Douglas wrote: "John B. remembers living in Tennessee; although his mily left there when he was six. They lived in a log cabin which did not have glass ndows and can remember the river boats going up and down with cargo. The reason for ing to Texas was because an uncle, Isaac Ross, was there and painted a picture of eener pastures. Isaac Ross had a brother-in-law there before him and he went for the me reason. This change of location took place in 1888. Wiley landed there with 50¢ his pocket.

"In 1907 John B. and wife Estella went to New Mexico. The reason for going was cause that state opened up for homestead. They took out a homestead and proved up on . The first year corn did well; the second year the corn was about two feet high and ceived about a foot of snow--that was all for the corn. Estella held down the homeead while John worked as a carpenter in Tuccumcari and came home for weekends. The ppulation of Tucumcari was approximately 3,000 with six or seven grocery stores and enty-eight saloons. There was quite a lot of shooting, as there was a big boom due the homestead influx.

"The next move was to Oklahoma, which took place in 1908. The next important move as to Merced Falls, Clfr, in 1935, where he worked for Yosemite Sugar Pine Lumber Co. day at 87 years he has remarkably good health and has never had any serious illness."

On 20 Oct 1969 Douglas wrote: "My father is a character. My mother died Jan 5th, 969 and father keeps his own house, does his cooking and washing and rides his threeheel bicycle all over town to do his shopping and visiting. He has excellent health nd will live to a hundred if he does not get-rear-ended on the bicycle."

This John could have been the son of Joel Conger 1770. However, Dixie L. Cong 1910 said in a letter, "I once went to see the Conger of the old firm, LEWIS and CONER, and was informed that he was of Jewish extraction."

John's great grand - son, Dunham Ford Conger 1902, does not know much about t lineage. He knows that Lewis & Conger was a store in New York City for the "carria trade". It was a beautiful store--a cross between a hardward, jewelry, gift, etc. O entire section was called the "Sleep Shop" with everything pertaining to sleep. Th was considered a place to go when visiting New York. John decided to keep his son He ry Clay Conger in the store, and set up his other son Walter Mingus Conger in the T Tray Manufacturing business in Newark, N-Jr.

Mrs. Dunham Ford Conger (Doris), 4032 Yardley Ave. N., St. Petersburg, Fla, 33713 wrote:

"I still cannot reach the Lewises--their phone was 'not in use' this summer, bu apparently is now but no one answers. I do not believe that the Jewish part is corr t for we would have heard some inkling from some relative through my early years in t family when they had big gatherings. A letter dated 30 Sep 1908, written by Attorney S. M. Johnson of Beaumont, Texas, sys in part: "Our local records show that in 1836 there was conveyed by Joseph and Corge Butler of Brazoria county, Texas, to John Conger of Hamilton county, Ohio, two lagues of land. Then there appears a deed dated 1877, executed by William E. Conger c Chicago, Ill., but the deed recites that he was then a resident of Philadelphia, Fnn,and also recites that his father had conveyed him this land in the year 1858, and aso recited that he was the only son and heir of his father. Now, I desire to prove te latter fact, either by William E. Conger if alive, or by someone else, that he was te son of John Conger who was a resident of Hamilton county, Ohio, in 1836."

What success Mr. Johnson had in proving William E. Conger to be a son of John Cnger of Hamilton county, Ohio, is unknown, as he was never heard from again. Nor ws any William E. Conger found to be living in Philadelphia, Penn. in 1877. (See MSES CONGER abt 1735 for letter from Dr. Johnson.)

James Greenwood Conger 1907 wrote of his father, John Leonard Conger, to Miss Cornelia Conger of Chicago on 29 Nov 1966: "Many thanks for your nice note of the 19th. have been practicing law in Chicago and have lived in or near the city for the pas thirty-five years. During that time on numerous occasions, friends and others have i quired whether I was in any way related to you. My father always claimed that anyone with the name CONGER was at least a fifth cousin of anyone else with the same name.

"My father spent two years at the University of Nebraska and then taught school for several years to accumulate enough capital to go on with his education. He grad uated from the University of Michigan in 1904 and then attended the University of Wis consin on a Fellowship where he received a Master's Degree and in 1907, a Doctor' Degree in American History. I was born in Madison, Wisconsin about the time he wa completeing his thesis. He then accepted an appointment as Professor of History a Government at Knox College in Galesburg, Illinois where I grew up and where my sister Amy and Virginia were born.

"Except for brief interludes as a visiting Professor at Harvard, the University c Michigan and the University of California, my father continues at Knox College as Pro fessor of History and Head of the Department until his retirement about 1945. He serve as an alderman, mayor and president of the school board in Galesburg always in a refor and what in those days was considered a liberal tradition. While not a crusader type he staunchly espoused what he regarded as worthy causes particularly those which he cultural aspects. He just as staunchly opposed what in those days in a small midwest ern, rather back-water community, was regarded as evil such as saloons, public gamblir and other such vices. Over the opposition of the prevailing establishment, he did muc to clean up and elevate the cultural environment of the community.

"Without going into his other many achievements, it has always seemed to me that they were such, and the respect in which he was held in the community was such, that s far as I am concerned, he could well have been considered the primus in a new line c Congers. Paradoxically, he never gave up trying to find out something about his ante cedent and collateral relatives." (his entire lineage was in the records.)

There is no record of issue for John P. Conger other than Frank D. A. Conger wh lived at 31 Rowland St., Newark in 1908. He was married 20 Sep 1858 in Newark to Ell[illegible] E. Clute and had a daughter born 22 Oct 1870. Since John and Catherine were married 1819 it would appear that there were other children before Frank, or that Frank marri[illegible] late in life....or Ellen was a second wife.

John P. Conger was mentioned in the will of his father, being named as one of th[illegible] executors. On 24 Mar 1832 his mother Phebe signed a release to her son John P. Cong[illegible] for lands in Morris county. Some of these lands had been purchased by Thomas Cong[illegible] from George Stickle in April 1789. The original deed was not recorded until 1832, aft[illegible] the death of Thomas Conger, grantee. In a deed from Samuel Hicks, Jr. to John P. Co[illegible] ger dated in 1832 for land in Morris county, John P. Conger is referred to as of Eli[illegible] beth, N-Jr, and from this reference, it is thought that he resided there.

John Parker Conger was a veteran of the Civil War and received many promotions i[illegible] the service. Shortly after the breaking out of the war he enlisted in Co. B. 106th Regt, New York Volunteer Inf., as a private, having been enrolled 29 July 1962. On 27 Aug 1862 he was mustered in as a Corporal of Co. B. 106th Regulars, then promoted to Sergeant on 18 Mar 1863. Mustered in as a 2nd Lieutenant on 28 Feb 1865 and received his commission 22 June 1865; he received an honorable discharge 22 June 1865.

Upon his return from the south, John went west and located on a farm in Wisconsi[illegible] near LaCrosse. It is believed he met and married a girl named Helen from Sparta, Wis[illegible] and later they located in Mankato, Minn, where he worked as a contracting mason. It is not known whether the marriage was ended with the death of Helen or divorce. In any case John returned to New York and formed a partnership in a meat business. John Remember Daniel Conger enrolled in Co. C., 15th Illinois Inf at Rockford, Iln on 24 May 1861, and was discharged for disability on 25 Nov 1861. He enrolled aain as a recruit in Co. A., 12th Illn Regt and was transferred to Co. 8, same regi-nt, 12 Dec 1863. He was wounded near Donaldsonville, Lsn, and was discharged for dsability 13 Apr 1865.
An old, unidentified newspaper article reads: "John Remember Daniel Conger. That ws the name of a man who often appears in the history books of Tacoma. He was deputy cty comptroller and deputy city assessor. He was adjutant of the Soldiers' Home at Cting. He was adjutant general and quartermaster general of the Custer Post, Grand Amy of the Republic.
"Conger was a major in the Civil War. He lived to tell about some narrow escapes wile on expeditions in the South.
"This colorful person of Tacoma's past died many years ago at the age of 69. But ist last week, renewed interest in his life has occurred.
"It has come to light that Maj. J. R. D. Conger was a painter in addition to all c his other activities which also included being a lime company superintendent and a Lwis county farmer. A painting by the major now hangs at the Washington State Histor-ial Society's showing of the latest additions to its permanent collection.
"Not only is the painting artistically appealing. It also happens to be the old-et known painting depicting any site of Tacoma. Bruce LeRoy, director of the society, aid there are a number of sketches of Tacoma predating this painting but no paintings hat he knows of that are this old.
"The Conger painting depicts the DeLinn Mill in 1869. The mill, said LeRoy, was he first industrial structure in Tacoma. It was built in the 1850's.The present site c the painting is about East 28th Street at the Puyallup River, he said.
"The painting was given to the museum by Mrs. Molly Conger of Tacoma, the major's aughter-in-law. LeRoy said there may be other Conger paintings that are earlier than his one. However, it might be difficult to tell that these paintings were by Conger. LeRoy said the DeLinn Mill picture was not signed by Conger and the others--if there re any--probably don't bear his name either.

The family records state that John died at the Soldier's Home at Waupaca, Wis,and Charles L. Conger records say Marshalltown. Prior to going to the Soldier's Home he lived with his son Robert and was remembered as "a fine looking aristocratic old gentleman."

June 10--The Dearborn volunteers started from Lawrence-burgh, Indiana, on the S. Pike No. 7. Landed at Louisville, Ky. the same evening.

June 11--Crossed the river next morning to North Albany, Ind. The Rendevous fo the Indian Troops.

June 18--Mustered into the service of the United States,for the term of 12 month So much for the start. We rather took the shine of the other companies--at least t North Albany girls said so.

June 25--This day the Election of Officers for the three regiments took place. T election for the 3rd Regiment resulted as follows: Lane, colonel; McCarty, Lt colone and Gorman, Major.

June 26--Held a company election in our quarters.

July 17--Embarked on board the Brig "Prairie" for the start of the war in compan with Tom Gibson's Company A, from Charleston, La., the balance of the bloody 3rd e barked on the ship MIDDLESEX and schooner NORFOLK. Next comes the water of the Gulf

July 27--Arrived abreast of Brassoz Santiago after a dangerous voyage of eleve days. We had a great deal of wind and rain which made it very disagreeable for t men. They had to either stand and take it, or go down into the crowded hold, whi was almost as good as right down suffocation. The wind blew such a gale one day about the middle of the voyage that it blew off the fore-top-mast-s ail, and fore-t gallant, causing great consternation among the land lubbers.

July 29--Landed on shore at Brassos St. Jago in the morning and found the othe companies of the 3rd, the 1st Reg, Ind., besides many other troops from all parts the United States. Here we amused ourselves in sea-bathing, which was good sport a said to be very beneficial to our health.

July 30--Struck tents and marched for the mouth of the Rio-Grande, on foot, a di tance of 8 or 9 miles. Pitched tents and remained until....

Aug 1--When we struck tents and marched up the river to Camp Blaknapp, which s situated on the left bank of the Rio-Grande, about 3/4 of a mile from the river or kind of a high ridge,and immediately opposite a little Mexican town called Buritta,h all together deserted. Here we began to see the natural Texas...no timber exce scrubby chapperral, planty of game so far as slow dear, wolves, panthers, snakes a rabbits will county. Slak lakes plenty but very small in size.

Aug 14--George W. Hamblin was this day discharged on account of an incurable di ease in this climate.

Sept 1st--Moses Pryer died of billious remittant fever. Was sick ten or twel days. He was buried with the honors of war, died at 1: p,m.

Sept 4--Richard Henry Inmaw, a much respected member of our Co. A. died at 2: p. same as Pryer. He was formerly from old Virginia. He was much respected and loved y the company. About this time nearly every man in the Regiment was sick and unfit f duty, and in consequence were much dissatisfied with the country, service and ever thing else. Application was soon made to Gen. Taylor by Col. Lane for a removal f camp, and Sept 21, pitched tent and took Steam-Boat for Camp Sano, ten or twelve mi o the river. A very pretty camping ground and healthful.

Sept 24--This day at a quarter before 3: O'clock p.m. DAVID C. CONGER (John's rother) died of Congestive fever seated on the brain. He was sick only about 10 days nd had every attention paid him by nurses and physicians, he being formerly acquaint- d with the principal surgeon, Mr. Anthon, of Charleston, Clark county, Ind.

Sept 29--This day several men who had permission to go out hunting came back and ad to do extra duty digging ditches around the tents in ground as hard as brick-bats, nich shows the disposition of our officers. As sure as a man in our Company has a few ours recreation granted him he is punished double for it.

Oct 1st--Noisy Nelson killed a young doe, and No. 3 had a good mess of the same.

Oct 2--Company and Capt. wrote home. Our sutler hauled his boxes of wine and emon syrup on the bank in front of our tents.Ah, you old theives...it is now thought, said by the wise, that we will soon move up to Camayo. Well, now as well as ever. I eel very well today; better than I have for the last five or six days.Corporal Chris- r again joined us today. Just from the hospital where he had been accommodated with odgings for the last 12 or 13 days. (Note: A "sutler" is one who follows an army, elling provisions, liquor, etc.)

Oct 7--This is one great day for Bill Todd--killed two wild ducks. Our sutler aised his big tent and court-martial was held for the punishment of George W. Dawson or taking a few ears of corn from the dear friends of Lt. Col. M.Mc, the Mexicans, hen this very identical gentleman hired two men from Dawson, Vis: Co. J. to steal the orn to feed his horse, Lt. Col.M.C. performed the herculean task of helping his own addle from the vessel onto the boat when they landed from the Gulf at Santiago.

Camp Lane is on a beautiful spot just about as handsome a piece of this world as I ave ever seen in my life, perfectly level, smooth and grassy immediately on the bank f Noble River, and the creek called Palo-Alto runs along the lower end of the encamp- ent. The ground lays high above the river and we are often fanned by the refreshing reezes of the Gulf.

Camp Lane is about 20 miles above the mouth of the River,and about 10 miles below otamorazall, by land. River route would be about double the distance. There is game ere in the greatest abundance, also fish. Mexicans live all along the River on this de, who are very friendly, or pretend to be so to the soldiers to keep their black ide whole.

I just said this is a great day and it has been for more than all of that, I have oticed from about 11 or 12 o'clock p.m. We left Camp Lane on the Steamer "Catchee- agle" for Matanoras, when we landed about 11 a.m. the same day, and encamped in the owermost part of the city.

Here we found our Orderly, Sergeant Wallace C. Law, who was discharged before we eft Camp Belknapp, in the hospital and afflicted with a wound which necessitated an mputation on his right arm. The wound was occasioned by the accidental discharge of rifle belonging to a Texas Ranger. A very sad accident.

Oct 9--A man in Capt. Boardman's Company A. was murdered in Matamoras, by a Mexi- an, it is thought. He was shot in the head immediately in the day. We had a real war erap, or a war, in the Quarters of Company A. by one or two of the men getting shot, e. that is, getting tightup by the assistance of "Tamarack" Rockmaravalas, Bordeau, something of the kind, and Sorry Sam was dealt with as he was once before in New bany until he cooled off.

Oct 13--Last night, oh: what a time. Company A and K was all drunk. No, not ll, but a part. Hooked it, too, and who did they hook it from? The Mexicans? Oh, no -who then? Oh, I don't know. Well, it makes no difference, and now Noisy Nells (Nel- on) is charging, heaving or sitting, or rather whiskey is doing so for him. This orning Joe Kussins found himself raising from the ground, what for? Oh, he called Bradley a liar, and Sim proceeded as he always does on a similar occasion. John avre, DeGrace, was very tight, very--no, no good.

Oct 19--Jonathan L. Walton, of our Company, died of missecretion after a protract- spell of sickness.

Oct 20--the old Cargrage blow up. S. W. Cheesman laughed himself sick. I fared best by the operation.

Oct 21--The news of the reduction of Non Com Officers came and caused no littl noise among the puny pigs of Officers.

Oct 31--General Inspection in the 3rd Ind. Regt. The Grabbas burned out about forty five. The general opinion is that we will soon march, either to Tampico or t Saltillo.

Nov 9--This was a great day, for it was payday, and in the evening the men four means to "break the Guard" and get themselves up into town, and by twelve o'clock th next day about 15 or 20 found themselves under the kind attention of a Patrol. We re ceived the first pay of $41.70 since we volunteered.

Nov 17--Wind; the wind blew so hard today that it blew down No. 3, Julia Anne Johnson, 4, 5, 6 of the Grabbers tents, besides numerous officers tents. Bob Hal drunk as Billy ----, Jo Ross stoked Sgt. S. B. with ten grabbing, patroling the cit etc. The balance of this month spent in the same place in the way above named.

Dec 7--Early in the morning, marched aboard the Steamer ALID, in Company with th Right Wing, and the Vevay Company, and about 8 o'clock in the evening cut cable fo Camargo.

Now on the 8th, we are well on our way for that city. We were in hopes we ha left all the fleas when we left Matamoras, but alas, we find that droves of them fol lowed us to the river and shipped on the same boat, and will no doubt land at the sam place we do.

Dec 13--Landed at Camargo, where we found Gibson and Allen's companies, and ar glad to learn that we start in a few days for Monterey. Look out, Mexicans,on the wa the Grabbers are coming! On the next day we pitched our tents on the other side of t San Juan from Camargo. Camargo lays on this small but beautiful river, about 4 mile above its mouth. It is narrow, but very clear and deep. Very beautiful from the Ri Grande.

Dec 15--Started from Camargo,for Monterey, on foot, leaving behind--always behi --the 1st and 2nd Regiments. Traveled 15 miles to camp.

Dec 16--Traveled about 7 miles to camp.

Dec 17--Marched 6 miles to Mein, on the Rio Savine, or ElCante, a small river.

Dec 18--Marched 15 miles to camp.

Dec 19--Marched 21 miles to a camp on Canales Run. We passed a small town call Pouta Guido. On the eve of the 18th met Express Riders, from Monterey, with news tha Santa Anna was on rapid march with 31,000 men against Saltillo and Monterey.

Dec 20--Marched 12 miles through Saralvo to Camp.

Dec 21--Marched 28 miles to Camp within 30 miles of the city.

Dec 22--Marched about 14 miles to camp.

Dec 23--Marched 20 miles to the old camp of Gen. Taylor's, within 4 miles of the city.

Dec 25--This is Christmas, but is no matter for that--no fun at all.

Dec 26--Struck tent for Saltillo, like a deer in a walk. Marched 9 miles throug town to a camp on the San Guan. The rest of the march is hardly worthy of mention.

Dec 30--Arrived at Camp Butler 7 miles north of Saltillo when we made a fina Was mustered in for two months.

Jan 1st--In our country this day would be called "New Years" Day, and I suppos we will have to call it the same, but there is no good calling it that, as it is more to us than any other day. Besides, it is as cold as Greenland, and I am sick though much better than yesterday. The 2nd Regt, Ind. Vol. arrived here today at Noon, accompanied by that most worthy officer, Brig. General Lane.

Jan 11--Moved into the city and took good indoor quarters.

Jan 24--A large Mail arrived from the States. News reached us this evening th Capt. C. M. Clay, with his company of fifty men, were captured between this place a S. L. Potosi; 34 of the "Arkansaw Travelers" were also taken about or at the same ti with Major Gains and Bolan.

Feb 2--Moved from Saltillo and marched to Arwa Nueda, 21 miles, and encamped ne

"ld Rough's" Quarters.

Feb 6--"Old Rough" and his men (2000) arrived at this place,and the troops turned ɔt to welcome the old Chieftan and his staff.

Feb 13--Our Company, with the 1st Rifle Co., 2nd Reg., Ind Vol, and six companies ɔ Kentucky Cavalry, started as an escort to a large foraging train to San Antone Ranch, a distance of 65 miles. About 30 miles from Camp Arwaneuva we encamped at a very pleasant village called Patroz. We made the trip in precisely 6 days.

Feb 21--Left Arwaneuva and came back to Camp Buena Vista, 3 miles from town.

Feb 22--The long roll beat, and we sprang to arms to meet Santa Anna, who was advncing with 21,000 men, and we did meet him and gave him a hearty welcome.

Feb 23--Early in the morning the strife re-commenced, and the greatest victory of Aerica was won this day. The Mexicans numbered 21,000, and the Americans about 4,500.

Feb 24--Marched this morning to the field again in expectation of meeting the Elephant. Was disappointed. He had fled. The name of the place where the action todk pace is "Buena Vista" (Pleasant View).

Feb 27--Moved again back to Aqua Neuva. Santa Anna, with his gallent men of his ittle army of 21,000, is said to have "Vamoosed" to San Luis.

Feb 28--We were mustered for two months longer. Received a kind letter from my cd and affectionate school mate, Joseph W. Fowler. The names of the wounded in our Cmp are S. Bradley, R. McGares, Sgt S. LaFollet, Joseph Ivey, F. M. Gray and Sgt. F. Syttle.

Mar 5--Old Jack struck his tent and vamoosed for Monterey.

Mar 10--We struck tent (all the troops under Nool's command) and moved back to Bena-Vista, on what account I do not know. But think on account of bad weather.

Mar 28--We were paid off the second time in four months. $28.00.

Mar 29--Grand review of the Troops at Buena-Vista.

Apr 21--On the account of a report given by a bearer of dispatches from Gen. Tayr to Washington City, to the publisher of the "New Orleans Delta", disreputable of te Ind. Volunteers, a dis-satisfaction and more than a dis-satisfaction arose among te officers and men of the Indiana Regiments. In consequence early this morning Gen. Nol and Col. Lane started for the camp of the "Old Ranchere" at or near Monterey, for te purpose of procuring a reconcillations. The command of the forces at Buena-Vist. is consequently devolved upon Brig. Gen. Joe Lane.

The occurance alluded to above will yet cause much difficulty; soon, perhaps. If nt, it will in the future, because it will not do for enemies of this war at home to trow cowardice in the face of members of the 3rd Regt of Indiana Volunteers.

May 3--The "picket" guard comed out in the right kind of color, and justifies the 3d Regt. and sets things in better light than it had been previously.

May 15--Received a letter from Father (David S. Conger), dated Apr. 9, and sent an aswer by way of "Picket Guard" a safe journey to its home. It is rumored in camp and i town that we start home next Wednesday, but I gave it very little credit,tho we are f in a few days at most.

May 21--This is Friday, and next Monday we will leave this celebrated place for ur long wished for Home.

May 24--We this day took our last look at the ever celebrated battle-field of hena-Vista, and took our final departure. We were cheered by the remaining troops nd departed on good terms with the CommandingGeneral, and now for a long and fatiguing rch towards "Home". We marched 21 miles today for a start. Some of the boys had listered their feet.

May 27--Passed through Monterey and encamped at Camp Taylor, the new quarters for ld "Rough and Ready."

May 29--We are now at the "Deserted Ranch", nearly half way to Camayo.

May 30--Stopped this evening a mile or two past Cerralvo, just halfway from Monamayo.

Mune 2nd--Arrived at the long wished for city of Camayo,and two letters, one from me, the other from Joseph Hunter (his brother-in-las), left Camayo about 1 p.m. the me day for Reynoso.

June 4--Arrived at Reynoso about 3 p.m. and had the pleasure of seeing severa steam-boats, and we embark in a few days for the mouth of the Rio-Grande.

June 12--Embarked on the Steamer COLONEL CROSS, for the mouth of the river.

June 13--Landed at the mouth in the evening.

June 14--Took up the line of men from the mouth of the river Grande, to Brasso Santiago,and went immediately aboard of a good schooner, and tonight we will be on t "Ocean Waves".

June 19--We have been on the oceanwaves long enough. This is the 6th day and w are getting tired of the fun. Our term of 12 months service was up yesterday. We a now quite anxious to see the light house at Balise.

June 20--No land yet and out the 8th day.This morning we were put on an allowanc of one half gallon of water per day.It is horrible.This getting along, and no chanc of a breeze.

June 21--No breeze, and no land yet. This afternoon a tall breeze accompanied with rain sprang up, and the way we did sail for about an hour was a caution, but night we are nearly becalmed.

June 22--Oh, Lordy, this morning we came into sight of land, supposed to be t Southward Shore of Balise.

June 23--On waking up this morning I was agreeably surprised to hear the hoar coughing of a New Orleans tow-boat, and looking around saw we lay abreast of the Bal We are now waiting at anchor. The tow-boat MISSISSIPPI, to make out her tow, and will bounce into New Orleans. About 1 p.m. the Tow Boat SWAN came along side, and p ceeded to tow us with another schooner from Brazos. A large ship from Charleston, S. to New Orleans.

June 24--reached the U.S. landing about 6:30 p.m.

June 25--Turned our "Arms and Accounterents" over to the receiving office, an took boarding at the Mint Exchange, on the corner of Barrack Street at 50 cents p day. Very good.

June 29--Embarked on board of the Steamer EMPIRE for home.

July 8--God, home at last. Hurrah for the U.S.A.

Harley Conger, son of John Thomas Conger, recalls the following incidents, sub- tted by his son, Milton Bailey (Pete) Conger: "John Thomas Conger was bound out at ae 6 to work on a farm. Uncle Thomas Bowers took John Thomas, Aaron and William to tach them the building trades when they were old enough to learn. John Thomas and Aron followed the building business during useful lives.

"When Alfred, Horace, John, Harley and Roy were small boys the adventurous men who sputed in the West were the heroes of the day and were revered by these boys. One of these retired scouts was grandfather John Burtlow, who was the father of Viola. He h scouted for the army out of Fort Wallace, Kansas, and Fort Laramie, Wyoming, and through Yellowstone Park and in the Dakotas. Grandfather Burtlow would sit with t boys in the afternoon shade and tell wonderful stories of the west and fighting Indi of swimming dangerous rivers, etc. He could shoot out a squirrel's eye, saying t squirrel was not fit to eat if shot otherwise. He was a deadly shot. Grandfath scouted with Buffalo Bill Cody and also knew Wild Bill Hicock.

"When John T. was sparking Viola, before they married, he was coming home thro heavy woods one night. Uncle Owen Bowers waited behind a log to scare John T., reports had come in of a big cat in the neighborhood. He waited for John T. to co close; then Owen raised up from behind the log and made a terrifying sould like a ca What Owen didn't know--but was soon to find out--was that John T. carried two nice b rocks in his hands! Immediately he threw at that terrible cat (he thought) and hit directly in the forehead. From the whooping and hollering then ensuing from behind t log he knew that Uncle Owen had tried to play another trick on him.This one back-fir

"John T. acquired a 160 acre timbered farm 6 miles south of Ottumwa, Iowa.He c barrel hoops and delivered them to Ottumwa Packing House for $9.00 per thousand. A the family worked at the barrel hoops and they did this work in the kitchen of t house in the winter time on a shaving horse.

"Tom (John T.)and Harley went to Fremont to do some trading; Tom had a good hors except he was a "stump sucker".They met a friend that had a heavier mare and the fri talked Tom into an even trade. Seemed like a fine horse for the first few miles; th it became evident that the mare had 'heaves'. When they reached home Viola said, 'T what happened to our horse?' Upon confessing the trade to her, Viola said, 'Dog-gon it, Tom, you know you can't trade horses without getting took every time. You are t honest to come out ahead of a horse-trader.'"

"Times were tough and it seemed the people of substance looked down on tenant fa- mers (Tom and his boys farmed and did building at the same time). It seemed that th could not get ahead so Tom began to think about moving west. In 1906 he took a Hom- stead at Landsman,Colorado (near Burlington)on the South Fork of the Republican Rive. After the covered wagon trip in 1907 Viola was very homesick and returned to Iowa t visit her people. While in Iowa she became ill with Small Pox and was under quara- tine. Tom wrote:

"'Well,Viola, I would like to hear from you, we are well. Write and tell me wh you are going to get to go to Delta and make arrangements to come home.

"'Monday and Tuesday we are going to plant a big corn patch, about 20 acres, a get us a mill to make molasses. Well, Viola, I attended a meeting today with the b factory men and signed a $100.00 note for a railroad and factory and agreed to ra:e 20 acres of beets. You know what a railroad means for us; it means that our land s worth $50.00 per acre today. We will build a good stone house and get a good gro Won't we enjoy life?

"'Now Uncle Porter (Burtlow), we are building that stone house for Mace. We ha the first story built. Porter, everybody is going wild over the railroad. You ou to be here as soon as you can and get in on the ground floor. When they locate towns there will be a boom. There will be about five towns from St. Francis. All w have to be built. It will take 1000 hands for the beets. I like this country bet every day I stay here.

"'Viola, when you get home let us spend the rest of our days together and be h- py. We have had a long and stormy life so let us build up and enjoy our remaining d as best we can. I hope when these lines come to hand it will find you all well.(Fr Tom to Viola)'.

"Tom later returned to Iowa for his family, livestock and belongings. The fam making the trip consisted of Tom and wife Viola, children Alfred, Horace, John, R Harley and Merle. Also Grandmother Mahala and her other son Aaron Conger. The t was made in a covered wagon, also one riding horse. The family carried a tent wh was pitched at night to sleep in. In Nebraska Grandmother became sick so they pitc camp and nursed her back to health. During this time Tom got a job on construction ge small town. Two weeks later they were able to travel. Without further incident they arrived at the Colorado Homestead October 25, 1907.

"The railroad was never finished....no beets were raised until 1956--twenty - five years after Tom's death."

4. Zachariah Conger.....12 Mar 1829--11 Nov 1901--2.Pamela Davenport

Connie Frehner Money writes the following: "Very little is known about Jonas Conger. It seems likely that he was born in Rockingham county, North Carolina or Pendleton Dist. South Carolina (Census says the latter). about 1794. He was the son of Benjamin Conger 1757.

"Family records have always said that Jonas had two wives.I think this is probably in error and became confused with his father Benjamin who probably had two wives.Jonas appears to have been approximately the same age as Parthena and it seems likely that she was his only wife. Parthena was born in 1794 and married at the age of 22.

"Family records also state that Jonas had a son named John by a 2nd wife.Parthena out-lived Jonas by a good many years and they did not have a son named John who was younger than Simeon Washington. Both of the children living with them in 1820 were born after 1815. They were married in 1816, so it seems likely that the two children were both the children of Jonas and Parthena. (Compiler's note: The John Conger born about 1806 in N-Cr, living in Cherokee county, Grg in 1860, was probably the brother of Jonas.)

"Jonas and Parthena left South Carolina prior to 1830. He was not located on census record in 1830. In 1832 Jonas was living in Braker's District, Gwinnet county, Georgia. He drew land in the 1832 Cherokee Land and Gold Lottery. The land drawn was lot #15, 6th District, 3rd Section and consisted of 160 acres located in Cass county grant was taken up 20 Dec 1837 in the name of Jonas Conger, Sr. He also drew lot 177-15th District, 2nd Section. This consisted of 40 acres and was located in Cherokee county. This land was taken up 2 Mar 1838.

"Jonas served in Capt.Reid's Regiment of the Georgia Volunteer Militia from 1 May 36 to 23 July 1836. He was mustered out of service at Columbus, Georgia, and apparly returned immediately to Gwinnet Co. where he died 29 Nov 1836, leaving his wife thena to care for the family.

"We visited Suwannee Old Baptist Church in Gwinnet county on our trip through the th. It is known that Jonas' brother Simeon was a member of this church and it is sible that Jonas was also. He might very well be buried in the graveyard behind church but here again we most likely will never know. There are many old unmarked ves which cannot divulge the names of those who lie beneath their ground.

"Benjamin fought with the South. After the war, Benjamin and Zachariah visited ir brother Simeon's place. They, with some other young men, were organizing a posse call on some of the Northern carpet-baggers, including their negro friends.

"Simeon informed them the war was over and they had better go back home and go work. The boys remarked, 'Over--like Hell it is! So far as we are concerned the has just begun. We don't intend to let no damned Yank with a bunch of Negroes rule r us!"

Connie Money and her mother, Beulah Conger Frehner, did a lot of researching to ablish the parents of Simeon Washington Conger. Their summation was substantiated some family notes found by Willa Dean Beall Eaves, daughter of Maude Conger 1890, is descended from Zachariah. One fragment of paper stated, "Anna (sister) married l Finley." On the same paper was the notation, "Simeon Washington Conger, War 1861. jamin Conger, Indian War."

The greatest mystery of this family is "Benjamin Simeon", age 26, who appears with thena on the 1850 census, along with Anna 23 and Zachariah 21. Willa Dean Beall es has interviewed many of the descendants and done a lot of research, but can not d any trace of such a person. Perhaps Parthena was telling the census reporter but her family, that she had a son Benjamin and a son Simeon,and the reporter understood this to be one person. Benjamin had his own household at this time, so "Benjamin meon" must have been "Simeon Washington", who can not be found in the census.

While Mrs. Money did not have Benjamin listed with the family, Mrs. Eaves has oved that Benjamin F. Conger in the 1850 census was the brother of Zachariah and meon Washington Conger. Evidence indicates that Benjamin F. 1828 (referred to as "Junior") was the son of Zachariah, nephew of Benjamin F. (Senior).

7. Phebe Conger.....	abt 1764--	--Benjamin Travis 12 Dec 1791

The records of Charles L. Conger list Isaac, Jonathan and Benjamin as sons of Jon- ahan. Your compiler lists Isaac as the youngest because she found that Isaac died in 842, at age 83, which places his birth at 1759. Jonathan, Jr. is listed in the 1790 ensus, along with Jonathan, Sr.

Mrs. Leonard now wonders if Jonathan had a son named Benjamin, since it has been stablished that Benjamin 1757, son of Daniel, was the Benjamin in Rockingham county n 1790. It appears that this Benjamin was placed as Jonathan's son because of the ensus record.

The census states there were five females in the household, four of which were robably daughters. Rowan county marriage records reveal a Jean Conger who married aniel Biles, Elizabeth Conger who married Joseph Nichols and Phebe Conger married Ben- amin Travis. On this basis your compiler places them as Jonathan's daughters. One emale is still unaccounted for. Nothing conclusive has been found about Jonathan, Jr.

This Jonathan Conger cannot be identified. The only statistics say he was a carpenter from Pennsylvania, and his will was proved 11 Dec 1815.

Jonathan and Joshua Harbin had a hunting camp on the White River near Buena Vista, now Clay Township, Pike county, Indiana, and furnished the Fort at Vicennes with meat. He carried a "Seal" to George Rogers Clark at Kaskaska in 1780.

Jonathan made a coffin for Sebastian Frederick, Sr., who was scalped in 1786, according to the Frederick Administration file in the Vincennes courthouse.

Mrs. Ruth Fish, treasurer of the DAR Vincennes (Ind.) Chapter, was instrumental in Jonathan being recognized as a Patriot. On 3 May 1970 she wrote: "Thought you would like to know that there are 3 - DAR members in on the Jonathan Conger, Sr. of Gibson county, Ind. line. They are as follows: Sebastian Conger, from Wisconsin, just a new member 1970, Betsy Conger Davidson, wife of Joseph Davidson from Virginia, Matilda Davidson, dau-in-law of Jonathan Conger, Levi Conger - in process at Washington, D.C." Ms. Fish resides at 1319 Vigo Street, Vincennes, Ind. 47591.

Jonathan could have been the son of Jonathan abt 1710, whose birth date was approxiated as about 1745. This Jonathan and his two brothers, David abt 1741 and John abt 143, all served in the Revolution from Middlesex county, N-Jr. There is no further record of this Jonathan, except he is mentioned in his father's will in 1779. His brother David died in 1778 and his widow and sons Elias Darby Conger 1773 and David Conge 1767 moved to Pennsylvania in 1791. Elias'es descendants moved on to Dearborn count, Ind. If he was this Jonathan, he may have preceeded his brothers to Pennsylvania, and his life as a hunter and soldier would account for marrying a widow later in life.

He could not have been the Jonathan, Jr. in Rowan county, N-Cr in 1790, as Jonathan's first child was born 1790 in Knox county, Ind. Jonathan of Rowan county seems to have disappeared after 1790 but his brother Isaac settled in McLean county, Ill..

Jonathan Conger 1742 had a son Jonathan born about 1764 in Essex county, N-Jr, who moved to Philadelphia before 1822--after the death of Jonathan of Indiana.

William Russell Conger of Dallas, Texas, wrote on 23 Aug 1969: "The Jonathan of Pike county Indiana is in my opinion a member of the German line around Philadelphia and the Palantine group started originally by Jacob. I can't see any of our line in western Ohio or Indiana prior to the migration into Monroe county, Ohio, nor did any of the group move down from the western reserve--too many Indians."

(Jacob Conger of the Palatines arrived 24 Aug 1728 on the "Mortonhouse" and settled around Philadelphia. However, no known descendants of this branch is in this book. Our compiler feels that Jonathan of Indiana is Jonathan from Middlesex co. N-Jr, but nothing can be proved at this time.)

JOSEPH CONGER 1692 & MARY MARSH*******

JOSEPH CONGER, b. 17 May 1692, Woodbridge, N-Jr, son of JOHN BELCONGER & SARAH CAWOOD, apparently was md to MARY MARSH. Probable issue:

1. Joseph Conger..... abt 1724-- Aug 1820--Hannah Pepper
2. John Conger..... abt 1726-- Dec 1767--Sarah Tuttle
3. Elizabeth Conger..... 1728-- --John Baldwin
4. James Conger..... abt 1734-- --

Joseph Conger lived at Woodbridge for many years, and it is likely that he di there.

He is mentioned in his father's will, dated 11 Jan 1710, in which he was given h father's freehold rights, in the town of Woodbridge, and was also allowed to occupy eastern portion of the farm for ten years after the decease of his father, and to ha the use of all tools, carts, plows, etc., he being to equal expenses in their repair as long as he lived on the place.

That portion of the land that he was allowed to live upon, had been devised to hi younger brother Benjamin,who at the time of the dating of the will,was about ten yea of age, being born about 1700.

The permission given to Joseph to live on the land might indicate that he was ma- ried, in which event his wife must have been born as early as he was--1792. Howeve Joseph Conger was mentioned in the will of John Marsh of Rahway, as being the husba of the testator's grand-daughter Mary, which might indicate that she was rather old o have been named as a grand-daughter of a man living as late as 1739, the date of e will, unless she was the second wife of Joseph Conger.

Charles L. Conger said there were four unattached Congers of the period, namely, Jseph of Sherman, Conn., John of Hanover, Morris county, N-Jr, Elizabeth, who married Jhn Baldwin, and James, whom he listed as being children of Joseph Conger (1692). They wre all born between 1714 and 1720, except that James was born about 1734, and may be te issue of a second marriage of Joseph Conger.

His reasons for assuming that they were the children of Joseph Conger is by elimiiation. To begin with, there is no New Jersey record of any sort showing the birth of ason or daughter to Joseph Conger, but as a result of the elimination of all known prental contenders of that time, it is assumed the four above-named Congers were the cildren of Joseph Conger.

On 2 Nov 1712 Joseph Conger, together with a number of other freeholders of the twn of Woodbridge, gave a power of attorney to three of their number, viz. John Bishop, Tomas Pike, and Adam Hude, to sell as much of their land as will bring fourty pounds, wich was to be applied to the cost of a lawsuit being carried on in the name of John Pke, in defense against paying Quit-rents (New Jersey Deeds-C-2-86).

The Middlesex county court records show that in 1714 there was a case on trial, Jhn Brock vs Joseph Conger. No particulars were given.

On 23 Aug 1716 there was laid out to James Clarkson, Jr., 5 acres of land in Rahwy, "it being half a third division lot in Woodbridge, which the said James Clarkson prchased of Joseph Conger". (W.T.R.A-25)

On 13 Mar 1735 Joseph Conger witnessed the will of John Moore of Woodbridge.

On 14 Mar 1737 it was voted "that the committee appointed to manage the school lnd shall pay to Joseph Conger the sum of four pounds and ten shillings out of the rnt of the said school land, it being the sum agreed upon by Henry Freeman and Joseph Boomfield, appointed for the purpose". (W.T.R.-B-8)

JSEPH CONGER abt 1726 & HANNAH PEPPER*******

Joseph Conger was the first known descendant of John Conger (primus) to leave New Jrsey, and the date of his removal is unknown, except that it was prior to 20 Oct 1746. Te date of his death is also unknown, except that it was prior to 1790, when the first US. census was taken, at which time he was not listed as being the head of a family in Cnneticut or anywhere else that we know of. Little is known concerning him other than hs marriage to Hannah Pepper at New Fairfield, Conn.

In 1757 Joseph was a member of Captain Dickenson's 12th Regiment, Conneticut Mil - iia. The length of service, or where it took place, is unknown. Whether or not he hd service in the Revolution is unknown, but he died during this period.

Joel Conger lived and died in New Fairfield, but some of his children moved to Cincnnati, Ohio. Elijah Conger lived in Conn. and drew a pension from the US in 1832.

JSEPH CONGER 1748 & RHODA & SARAH LAMPSON*******

JOSEPH CONGER, b. 11 Dec 1748, Hanover, N-Jr, d. 1820 Knox co. Ohio, son of JOHN CNGER 1724 & SARAH TUTTLE, was md first to RHODA, by whom he had issue:

5. Charlotte Conger..... 6 Jun 1790--29 May 1865--Eliphalet Lewis
6. Thomas Conger.....20 Aug 1794--13 Jul 1849--Sarah Roberts

William Lewis was the son of James Lewis 1747-1819 & Abigail Douglas. Perhaps John and Eliphalet were his brothers.

Joseph Conger was the fifth signer of the Articles of Association of the Freeholders and Inhabitants of Pequannock Township, Morris county, New Jersey in May 177((NJ Archives Vol X, pg 717). In 1784 he was one of the Prorpietors of a school taugh by George Harris, at Rockaway, Morris county, N-Jr. Among the scholars at this schoo were James and Rhoda Conger, children of Joseph Conger (History of Morris county, pag 340.). Joseph was a member of the Rockaway Church in 1779. This leaves your compile to believe that Rhoda was the child of Joseph's first wife, named Rhoda.

He, without doubt, removed from Morris county to Knox county, Ohio, prior to the death of his unmarried son James, because had he been in New Jersey he would probabl probated the estate himself.

There is no record of administration of the estate of James Conger, other tha the inventory, taken 28 Oct 1805 and sworn to 2 Nov 1805 by Thomas Mann and Willia Ross, Jr.. The estate showed a valuation of $69.12. There is no further record of th son James and the tradition among the descendants of his father is that he died un married.

In 1776 Joseph Conger served as a private in Capt. William Hubbell's company (Col. David Waterbury's Regt of Conn. Volunteers, and may have served in other Connet cut forces. In the same company there was a Jesse Conger serving. He was probably e brother of Joseph, for whom there is no further record, unless he was the Jesse Cong who removed to Cincinnati, Ohio.

After his marriage to Phoebe Eggleston he apparently remained in that vicini for some time. When the first U.S. census was taken in 1790 he is shown as being t head of a family in Columbia, New York, at which time the family consisted of one ma over 16, himself, three males under sixteen (Jesse, Abel and Parley), one female ov sixteen, his wife. He removed later to Stockwell, Oneida county, N-Yr, where he died

Mrs. Joseph onger (presumably Hannah) ran a school in Newark in 1784--still in existence in 1800. he was founder and manager of the Newark Female Charitable Society in 1803--which is robably the reason Joseph left her only $500.00. The family residence was on the outh side of Market Street and east of Broad Street, which was torn down in 1906.

Laura L. Conger wrote that the family moved from Missouri when she was 18 months ld, and went back when she was 29. She and Bessie reside at Oxnard; Jester lives at lustee, Okla.

Catherine Elmira Russum Conger was interviewed by the Works Progress Administra- ion on 22 May 1937 for the Indian-Pioneer History Project for Oklahoma. This report s in the Indian Archives of the Oklahoma Historical Society. It is as follows:

My mother died when I was about twelve years old, and father married the second ime about a year later. He only lived three years after his second marriage. At this ime we broke up housekeeping and I went to live with my brother in northern Missouri. was sixteen years old. I lived with him until I married three years later.

I married Joseph Albert Conger at Guthrie, Oklahoma, the 23rd day of February in 1889. We went back to Missouri and lived there for about ten years.

When we made another start for Oklahoma, we had a good wagon and teams. Altho it was a good outfit, and we had money to make the trip and keep us until we could get work or make a crop,it didn't keep us from having hardships all along the way.We were in constant fear of the Indians and wild animals. We came alone, and the only weapon we had was a Parker Gun, which is now ever one hundred years old. We also had a good watchdog. One night when we were camped not far from Blue Jacket (this was northwest of Guthrie), we heard what was either a wild cat or panther. I was so frightened that I sat up all night. I was afraid they would harm or carry one of the children away.

On our way we had to cross the Arkansas, Missouri and Grand Rivers. We crossed the Arkansas and Grand on ferryboats, and the Missouri on a steamboat.

We found our first work in Custer county at a little place called Seven Oaks; I do not think this place is there now. We got a farm with a dugout. It had a dirt floor and we had to carry water; but found wood plentiful in the canyons, although it was very difficult to get it out. It was free for the settlers, and as money was scarce the neighbors would go in groups to cut and haul it out.

We stayed in Custer County two years, raising cotton and corn. We made good crops, but had to take the cotton to Weatherford or Independence to get it ginned. We paid twenty cents per bushel for our seed corn.

After our second year we decided to go farther south and file on some land. We came to our present location, nine miles northwest of Olustee, Jackson county, Oklahoma at that time part of the Indian Territory. My husband bought a relinquishment, the E of the NW$\frac{1}{2}$ and the W$\frac{1}{2}$ of the NE$\frac{1}{4}$ of Section 27, township 2N of Range, 22 WIM. We had small shack on the farm twelve by fourteen feet, which we made into a half dugout. We had to get our water from a nearby well.

Our first post office was two miles north of Olustee at a gristmill, run by a man named Lee, and was called Lee's Mill. The name was soon changed to Victory, and we then got our mail only once a week.

I didn't seem to learn how to keep a dirt floor clean. I took sacks and sewed them together, put down a layer of straw and put my sack carpet over this, which made a very nice covering, or so it seemed to me at that time, and made the work so much easier.

I bought three Plymouth Rock hens, and one rooster. I had no poultry house, so my husband, not having any material with which to build nests and coops, hauled some large smooth stones and made some very substantial nests. By buying some eggs to set I raised one hundred and eighteen chickens the first year.

Our school was one - roomed rock school, five miles south of our farm, and all the school we had. The children had to walk that far; that is, all except the two girls who got to go to Olustee two years. The building is still standing, but not in use.

I had two boys who fought in the World War. Millard J. Conger was in Co. A., 133rd Infantry and he died while on his way to France from influenza and pneumonia. The body was buried at sea.

Albert L. Conger, 8th Reg, Fort Crockett, United States Marines. One boy is in California, one in Colorado, two at Olustee Route 2, one daughter is living at home with me, and the other lives two miles west of me on a farm.

I have always worked hard. I made my own soap, made dye out of sumac berries and walnut hulls, by boiling them in a sack. I would then stain by putting my cloth in the juice, and boiling until of the right shade. I put salt in to set the color. I knitted all of my stockings and gloves. I never had a pair of store-bought stockings before I was sixteen years of age. I helped my mother spin and weave.

But I think that of all my life's hardships, the worst was on September 18, 19[illegible] when I lost everything I had in a Western Oklahoma cyclone. This loss I estimated to be about $3,000. One of the freaks of the storm was the fact that it picked the feathers from some of the turkeys clean enough for the market. I had one of the neighbors haul away the dead turkeys and chickens in his grain wagon. There was a big load. I lost all of my furniture, new plow tools--well, just everything I had. We saw it coming and got in the dugout. I have not bought back any furniture, only necessities. I do not want any more.

It has been very difficult at times for me to make a living on my little farm, rear and educate my children; but I found in an early day that my farm had isin-glass deposits, which when cleaned, and heated made a substance when ground as white and fine as flour. I learned to make plaques, which I sold to visitors, and took the money to buy groceries, and by some hook and crook I have managed to stay and carry on, as many de pioneer mothers have done before me.

According to the Charles L. Conger records, J. E. Conger wrote: "We have in our family two hammers that belonged to Joshua Conger and wife, one of them marked N.C. and the other S.C. I think Joshua Conger came to Tennessee and settled in Smith county, in the year 1800. He died August 28, 1829, in what was known as the Conger Bottom, on Caney Fork River, near the mouth of Smith Fork Creek, and was buried on the south side of Hickman Creek, about one mile above the bridge.

"Lucinda, his wife, was born March 15, 1775, and died about 1856, after being insane for several years, and was buried in what is known as the Conger Graveyard in DeKalb county on Caney Fork River, about one mile above the mouth of Holmes Creek."

Lucinda was living in the home of Andrew Wallace in 1850 in DeKalb county.

All the above-mentioned graves were moved to Mt. Holley Cemetery when Center Hill Dm was built near Smithville. (See Appendix, Joshua Conger 1773)

2. Marion Alice Conger..... 4 May 1936-- --Thomas Allan Stewart

Both girls take pleasure in writing; both were editors of their college papers and both won awards for writing.

Joyce Conger and Richard Robertson were married 4 Sep 1955; had Christopher Earl Robertson b. 12 Apr 1959, and Jill Kathryn Robertson b. 28 Dec 1961. Res: 1184 Hedgewod Lane, Schnectady, NY, 12309.

Marion Conger and Thomas Stewart were married 22 Dec 1958; have David Gene Stewart b 22 Nov 1959, Cameron Anne Stewart b. 18 Mar 1963, and Catherine Aileen Stewart b. 8 May 1967. Res: 603 Highland, Boulder, Colo. 80302.

In October 1969 Joyce Conger Robertson wrote the following: "On June 1, 1905, in Plains, Montana, my father was born. He was the first-born of my grandparent's five children, and he was named Judson Weldon Conger.

"His early years were spent in Plains, Sidney, and for the longest period, in Lewistown, Montana, small towns in which my grandfather worked as a newspaperman. My father likes to say that he was born in the backroom of a newspaper printshop, hinting that this early exposure to the roar of the presses influenced his own choice of work as a grown man. Whether or not early environment was the causative factor, both my father and one of his brothers, Everton, pursued journalistic careers. (My sister and I carried this family passion into a third generation in a small way by editing our high school and college newspapers in California.)

"Jud, as my father was, and still is called, entered the University of Montana at Missoula as a freshmen in 1923. A shortage of funds curtailed his academic pursuits, a fact he still laments, and after a single year at the university, he went to work, first in lead mines in Idaho for an interval, then, as soon as he could land a spot, in a newspaper office. During that brief academic interlude he met and determined to marry Winnifred Alice Gibson of Livingston, Montana, daughter of a prominent Montana attorney. Although this young woman did eventually become his wife and my mother, Alice had other ideas for her own life which kept her out of matrimony until 1931. She continued her education at the University of Montana and later at the University of Oregon, graduating from the latter with a major in Spanish and a minor in mathematics. She returned to her hometown to teach in the high school, traveled in the summers to Mexico and to Cuba, did additional study, and eventually was wed to the young newspaperman, my dad.

"Judson W. Conger was by then a news reporter, ambitious and enthusiastic, on the Bozeman Daily Chronicle. It was in Bozeman, Montana, just 26 miles from my mother's hometown of Livingston, that they began their life together. My life began there, too. I was their first child, born in September of 1933, and my sister, Marion (named for my father's mother) was their second and last child, born in May of 1936.

"I don't know if red hair is a widespread trait among Congers, but among our particular branch it is. As it's probably a rare genetic feature, I mention this. Also we're proud of it. My father's hair was auburn, and he is freckled and brown-eyed. One of his sisters has gold-red hair and hazel eyes; both my sister and I have reddish hair and blue eyes; and now my sister has two small red-haired daughters of her own.

"At some time in my early childhood, possibly around 1937, my father became the editor of the Chronicle. From that time until the second World War altered our lives he spent what I'm sure were among the happiest years of his life--creative, productive, busy and full years. He became deeply and widely acquainted with the life of the community, and the newspaper reflected his awareness and concern. His 'JWC' editorials had an appreciate and responsive readership. Even as a child I saw evidence of widespread respect for his integrity. Had I been a little older during those 'editor years', or a little more precocious, I would recall now specific battles he waged for and in the community, precisely what causes he espoused or decried.

"All I remember with clarity is his great vitality and energy during those years, the purposefulness with which he lived. His spirit was buoyant. And despite the fact that he was at his office much of our waking hours and some of our sleeping hours, he always seemed a close and loving 'Daddy.' When he was with us he was 100% with us, and his humor, his play, his instruction, and his listening ear enriched our childhood immeasurably. He has joked that my mother married him 'for my wealth, looks, and social position,' none of which he has ever had in any noticeable amount. But what he does have, as a person, as a friend, as a husband and father, was then and is now abundantly evident.

"In 1942 my father decided that simply saving tin cans and riding a bicycle to work to conserve gasoline was not sufficient effort against our country's enemies. He enlisted in the Army. He went into the Infantry as a buck private at the age of 37. Crazy though it might have appeared, it was clearly a decision of conscience. My mother accepted it as such and went to work as a teacher of Spanish at Montana State College in Bozeman.

"Just prior to VE-Day my father, with the rank of corporal, was honorably discharged from the Army by virtue of having turned 40 years old. He returned from the war in Europe to changes in Bozeman and at the Chronicle. The Chronicle had new owners and, his thoughts already turned in other directions by his service experience, JWC looked around for some new work, a new place.

He found new opportunity on a newspaper in Fresno, California, and the family ved there in 1947. I was just entering high school, my sister the 6th grade. On the esno Bee, the only daily paper in that city, my father has been a general assignment porter on the City Desk, police reporter, reviewer of various civic events and of oks. Currently he is Assistant City Editor, a job he says he took chiefly 'for the ney' it could bring toward his imminent retirement; general reporting remains his vorite kind of newspaper work."

OBITUARY: Latham H.Conger, 70, member of an historic Akron family, died Thursday night at his home, 191 Harcourt Drive. He had been ill for many months.

Mr. Conger was the son of the late Col. A. L. Conger, early Akron industrialist and builder of the famed "Conger Mansion" at 196 Ash Street.

Born in Akron on E. Mill street, Mr. Conger saw the sleepy village of his boy-hood become a roaring industrial metropolis. He played a role in its growth--and in the growth of the rubber industry.

Mr. Conger finished college at Kenyon where he played full-back on a team that defeated Ohio State in 1899. He went into rail-roading after college and served several systems, including the New York Central.

In 1910 he returned to Akron to take a position with the Diamond Rubber Co. later was associated with the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the B.F.Goodrich Co. executive positions.

Attracted by opportunities in the booming automobile field, Mr. Conger left the rubber business in 1924 to organize the Overland-Akron Company. He served as its president until retirement.

At various times, Mr. Conger was active in Republican politics. He was a member of Masonic groups, including the Knights Templar. Mr. Conger belonged to the Akron City Club. He served for many years as a vestryman at St. Paul's Church.

I remember my grandmother most because she was such a remarkable woman. Deep religious, active, alive and very alert even to the end. She and my grandfather rai

"I'm sure they had little of earthly value but a lot of the spiritual things.
"As an example of grandmother's love of life, she suffered broken limbs at an ad-ed age and healed completely. Later she became addicted with the 'tic della rue' dthe intense pain could be relieved only with opieates. When she realized that she sin danger of becoming a drug addict she arranged for this then dangerous operation eside of her face but relieved the pain and she became normal again.

"As kids, my sister Sue and I were never so happy as when we planned a visit to adma or Aunt Susie or Uncle Ben. These were our favorites, but we loved them all r much. We visited Aunt Susie in Drew, Mississippi this summer (1969).

4. Ann Martin Conger..... 1834-- --Dr. Robert Kelly

Martin Conger was born in Rowan county, N-Cr and removed to Mississippi with his father about 1806 and settled in Claiborne county, where his father was a planter.

About 1830 Martin and his family removed from near Vicksburg, Warren county, to Clinton, Miss., and was one of the pioneer settlers of this region. The road that he traveled to Clinton was,in many places,prepared by him before his wagons could travel. In many places he had to cut trees down to clear a road. He was a staunch Methodis.

In a letter from Asbury Bernard Conger II, dated 7 Dec 1910 he stated that his aunt Mary Athalia married Jeff McCoy. A letter from Mrs. E. F. Gill dated 3 Jan 1911 said that Mary Athalia married Henry McKay and died two years later, without issue. Mrs. Gill also claimed that Ann Martin married Dr. Robert Kelly and died three years later of yellow fever, without issue. Susan Margaret married E. B. Lamon in 1857 and had several children. All died before marriage except Annie and Lauren G.,a bachelor. The name may have been LEMON.

After Martin's death Susan married William Gregg and had Donnie Gill Gregg.

According to Mrs. Gill, Martin Conger did not leave any will. His estate was administered by Eli Garner. Each of the four children obtained from two to five slaves apiece, according to the valuation of their pro rata of 160 acres of land. Martin also left $4,000 in cash, which Mr. Garner had squandered in some wild speculations or security debts.

Mrs. Gill states that there was a family joke about Martin having red hair.Martin and his brother, Jonathan Lee, both married women named Sally. So Jonathan's wife was led "Sally Lee". Martin's wife was teased at marrying a red head,and told that she uld have all red-headed daughters. It turned out that their girls had black hair, l Jonathan and Sally Lee had two girls with blazing red hair.

Moses Conger inherited through the will of his father, one-half of the estate, and is brother Enoch inherited the other half, but was to have the use of one-half of the alt Marsh willed to Moses, for a term of seven years after the death of his father Job, hich might indicate that Moses Conger was but 14 years of age at the dating of his ather's will in 1749, and that it would be seven years before he would attain his full ight at the age of 21, which would be in 1765--thereby indicating the year of his irth to be about 1735.

Both were forbidden to dispose of their inheritance until they had reached the age f 30 years, which in the case of Moses would be about 1765. He was known to have been iving upon his estate in Rahway, N-Jr as late as 1771.

His two older brothers, Job, Jr., and Enoch, removed to Dutchess county, New York, nd later Job removed to Albany county, New York, and Enoch to Danby, Vermont, about 770. Moses apparently remained in Middlesex county, New Jersey.

On 18 Feb 1771 the following notice appeared in the WEEKLY POST BOY, #1498: "Notice s hereby given that the plantation of Moses Conger is to be sold by a public sale to he highest bidder at vendue, on the 25th day of March in the afternoon, if not sold t a private sale before.

"It is well situated for a gentleman, a tradesman or farmer, allowed good land lying in Woodbridge, Rahway Neck, adjoining that pleasant river which afford fish in plenty in season, and is navigable for boats, sloops, etc.. There is a tolerable good house and barn. It is exceedingly well watered, some wood and a fine orchard, and another one which is considerably older. It contains by estimation between 70 and 80 acres of upland, nearly 15 acres of Salt Marsh, as handy and as good as any in that part. Any person wanting such may apply to the subscriber before the day of the sale, who will give good title, and reasonable terms N.B., said place likes convenient for a ferry to be erected across the Rahway River to Elizabethtown. (signed) Moses Conger."

It is not known if this was his own land he was selling, or the land of his nephew Jonathan Coddington, of whose will he was an executor. However, the Salt Marsh is mentioned, so this may have been his land.

The next and last mention we have concerning Moses Conger is that in the April term of court in 1771, John Watson sued Moses Conger, and at the July term of the same year Abraham Shotwell sued Moses Conger. No particulars are given in the Middlesex county court records.

It has been noted that until 1771 the name of Moses Conger was mentioned quite frequently in the Middlesex county court records, as well as other county records. But after that date there is no further mention of him from any source in New Jersey. Judging from the number of law-suits in which he was involved, it is surmised that he removed from New Jersey to Kentucky, and later on to what is now Cincinnati, Ohio.

He may have removed with his family to Kentucky between 1785 and 1790. Assuming the above surmise is correct, the following tradition concerning Moses Conger, son of Job and Keziah Conger, may be of interest, as well as in indication of what became of him:

According to a letter from Dr. Mount Johnson of Venango, Crawford county, Penn dated 2 Feb 1911: "As the tradition went, Moses Conger and a relative unknown, left New Jersey and started west. Moses Conger had his leg broken somewhere in the mountains, between New Jersey and Wheeling, West Virginia. Whether the relative deserted him or was killed by the Indians, Moses never knew.

"He was taken in by a Quaker family, where he remained about a year, and then floated down the Ohio River to some place in Kentucky. Of his subsequent career, nothing is known until he went with other volunteers called for by Governor Isaac Sheel, to go to Fort Washington (now Cincinnati) and from there with 'Mad' Anthony Wayne, to the battle of Fallen Timbers in August 1794.

"On his return he was favorably impressed with the lands in Mill Creek Valley in Hamilton county, Ohio, and tried to buy a quarter section of land, but did not have money enough. However, in the spring of 1795 he removed from Kentucky to Ohio, and squatted on some land there, and worked for the Ludlow family, at or near Cincinnati.

"In 1798 his wife died and was buried where now stands the First Presbyterian Church, near the corner of 4th and Main Streets. About 1841 the bodies were removed from this burial ground, and in the removal of bodies, the charts and files were lost.

"In 1804 Moses Conger removed to the Bray place near Westwood, as it is now called. In 1809 he died west of the great Miami River, near the present town of Harrison, Ohio, practically on the Indiana line (of milk sickness)."

Dr. Johnson referred to his great-uncle Daniel, so his grandmother must have been Ara Conger, who married John Banos. His mother died of Asiatic Cholera on 12 July 1830 and was buried in Banos Graveyard. She was born in 1813 and married in 1834.

He mentioned visiting the widow of his mother's brother, Daniel McFarlane Conger living at Peoria, Illinois, and his mother's only sister, Caroline Conger Wallace who was buried at Lincoln, Ill. When the above letter was written from Nashville, Tenn, Dr. Johnson was 76 years of age.

Moses Conger was listed in the 1800 tax of Shelby county, Kentucky.

The birthdates of the children were ascertained by the guardianship petition of Daniel Moores in April 1816 for the three orphan children under 14 years of age, children of Moses Conger, Jr., of Middlesex county, deceased. The appointment was made 8 April 1816.

The name of Moses Conger, born in Middlesex county about 1765, appears on the Muster Role of Captain Moses Baldwin's Militia Company in 1802.

On 12 Mar 1814 Moses Conger enlisted as a private in Captain Jeremiah D. Hayden's Company of the 15th Reg. of Inf. (New Jersey Reg.). He enlisted at Elizabethtown, New Jersey for the war, and died at Batavia, New York in service.

Dear Parents, brothers sisters:

Since I wrote to you I have traveled a considerable and seen more. When I wrot to you I was in the City of New York. After marching through the city which was small site we crossed over to Jersey City in the steam boat then took the cars for Pi adelphia where we arrived 2 am.where the inhabitance had a warm breakfast ready for after which we took the cars 5 o'clock for Baltimore (crossed a river on the cars ca- ried by a steam boat) where we arrived in fine time when with in a short distance f the city every man had 5 cartridges given him but we did not have time to use th (received our guns at New York) the inhabitance are a hard site, most of them beig what we call black or mixed.

We marched; here I have to go on dress parade--through the city got some refresh- ments took the cars at 7 o'clock arrived in Washington 2 o'clock Tues a.m. Eat sce meat and bread with some coffee and laid down and slept till 6 o'clock. Then eat sce more, went out and saw the capitol which is a large mansion built of marble. At 2 e marched 3 miles and pitched our tents on Calaramma heights where there was E regimers encampment but they left in the morning at 4 o'clock all the tents were taken down ad carried off. We slept on the ground that night. In the morning at 7 we started on a march we new not where, marched into the city saw the White House went to the statin took the cars when we stopped we were 40 miles from Washington 9 miles from Baltimor. Left the cars, it rained marched ½ mile and pitched our tents in the rain and mud et upper after we cooked it, went to bed and slept sound. I have got my quilt yet, the weather is warmer here than it was when we left.

I enjoy myself first rate plenty to eat, drink and wear. If Father has not enlisted he had not better for it is no place for him. I have a tent 3 x 10 feet and Chet, Miles, Don, George and Eugene Bolten stops with me. I draw the rations and the boys help cook. We have coffee, sugar, pork, beef, beans, rise, potatoes and good bread.

Write as soon as you get this, tell the friends to write and I will answer. I have so many letters to write that I can not write to all. Address N. W. Conger, St. Denis, Maryland, Care of Capt. Day 60 Reg, N.Y.S.V.

Dear Father:

I have arrived at the headquarters of my reg't. I will commense at Baltimore where I wrote you last. I wrote no letters to you from that place, in the one of the 28th I sent $10 and the 29th sent $15 by mail.

We left Baltimore by steamboat and came to Fort Monroe where we stopped on night, then took the boat for City point, stopped there one night and at noon yesterday we started for the front by rail. We arrived at General Warrens head quarters at 5 p.m. He commands the 5th corps to which the 1st light art'y belongs. I was assigned to Bat I by my request.

Last night I stayed with the boys that are guarding the spair horses and ---- battery or about three miles from here. I have not seen Gerrit yet, they have been fighting for the last 3 days. Lt. Richardson was wounded yesterday and one man killed. Gerrit was all right last night. I shall go up to the front today for I am anxious to see him.

We are five miles from Petersburgh. We can see the churches from here. Last night there was some firing on the front but it is quiet this morning, everything has gone well so far our men are gaining ground by inches but they hold it. There was a great many Jonies at City Point, I saw some 5 or 6 hundred while I was thru there, they are a stout, lazy tough and rough looking lot of men but very dirty, rough ragged and appear to be worn out.

I saw Gen Mead last night, his headquarters are in sight of here, I am within about 60 rods of the front line of works, beyond that the pickets, then the Jonies.

I am well and will write again as soon as I see Gerrit. N. W. Conger

Dear Parents:

Again I have the pleasure of informing you that we are well and having a good time for soldiers we have plenty to eat and that is good enough. I saw Squire the 18th he was well I went to their camp it is 15 miles from here. I sent my vote to you on the 17th and Squire sent his the 18th they were all right for Abraham, it is going to be a close election here in the army I think but he will come off conquerour.

All is quiet on our front and left but they keep something going on in front of Petersburgh every night. The weather is very pleasant and dry, cold nights and warm days it is so dry that when we go on drill we can hardly see for the dust. I have not received any letters sinse I been here, Gerrit rec'd the one Mother & Lydia wrote at Guverneour. We have not hurd from John yet they have had some hard fighting up there but Sheriden has been successful I believe.

Mother, how did you make it in the fruit business, did you have a good visit and did you go to Goodis and see if the number of my land was all right and what is the news in general etc. Have you ----$100 of mine if so keep it. Gerrit sent some money since I came here I think.

Father you and Mother sit down and figure out what your debt amounts to that ought to be paid and lets see if we cannot get things into some shape so that what you will have will be yours & lets see if we cannot have things squair with the world for once. Have you got rid of the old horses yet, if not give them away and back out for --. No more this time, give my love to all. As far as soldiering goes I enjoy it well. NWC

Dear Parents:

We rec'd your very welcome favor of the 19th today and are glad to learn that yo are all well. I also have the privilege of informing you that we are enjoying goo health and a good appetite, we have no trouble to eat our ration.

It is very quiet on our front at present. I was on guard last night and it was s still as though there had not been a man in five miles of me though I knew there wa 50,000 in that distance of me. This morning I hurd the dogs bark and cocks crew ove in Rebildom. Now while I write the cannon commens to roar forth their dismal sound and send forth their missles of death on our right, in front of Petersburgh, some fiv miles distant.

We have a splendid little fort it mounts 6 twelve pound brass guns like the ar tillery, a great deal better than infantry. I had no trouble to learn the drill, it i not very hard I am enjoying myself as well as it is possible for me away from home.

There has been a great change in the weather here since yesterday, then it wa rain as need be, today it is cold and the wind is raw and freezing still a change i the weather does not make any change in our firing, it is all the same to us rain o shine,we are prepair for all kinds of weather with good clothes & firm determination

Father if you think best to keep the black you had better keep her but be shu and pay the mortgage before it runs out--I want to see you clear from debt even mo then see if you cannot do business on the cash sistem. Mother, I am glad to hear th you had a good visit up there I get a letter from Martin they were all well. Did y have a picture for them I want you to send me one in your next and keep the others will write often and take as good care of our health as possible. You must turn t work over to Matilda and get along as easy as you can. Drape Willie up good and war for winter and keep him in school tell him he must be a good boy till I come back, g my love to all tell Matilda to write me. Goodby from N. W. Conger

December 11th/64 Fort Winston, Va

Dear Parents and friends:

Again I have the pleasure of informing you that we are well mentaly and physical John was here this morning, he is well and has been out on a tramp for two or thr days past,but they returned last night. The army of the potomac are on the move agai Mead and Warren are in command, the last we hurd of them they had crossed the Bla water into North Carolina, there is but very few troops left here and as good luck w have it we are among the few although the 5th Corps went with them.

We have not hurd from Squire since he went to city point I was down there la week but had no time to look for him.

There was about three inches of snow fall thursday night and it has not all go yet, it makes it very bad for the boys that are on the move. We have been expecting a fight here for some time past but all has been quiet so far. It is my opinion that th army will not go into winter quarter this winter.

I have no more news to write except that I am getting fat on army buiscuts. have a ten dollar bill on the Burlington Bank of Vermont and I do not know whether t is good or not, if it is it is of no use to me here, I will sent it to you and you m find out whether it is or not if it is good keep it and let me know soon, if not, se it back.

We are having a splendid time here in the fort nothing to do but stand guard one a week and take care of the horses. but it is awful to see the infantry in sutch a storm as this has been mud knee deep---shoes on. It is not good to be there I reckon.

No more this time, my love to all write soon all of you Noel

December 30/64

Dear Mother, Father,

We received your kind favor of the 17th yesterday and were glad to learn that yo re all well and I also have the pleasure of informing you that we are well. We have c hurd from Squire as yet, in all probability he went to Washington or elsewhere.

Mother, I have changed my mind somewhat. Now that things are looking favorable as gards this fighting business I think that the rebs will play out one of these days if we may get home in course of time therefore I have thought best to have you keep at money I shall send and what I have sent (except what Lydia has) until I come home l not let any more go in no case unless you should hire out some then be shure you e safe. Furthermore keep fifty dollars by you all the time and not less than $50 not be used except it is positively necessary.
Now Mother I do not want to be any ways stingy but I want what money I do have ere I can get it any moment, I would sooner loose all then have you worry about it rway you shall not loose anything by taking care of it all I ask is the principal if u can make anything with it it is yours. I believe I have sent $110 in all providing at bill is good and if it is not be shure and send it back immediately or I shall ve to loose it, if you pay it out I shall expect you to replace it you should use errits funds and give him credit for the same and that is something that you should tend to for he will want it again some time probably if nothing should happen and if ere does there is so much more kneed of having things kept strait. And another thing u want to write often.
Now about that colt, I should like to have him kept but he will be a great bother t if you can keep him until another year he will bring enough more and my opinion is there is a fair prospect of his making a horse that will sell well it will be better Gerrit to let you have money to buy another and keep him a spell longer & see, but dont want to say how or when you must talk with him about if for it stands me in hand keep what I can and get all I can for it. I should get out of this. I shall want ne if not more, if not it makes liftle difference where it goes. Gerrit wants u to use his money but he wants you to keep an account of it so you can tell him ere it is or at any time. Except this with much love to all Noel ar Father and Mother:

As we do not have a very good place to write here at the fort I have neglected swering your kind favor recieved last week with a few lines from Lydia. I sent the tter to Gerrit so I shall not be able to answer that except about the shirt I sent it Rossie by mail, if you never get it no matter.
Last week I was at the camp of the 14th heavy art. Saw Chet & Charles he (Charles) d been to city point and had found Squire but said he was very low or had been and must have been for he had forgotten what reg. we was in and everything. Had the phoid fever. I sent word to Gerrit to go immediately and see him, he went and says is getting better it has been impossible for me to go as I am on picket but will go soon as possible as he has passed the turning point, he is out of danger no doubt.
Sunday the 8th we were ordered to pack up with 3 days rations, that is the cannon-ers 6 in number and one gunner at 3 oclock, we took up our line of march on the flank ad toward Petersburgh.After a march of six miles we went into Fort Rice at dark, put or guns in position and went to sleep in our huts, six by eight, very comfortable for or 3, in the morning were one mile from Petersburgh and in a splendid position near rt Hill, in that one mile the Jonies have three picket lines which is 300 feet from or advance line. I was out between the two lines and picked up some balls the other dy the ground is literally covered with them. It was very quiet here when we came ere is some morter firing nearly every day but they have not fired on us as yet and leve here tomorrow we shall have no trouble. So far we have had no casualties ex-pt the juice malidy since the fall of Fort Fisher the -----are all air.
I hear that the 5th corps is under marching orders, when, that is yet to be known.
for me I am well in every sense of the word. Give my love to all the friends, tell ll that I can see lots of rebs just be stepping out of my door since last Sunday ey do not fire anymore.
Axcept this with much love from Noel We have not seen the pay master yet, but if he comes this winter I shall be all right. Goodby.

Dear Father, Mother, Sisters & Brother:

Again I can inform you that Gerrit and myself are well. I saw John and last Sat urday slept and took dinner with him on my return from the raid. Squire was all righ and at his reg't before we started out. Gerrit has gone over to see him now. It i about 3/4 of a mile from here. All is quiet today except an occasional shot of som lazy gun near St. Petersburgh.

There has been but very little snow here this winter although we have had som cold weather and very little mud. We rec'd your letter of the 9th this morning an were glad to hear that you were all well. Those socks have not come yet. How muc postage did you pay on them they may come all right yet if not we will count them wi the loss and gain. The pay master has not got around yet, there is a rummer that he coming this month I think I can hold out for a while yet.

I must tell you something about the raid we have had last Sunday we left camp a daylight in light marching order, marched until noon found the enemy in work on th opposit bank of watches run we camp up but as they were in the weeds we did not fir the enemy were flanked and found to be about fifty strong of which about 10 were cap tured the rest broke their guns and fled. We came up to the run, found the bridge di troyed, this was at 11 oclock.

We crossed and marched until dark, camped and went to sleep but not for the nigh at 10 we were up and on the march again, took our back track for 3 miles then to t left for 6 miles where we lay until morning getting no sleep, 6th clear and cold morning, made coffee about 9 oclock firing was hurd on the left which continued unt. 3 pm when it became general along the whole line we moved out to the left but did n get a chance to fire the musketry was terrific until dark when all became quiet, moved to the right took position behind works, lay down slept until morning, 7th co rain and hail, firing commences, we moved to our position of the evening previous a then I expected to get a chance to cut loose but the jonies did now show themselve

Noon went back to works rebs got range on us with 10pbs which made some of u doge, Gerrit and I were in the weeds when a shot came through & struck in the mud abo 50 feet from us then bounded and went in and killed a horse, fearful. Well, it rain all day and we got wet at night we made up a good fire and slept for the night. E warm all feeling well, troops busy throwing up works. Jonies fall back, our men a- vance and bring in the dead striped of everything and covered with ice and snow, a quiet. 9th all quiet, troops building works, 10th all quiet. 11th orders to marc limbered up and marched into the line of works and I must say that in two days they built some splendid brestworks, the troops then all fell back inside the works and w marched back to our old camp without firing a shot or loosing a man. There was so mu weeds that we could not use artillery.

On the way back I stopped and took dinner with John, since then all has been wel with us. I told you Gerrit had gone to see Squire since I commensed this, I have be over there horseback found Gerrit there, Squire was cleaning his gun since he came fr the hospital he has got as black as your boot but it is getting his health and stre back. The boys are all well in the 186, Gerrit and I have a good head of straw cove d with bows and plenty of blankets, give my respects to all the friends from---Noel

THE DIARY OF NOEL W. CONGER FOR THE YEAR 1865

A brief description of the book which is rather small measuring only 4 inches by 2½ wide by 3/4 thick. It is black imitation leather with a fold over flap wit a tongue inserted into a loop. In opening the front cover has a double pocket and b cover has a pocket and loop for pencil. Inside on fly leaf is a sticker naming seller--W.H. & O.H.Morrison, Booksellers and Stationers - 439 & 440 Pa. Ave., Washin ton, D.C. On the facing page is written--Noel W. Conger, Rossie, St. Lawrence Co. N. Member of Battery D. 1st N.Y. Art. 5th A.C..

The next few pages contain printed material such as calendar for the year 1865, postal rates, the years calendar month by month with dates, days, sun rise, sun set, moon rise, etc. Of the diary itself there is one page per day. It is rather difficult to decipher some of the writing as the style of writing some letters was different then than we are accustomed to writing them today. Parts of it look as if he had written it in the dark as the writing is nearly a crooked undecipherable scribble. (submitted by Lionel William Conger 1913).

2. Sylvia Winifred Conger.....10 Oct 1946-- --Marlin Enser,6/11/7

Noel has done a splendid job in finding the descendants of his great grandfathe Colvin Conger 1807. He also contributed the letters and copy of the diary of his grandfather, Noel Wesley Conger 1842.

On 20 Mar 1971 he wrote to your compiler: "We have a little in common. I was t director of the Methodist Adult Choir here for about 10 years. Not anymore, tho--ha to give it up several years ago when I started driving a truck which kept me away fr here most of the time. I had quite an extensive vocal background though, through hi school and up to 1960.

"On the data sheet on myself for occupation, I believe I put down employee of t city of Brookings, or some such thing, which is true, as I manage and maintain the c armory-auditorium. However, as a trade, I'd say painter and paperhanger, as I follo- ed that for many years prior to 1960. I've done lots of things besides but of no co- sequence."

That Noel has been bitten by the "genealogy bug" and will never recover from th "fever", was evident to your compiler when he and his family stopped for a brief vis on 5 Aug 1971 to see how the book was progressing.

THE EMIGRATION OF THE N. H. CONGER FAMILY FROM ONEIDA, ILLINOIS TO WACO, TEXAS IN 1870

(By Roger N. Conger)

For many years the writer has been interested in the account of the pioneer journey to Texas from Illinois made in the fall of 1870 by the family of his grandfather, Norman Hurd Conger. From Ralph Conger, the writer's father, who was seven years old at the time of the trek, and from other members of the family the story has long been fairly well reported. In addition, in recent years several manuscript letters written by older members of the group have come to light. The latest source is a diary that was kept during the entire trip by the seventeen-year-old daughter, Clara. From these authentic sources the complete account has been assembled and compiled. While not a unique adventure, the journey is still of broad general interest, depicting as it does the fairly typical example of the hundreds of pioneer cavalcades which moved toward Texas during the years immediately following the Civil War. The account is reproduced herewith in tribute to the resourceful settlers who chose to "pull up stakes" and cast their fortunes with the boisterous and "unreconstructed" Texas of 1870, almost a century ago.

A good starting point is a yellowed newspaper clipping headed "Oneida Letter." This clipping presumable was taken from the paper of near-by Knoxville, Illinois, and bears the date line "Oneida, August 29th": "Saturday, the 27th inst. was a gala day for Oneida. Messrs. N. H. Conger, Wheeler and Todd had a public sale of their personal goods and chattels, preparatory to their emigrating to the 'Lone Star' State. Everybody for miles around was on hand, not only to give tone to the sale, but to give the fare-well hand to old neighbors, tried and true.

"Norman H. Conger, or Norm, as he has been called, lo, these many years, is, peculiarly and thoroughly a Knox county institution, having been imported into Cherry Grove in 1839, every inch an eleven-year-old boy. Norm grew to be a man in Knox county and married Miss Mary Angelina Wheeler of Knoxville, the 12th of March, 1850, and if love was not the foundation of the co-partnership, we will deny that the little winged god has anything to do with family affairs.

"In the spring of 1855, Norm moved from Cherry Grove to Ontario township, where he opened up a new prairie farm, resided on the same until the spring of '68, when he came into our town to be at home, and near schools for the young Norman juniors, since when he has not only been one of us, but carried on the farm, too.

"We have been acquainted with him for the last twenty years, and were we to live for a thousand, we would ask in our prayers for plenty of just such neighbors as are Mr. & Mrs. N. H. Conger and family.

"For twenty-five years Norman has been in active business life; has shown the world what a Knox County farmer is. His steers, horses, mules, and hogs are known in all our markets, from New Orleans to Boston.

"Last winter he, in company with Deacon Jas. Grand and A. Wheeler visited Texas on a prospecting tour, landed in the 'Lone Star' State at Indianola, purchased a team and carry-all, and struck for up country. Were much pleased with the country and future prospects. Purchased a site for a future home at Waco. Returned by way of Galveston and New Orleans, and since the 1st of March has been getting fixed up for an overland to his prospective home in the sunny South. This week Wednesday is the day fixed for the starting of the caravan, which will consist of eight wagons and ambulances, and in which will emigrate N.H.C. and family, consisting of five children, the fifth, she that used to be Abbie Grant having married into the family last Wednesday the 24th, early in the morning, by taking Charley for a husband; Col. Todd and family, and A. Wheeler and family, with the necessary help, all told 22 Persons.

"Oneida will feel the loss of so many of our best citizens. But what to us will be loss will be to Texas, in her unreconstructed state, great gain. She is greatly in need of a few thousand just such men and women to give tone to her society and growing institutions.

"If integrity, industry, intelligence, and indomitable pluck are the necessary qualifications to success,then certainly will our Knox County Pioneer Emigrant Compa for Waco be eminently successful, for Conger, Wheeler and Todd know no fear, and da to ----(the last few lines of the clipping become illegible.)"

The Norman H. Conger family which left Oneida on September 1, 1870, consisted Norman and his wife, Mary; their daughter, Clara, who was seventeen years old at time; their youngest sons, Newt and Ralph, who were nine and seven respectively;and eldest son, Charles, who was nineteen years of age, accompanied by his wife, Abb Grant--niece of U. S. Grant.

Charles's recollections of the great adventure were always vivid. In a lett dated January 7, 1931, to a cousin, Lois Conger Harman (daughter of Edward Dun All Conger), he set down some remarkably clear and interesting reminiscences:

"Your letter with its questions made me go way back into memories dust covered years and dig up the records that have been stored there but not forgotten. To answe your question of 'Why did the Congers settle at Waco' intelligently I will have to still farther back, so I begin at the beginning.

"In 1858 some Texas men drove a herd of Texas cattle to Illinois, and as Father farm was the last farm adjoining the vast prairie of open country they herded the cattle there and used Father's feeding pens to yard them at night. They were with us all summer and Father became very much interested in Texas. So in 1859 he went to Vi- toria, Texas and was so well pleased he decided to move, but the Civil War came on and he could not go then until after the war. In 1869 Father Conger, Father Grant and Uncle Dolph Wheeler went to Victoria, Texas, but they were not so well pleased,so they bought a team of horses and light wagon and started to drive up through the state.When they came to San Antonio they were not pleased so drove to Austin,did not like that so drove on to Waco. Between Austin and Waco the country is very much like Knox County, Illinois, and they were all very much pleased and they decided to locate there, so Father Conger bought twenty acres in Waco(Conger Hill where you and all of us lived at some time except Father); Father Grant bought one hundred and seventy five acres 6 miles south of Waco, and Uncle Dolph bought several hundred acres in Hill county.

"Then they sold their team and wagon and took the Stage back to Illinois. That is chapter two. Then in 1870, Sept 1st, Father and Mother Conger; Uncle Dolph Wheeler and Aunt Lydia his wife and their baby boy Newt; Mr. and Mrs. Todd and son Clayton, and daughter Marcia; Uncle Fred Wheeler; Abbie and I, Sister Clara and Brothers Newt and Ralph; and three men to drive the wagons, Abe Harris, William Wilks, and Willie Haws; Uncle Dolph's driver I have forgotten his name; we drove into Waco on October 10th just forty days from the time we left Oneida,went into camp under the big live oak trees on Conger Hill where your father built his barns.

"In 1871 your father and Uncle Harvey (Conger) had written my father they were coming to Texas and wanted someone to meet them at the end of the rail road which was then at Fort Gibson, Indian Territory. So I took my six mules and two horses and Fa- hers two mules and a negro man I had working for me and drove to FortGibson and brought you two families to Waco. I kept a record of the money I paid out on the trip and our folks paid me that amount back.So that answers your questions as best as I can." (This letter dated January 7, 1931, in possession of Roger N.Conger, Waco, Texas.)

Clara Conger, Charles's seventeen-year-old sister,was a beautiful, animated girl, and it was understandably difficult for her to leave Oneida. She kept a diary of the entire forty - day journey, and her observations, while entirely unscientific, are of much interest. The following are excerpts from this diary:

September 1st,1870, Thursday--The teams all left Oneida at 10 o'clock and started for Texas. There were a great many came to bid us farewell. I stayed at Ida's until after dinner, then Jim and Ida took me down to Galesburg. We stopped and got some ice cream and did some shopping, then went on to Uncle Laurens. They all stayed until 11--we had a dance and a real good time eating grapes and talking. Alto and Frank Ida and Jim then said they must go home tonight. It was so hard to see them go. We slept in the tents. It rained in the night.

Friday 2.--Started from Uncle Laurens about 8 o'clock,traveled about 5 miles

I wrote a letter to Ida and mailed it at Abingdon. We went through Saluda, Abingdon, St. Augustine and Avon, and stopped just a little way from Prairie City. We camped and got supper about 6 o'clock and O we were SO hungry. We ate lots of apples and wild cherries and Abbie, Newtie, Ralph and myself were sick in the night. We all went to bed about 9 o'clock. There were some very kind people rode past and sung for us which sounded very nice.

Sunday 4.--Started from camp about 8½ o'clock. The dew was very heavy and every thing was so wet it looked rather discouraging, but soon got pleasanter. We rode thru Middletown, Lorrain and Plymouth and stopped about 5 o'clock. Then Abbie, Ma and I went to a house and got some rainwater, then went back to the camp and took a bath and changed all our clothes. After supper we got the singing books and we all had a good sing, then wrote letters. I wrote to Jim and Kit.

Monday 5.--Started from camp a little after seven. It rained most all day. I read part of the time and wrote a letter to Ida. Every time they stopped to water I would write a little and then a little more until I finished it and mailed it at Mendon. We came through Bowensburg, Chili, Woodville and Mendon. Today there were some awful steep slippery hills, I thought two or three times the wagons would surely tip over. After we camped wrote a letter to Aung Vantia. Abe played on his fiddle, the boys played cards and we all had a good time.

Tuesday 6.--Started from camp about eight. It was raining and rained until about 11. We came through Quincy at 12, stopped and did some trading. Saw Mr. Stow and chatted with him a few minutes. It cleared off real warm this afternoon. We stopped about 4½ o'clock and camped about 7 miles south and a little west of Quincy, close by a splendid spring and by high bluffs. After supper we all felt real jolly and had a good time, we tried to see which could scream the loudest. This is the last night we shall be in Illinois.

Wednesday 7.--Started from camp about 7. Rode along the valley of the Mississippi all day, saw some splendid scenery, such high bluffs of limestone and some of sand. We crossed the Mississippi about 11½ o'clock at Hannibal on a Ferry boat all at once. Camped ½ mile from Paris in the woods. Splendid place only there was a slaughter house almost to close to be agreeable.

Friday 9.--Got started at 7, was raining and rained most all day. Mailed 11 letters at Paris, it is quite a place. Crossed Salt river 4 times. Abbie, Marcia and myself rode a little while with Willie and played Euchre. It was raining so we camped at 4 o'clock just the other side of Middle Grove. Rained steady all night.

Pa bought 6 chickens, potatoes, eggs etc. and we had a good dinner about 4 o'clock. (The diary of Clara Conger is in the possession of Mrs. R. J. Bruges, Glen Cove New York.)

The caravan must have made an unusually early start the next morning, on Monda October 10, 1870, for that evening the Congers rolled into the picturesque little ci of Waco. Clara Conger made no further entry in her diary, other than to record a las day mileage of 47 miles covered.The party crossed the Brazos by way of the new suspe sion bridge, which had just opened for traffic in January 1870. The party continu westward to the location of the acreage N. H. Conger had purchased the previous year and set up tents under the spreading live oaks near the present intersection of 13 and Barnard Avenue. The twenty-acre plot had been purchased from Captain Tommy Barr and was bounded by what is present Jefferson Avenue on the south, to Barron Avenue the north, and by North 11th St. on the east, to Novelty St. on the west. In 18 this entire tract became, as the "N.H. Conger Addition," one of the first expansions of the city's residential area to the north and west.

Although the narrative of the Congers' trek to Texas in 1870 concludes at th point,the sequel is equally interesting and significant as a case study of the peric Gratifying a long-time ambition, N. H. Conger purchased one of the celebrated eleve league Mexican land grants in McLennan county--the Miguel Rabago. Embracing upwards fifty thousand acres of fertile pasture land, the grant ran from the Hill county li on the north almost to Waco, and some twenty miles east by west. For many years th vast range was known by all the stockmen of the region as the "Conger Free Gras" although in 1874 Conger bought a wagonload of the first barbed wire to be brought in McLennan county. He built a comfortable two-story white house at China Spring, and t was in this house that he died in 1876. Heirs of the Rababo family had brought su over title to the land grant, and during this litigation Conger was caught in a chil- ing Texas norther as he drove home from Waco in his buggy. Pneumonia quickly develop and the sturdy pioneer was dead in three days. The Conger family ultimately won t land suit, although the determined Rabagos took the case to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Tragedy came also to Clara Conger. She became engaged to marry Charles M. Harv in 1871, and although it was known that he was suffering from tuberculosis, the coup were married on Christmas Day, 1871, by Dr. Samuel A. King of the First Presbyteri Church. The family Bible reveals that on February 25, 1874, a daughter, Mary Ida w born to them, but on December 11, 1874, Charles Harvey died, followed on January , 1877, by Mary, and by Clara on December 30, 1879.

The sons, Charles, Newt and Ralph, engaged in large scale livestock breeding a farming. Charles built an attractive home on his ranch a few miles south of Waco, n present Robinsonville, and named it Hillside Farm. Here he and his two brothers ope- ted a mercantile store in addition to their agricultural activities.

N. H. Conger's two brothers, Ed and Harvey, associated with him in a flourish g foundry and machine shop in Waco, known first as N. H. Conger and Company,and later s Conger and Wilcox and Star Iron Works. The firm manufactured the first artificial i- making machinery in Texas for an inventive French immigrant named Andrew Muhl, and e Conger windmills won first prize at the Texas State Fair at Houston in 1874.

In Illinois N. H. Conger had been a raiser of pedigreed Durham cattle, and e rd he shipped to Waco was among the first high grade beef cattle in the state. In 1874 h organized the Texas Agricultural, Horticultural, Mechanical and Industrial Associaton of Waco, and served as its first president. The Association's first fair, held i September, 1874, was a great success.

Although Norman Conger has been dead for almost a century, his influence can still b seen and felt in the Waco area. As a representative of the pioneer builders who flourished in post-Civil War Texas, Conger assumes stature within the state.

It was while engaged in this work that he learned from the Indians the location the great mass of pure copper,which had long been sought by white men. In response to submitting his data for the book, Omar wrote: "You might be interested in an odd bit of information: on the way to Okinawa (March 1945) I met a man named Lester Raymond Conger. He was mildly surprised at my name and said that his brother bore the same name. He also mentioned that his brother looked strongly Indian; so much so that he would feel at home on any reservation. He stated that their home town was Lapeer, Michigan. Some years later when I entered a subscription to the DESERT MAGAZINE my subscription was at first listed as a re-newal for an Omar D. Conger in Fenton, Michigan. They are perhaps the same person.

"My father bore distinct Indian characteristics. Although my aged aunts scoff at the suggestion, I am fairly sure that we have Indian blood in the family and it seems to have brought along some highly dominant characteristics. I'm not sure where it entered the line but I suspect that my great grandfather, who was known in the Senate as "The Indian" had more than just a speaking relationship with one of the old Indians around the area where he grew up. Anyhow, it's a good theory. There is also Indian blood on my wife's mother's side of the family. It shows up rather strongly in our young son Ian."

If there is "Indian Blood" in these two lines, it would have to go back to John Beconger's 2nd wife, Mary Cawood. Omar Dwight 1925 is descended from Job 1694, and Omar David 1925 is from Joseph 1692.

Patrick Henry Conger was superintendent of the Yellowstone National Park. He served in the Civil War, enlisting at Dubuque, Iowa on 14 May 1864, Co A, 47th Iowa Inf.

Patrick Henry Conger's great grand daughter, Eva J. Conger Nichols of Rapid City, S.Dk, claims that he was a colonel in the Civil War. Besides his position with Yellow Stone Park, he was sent as an Indian Agent to Yankton Sioux Tribe, now at Wagner,S-Dk. She wrote: "At the time of the Minnesota uprising, runners were sent to Chief War Eagle who was then living where Sioux City is today. He was told to kill all white settlers in that area, but he refused this request because his own grandchildren were part white. His daughter Dawn (Anpao) had married Theophile Brugier, a French trapper and trader, parents of my grandmother, Julia Brugier.

"When Cassius M. Conger met my grandmother and became interested in her, his father quit the service to return to Dubuque, but my grandfather ran away from him at Sioux City and returned to the Yankton Indian Agency and married Julia.

"He did have a brother who died quite young and only had a sister, Mrs. Reicker of Dubuque who was a very wealthy woman. She also had tremendous holdings in Waterloo, Iowa where I believe she is buried in a Conger vault. I also seem to remember that there was some park in Waterloo named the CONGER PARK she had given to the city."

Your compiler was unable to verify this, but believes it may have been what is now Exchange Park on Conger Street.

BIOGRAPHICAL: "I was born in the 'Reform School' at Waukesha, Wisconsin;my father and mother both being there, to add quickly, however, as teachers. My uncle John n New Brunswick, N.J. got my father a job as clerk in a general store for a brick company in Sayreville, N.J. where we spent the next three years. Then moved back to rairie du Sac, Wisconsin where he became partner in a general store,previously in the onger family, where we lived thereafter. My mother had attended the Lake Forest Academy, where she specialized in Physical Education and Art, and did some nice oil painting until family duties interferred.

"Father died at 42 of heavy work in the heat and brain hemorrhage. Mother died at 8 of old age--active till within a year. A little, energetic, remarkable, and much oved lady - though not geneo-biographical, it is notable (and I can't refrain from elling) even doctors were impressed,she recovered from cancer of bladder operation at 2, lived with arthritis for 35 years, and recovered from two broken hips and broken ight arm (simultaneous) at 91 to walk as usual about town on errands; remarried at 76 childhood friend and lived six years in California until he (Mr. Knapp) died.

"Outstanding event in my childhood--it was all outstanding, as would be to a boy n a quiet, peaceful Mid-west town,with good parents and fine teachers, a n d some ruly 'outstanding' townspeople, a swimming-hole, canoe and cane fish-pole,before the utomobile, airplane, radio, or television; before erosion, pollution, the bulldozer, esticides, weed - killers, oil - smoke and noise. A story in itself, rightly t o l d, s it never will be. Talents and business accomplishments--few; hobbies, plenty. ourses in Agriculture and Biology led me to a job at the U.S. National Museum (Smithonian Institution) where I have been in the Department of Botany, as Associate Curator and custodian of the Diatem collection, doing study on Diatems, now emeritus."

Upon receipt of "On the Hill-Top (Actuary-illy Speaking), your compiler was left n utter awe by Paul's inexhaustible vocabulary. Trying in vain to send an appropriate eply I sent him a post card with only the word "WHEW!" written on it. On 5 October 969 he wrote, "Dear Cousin Maxine: You have me 'stopped'--I tried to come up with a ingle word, to reply to you, in like, but couldn't make it. I take your 'Whew!!' at ts best, reacting as above, and shall keep it as a prize--most comprehensive and expressive--cute as all get out.

"But, literally, perhaps you do wish to 'stop me'--and I will, for I realize a ady (even as close as a 7th and $\frac{1}{2}$ cousin) with five genealogies 'on the docket',a 10 oom house, and spiders, has, and should have, no spare time to carry on a loquacious tete-a-tete' with a decrepit, dubious, defunct, decadent 'Poet'--'On the way to.....'

"Do continue, for your own sake, to have fun,as your delightful personality indiates. And, I do like to think there is a 13th or 15th part of 'Conger' in it. 'Whew' can be a wonderful 'last word'--and delicious--thank you. (Signed Cousin Paul)"

(Actuary-illy Speaking)

by

Paul S. Conger

There are ways to go to the Cemetery; The lights are on, the vehicles vary;
But it's best we go with a bit of a laugh, at the solemn, sentimental "Epitaph."

It may embarrass you that I have brought this morbid bit of "disinterred" thought;
But read with care, and ponder often--nothing seals so secure as does the coffin.

You may regret you've inveigled me into this "fateful" raphsody;
I warn - you proceed "at your own risk"; the thoughts are dank, the language brisk.

Then, put on your "melancholia" braces, if perchance we here should "kick the trace",
For who can guess what words be wrought, when one gets caught in pungent thought.

Some folks are stern, with great reserve,who "toe the straight", but skid the curve
Do you think that God has meant that we should behave so subcutaneously?

Should be these words and thoughts eschewed,when musing thus, in morbid mood?
For none can shake the genealogical grip of potential, inevitable, ancestorship.

We're ever too close to Eternity; and the Past is so vast it bewilders me.
The "Sands of Time" are a lot of sand--give me the moment that is close at hand.

A granite stone will mark, one day, the phosphatic remains of our mortal "clay".
So let us now, "Eat, drink, be merry;" it's the pleasanter course to the Cemetery.

I've the cadaverous feel of "senile" age; in Life's late, "Terminal", moribund sta;
Afflictions and maladies attend me much; infectious to look at, lethal to touch.

I've coped unsuccessfully with "Sin"; now, Time is "borrowed", with one leg in.
But as long as I linger, on the brink, however incongruously, I like to "think".

Too oft, I fear, it is cogently said, the corpse is alive - when the mind is dead.
And what is Man in this "hop, skip, and jump" if the Heart, they say, is merely a p

I'm a virtual calcium depository, with "hallucinations" in the "upper story."

've had my day, Life's been a "song"; cars and apple-carts I've dodged for long;
he bill-collector, the medical faker--but it's different with the undertaker.

o us, it's real, this life we live; to the world, it's mostly "relative".
'Dust to dust, Ashes to ashes"--to the undertaker, that's where the cash is.

ho the largess we supply it is largely chaff,the mind begets ulcers unless we laugh.

e're arrogant,proud,conceited and smug; someday it'll all be "under the rug".
f what lies beyond, opinions vary; we're compelled to halt here at the cemetery.

nlike the monkey, babboon or giraffe, to salvage our mentes we've learned to laugh.

CHRISTMAS GREETINGS (AND SALUTE) TO THE LEONARDS

by

You who have moved incredible times (eighteen times in twenty-five years)
And acclimated yourselves to the climes, and lived more excitedly than probably appe s

You've packed belongings when the rifle was drawn and chased the Army about the wor
And answered the bugle at early dawn wherever our flag might be unfurled.

It must seem a pleasure again to be back home in the "Star Spangled" States,
Where you put gay trinkets on the Christmas tree; watch popping sparks in the grate

Our thought of you there west the Big River, that our country from Canada to Gulf sp
In Iowa winter makes me huddle and shiver, and mentally put on my fur-lined mitts.

Where summer's hot winds sear and parch, you miss the glory of trumpets and drums;
But in your home you're not on the march, which is a joy when Santa Claus comes.

No emotions reveal how an officer feels when he smartly salutes in bright uniform, Snaps to attention, clicking his heels, and folks look in pride and girls smile warm

Orders from Headquarters no longer a must; the "Master" 'til 9 can snore heavily;
Clocks can gather their dust and pay no attention to "Taps" and to "Reveille".

Only the corn stand straight in its rows, and the rooster as "Reveille" is heard--
You can turn off clocks, thumb your nose, and yell, "Shut-up, you saucy bird."

You've served Uncle Sam and earned your peace,no more to receive nor give his command. May your lives now be a long-time lease on the freedom, joy and good of the land.

You can speak of glory of an Army's array,and honor of service you can proudly tell of, And medals, ribbons, stripes in the fray,but there's nothing like Peace, Comfort,&Love.

"Pete" was bitten by the "genealogy bug" and never rested until the missing l was found to tie his line into John Belconger. Acting on a hunch over the name "Aar in the family, your compiler guided Pete into searching for Aaron 1812, whose bro had settled in Washington county, Iowa, and their families were accounted for. Pet great grandfather, William J. Conger, simply "appeared" there.

On 6 Nov 1969, Pete wrote, "William J.'s discharge lists his birthplace as Washi ton county, New York. The 1860 census says he came from Ohio, so Ohio was only a st over, I guess. We have the complete description of the two ¼ sections that Aaron ho steaded in Washington county, Iowa. Gosh! They were right behind the Indians!

"I hope to get to Washington county and check some more records. Also I wo like to stand on the very place that Aaron homesteaded. Sound crazy? We have the l al descriptions so I can find it. After Aaron's death William and John farmed the pl 'or awhile.

"Someday I am going the whole route back to Woodbridge and John Conger (Primus). hould be able to drive in two weeks what took 300 and some years in the beginning."

When asked why he was called "Pete", he wrote: "My nickname was really used b y y father just to tease me at first. We had an old junk man come by the neighborhood ith the name of "Peter Rybar". The Pete came from this. I also felt my real name, ilton, sounded so sissified."

On page 3 of the booklet printed by Ivan A.Conger, 1969, we are told: "Abel Potter Conger moved to Dickinson when twelve years old and lived there the remainder of his life. He was baptized by Rev. Benjamin Bundy and united with the Freewill Baptist Church at Dickinson in 1854. About three years later he married Trephene Winslow, who died in 1859. He later married Claria Wilson. He was the father of two sons and two daughters.

"He was noted as a home man, endeavoring to make his family happy and their surroundings pleasant. He was seldom absent from the home circle. He was a faithful attendant at religious worship until compelled by a painful disease to deprive himse of these means of grace. As far as his means would allow he dispensed with a cheerf hand for the relief of the poor and suffering. He, with his companion, was a gre lover of company, which they entertained liberally. His last sickness was protract and exceedingly painful, yet he endured all with Christian meekness and fortitude. Ju before he expired he requested his companion to read to him once more the word of Gd. After the reading a short prayer was offered, in which he joined and he soon aft passed to the spirit land. Rev. R. Parks officiated at the funeral, assisted by Re. Nelson Ramsdell." (From the obituary in the family Bible.)

Robert said his father homesteaded in Nebraska at the age of 18. His mother, essie, went to Nebraska to live with her sister, and she, too, took up a homestead. Inis and Bessie each had 640 acres when they married, and later accrued 2380 acres. hey lived six months on one homestead, and six months on the other to meet the federal stipulations for a claim. Finis had lied about his age to the government, and ater when he became a Christian this bothered him. He wrote to Washington to confess, and he was forgiven.

Robert recently had the privilege of bequeathing a family walking stick to his irst grandson, Andrew Ival Conger. The stick was made in the early 1800s by Joseph bbles, called "Uncle Joe". It was made for one of his Conger progenitors--for Fin's father Sigel, or Sigel's father Elias, or for Elias's father Enos. Traditionally has been passed on to the oldest son to his oldest son. It was given to Robert hen Ival was born because his three brothers all had daughters.

Whoever it was made for, Uncle Joe reputedly was very particular.

"It is a hickory stick. He hunted all over the woods until he found the branch h wanted, then he tied it. And in two or three years he returned to it, and it had grown straight by that time," Robert said.

"After he cut it, he threw it up in the barn and left it for a year. After that ear was up, he went and got it. He peeled the bark off of it and threw it up there for another year.

"The next year he began to whittle. The walking stick was carved into four separate segments with each segment made in the form of a different tool handle: a hamr, ax, adz and mall," he said. "Once each of the handles was carved, the wood was soothed with a piece of broken glass. There was no sandpaper in those days."

In keeping with the tradition of handing down the walking stick, Robert has made a old fashioned baby cradle for each of his four daughters and his son. The cradles are to be handed down from generation to generation. Some are made from walnut and some from cherry. Milred contributes to this project by making the spindles, cover foam mattresses and making the linens. They have made 6 large cradles and 9 small ones.

Robert and Mildred visited your compiler one morning in August 1971. Genealog time was used to the utmost for Robert as Mildred washed the Leonard's dishes.

1969 BIRTHDAY GREETING HONORS HENDERSON HOUSE AND LUCILE BAILEY CONGER FELLOWSHIP

ANN ARBOR, MICH.--The Alumnae Council is celebrating the University's 152nd birthday this month. The 1969 Birthday Greeting asks all University of Michigan alumnae to contribute a penny for each year. The gift will honor the late Lucile Bailey Conger in whose name the fellowship fund has been established.

Lucile Bailey Conger was the Alumnae Secretary for 15 years. She retired in 1947. Under her dynamic leadership, the alumnae were united into the Alumnae Council and a new respect was created for their activities in service to the University. Many new alumnae clubs were organized, two of which bear her name--one is in Ann Arbor, and the second in Owosso. Of all the alumnae projects which benefited from her vital interest and active involvement, Henderson House may have benefited more than any other. This cooperative residence for women is pictured on the cover of the 1969 greeting.

In 1917, the Michigan alumnae established an on-campus home for girls who chose to live and work together, thereby making it financially possible for some young women of demonstrated scholastic ability to attend the University. This early effort to have women's housing was called Alumnae House, which was followed by Mary Markley House. In 1925, under the guidance of Mrs. Conger, money was raised by the alumnae to purchase the Huber residence at 1330 Hill Street, which, ultimately became the Mary Bartron Henderson House, a residence for 30 girls.

SEYMOUR BEACH (BEACH) CONGER 1912 & GENEVIEVE MARION CUNNINGHAM*******

THE NEW YORK TIMES, Jan 6, 1969--Beach Conger, for 30 years a reporter, foreign correspondent and editor with the New York Herald Tribune, died today at the headquarters of the Reader's Digest, where he was a book editor. He was 56 years old.

Mr. Conger, who had suffered from a heart ailment for several years, collapsed in an elevator and was taken to the magazine's medical office where he was pronounced dead. He joined the magazine in 1966 as editorial manager of the general books division and was an editor of its major books. His home was at 31 Clark Street, Pleasantville.

Seymour Beach Conger 3d, who did not use his first name, was born March 1, 1912, in Berlin. His father was chief of The Associated Press bureau there, and his early schooling was in Germany. He went to high school in Michigan and was graduated cum laude from the University of Michigan in 1932.

Mr. Conger joined World Letters Inc., which prepared material for use in geography and social science classes, in 1933 and in three years with the organization visited 39 countries on six continents.

He joined The Herald Tribune as a reporter-rewrite man and became a foreign correspondent in 1939. In November of that year, he was forced by the Nazis to leave Germ because he telephoned a dispatch that said the German Army High Command was resist Hitler's demands that certain neutral countries be invaded.

After making Paris his headquarters, Mr. Conger was caught in Amsterdam on May 10 1940, when the Germans invaded the Low Countries and was prevented from leaving t Netherlands for two months.

In a dispatch filed the day of the invasion, Mr. Conger vividly described his u successful attempt to drive from Amsterdam to The Hague, in which he got caught in t crossfire between the Dutch defenders of Amsterdam and the Nazi invaders.

From Amsterdam, Mr. Conger went to Budapest in July. The following month, how ever, he was ordered out of the country for violating a Hungarian Foreign Office ord forbidding the reporting of news "which is either against Germany or Italy or in opp sition with known political principles and policies of the Axis." (From The Lyons De Beach Conger was in Athens just before Italy invaded, in '40. The censors cut t phone link whenever Italy or Rome was mentioned. Conger got his messages through referring to "Big Mulberry St."....from Holland, with a Nazi censor beside him , transmitted the newsbeat that the Dutch had opened their dikes. Conger cabled: "Qui here, like New Orleans in June." That's when the Mississippi floods rise.)

Mr. Conger became news editor of the Herald Tribune in 1942, and an assistan managing editor four years later. In that capacity he supervised foreign news covera and was the newspaper's travel editor. In 1956 Mr. Conger was named Sunday edito which he remained until 1966, when the Herald Tribune ceased publication.

From TIME, November 27, 1939: "Nazi Germany probably is more confused today th it has been since the days in 1933 when the Hitler Government first came to power... Submarine crews in Hamburg have been refusing to leave on trips unless they are rele- ed from the necessity of coming to the surface before torpedoing belligerent commerc vessels.....For some time certain persons have been firmly convinced that Germany i tended to invade the Netherlands....It was learned today that the conservative Army high command flatly refused to countenance any such action..."

So ran a dispatch on the front page of the New York Herald Tribune one day la week. Had it been datelined London or Paris, most propaganda-wise readers would ha passed it by with an indulgent smile. But it was datelined Berlin, signed by 27-ye old Seymour Beach Conger, newly appointed chief of the Herald Tribune's Berlin burea It had slipped easily through German censorship, which concentrates on suppressir "undesirable" writers, not undesirable words.

Next day, when correspondents gathered in the Propaganda Ministry for their reg lar morning conference, there was hell to pay. Blond, youthful Dr. Karl Bomer, head the press department, grimly read passages from Newsman Conger's dispatch, exclaimi "Lies!.....Scoundrelly reporting!.....False to the last syllable!"

Deprived of his right to attend press meetings or send dispatches, because "violation of the hospitality of the Reich", Newsman Conger was effectively silenced Stern Dr. Bomer offered to restore his privileges if the Herald Tribune would prin retraction. But it was unthinkable that the Herald Tribune would take orders from Be lin, repudiate what its own correspondent had written. Said Managing Editor Graf Wilcox in Manhattan: "If there is an official German denial, we'll print that." The was no German denial.

Thus ended, six weeks after it began, Beach Conger's brief career as a Ber Bureau chief. Born in Berlin, he is the son of a foreign correspondent; the late Se mour Beach Conger Sr. spent 13 years in Russia and Germany for Associated Press, attached to the German Army during World War I. Young Conger was graduated from University of Michigan in 1932, went twice around the world, then joined the Her Tribune staff two years ago.

When Joseph Barnes gave up his job in Berlin and went home for a rest (weary constant Nazi threats to muzzle him), Herald Tribune editors debated long over Be Conger's youth and inexperience, finally gave him Barnes's place. Blond, meticulo with close-cropped hair and thick-lensed spectacles, Conger looks like a respecta German official. Within two hours after his arrival in Berlin he had telephoned m pople than Joseph Barnes knew. Most of them were young Nazis who had once been his schoolmates.

They could not help him last week. The day after he was expelled from Dr. Bomer's conference a Nazi agent handed him his passport and visa. By week's end he was on his way to The Netherlands, homeward bound. The Herald Tribune office in Berlin was silent, forbidden to gather news or send messages out of Germany. A Nazi agent was on guard outside the door. For German coverage the Herald Tribune was dependent on press services alone.

Other newsmen in Berlin, though they sympathized with Conger's predicament, were undeniably irked by his lack of discretion. Since war began they have been allowed far more latitude than correspondents in London or Paris, have sent their dispatches uncensored on condition that they report nothing unfavorable to Germany. Now they fear that Conger's exploit will serve as an excuse to end this comparatively comfortable system, wind foreign journalists in a stricter web of censorship.

On 17 Oct 1968, Beach wrote to your compiler: "I know how you feel about your town (Janesville). When I was a youngster I lived in Leslie, Michigan, which had about 1200 population. And we managed to amuse ourselves without any radios, TVs, swimming pools, movies, and all the rest. Once or twice in the summer there would be a movie shown on the side wall of the general store, and of course the Chautauqua came for a week, but that was about it. My favorite pastime was going down to the depot with the mail man who carried the mail to and from the post office. It was especially thrilling to watch the trains which didn't stop hook on to the mail bag attached to a semaphore-like arrangement beside the tracks. They never missed. I don't think my parents approved because he chewed tobacco and didn't use very good grammar, but it was all exciting to a 10-year-old. When we visited my grandparents, Grandpa used to go out to the barn, catch a chicken and chop off its head on a big tree stump, and then it had to be plucked, singed, and heavens knows what else before cooking on the big range in the kitchen."" Beach'es last letter, dated 3 Jan 1969, reads in part: "To answer your questions about the Digest and Pleasantville, I was with the New York Herald Tribune for nearly 30 years before joining the Digest just before the Trib ceased publication. I was an associate editor in the General Books division, which is in New York City. I helped write and edit a book called These United States. The division gets out all sorts of reference books and anthologies on stories which have appeared in the magazine: Great Encyclopedic Dictionary, Great World Atlas (my last job in New York was getting out a new edition of this one), the Complete Book of Gardening, Scoundrels and Scalawags, World's Great Fairy Tales, Most Unforgettable Animals, etc.

"Then the vice-president in charge of the division decided he wanted an editor on the staff in Pleasantville to edit the promotion copy from an editorial department point of view, and I was selected. The work is not as interesting as straight editorial work, but it means I can drive to the office in ten minutes instead of spending an hour and a half getting to work in the city, and what a difference that makes!

"Although the Digest still uses the Pleasantville post office address, it has expanded so much that it had to move out into the country between Chappaqua and Mount Kisco. The hours are 8:30 - 4, there is an excellent cafeteria, and as an experiment we are going to have a 4-day work week in May. No, I don't think my name will ever be on the masthead, because Marion's is already there, and they now have a rule against hiring relatives of people already on the staff, so that it might be embarrassing.

"Pleasantville is an incorporated village of about 6,000 inhabitants. We only have about 4 or 5 apartment houses -- almost all the rest are individual homes, and the town planners want to keep it that way, as do the residents. I am on the library board, but dropped all my other civic jobs when I had to go into the hospital three years ago for a serious operation on my leg (blockage of an artery) followed by another one two years ago (same thing, only a neck artery). But before that I was senior warden of our church and on the board of the Job Exchange and frequently wrote publicity for the Boy Scouts, the Red Cross, etc.

"We live on a street that is only one block long, between the two main streets in town but five blocks from the business section. Behind us is one of the village foo ball fields, the tail end of it, which has trees growing on it (I should say vill property, since trees don't grow on football fields) so that when we sit on our ba porch in the summer time we really seem to be out in the country. It can get a b noisy when the softball teams play, but darkness puts an end to that.

"Although the families which had children when our youngsters were young ha moved away, new ones have come in with another generation of kids, which makes it nice family street. We will have lived here exactly fifteen years next month (one the few dates I'm sure of, because then the mortgage will be paid up). Before that were in a development outside the village, but Marion spent most of her time chauffe ing the kids and me to and from the village, so we finally decided to move in.

"Best wishes for a happy New Year to you and Larry. (signed) Beach." He di three days later.

Ledlie W. Conger sent a letter written by his father to his mother, dated 5 Aug 1916, in which he mentions the death of Bina (his sister Albina) and other relatives Apparently he conducted the funeral services.

Ledlie explained, "Father's first church, Presbyterian, Holdredge, Neb--two chu ches in Toledo, Ohio where I was born,then Columbus Grove, Ohio, and last, except fo several mission churches, Portsmouth, Ohio. Am enclosing the program of the "One Hun dredth Anniversary" of his church there.

"My father 'built' two churches in Toledo after the one he had in Columbus Gro Wound up living in Mother's old family home at Clyde, Ohio, preaching in several mi sion churches nearby. He died in his study with pen in hand, writing a sermon."

Excerpts of the letter: "Helmer, Ind. (Steuben county)--Just think -- Ora dro to Angola and back this forenoon, to Ruby's and back this afternoon,and now he star for Angola the second time--over 80 miles in just a few hours. I tell you, an au is a wonder. Ora is a slow driver, too--safe. (Ora Butler, his sister's son?)

"This forenoon I walked over an old familiar road on which I had not been si I was a boy here, 53 years ago. Mary, every foot of it brought up something or ot in connection with my youth.

"I saw the place where we stripped sugar cane. Where I laid down flat on m stomach to get a drink of water at a spring and Greenwood (?) jumped into the sa close to the spring and splattered me from head to foot, and I jumped up and sai 'I'll kill you with my fist!'

"I stood at the gate where Ma bade goodby to three of my brothers as they sta ed for war. Stepped inside of the old school house which I attended 55 and 56 yea ago. Saw the place in the school house where I was made to sit with a girl f mis-conduct, and it almost killed me. Saw the corner, where, on a last day, I made boat (?) of green limbs. Saw the square hole in the ceiling when one time the gi teacher and we little children imagined we saw a war.

"Went to the old swimming hole. Went to the little lake in which brother Casp lost a son--an adopted son. Went to the hill where we used to slide down hill mo than half a hundred years ago and where the farmers forbade us telling us that were making the hill too slippery. Etc., etc., etc. I have lived fifty years toda The above places are where I have never been since I was here.

"I went into the house (now abandoned) where Ma died. Went up the old cave Looked over into the field where Pa buried the big stove (stone?). Last night a dusk I strolled over the fields. Before I knew it I had gotten over to Conk (Conk lin) Bodley's old house.

"In the house - Bina's - are Bina (Ruby's girl), and Mary, and a neighbor gir They had just finished washing the dishes. I am sitting out here in front writing. Mary, Loren is as good as pure gold. I never saw a more faithful man. I don't se one mean little thing in him."

"Monday morning, August 7. The funeral is over. Bina is gone. It is lonesom here, O, so lonesome! Saw many people at the funeral yesterday whom I used to know Came from everywhere. I wrote and read the obituary. Jessie Mansfield Emmerson wa there and inquired about you. One of her daughters did all the singing at the fun eral, and it was beautiful. She is a great singer. Kate and Florence did not ge here until just before the funeral.

"I never saw such a funeral as yesterday--everyone had an automobile. I ha been thinking that we would start about 12 noon so we could get to the church i good time for the funeral at 2:30, but we did not start until about 2:15. You kno we are several miles from the church but we got here in ample time. I wish that you Ledlie and Ruth could have been here. Many invited you.

"Mary, I once used to dispise Salem Center. I tell you, all in all, it is on of the finest counties in this world. It is wonderful here. Everybody is rich. Th land is full of the most beautiful lakes. And the crops--I never saw better. Th soil is exceedingly productive. I wish I owned Pa's old farm here. I'd be rich There isn't a farm in Northern Indiana finer."

The following conclusions concerning the birth, parentage and life of Simeon W ington Conger are based upon the research and recent trip of my mother, Beulah Con Frehner,and myself (Connie Frehner Money) to the states of Alabama, Georgia and oth Records handed down through the family have always shown Simeon Washington (S. to have been born 12 Sep 1832. His father is said to have been named Jonas; his mo er's name was not known. He supposedly had two brothers, Benjamin and Zachariah, a a sister Annie.

It is our conclusion that S.W. was not born in 1832, but about 1820 and was co siderably older than his wife Eliza Ann McKinney, who supposedly was born 12 Sep 18 We base our conclusions on the following items of information, which are not act proof, but we feel offer enough evidence to warrent our conclusions.

The official US Census record of Randolph county, Alabama, for the year 1870,wh we examined in the National Archives in Washington D.C., gave his age as 50.This wo indicate he was born about 1820.

He is listed on the 1848, 1849, 1851 tax digests for Cobb county, Georgia.We h had this information for some time, but what we didn't know was that the tax di gests were for a poll tax. The poll tax was paid when an individual voted and a had to be 21 to vote in the state of Georgia. It wasn't until 1943 that 18 year ol were allowed to vote. If this was true, then S.W. had to have been born no later t 1827 if he paid a poll tax in 1848 and could as well have been born prior to 1827.

It disturbed us because Simeon Washington was not found on the 1850 US Cens records of Cobb county, Georgia, but I personally feel he was somehow missed. H son, William Jonas, was born in Georgia in 1858, and S.W. enlisted in Ala. 1861.

We conclude that Simeon Washington was born around 1820 in Pendleton Dist.,Sou Carolina. Sometime between 1820 and 1824 his family moved to Georgia, presumably n an area called Suwanne. It's possible they were Methodists, because Jonas Conger a Parthena Pelfry were married by a Methodist preacher named Richard Burdyne, on 24 D 1816 in Pendleton Dist S-Cr. However, other family members were Baptist.

In 1836 the Creek Indians had an uprising near Columbus, Georgia, and Simeon father Jonas volunteered for Georgia Volunteer Militia about 1 May 1836. He served months during which time this particular regiment from Gwinnett county was in at le one major battle with the Creeks. Jonas was discharged in July. The cause of death is not given but coming closely after his discharge it may have been as a res of a wound he received in the war. He died 29 Nov 1836 in Gwinnett county.

Sometime after 1840 and before 1848 Parthena moved with her family to Pow Springs, Georgia.It is doubtful that Simeon was head of a family, but he most certa ly was living in Cobb county because he was paying his poll tax there. He paid 39½ 1848. It appears that he owned property but not slaves.

S.W. left Georgia between 1858 and 1860 and most likely went right to Randol county, Alabama, because he enlisted in the 125th Alabama Volunteer Infantry Co. F, 19 Oct 1861, at Wesobulga, Randolph, Alabama. He was a private.

The name of the town Wesobulga has since been changed to Cragford, but the cr near there is still called Wesobulga Creek and in elections the Cragford area is st called Wesobulga Beat.It is a very small farming community only a few miles from Li le--and probably has changed very little since 1860.

While S.W. was in the army he received $11 a month pay. He was sick a good deal the time. He complained of rheumatism and was in the 1st Mississippi Confederate ces Army Hospital at Jackson, Mississippi on 20 March 1862. Later he was transferred to a hospital at Oxford, Mississippi. He was there at least through April of 1862. November 1862 he was sick in Saltillo, Miss. In Sep and Oct of 1863 he apparently home because he is listed as a possible deserter from the hospital. However he back with the army on 24 Nov 1863 to pick up clothing.

Simeon Washington would have been in his early teens when his father Jonas died. life must have been quite difficult, with a widowed mother, younger brother and ser. He probably never went to school. All of the known papers available show him ing his name with an X.

Family records say that Simeon Washington died at Elaxander, Alabama, and was ed in Sandy Level Cemetery. We feel that Elaxander is in reality "Alexander". We ted the Sunny Level Cemetery near Alexander. There were no Conger headstones but , many unmarked graves. There is another Alexandria, not far from Linesville.

Judging from the little bit of information we have concerning S.W.,I feel that he have been very poor, most likely uneducated, but with a sense of responsibility perform his duties as a good citizen by voting and by serving in the Confederate , although he was not a slave holder himself.

Another family notation says he was a carpenter and contractor, and painter. He very quiet and reserved; seldom talked unless asked questions. He was well thought by his neighbors. He was quite religious and tried to teach his children the same. id this by example more than by precept. (See JONAS CONGER 1794)

Sion ILIFF Conger wrote the following about his family: "As to a sketch of grandfather, I am unable to give you very much. My father, Sion Moores Conger, di when I was 12 years of age, and, being the last of his race--a very modest man, wi quiet manner, seldom speaking except when questioned--it happened that I learned ve little from him about his father or antecedents."

Dixie Lamar and brother Charles Henry Conger lived at the home established Isaac (their grandfather) about 1815 near Fayetteville, Tenn., called "Beachlawn". Robert Alonzo lived on the adjoining farm called "Eeldon". (See ISAAC CONGER 1779.)

In speaking of his grandfather, Iliff wrote, "He was an untiring preacher, oft preaching 12 to 15 sermons a week, and rarely less than two hours at a time. He di in 1847. He was opposed to slavery,and 'turned his members out of society' for 'tra ing in black meat'. My father was married at the age of neary 49. He was a planter, and following the custom of the times, was a slave owner, as was also his aunt, Ja Brown Moores. Being possessed of considerable lands in cultivation, and having inher ted the slaves belonging to his aunt as well as his own, he had at the outbreak of t Civil War perhaps thirty slaves to till his soil."

CULMINATION OF A ROMANCE--Love Affair of 20 years ago ends in marriage--NATIVE NORTH COUNTRY W. S. CONGER, A Former Macomb Man, Weds at Arco, Idaho.

Gouverneur, Jan 6 (1915?)--A copy of a recent issue of the Arco Advertiser, small weekly putlished in Arco, Blaine County, Idaho,contains an account of a prett romance in which a former Macomb man, W. S. Conger is one of the principals. T story goes that 20 years ago, while a resident of West Liberty, Ohio, Mr. Conger a Miss Lula Cotter became acquainted. The acquaintance ripened into love, after whi fate stepped in and they were forced to abandon each other's company. Mr. Conger w the owner of several fast race horses, and was one of the most widely known young m in his home section of the state. After his disappointment in love, he left We Liberty and went to the far west to make his fortune.

For years he kept up a correspondence with Miss Cotter, but they finally lc track of each other. About the last of September 1914, Mrs. Lula Davis and two sc ived at Arco, to make their home. Mrs. Davis, having accepted a position in the ion Hotel there, as cook. Upon her arrival she chanced to glance over the hotel ster and saw the name, "W. S. Conger, Howe, Idaho." Her thoughts flew back to courtship of 20 years before and she decided to write Mr. Conger and learn if he her old time friend.

She did so and by return mail she received a reply and the information that Mr. ger was coming to see her. He came without delay and after talking over old times Conger proposed once more, was accepted and they were married the next day. They at once for the groom's home.

Mr. Conger's father was the late Squire Conger of Macomb and a nephew of the Judge Gerrit S. Conger of this village. He left Macomb upwards of 30 years ago never visited there but once since.

Noel Conger of Brookings, S-Dk received the following letter, dated 15 Feb 1971, , Idaho: "Your inquiry about Warren Conger was turned over to me to answer. I been here over sixty years. Probably saw him as he lived about fifteen miles here on the Myrup Ranch. He homesteaded for the ranch and worked there. When his stead was patented the ranch bought it. He was known as "Deaf Dick". I think he ried while on the ranch, but moved to Arco between then and 1918 and bought a liv- stable, the Red Barn. He died there before or about 1918. His widow owned t h e which burned.About that time they moved from Arco to Lava Hot Springs out of Po- llo where they were last known from here. There were no children from her and er. (Charles D. Stephen W. Conger served in the Revolution from New Jersey, according to Stryker: EYMEN IN THE REVOLUTION, page 548, but nothing is given to indicate from what coun e enlisted.This Stephen W. Conger was either a son of John Conger 1724 of Hanover, is county,or the son of Samuel Conger 1715, as they were the only two Stephen Con- known of during that period. Charles Leslie Conger places this Stephen W. Con- as the son of Samuel.

Stephen Conger,son of John Conger 1724 and Sarah Tuttle of Hanover, served in the Revolution in 1777 as a private and sergeant major in the 1st North Carolina Continental Line, and was also acting adjutant. This is a matter of record in the War Department at Washington, D.C.,and Mrs. Geanie Perrin of New Orleans, La, has a membership in the DAR through this service.

After this North Carolina service, Stephen Conger returned to Morris county, New Jersey, where in 1781 he was a member of the Rockaway Presbyterian Church. There is a tradition among the descendants that he was married in New Jersey before his North Carolina service, but upon his return to New Jersey he did not live with his wife, and there was no issue from this marriage. It is not known when or where he married Pimin

Stephen was mentioned in the will of his father,from whom he received a legacy of thirty pounds. The only other mention we find of him in Morris county records is that on 26 Oct 1790 Stephen Conger of Hanover sold to Bernard Smith of Pequannock Twp, Morris county, a part of a tract of land that he had bought from Stephen Jackson, the remainder of which he had sold 5 Apr 1790 to brother David Conger (Morris county Deeds) It was perhaps about this time that he returned to North Carolina.

6. Hannah Conger.....13 Jun 1807-- 2 May 1832--

Joseph may have been "Joseph Conger d. during year ending 1 June 1860, age 75, md, b. Canada, d. Oct, day laborer."

Hannah may have been the Anna Conger who md John Lewis 22 Nov 1817, both of Pequannock.

On page 199, ROCKAWAY RECORDS, it states that Thomas Conger married Lydia Beam and that they had the following named children:Harriet born 1796, John P. 1798,Willi 1802, Phebe 1803 and Hannah 1807. All of them were baptized in the Rockaway Presbyterian Church on 25 Apr 1809.

Charles Leslie Conger wrote: "We are certain, however, that the Rockaway Recor are wrong in naming Lydia Conger as being the mother of the above named children Thomas Conger.

"When the will of Thomas Conger, dated 18 September 1828, was drawn, he named h wife PHEBE Conger. We also find that PHEBE CONGER joined with her husband Thomas Co ger in the execution of deeds in Morris county as early as the year 1800. Which, t the writer is convincing proof that she, PHEBE, and not Lydia, was the mother of t previously named children of Thomas Conger.

"A great deal of study has been given to the apparent mix-up in the name of t wife of Thomas Conger. In the opinion of the writer, Thomas Conger married twice, a the name of his first wife was Lydia Beaman, and that they married as early as 178 and that they had children David B. and Diadema, and perhaps others.

"Both David Conger who married Hannah Lockwood, and Diadema Conger who marri Joel Brown at Rockaway, Morris, N-J. 6 Jan 1810, were the only unidentified Congers that period at Rockaway.

"It will be noted that his son David B. and daughter Diadema Conger Brown are n mentioned in his will, nor are his daughters Harriet and Phebe. It is certain th Harriet was living and was listed as being a member of the Presbyterian Church of Ro away, and she married a man named Howell."

In later years an old family bible, printed by Sage and Clough for William Durre in 1803 verified that Thomas'es first wife was Lydia Beaman and the second was Phoeb Pierson. The names and birthdates of children were given, but no mention of Chari who married James Lockwood. Perhaps the reason David B. was not mentioned in the wi was because he had removed to Mt. Clemmens, Mich: and the family didn't know how reach him.

The name of Thomas Conger appeared frequently in the Morris County Deed Recor usually in connection with transfers of land in Pequanach Township. He and his wi Phebe are mentioned in the year 1800, when they deeded some land to Gabriel Halsey Southhampton, Long Island.

Thomas Conger had no Revolutionary War Record that we know of, the name not bei mentioned by Stryker. He was a trustee in the Rockaway Presbyterian Church during t s 1794-8, 1802-10, 1812-13 (History of Morris County, p. 340). He was also men-ed in Rockaway Records as being an Elder in the Presbyterian Church.

In 1804 he had two children at the Rockaway school at two dollars per quarter (History of Morris County p. 340). He was said to have been a blacksmith, silver-, and a maker of edged tools.
His will, dated at Rockaway 18 Sep 1828, leaves the whole estate to his wife Phen case Phebe died before him, he left daughter Hannah $100 and the rest of his e to sons John and William. Executors of the estate were wife Phebe and sons
P. and William. The will was proved 11 Jan 1833.
On 24 Mar 1832, Phebe Conger signed a release to John P. Conger (son) for lands rris county. The same year John P. Conger is referred to, as of Elizabeth, some ese lands had been purchased by Thomas Conger from George Stickle in April 1789, he original deed was not recorded until 1832, after the death of Thomas Conger.

zziah Conger removed with his father's family from Rahway, N-Jr, to Dutchess co.
k about 1770, and finally settled in Albany county, N-Yr. He served in the Rev-n for seven years, a part of said service being as corporal of Van Wie's Co. of bany co., Regiment Troops. He also served in the 5th Rensselaerwyck Regt (Page l I., Archives of New York). He removed with his family after the Revolution uga county, N-Yr, where he died at Cato. He was a Revolutionary Pensioner.
Enoch Conger served in the War of 1812-14, participating in the battle of Queens-here he was captured by the British but made his escape the same night and recrossed the Niagara River.

A curious circumstance of the this battle was the pressing into service of the country people by the British. Among others, Enoch's older brother Job, who had a mill on the battle field, was pressed.

As the sympathies of the most of them were with the Americans, they resolved t "fire high". As it happened, they did not fire at all, but heroically broke and fle at the first attack. The two brothers thus opposed did not meet until after Enoch capture, and, as the pressed men were set to guard the prisoners, it may explain w Enoch made his escape.

Job subsequently returned to America and became a deacon in the same Presbyteri Church where his cousin Job 1785, son of Reuben 1756, was a deacon. It is said that the confusion arising caused the two deacons to toss a penny to decide which shou change his name. The lot fell on Job 1780 who was called "Canada Job", so he added t initial "C" and called himself "Job C." thenceforth.

Warren W. Conger served three separate enlistments as member of Vermont Regiments

The death of Warren W. Conger, 88, which occurred at the Vermont Soldier's Home in Bennington the first of last week, marked the passing of all except one of the members of Jarvis Post, G.A.R., of this town. The only surviving member is Augustin W. Stickney of River Street.

Warren W. Conger was born in St. Albans, April 23, 1842, the son of Anson and Candace (Perigo) Conger. He obtained his education in the public schools of St. Albans and had just reached his 20th birthday when the long pent-up fires of dissension between the North and the South broke out in open hostilities and President Lincoln issued his call for volunteers. Mr. Conger was one of the first to answer the call to the colors, enlisting as a private in Capt. L. D. Clark's Co. A, of the 1st Vermont Infantry, on May 7, 1861, for a period of three months. This short period of service was soon over and he was discharged at Brattleboro on Aug 15, 1861.

After a month at home, he again sought his place among the great army of Boys in Blue who were rallying to the defense of the Union following the bloody defeat of the Union forces at Bull Run. This time he enlisted in Co. B, 1st Vermont Cavalry, commanded by Capt. William M. Beemans, for a period of three years. After seeing some of the bloodiest fighting of the war, Mr. Conger was discharged on Nov 18, 1864, at Burlington, but promptly enlisted for the third time in Co. I, 7th U.S. Veteran Volunteers and served until Feb 25, 1866, when he was discharged with the rank of sergeant after having served almost six years. His long period of service gave him the unique distinction of having three separate honorable discharges from one war.

Mr. Conger was a nephew of Capt. George P. Conger, 1st Vermont Cavalry, of St. Albans, who received no little notoriety at the time of the famous St. Albans raid of Oct 19, 1864. Capt Conger was home on furlough at the time and when news spread around the town that the St. Albans Bank and First National Bank had been raided and the town terrorized by a group of Confederate agents, dashed into the melee and attempted to shoot the leader. Failing in his efforts, he organized a group of citizens and hastily set out in pursuit. Arriving at the Canadian border, only two of his companions would

The older boys found employment in ranching and g.Warren helped a Henry Clemons on cattle drives into northern Kansas and Neb- He followed the trade of farm-hand and ranch worker and became skilled in kmithing and carpentry work. He lived and worked in Codell, Plainville, Wood-, Hays City, Kansas, and surrounding areas.

He was nimble on his nd was often called on to entertain at dances with song and tap dancing. He was on his feet, winning many matched races. He could run a hundred yards in ten ns.

n the spring of 1909, Warren went to Friday Harbor, Washington, to visit his es, Mabel and Edna. He returned from Friday Harbor and stopped off at a place e Tremonton, Utah. Here he visited with the family of Joseph Albert Frazier and , Elizabeth Jane Hall and their daughter Adna. He knew Adna as a child when the ir family lived in Palco, Rooks county, Kansas. Warren and Adna were married in hm City, Box Elder, Utah, on 31 Dec 1909. They first lived at Collinston, Utah, eWarren worked for Claude Jensen on the farm. By 1916 he had saved enough money uchase a farm southwest of Tremonton, which became the "Home Site" where they e their family of eight boys, and three girls. All grew up and married except by that died as an infant.

he first years, especially form 1917 thru 1924, were difficult years. the land e improvements and leveling. Prices were low as a result of the depression fol- n the First World War. In order to make money to support his large family War- bught cattle and hogs, which he butchered and sold to neighbors and families earound the city area. Warren was in debt at this time; most everyone was, but d, "If a man is honest, he will always try to pay his debts". He worked and duntil he paid them, and tried hard to never default on anyone.

Te years following the First World War saw the family grow;several had married. ere a close knit family, and enjoyed each other's company very much. All en- d music and several played different instruments. They tried to always gather eek at the homeplace to play and sing and have their good times.

hen the Second World War came,the five older boys served their country. At the of this war, two boys remained in the service, Warren Edgar in the U.S. Air and Harold Sherman in the U.S. Navy. Warren Robert's home was always open to men in the service.

Warren Robert and all his family became members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. During the year of 1947, Warren served as Scoutmaster of the troop which went to the Centenial Jamboree. It was at this time that the "This I s The Place" Monument was erected at the mouth of the Imigration Canyon in Salt Lake City, Utah. Warren's troops won camp honors this year and they were selected to unveil the monument. They stood as Honor Guard. Two boys were chosen from this group to pull the ropes that unveiled the monument. Warren had the boys draw lots to see who had this honor. His youngest twin son, Leo Robert, pulled one, and a Coombs boy pulled the other. Warren was very proud and happy to serve in this calling.

The Korean War followed the Second World War and the twins, the youngest sons, Leo Robert and Leon Herbert, were in this war together; also Warren Edgar and Harold Sherman, who had remained in the service. At the close of the Korean War, all the boys returned home safely.

Shortly after this time, Mother Adna took sick and died 23 March 1954, following surgery in the removal of a malignant tumor on the brain. She died in the St. Marks Hospital in Salt Lake City. This loss was felt deeply by all who knew her. She had great kindness and affection for her family and friends. Years following found Warren a despondent and bewildered man. The loss of his dear wife was almost more than he could adjust to. He finally travelled and visited among his married children, helping many times in the best way he could. On 10 November 1954 he married a sister-in-law of Adna's, Elizabeth Cooke Frazier. They travelled and enjoyed life together, but a separation came.

Warren continued on travelling among his children; living with his son Warren Edgar and wife Ruth and family; a great length of time with daughter Ione and husband, Wayne Larsen and family; with daughter Ara and husband, Roger Nielson and family. Ara and Roger Nielson purchased the "W. R. Conger homeplace". Warren wanted once again to be back home, to the place he dearly loved. He has lived quite some time with Ara and her family. All dearly love their father, and have done all they could to make his last years as pleasant as possible.

Warren Robert, now in 1972, is eighty-eight years of age; a High Priest in the Melchizedek Priesthood in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. He is proud of his family and has a numerous posterity. He loved and cared for each and every one. He always believed a man should be completely honest with everyone, and that a man's word should be as good as his bond.

illiam Conger was named in the will of his father Thomas, being named one of the ors. In 1827 he and his wife deeded land in Pequanack Twp to his brother John P. e and probably removed to Newark, N-Jr. about this time. The Rockaway Presbyter- Church Records show that he removed from Rockaway before 1832 without taking regu- tters of dismissal.

John J. Conger, born about 1830 and married in 1853 to Mary Hudson, is placed on of William but other records listing all his children and birthdates makes uestionable. The other records show that William and Mary had a son John Baxter n 1834 and died a year later. It isn't likely they would name a son John if they ey had one by that name.

ary Ann Baxter's mother, Jean McKethney, was dis-inherited from her family for marrying John Baxter, a court tailor. They had children Jean, Mary Ann, John, William, and Maria. The oldest daughter Jean remained in Scotland. Mary Ann was 14 when th family came to America. Jean McKethney was the daughter of Robert McKethney and Mar Glendenning, who were married about 1767. Mary was a court lady in Scotland and Si Walter Scott wrote a sonnet to her calling it "Mary G.".

William was with Co. F, 8th Iowa Vol Inf from 1861 to 1865, and he wrote to his wife Mahala from Army Training Camp in 1861. He spoke of the Short Term Bonus $500.00 and short enlistment expected. About five months later his son John Thomas was born.

William was badly wounded at the Battle of Shiloh. He wrote home about this battle saying afterwards a man could hardly walk without stepping on the dead; the Tennesee River war running red with spilled blood.

William was discharged after that but re-enlisted in the Army and was wounded again, resulting in a withered arm. He never returned home. It is believed that he did not want to be a burden to his family so he disappeared from his home and friends. About eight years after his death the family learned he had died of cancer of the stomach, somewhere in Michigan.

Amusing excerpts from family letters:

"Sibley, Iowa, Jan. 13, 1884, Dear Aaron and William--Well, boys, I have rented a large farm on Section 17, I will send you a map showing you just where it is so when you come you will know where to find us. It will be marked this way X. But boys there are so many disappointments in this world that I don't like to coax anyone up here it is a cold country in the winter but it is healthy. It is not hard work to chop wood, we burn wood every morning to get breakfast, then wife packs in flax straw the balance of the day, it makes a hot fire but the most of people burns sleiw hay. Uncle B e r Curtis."

"Cedar Mines, Monroe Co. Iowa, Oct 1st, 1889: My dear sister and family, the place we live at is a tolerable nice little place, there are some 60 or 70 inhabitants and two stores and one school house, the school house is not over 50 or 60 yards fr

At the outbreak of the Civil War, Simeon Washington Conger 1820 volunteered for service, leaving his wife to care for Billy (William Jonas) and his baby sister, retta. Though William was very small, he remembered vividly how hard his mother red to keep the home and children. Many times in the snow and sleet of winter she n to the woods for fuel to provide warmth for the children.

Their food was meager,consisting of corn bread and bran coffee. For a while they dmilk, but their faithful old cow ventured too far into the swampland and sank in emud and died. They were without milk until Simeon drew enough money from the army uy another cow. Their clothing, bedding, etc. was all made at home from hand-woven oh.Billy often held a pine torch for his mother to see by as she wove far into the gt. He also went into the fields to gather Sumac berries, which she mixed with walnulls and cooperas, to dye her thread.

When Simeon returned from the war, he leased a farm from a man who owned a grist l. Simeon worked for as little as 14 lbs of corn per day to provide for the family. ied when Billie was 14 years old. A year later Eliza married a man named James s, and William left home shortly thereafter.

William hired out to a man who was to pay him $50.00 cash, a suit of clothes and month of schooling for a year's work.When time came for settlement the man didn't to pay him, but finally handed him a note for $25.00, due the next fall.

He first saw his future wife at a music school, but didn't get to meet her until e. He was invited by her brother, Walter Mitchell,to spend the Christmas holidays heir home. While there, William and Walter went to a "house-raising". William's lipped and cut a deep gash in his foot. This wound was sewn up by an elderly man was working on the house, with a darning needle and black thread. He was taken to Walter's home to recover from his wound. Hicksey acted as his nurse for a week hat is when their courtship began. They were married by Calvin Knight, a Baptist niter.

They rented a farm for one year from Rev. Knight, and their principal crop was ttn and corn. The next year they bought a farm of their own and it was there their rs two children were born. This was at Delta, Ala.

In the spring of 1881 they moved to Shinbone Valley, Buckeye, Clay county, Ala. ought another farm. It was here that William Jonas heard that the Mormon Missionie were speaking in a school house not far from his home.He and a friend rode over se if it was true that Mormons were different.He was quite surprised to find them it normal. Soon after hearing them speak he was baptized. In 1890 William left abma with his wife and six children and settled in Spring City, Utah. His wife and ilren were baptized after reaching Utah.

he family stayed there about a year and then returned to Alabama for another ten r. In 1901 they again moved to Utah and settled in Parawan, Iron county. About a rt after they arrived, the whole family was quarantined with Smallpox for 5 weeks. lam obtained work with the Stark Brothers Nursery, where he remained six years. there they moved to Washington county in the southern part of Utah, and then to se Ranch, Moapa, Clark county, Nevada.

r mother's family, and made her debut in 1906.She went to Europe 16 times (twice year), 7 times to Hawaii, a 3 month trip around the world, a n d several South ific cruises.

She was an Interior Decorator--and still is at the age of 80. She spent a year France during World War I with the Red Cross Canteen Service,and served over a million soldiers. For 32 years she was on the Women's Board of St. Luke's Hospital. In 1966 she resided at 200 East Pearson St, Chicago, Ill, 60611--still unmarried.

No reason for his tic is given other than poor health,relatives stating that he had been in a despont ood for some time past.

Mr. Conger, who is about 64 years of age, had been suffering with a hacking cou and had said to his wife that it was his belief that the cough would kill him. Howeve yesterday morning he was in his usual health and went to his shop to complete the wo of setting up, or stuffing, two ducks, Mr. Conger's occupation being that of a taxi dermist, for which work he was known throughout the state.

When his wife went to the shop to discuss the noon menu she found this notice the door: "Dear Clarkie: Don't come in here alone. Send for help. I am going aw forever. Don't feel too badly for I shall be at rest. Billy."

The evening before he had written a long letter to her of endearment and consol tion--touched upon personal affairs in a business way, instructions about caring f their poultry, with keys labeled and feed measured out in readiness to be fed as s knew nothing about their care.

At one time Mr. Conger was captain of the Barlow Grays of St. Albans, holding t office for many years. He was also at one time captain of the Uniform Rank of Knigh of Pythias.

Following is a condensed biography of Willis N. Conger written by son George:

"D A D"

In what may have been a moment of weakness, Dad was named for a poet who was p ular at the time, and whose chief claim to remembrance is that he was an editor of " Youth's Companion", on which generations of American youth were brought up. Not a to bear the burden of "Nathaniel Parker Willis Conger", Dad shortened the name Willis N. Conger, but never attained to the full use of the name: first he was "Will then, for many a long year, "Will", and to outsiders who did not know him, "William.

Dad's father, Simeon Conger, was a weaver and lay-preacher, licensed but not dained. He seems to have been self-taught, even to the extent of owning a Latin Gr mar which has come down to us. A few pieces of the Conger weaving are known; a b spread is owned by Jennie Steinberg Coggshall (in 1958).

From this period date the earliest documents which we have--two letters from Gr er Simeon to Grandmother Phebe's sister Lydia (Mrs.Byron Gates, who later lived at e, N-Yr). The first letter, not dated, but written about 1860, described various y affairs and gave news of the children:

"...Willie, little N.P., is the king of all babies, so we think, and if you could im for an hour or two some day, as he goes it at this and that,for instance run- out doors every chance and spring for the shop or away in the orchard, hear him o talk and call Eddie,Nettie and Mother,see him put up his mouth for a kiss, see n his greetings to the family each morning, see him wash himself, try to help do e sees done,hear him read in his way, sing as he sings, could you see him come to able, bend down his head and mumble his thanks, could you see him tumble down, in all over everything, and then as you saw and heard, could you feel inwardly her's love, the interest that a parent feels, then you would, like us, crown him of babies.This last is necessary,for without that you would think as many others pshaw, he is very ordinary, big-headed, base-pated child,resembles his Pa some."

The other letter is dated 15 April 1861, the very day that the Civil War broke . Apparently about a year had passed since the first letter. It says: ".... Even le, he who was once the baby, is now one of the boys, and today was running in the and around the fields with seven other boys, some but little or no older than he. Lyd, ought to see Willie some days. Sometimes, good, obedient, and realizes much is age, sometimes willful, ruling the house with his storm and clamor. Perhaps ext turn, will be singing and then my Poor Nellie Gray,and I have a Father in the sed Land, sound out in the broken accents of his infantile tongue,with duration to weary the ears even of doting parents. To our baby we continue to apply the choicest or pet names---Sweet One and Birdie won't answer, for in the simplicity hearts we think Cherub and Little Angel far more truthful...."

During the next five or six years the family lived in three other houses in Gro- one on the site of the Conger's store (now the post-offices), one "on a little eyond the grist mill", on Cayuga Street, and the last in a two-family house on Street.

hen Dad was four or five, two of his uncles and aunts gave him a cash present of $2.60. The money was deposited for him in the Ithaca Savings Bank, and, with the d interest, it is there today. The original book is lost, but other pass books hat in 1880, for instance, it amounted to $4.80, and in 1954, the latest reckon- o $27.03. Before his death, Dad transferred it to a joint account with GPC who lds it in trust for further transference.

pparently Simeon Conger led a quiet life,with his weaving and occasionally help- s father sack wool for market. Eddie, Dad's older brother, died in 1866, re- dly from meningitis,and Nettie was near death from Scarlet Fever,from the effects ch she never recovered.

imeon was very active in the Groton Baptist Church,being, all at one time, clerk church, superintendent of the Sunday School, a member of the choir, and fairly he preacher in the pulpit! He is described as having been serious, but with a and mirth that would keep cropping out.

hen they lived on Clark Street and Dad was 8 years old, he drove a neighbor's rning and evening, down and back to the pasture across from the millpond. For e received 20 cents per week. He could remember that boyish infractions of dis- led to spankings by his father's big and powerful hand on the youthful anatomy. g-handedness passed on to the next generation; the author of this account can that when Dad licked you, it was like a young earthquake.

August, 1866, the family was shattered by a terrible loss. Dad's father came usual one Monday night,but he had contracted some dreadful contagious disease; perhaps a quick form of typhoid fever. Thursday morning he was dead, and two day later Dad's younger brother Fay died of the same disease. The story has it that the disease was so dreaded that the bodies were carried out of the house at night.T h i s bereavement changed the whole course of life of every surviving member of the family.

The widow Phoebe and her three surviving children would have been destitute, ha it not been for four or five families,big-hearted uncles and aunts,who, with childre and burdens of their own,made homes and virtually supported the extras for years afte wards. Phoebe took her boy Fred, then four or five years old, to Lansing, Michigan, where her brother, Daniel Buck, had located. He seems to have been a pioneer ther and to have helped to name the capital of Michigan after the old home area of Lansing New York. He had become the owner of a thriving furniture business, and before he die was mayor of the city. Grandmother (Phoebe) lived in his home for some time, perhaps years. Dad saw here there, in 1881. In the early 1890s she spent part of each ye there, and part in New York state.

I do not know which uncle and aunt took Nettie to their home, When they all went home from his father's funeral, his Uncle Byron Gates and Aunt Lydia took Willie righ away with them, to their home in Maine, Broome county, New York. Willie lived wit them until the following spring. Then he lived at the home of Eleazor Hatch, firs husband of Grandmother's sister Lorena. After Mr. Hatch died, Aunt Lorena re-married and Willie went next to live for a year with his grandmother (Thankful Guthrie Conger who lived in the house of her son Alson, one of Simeon's brothers. I remember "Ol Grandma" well. Because of her, the Conger family reunions were held at Uncle Alson's as long as they were held anywhere.

Old Grandma Thankful had a sister named Patience (Cobb), just about as old. I dimly remember once, when as a small boy I was at Uncle Alson's, seeing an old lad whom I took to be Patience,who shocked my youthful Moral Sense by sitting there,calml smoking a pipe. Uncle Alson Conger was a tower of a man, over six feet,stronger tha either of his brothers. Aunt Abby (Alson's wife) was one of the best women who eve lived. She took the place of Willie's mother.

Uncle Alson, like his brother Simeon, was deeply religious, an earnest Christian I have always remembered the family worship, as he led it in his home. I suppose i was the same during the years when Willie lived there. Each morning, first thing afte breakfast, the Bible was read, and everybody except old Grandma, who was too old t fold, knelt down and listened while Uncle Alson,with his powerful voice, prayed, as i to bring the good Lord right down near to us all.

Another religious influence came to Willie in these years, in the shape of a Ne Testament, inscribed in a delicate, now fading hand: "A gift for Willie, on his fif teenth birthday, from his Aunt (Lorena) Hatch, with an earnest prayer that you wi search its pages daily, for it tells of one that has promised to be the orphans' fath er, also a Savior in whom you can trust. If, remembering in thy youth, His whose spi it lights each page, Thou shalt have abundant proof, He will not forget thine age.' Those influences lasted for years. I remember that when I was a very small boy, De used quietly to take a New Testament and silently read a few verses just before blow ing out the kerosene lamp for the night.

Dad had another uncle, Corydon W. Conger, brother of Simeon and Alson. He, too a generation before, had grown up on the old Jonathan Conger farm, had attended dis trict school, and for two years had been a student in town in the old Groton Academy In 1875 he came forward and arranged to pay Dad's tuition for two years at the Acad emy's successor, the Groton Union School. The Groton Academy had been incorporated 1838; Jonathan Conger was one of about 50 men who subscribed from $50 to $150 each get it started, and he was one of the 12 original trustees. Year after year it ha maintained high standards, with able teachers and a surprising list of courses,inclu ing Latin, Greek, French, physics, astronomy, mineralogy, anatomy, logic and "philos ophy of the moral feelings".The old building, a two-story-and-cupola wooden structur

cl house stood.
Will attended the Union School for two years. Grammar did not make much impres-non him, for to the end of his life he retained some of the forms of speech of the country. One of the girls in the school remembered the first time she saw him; ig in, robust and ruddy of face, from out in the snow. Perhaps that girl moved o the center of his school interest, for she was Stella Perrigo, and the boy from the nry, not a bit backward, began to date probably the most highly placed and accompnd girl in the village.

Stella had been very carefully brought up, according to mid-Victorian ideas. She e in the brick house, had a Mathushek "box" piano, could play and sing, and was uring a superior education at the school. Her pictures show that in her childhood as rather chunky, like her father, but later she slenderized; and she was a few s over five feet tall, had dark brown hair and brown eyes, and in manner was rathr the demure side. She became a member of the Congregational Church, after having baptized, Baptist fashion, by immersion in the creek.
We have three little pencilled notes, written on scraps of paper and passed in . between Will and Stella. One of them is straight out of the nineteenth century:
lle: Do you want to go to the sociable this evening?" Another indicates a deli-situation: "Estelle: I promised to speak to you about that picnic again. I was g to this recess but forgot it. please excuse me. Have you changed your mind in
y. In haste Will". There is no indication that the young man ever went with any r girl; he "went steady", but she didn't quite. The picnic referred to may have he one where she went with another escort, and as the story had it, "Will leaned ginst the fence at the picnic and tried to laugh it off". The third note is ded by a black line, and the context is lost; it reads "Estelle You see that this is dressed in mourning. No I do not have to be here only tomorrow. I am glad t our folks did not scold you. Walter Perrigo was in town yesterday. I will tell re about it sometime Will." The other suitor was eliminated without much diffiy Stella didn't like the way he said "t'other" instead of "the other".

t the end of his two years in school, Will dropped out, but in later life made it it to see that his boys got all the schooling that they would take. In the town a member of the Pioneer Hose Company of volunteer firemen. He was a good base-layer, at first base; it must have been one of his silently born frustrations f his two boys, neither of them could hit a barn door with a shovel.
tella continued at school. Her report card for 1877-8 shows grades almost all 40's (we suppose on a scale of 50). She had one 5 in geometry, one in botany, bookkeeping, one 38 in Latin, five "demerits" (Why, St-ella!) in September and ner, 1877, but none thereafter, five afternoons tardy, three days absent, and no nes from chapel. Each month the "parent or Guardian" signature is "William Per-" but in Stella's handwriting; we do not attach any sinister meaning to this-- n was not a very ready writer.

ad's Uncle Corydon, who paid his tuition at the old school in Groton, had marary Brown of West Groton, a woman of vigorous mind, rather broad interests, and riginality--especially in matters of architecture. They lived for a while on the t the edge of the village. I suspect they built the house, because to this day oor of the veranda is on an uncomfortable slant, "to let the water run off". It hard to guess who planned it that way.
C."." (Corydon) was not as devoutly religious as his two brothers, though he knew heological language, did his turn as president of the Board of Trustees of the gational Church, and was probably a member there. He had three sons older than The oldest and most adventurous was Frank; the youngest and most polished was not Benjamin), and the middle one, the quietest, was Jay. We do not know whether hen he came to Groton to school, lived with the family or roomed outside.

By this time C. W. and his boys had built up a thriving village store. The fathe in his younger days, must have been a driver, and the boys were hustlers. All of ther worked like beavers in that store. The boys in time married Groton girls--Frank's wi was Jennie Conant, quite gifted in painting family portraits; Jay's was Florence Hatl away, quiet, like her husband; Benn's was Florence Buck, daughter of Jerome Buck, distant cousin,and the most ambitious, energetic, and socially competent of the thre

The store occupied the ground floor of a three story brick building in the cente of town; on the upper floors were living rooms and some of the family lived there. 1879 they expanded the original brick building by adding two more units, which wer eventually occupied by their dry goods,boot and shoe,and clothing departments. Th the years they employed many men and women--notably the sons and daughters of Mrs McGrail, who for years worked at the brick house as one of the Perrigo family.

Walter Perrigo tried working in the store, but gave up after a few days, becau "you had to be polite all the time."But Will, as he swung into full time at the store thrived on it. As I think of him now, I would say that it was in the store, more tha either the farm or the school, that he came to himself, as the Will Conger that every body knew.He was a little taller than his cousins, with fair complexion and blue eyes alert, easily friendly, gifted with a sense of humor,and,especially when going steady with Stella, as up and coming as they came.

The most distinctive feature of the store business was the peddling wagons.These were large, box-like affairs, a little like modern trucks but with drawers and cup boards along the sides or in the back and with a flat space on top for extra boxes an bundles. The driver sat on the high seat in front, where he could handle the brak that, by gripping a hind wheel, helped the horses hold the heavy wagon back when goin down the New York State hills. The tires were hard metal, and so were the so-calle springs. The roads were inches deep in dust in the summer and in mud in the spring an fall, and feet deep in snow in the winters.

At least in the open seasons, the wagons, stocked with goods from the store,were run out in regular routes through the surrounding countryside. Some of the hardes work in connection with them was loading them up, The Conger boys used to work until 2 a.m. loading, before getting up and starting out before 6. The job of running such a wagon was what would now be called hard, though the horses could help by knowing th route as well as anyone, and turning in at the farmhouses of the regular customer (No modern truck can do that. A driver in those days could even go to sleep en route and the horse would bring him to his door.)

I well remember the job of stocking up the wagon--weighing out endless one pou sacks of granulated sugar from the barrel, grinding (by hand, turning the big wheel the old coffee mill) endless pounds of coffee, and putting in all the tea and soap an soda and cornstarch and cheese and candy and shoe polish and tobacco and canned goo and salt and what-have-you that the drawers and cupboards on the wagon would hold. top was a good-sized box for eggs that were bought or exchanged for goods on the trip I think that somewhere in the works there was a relatively cool place for butter fro the farmers' old hand churns.

Wednesday,September 15th, 1880, was bright and fair, a setting for the most bri liant event in the family history. Mrs. McGrail must have scrubbed the woodwork an polished everything in the brick house until it shone. Early in the afternoon th guests began to assemble in the broad, high-ceilinged rooms. Later among the present they found an autograph album, and in it they wrote about a hundred of their names these were not all who were present, and unfortunately no photograph was taken of th company, but the album, which we still have, registers the greatest gathering of th kindred in all the years, before or since. No one ever forgot the wedding. As Auburn paper put it, "Groton has had a large number of very pleasant occasions li this during the past six months. It is safe to say that this outshone them all."

od savings, seventy-five dollars, and bought him the gold watch which he carried all i life, and which we still treasure. Among the family jewelry is a little ring, with h name "Estelle".

For the next year and a half life went along happily. Dad continued at the Conger tre. I think perhaps mother helped there sometimes. In the meantime the two factor-e, that of Charles Perrigo and Co., (and William Perrigo, Fred Avery and B. F. Field) a continued to prosper, and had shipped engines and separaters far and wide. These nines were portable,and had to be drawn from farm to farm by horses. For one engine, ame plate, cast in the foundry, was affixed, and the engine was named ESTELLE. Let spause to ask, how many Bookstore Blondes and Charming Chemists have had threshing nines named after them?! That engine, I think, was shipped "out west".

The Groton Jounral for March 15, 1882, says that William Perrigo and Will Conger a gone to Davenport, Iowa. They went by way of Lansing, Michigan, and stopped over o a notable visit with Uncle Daniel Buck: Grandmother Phebe Conger was there at the ie. The prospect at Davenport looked good enough so that the company bought about w acres of land near the Santa Fe tracks and put up a warehouse where machine parts en from Groton could be assembled and spare parts kept in stock. They issued a hand-or 24 page catalogue, with eight well executed woodcuts and full, technical descrip-ions of their products. And of their chief western branch at Davenport, appears the ar of the manager, Will N. Conger.

It is passing strange that, after half a dozen moves and one fire, a copy of that alogue is still with us; it was in Dad's room at Harrisburg. The sales pitch leads f with a description of the boiler, followed by one of the engine. "The engine when outed weighs 4500 pounds and will furnish 12 horse power at a pressure of 90 pounds f team." Of the Groton Oscillator grain thresher, the catalogue goes on to say , Th Tompkins County separator is an apron machine. It has won many friends in the as and in the West wherever introduced. Except for the growing prejudice in favor of he Vibrator mode of separation (of grain from straw), it would be looked upon as the hapion of strength and durability and good work. We manufacture two sizes; the maler size is nicely calculated for horse power. The Oscillator is different from he Vibrator, giving greater agitation to the straw than any other machine. It is so uc lower than other machines that it is not liable to be upset on uneven ground o r adroads."

So much for the catalogue; now let us listen to the manager. There seems to have ee no compelling reason for him to leave the Conger store; certainly there was no ar feeling. Perhaps he thought he saw a vision of the West;but anyway, there he was, utin Iowa--at first, alone, until Uncle Smith Booth and a man named Burch came from hefactory and Mother came from the brick house. Some fifty years later, at my re-uet, Dad wrote his reminiscenses of Davenport.

We mentioned that Mother came out to Davenport. On the way, a strange, sad thing apened, which I think is best put into record; it would have meant much to me if I ad known it in another sad experience later. Her father came with her as far as ocester, N.Y. and put her on the train for Chicago. Her life up to that time had ee so sheltered that when thrust out far from home a strain of weakness in her that o ne had ever suspected cropped out,and she suddenly developed a paranoia, imagining na some one was going to kidnap her. The train men said afterward that they could do oting with her. As the train from Chicago slowed down coming into Davenport, she aped out, and rolled head over heels down a steep embankment. Dad met her, all mud d blood, and it was some days before she was herself. He took her back to Groton,but e the company thought that the clover huller would do better than the other things, e eturned alone to Davenport. He was on a business trip to Peoria, Illinois, i n ctober, 1882--the year of the Great Comet sweeping across the night sky--when a tela-ca was handed him, saying that Grandfather William Perrigo had suddenly died. The at was Mother's 24th birthday, October 25, 1882. The next news was of the failure of Perrigo and Avery.

For the second time, a sudden death and financial crisis changed the course of Will Conger's life. He returned to Groton, without a job, to find the family faced b the failure of the business on which it had depended and which had served it well. Jus what caused the failure of Perrigo and Avery is hard to make out.

At all events, Dad was out of a job. The pinch that was felt in the brick hous is indicated by a set of household accounts which Dad started to keep, about a mont after Grandfather's death, as if every penny had to be watched and accounted for. (the first page there are 13 entries of not over 10 cents. Separate accounts were kep for clothing, etc.,and for food,as if these items were budgeted, or at least carefull watched. Shaves were 10¢ each, haircuts 20¢. Some boys received 5¢ for hauling trunk. Shoes for "Mother" (Perrigo) were $2.00. The gold and two amalgam tooth fill ings cost $4.00. On the food side, two pounds of beef, 32¢, ½ quart of oysters, 10¢ 1 can salmon, 20¢, one dozen eggs, 24¢. The family bought a pig, 119 pounds of meat for $9.90, and 1003 pounds of coal for $6.42. There is an entry for "show", $1. On of the larger amounts is for "Cash, lost", $5.00. The accounts ran along until April 1883, when they suddenly stop. Some entries up to that time show that the family wa still paying taxes on the brick house, and had paid $41.86 in taxes on William Per rigo's estate.

The lack of a job was no problem,for Dad latched right back into the Conger stor By this time the thriving business was going strong, and not content with Groton, th firm had established a thriving branch at Genoa, 12 miles away. Dad's account boo shows that he was in Genoa twice in those months; once he spent 40¢, and the other time 50¢. We do not know just when the branch store was started, or who had charge, b all events, it seems to have been a "natural" for Dad to take it over, and so in Apri 1883 (when the accounts stop),Dad, Mother and Grandmother Perrigo said good-bye to th proud brick house and moved the fine old furniture and the keepsakes to the smalle town.

The store occupied the ground floor and part of the second floor of a large thre story building. The ground floor was divided into two parts, the eastern for groceri and the other for dry goods, notions, boots and shoes. One dry goods counter, with th heads of tacks at intervals for measuring cloth, ran along the west wall of the gro cery side. Along the east wall were shelves for soaps, teas, coffees, and such pack aged goods as the times knew. The long counter held the candy showcase, the cigar sh case, and the cheese under a wire netting cover. In front of the counter and at th back corner were barrels for sugar, crackers, and codfish. Between the two counter the space not occupied by the stove held some tables piled high with horse blankets except at Christmas time when they gave way to "holiday goods". An alcove provide space for the safe and the office desk. For kerosene and molasses you went to a bac room where there were stairs to the second floor--one for storage,and later, one fo wall paper. The other rooms, off a hall reached by an outside stairway, were rente to the village barber shop, Byron Hunt's law office, and a room for the G.A.R.. Th third floor of the building was not finished, but a wooden run-way led across th rafters to a stairway leading up to the cupola, from which a considerable view of th surroundings could be had. This became the firm of CONGER, ANDREWS & MOREY.

Across the street at the white house Grandmother and Mother lived quietly--until in the night between Saturday and Sunday, May 24, 1884, Dad had to get up, dress hur riedly, and run through the pitch-dark streets to Dr. Van Duekirk's house. On the wa in his haste and excitement, he forgot that in front of the J.B. Young's store was a old fashioned cast iron corn sheller. Dad and the corn sheller tangled, with more effect on the former. He hurt his feelings so that he never forgot it. But he went on rooted the good old doctor out, and in a crisis of the proceedings which might hav proved fatal,the doctor knew what to do,and everything came out all right.Mrs. Leonar a woman of discernment and judgment, came to see the result. She said, "That is th lsomest baby I have ever seen."

Dad and Mother took a silver dollar of the date of their wedding, 1880, had a hole ched in it so it could be hung on a ribbon around the Handsome Baby's neck, and the r, without stopping for germs, cut his teeth on it. In those days the regular se- ce for costumes for little boys was (1) long white dresses for the first one or years (rubber pants had, unfortunately, not yet been invented); then (2) short ses until about the sixth year; then (3) short, knee-length trousers until teen- s, and (4) long trousers from there on in. So the Baby had his picture taken.

The store was prosperous in those years, so much so that each of the partners had od sized and fine new house built. The two frame houses were side by side, a lit- ewest of the store. They were somewhat alike, each with protrusions or recesses and relows which marked them as Victorian, though neither could be called a Victorian city. The Andrews house was painted a light green with dark green trimmings; ours a pale yellow with dull red trimmings.
The Genoa house, with all its defects--some features unfinished; no plumbing aer for cooking caught in the rain barrel, for drinking brought from the neighbor's ls), heated by stoves, with upstairs rooms winter-cold, except as we took warm soap- oes to bed with us; lighted by bothersome kerosene lamps--in spite of all this, the ue was pleasant to live in. As to its cost, the figure of $3000 somehow sticks in emory. The house today, after a good deal of minor remodelling, is well kept up functions as a funeral parlor.

Grandmother Perrigo continued to live with us. Her name was too much for lips er slow to talk; the best they could do with it was "Wau-pay". The name stuck, and -pay" she remains in life and death and memory. The garden was, literally, Wau- s field. I cannot remember that either Dad or Mother ever tangled seriously with a but Wau-pay, in her gingham dress and sunbonnet, spent many hours out there. Later I was still of tender age, the hoe was placed in my hands for operation.

Toward the end of 1888, Dad went to New York to buy holiday goods. From there he me what was probably the first letter I received: "My dear little boy Perry: know Papa said he would write to you, so I will. I have seen lots of pretty things , and I am going to buy some so you can see them when I get home. You must be a boy till Papa comes back, and I will bring you something. I have bought lots of babies, horses and engines and steamboats, so you can see them. Well, be a very boy. Papa."
Another of his trips to New York was in April, 1889, when he saw something of the vance of the 100th anniversary of Washington's inauguration--the celebration that New York the Washington Arch at the head of Fifth Avenue. Apparently it was on trip that Dad received a letter laboriously printed, under instructions: "Dear I spent five cents after bananas today. The Jacobs boy borrowed my express to take the clothes. Tuesday. We got your post card this a.m. Hope you are bet- how. I played solitaire today. Mama is making holders. Please do not forget the . xxxxxkisses, Perry Conger, Genoa, N.Y."

The summer of 1890 Mother spent quite a bit of time sitting quietly in the "blue upstairs. I asked how come, but little boys in those days were not initiated the facts of life. So on the morning of August 16th, when I came downstairs, I uite surprised to meet Dr. Ben Buskirk, coming out of the bedroom into the dining with a brown-shawl bundle in his arms. "What have you got there?" I asked. In rave voice he answered, "A little brother!"
As time went on, when he wasn't bawling, I quite took to the little guy who in- ed my cradle and my high wicker-basket baby carriage, and did quite a lot to him. Eventually he cut his teeth on the same old silver dollar that I used.
One day in September, Dad took me into Joe Banker's "drug" store and for 25¢ t me a Barnes First Reader, and I started school under the tutelage of Miss Flora Alling, who stood for light and learning in the village for probably fifty years.

In the meantime, things were not going well at the store. Symptomatic of th time is the fact that the railroad between Auburn and Ithaca was taken up in 188 leaving Genoa that much isolated. There were no industries to keep the wheels moving And I guess we have to say that Dad wasn't the best type to avoid the difficulties o such a situation. He was financially generous, to a fault, and tended to be easy-goin about being owed money and owing it to others. The charge accounts at the store multi plied; and Dad failed to get from the store's creditors the kind of treatment he gav its debtors.

So the store had to have help. For help, Conger and Andrews turned to a farme named Abner Stuart, who lived somewhere east of town. He was a lean, greying man, with a head too small for his frame, and a kind of sneering expression on his face. Hi wife, "Tina", aspired to some elegance. At first, relations between the Congers an Stuarts were quite friendly; one or the other Stuart was at the house several times The firm borrowed $1000 from Uncle Hiram Shaw, and Dad tried to collect some of th outstanding bills.

Mother's diaries for the period show a number of entries which are hard to inter pret at this distance, but which indicate more and more trouble at the store. On Oc tober 18, 1889, she writes, "I signed the deed to the store." I take it that thi means that the building, and probably the stock, passed into Stuart's possession. Ap parently the Groton Bank was somehow involved, for on March 10, 1891, Dad went wit Stuart to Groton. On May 2nd, the store was closed because Stuart had made an assign ment--apparently getting out, and quite likely with a loss. On the 4th, Mother wa served with a paper, and on the 7th there was a paper apparently giving notice of th foreclosure of a mortgage; there is no indication of what the mortgage was.

On the 7th, Dad was summoned by an oil company to appear in Auburn, but it coul not have been very serious, because, owing to my being sick, Dell Andrews went in Dad place. On May 11, in Auburn, in some unidentified law suit, Dad was on the stand fo four hours. A few days later, D. H. Marsh, cashier of the Groton Bank, and W. W. Ha old-time Groton lawyer, were in Genoa, undoubtedly on business connected with the sto On May 23rd a paper was served about foreclosure of a mortgage, this one apparently o the store building. On June 11th there was an auction of goods in the store. Then o June 18, Dad began to sell goods from the store again. It looks as if the Groton Ba was now in control. But on August 22nd the store building was bought by Harvey Ma tain, leaving Dad with what was left of the Conger and Andrews stock. In September th remnant of the stock was moved to the east half of the Avery block, and a poor litt store was set up there. For some reason - legal or otherwise - Dad's name was no used. Wau-pay must have winced when the store was advertised in the paper under th name of "Mother Perrigo".

I went once with Mother along the road leading north from where the Tamarack I now is, through snow up over her shoe-tops, trying to collect something from a fami there, but again with no success. So it went. The sale of the store goods left noth ing for Dad to do in Genoa; he went to Groton and started work for the Bridge Company Mother's diaries give a running account of life at the house. Along with ma recipes and menus, there is a huge amount of sewing--readymade clothing was not a common in those days as now. Dad's shirts, for instance, and little brother's dresses were made at home, buttonholes and all. Lists were kept of "calls" received and paid Nurses were not as plentiful as now, and once in a while either Dad or Mother "Sat up with a sick neighbor. Mother was an ardent temperance worker, and went to many meet ings, at some of which I spoke pieces. Dad went to many meetings, but when he took smoking, even in a mild way, did it secretly and it was some time before Mother foun out and wrote about it in her diary.

At Genoa we started what amounted from now on to Life without Father. Dad ca home rather often as long as he was in Groton; often he walked the six miles to or fr ke to save the $5 stage fare. But presently his work, selling bridges, took him e and more to Pennsylvania, and for the next eleven years we saw him only at inter-s. This virtually ended our family life, as we had begun to know it in the Genoa se. There was no more singing in the parlor on Sunday evenings, with Mother play- the piano, Wau-pay, Mother and we kids stayed on at Genoa, where Wau-pay's garden a flourishing chicken project helped to supply food for what was otherwise a poor ily.

Dad's salary for that first year was $600. He used to go without meals, charged is expense account, in order to send the money, a dribble at a time, home to Moth- Once in a while the bridge company sent money on Dad's account.

Mother's diary for 1893 makes the story vivid. March 24th--"Peter and Nett were . They gave us one bushel of potatoes, two quarts of milk, two quarts of butter- , and a piece of butter--very kind." March 29th--The Eureka Cigar man will come weeks, take $8 and receipt the bill" (this a hang-over from the old store). May --"Received $2 from Will. He sent it from Buffalo." May 17th--"Ward White was after money, but we could not spare any." May 30th--"6¢ due Baby (this meant little brother's bank had to contribute to family expenses). June 18th-- "Paid e Fred $2. Owe him $5.40." June 26th--"I bought shoulder, two nice slices for at market." July 15th--"Aunt Marinda gave us currants, cherries, apples, pears & s..." Aug 1--"Hiram Holden gave us green corn." Aug 16--"Received $2 from Will, arren." Nov 12th--"Will went to Groton. Walked to Locke." Nov 26th--"Will came t from Locke."

The old family account book shows that in the course of the year some of the ac- ts owing to the store were paid, and some of the creditors were paid off. In Sep- er there was enough money so that the family could go to the Genoa Fair, but not gh to afford the grandstand.

Mother's diary continues: Sunday, November 10th--"None of us attended church. I we cannot until we have better clothes." Again, two weeks later, "None of us at- ed church. I thought my summer everyday straw (hat) too old, and my shoes were poor." On January 6, 1894--"Will sent $1 from Bradford." On the 30th someone and took away the set of the American Encyclopedia, which Dad had bought on the allment plan but was unable to keep. On February 15th there was no fire in the ting room.

The problem of naming the Baby was not easily solved, and there was prolonged ussion and hesitation. Finally, on the second birthday, Dad came into the house came down with finality: "His name is GEORGE PERRIGO CONGER." Thus it has remain- with the official version "George P. Conger" and the side door, for family and nds, "Perry"--in spite of Mother's spelling it "Perrie".

And now what of "Little Brother"? It took not two, but four years fitly to name Treasure. In extreme infancy, he was known as "By-Lo", and for years together one referred to him as "Budge". I think there was no direct connection with the of "Helen's Babies", but the name was a convenient stop-gap while the family mind being made up. Several names were tried out--Kenneth....Gordon....Gordon Lynn , the local editor. Finally, someone happened to call him "Walter" and he cried anyone called him anything else. So WALTER it was, and has remained. The middle of "Cornelius" after Wau-pay's name, was added later, at my suggestion.

Wau-pay was buried June 14th, 1896. We remained in the house the rest of the sum- but the prospect of wintering there was too bleak. Now that Dad could send money and $10 lots every ten days or so, it was decided we should board for the winter burn. We settled in a room on the third floor of Number 1 Court Street, just ss from the Court House. For the three of us the rate was $11 per week. I started ol at the new James Street School, and gradually we two little boys from the coun- ere initiated into city ways.Dad came to Auburn once in a while, about as before. ur "weekly treat", usually on Saturdays, we spent five or ten cents apiece on a ey ride or some candy.

In the spring we moved back to Genoa, but the house was lonesome without Wau-pa as well as Dad, so it was decided to move for good, back to Groton. For the winter w lived in a room or two in the house of Amos Avery, up on Cortland Street; he was th husband of Caroline Perrigo--some kind of a cousin of Mother's. In April we move again, to the Little House on South Main Street. It was a small, two-story frame hous with front and back porches and a curious little balcony around the chimney on th roof, over the unfinished attic. The lot was irregular in shape, because the littl creek which bounded it all the way on the north came in at an angle. In that sam creek, across the street downstream, Mother had played as a girl. The house was onl a stone's throw from the old barn where the Perrigo family had lived while the bric house was being built, and the brick house itself, hardly changed from the old day except in ownership, stood on the corner of South Street, just north of the barn, wit Grandfather Perrigo's garden between.

The kids enjoyed it all without realizing how hard it must have been for Dad an Mother. Dad would get home perhaps once a month or so. Sometimes Dad would haul ou and pay a string of bills which had accumulated in the stores around town. We neve realized what a life he had to lead, constantly travelling over bumpy roadbeds in th wooden cars of the period, living in dreary hotels.

Dad's genius for making friends operated in all gears, without much discrimina tion. His work brought him in contact with local officials and politicians, usually o no very high calibre, and his long waits in hotels and trips in trains brought hi friends whom he would not have found at home. He must have had countless weary, tedi hours, relieve now and then by some substantial successes. In the course of time many a Pennsylvania stream, small and large, was spanned by a Groton bridge. One a Sunbury came to $140,000; another, somewhere else, perhaps to $160,000. Of them all I have seen only the long Market Street bridge at Williamsport; the Maynard Stree bridge there, I think, was also his. Dad came to be a walking map and time-table o the state of Pennsylvania.

If it was hard for Dad, it was also hard for Mother, left so much of the ti without him. In the first place, her health was not good. Early in our time at Sou Main Street she was stricken down with what was thought to be cancer, so that an opera tion became imperative. For the rest of her life she had to use hot water treatment to keep in fairly good health. Other burdens for Mother were psychological. There s was, in the plain little South Main Street house, where every day she could look acro at the big brick house which had so many memories for her.

Her diary for December 13, 1899--"Mrs ----- gives tea. I am not invited." July 16, 1899--"There are comforts in home life, in the physical exercise of keepi house, which are very comforting and perhaps more satisfactory than society, lovely that may be."

Let us not omit to reckon on the brighter side of the record the fact that t boys realized that Dad might well be kept in closer touch with things at home, and s on November 13, 1897, started what was intended to be a weekly "paper", called TH CONGER NEWS. I was, of course, the editor, and Walter, at least in the intervals b tween his tear-sprayed resignations, was assistant editor. In time, the south-ea room upstairs, where we slept, became the fearfully and wonderfully decorated editori sanctum. At first the NEWS was done in pencil, on rough tablet paper, and sent to Da who did not at first think of saving it. The earliest issue we have is the sixt dated December 18, 1897. As the paper came to be an established institution, it w done in ink on better paper, and Dad saved the copies and brought them home with h when he came. Long before the larger newspapers used color printing, the CONGER NE by aid of crayons, appeared with colored borders and decorations. Elaborate "doubl numbers" were issued for Christmas, for patriotic and family anniversaries and event We took our patriotism straight. The CONGER NEWS remembered the Maine, plugged f Free Cuba, and fought the Spanish-American War practically single-handed.

On September 23, 1899,a special number of the CONGER NEWS commemorated Dad's sale f the Sunbury Bridge. Dad himself wrote for it the story of "How the Bridge Was Won". fer an earlier plan had been abandoned,he had a meeting called, at which the origin- lsubscribers went in for $85,000 in bonds and $55,000 in stock. "To write and ex- lin what arguments we used, how at times we were completely turned down, and then gin how they were only too pleased to subscribe....would occupy too much time. It euired much time, patience and hard work."

FRANK CONGER'S MIGHTY SPLURGE

In the fall of 1900 or early in 1901, Frank Conger, who, aside from taking the rton Bridge Company's largest contract, a $400,000 bridge at Little Rock, Arkansas, a not done anything spectacular since rescuing Oressa from the railroad wreck which iled her father and mother, busted out all over in a way almost unbelievable. Prob- by what he did could not be done today, but as things were at the time it was put vr, and it had a profound effect on the affairs of his cousin, Dad, and the rest of s Throwing into the deal everything he had, even including Oressa's money, Frank ght up a string of bridge companies around the country and watered the stock enough ofloat a new corporation,the American Bridge Company,with himself as vice-president. ave heard it said that it was from this accomplishment that J. P.Morgan derived the da of going a step further and including the American Bridge Company in the United ttes Steel Corporation. At all events, Frank made the plan work, and more remarkably tll, plowed the results back into the old home town.

The first thing the natives knew, he had bought the Marsh interests, root and nch--the controlling interest in the bank, making himself president and Jay Conger anier; the decrepit Groton Carriage Company, which owed the bank $69,000; and the ndall Typewriter Company that made Lehigh bicycles and the old sleeve typewriters ht somehow managed to type.

Frank started in, sowing it around. Old industries and enterprises were reor- anized; new ones founded all around us. The old Conger store became the C. W. Conger opany. The old carriage company became the Groton Carriage Works, with a handsome e brick building--now the Groton office of the Smith Corona Company. The cold stor- g plant became The Conger Produce Company. The Conger Manufacturing Company took v part of the old bridge company's work. The little chair factory became The Groton hair Company. Even Groton artesian water was bottled and shipped as "Regnoo" water. here was even a house organ--The American Pictorial Monthly,edited by another cousin f some kind.

Frank did not stop with industries. Saying, "I can't pray, but I can pay", he fered to pay half of the church debts of each of the four churches if they would ase the other half. In spite of his surprising interest in the old home town, now in the American Bridge Company having offices at 100 Broadway, Groton was too small or him, and the family moved to New York. They bought a tight little house at 863 t. Marks Avenue, Brooklyn, where they kept the horses and carriage on call in the eighborhood. They frequently came upstate--as Oressa used to say, "to the country".

I think it was at Central Park South that Frank somehow met a widow named M.Lois lace. Mrs. Place, of good height, with dark hair and features, of no particular cul- u but well dressed and one might say svelte, was of quite different type from Gro- or s good, slow-going Jennie Conant Conger. The new woman had a daughter, Hazel, of bout Oressa's age, plain, rather dumpy, without Oressa's dash, attractiveness and rtistic gifts. The first anyone knew, Mrs. Place and daughter were installed as resi- ers of the household and were received in Groton by relatives and friends, who, un- customed to such free wheeling and supposing that harems were for Morocco, did not uite know what to say or do. The two girls were dressed alike, as if they were sis- ers. Somehow Jennie put up with it; one wonders if she knew the score. Dad told me ha when Frank went away on business for a few days , Mrs. Place would manage to join in

It may seem ungracious for me to put the above into the record, when Frank was so uniformly kind to me. Just after I finished high school, he made a place for me in h industrial empire. Mother's diary records that on August 10, 1901, I started work a came proudly (that is no name for it!) home with two keys, almost as precious as t later Phi Beta Kappa. One actually unlocked the outside door of the Bank, and t other let me in behind the big counter.

Restless as ever, Frank did not stay long with his child, t h e American Brid Company, but out of three companies, (Owego, Canton and Boston Bridge Companies) whi he had left over,put together the National Bridge Company, with offices at 45 Broadw and later at 116 Nassau Street, Dad, if you please was president. It must be said th Dad's advancements and increases in salary in Frank's organizations were important f tors in sending me to college.

In the meantime, I had my regular job in the bank. Since I was a Conger, it w naturally assumed that,even if I were not the white-haired boy, I had the green ligh So the First National was operated by Walter Gale and me. The unfeeling Brother sai "Just think--that little Citizens Bank at Locke takes six men to run it, and the b Groton Bank is run by a man and a half." Some days the half-size even ran the ba alone, with little Brother trotting in with his lunch. The half-size extended pret well through the works, from helping to scrub the floor at the weekly "Bank-wets", t 6:30 Saturday mornings, tending the hungry coal-furnace in the basement, urged on t the winter by the always half-frozen tenants upstairs, to making up payrolls and onc anyway, making a loan at the window. I was taught the combination of the vault, whi so impressed me that I remember it to this day. Part of the ritual, when more than a half a century later I visit Groton, is for me to step in and open the vault for t youngsters who are there now.

Frank Conger went on, recklessly burning himself out,until he contracted a feve probably typhoid, and died while on a trip to Detroit. The whole tangled mass f Frank's affairs now devolved chiefly on Benn to straighten out, in a process whic went on for years. Jay was agreeable, but went on putting up grocery orders in the store. Dad helped in several ways. Eventually the Carriage Company, or works, the Crandall Company, and several small fry enterprises had to be written off. The Cong Manufacturing Company became the American Road Roller Company and flourished for a fe years before it disappeared, as did the Mechanics Bank. Of all the concerns, only the old reliables, the First National Bank and the Conger Store, continued to make mon for the family. Jennie and Oressa continued to live for a time in Brooklyn.Mrs. Pla and Hazel at first stayed on, but gradually the curious arrangement was dissolved - without a great blow-up, which I have always thought was averted,when Dad one day to Mrs. Place into the back room at the bank, closed the door, and read the riot act a the Declaration of Independence and Snowbound and Psalm of Life to her. I don't kn what became of the bank stock and steel stock which she held.

I loved the Beloved Bank, but as time had gone on I had begun to feel the lack f intellectual stimulus there, and I decided to go for a four-year arts course, inte ing thereafter to return to the bank for good. I started for Cornell. Dad reinfor me with $150 as a starter. At first I "balanced up" a cash account of my expenses a sent it to him, but he soon waived all that aside, and supplied me with money all th Cornell, vacations, and much of what came later. Once Dad visited the campus, and - served, "All my life I have looked up to college men, but now I see what little -- noses they are."

Under the soul-less American Bridge Company, the Groton plant fell into disu until Benn and Jay, true to the support-the-home-town tradition bought it back. I do not know how the National Bridge Company was dissolved,or the Boston plant disappea d from the record, or the Canton plant was modified, but anyway the Owego plant, so - what better situated for railroads, was reinforced, especially by the appointment f Cd as president and a concentration of other Conger personnel there. This meant that cr family, late in 1904, moved to Owego.

The Owego Bridge Company had been a sleepy affair. Several of our relatives were aready there. Uncle Fred Conger had come some time previously. One night, working in te shop, contrary to instructions he reached under a milling machine to pick up a ece of scrap iron and lost his right hand. Afterward the company gave him a job in e stock room. The bridge company, in spite of some bad inheritance from the past, de some progress.

At 29 Lake Street,Dad, after having banged around for eleven years, was once more t home" with us. Life for Mother was increasingly pleasant at Owego. There was con-derable coming and going; relatives came to see us and Mother went to see them. She l good help at the house. At the rather swanky Presbyterian Church Mother did her l stuff, teaching a Sunday School class, where she was appreciated.

In the course of college years, I had become more interested in religious work an in going back to the Groton bank, or even forward to what I had hoped would be Charles Backus' First National in New York. When the possibility of going into the nistry was brought up at home, Dad was very strongly against it. He did not argue ch, but made his opposition very plain to see. I persisted, and before long, in his signed, generous, easy-going way, he ceased to oppose. I left for New York and en-ed Union Seminary.

In due time,at Owego, I was asked to preach in the aforesaid Presbyterian Church. owing then more than I do now, I tried preaching without notes. All went well, as I od up there before Dad and his bridge company friends,Mother and society friends, t and his high school friends, and what friends I had managed to gain and hold. I anched into my subject--and--and then something distracted my attention,my so-called id went blank, my sermon evaporated, I stopped and fumbled around, apologized...and oked down at Dad, his expression one of bereavement,his face ashen grey, as he seem-d to sink lower and lower in the pew. I wonder if he did not recall his early objec-ins to my entering the ministry. After a few abysmal minutes, I recovered the thread f my discourse, and Dad eventually recovered his stance and complexion.

There was the time that Dad decided that the house needed a cleaning out of junk, ch had accumulated, and began carrying armfuls of it out to a bonfire which he had lt behind the block--only to be met, as he came out with fresh armfuls, by Mother, rd bound, with the loads of things which she had rescued from the flames.

But there were many pleasant features. Grandmother Conger came to make her home in us, and though sadly handicapped by the aftermath of a broken hip, added many a herful note to the place. She took up painting and embroidery at 84. Walter finish-d high school, with Dad in the commencement audience, and in the fall of 1908 entered ornell's College of Civil Engineering. He maintains that his college course did not os as much as mine (roughly $3000), but whatever the cost, Dad stood the bill.

Again and again Dad urged me to try for the Seminary Fellowship,which allowed two ars of graduate study in Europe. In order to give me a head start in the stiff com-etition, he paid my way for my first trip to Europe in the summer of 1909, when I arned some of the ropes and the German at the Universities of Margurg and Jena. In e fall I returned to New York, with ten cents in my pocket, but Dad and Mother were t the pier and straightway renewed my acquaintance with apple pie and ice cream.

I returned to Jena for the second semester, but broke away for a week to go to erlin, to meet and serve as guide for Benn, Florence and young Dorothy Conger. Benn ad come to Europe on business for the Corona Typewriter Company. Somebody had inven-ed a light weight, curiously folding typewriter, which had so impressed Benn, that he rganized a company to make and market it.J. Sloat Fassett, a prominent man of Elmira, n Benn's simple word, had put in $50,000, and a plant had been built at Groton. The ittle typewriter sold like all get out, and Benn was able to recoup much of the loss rom Frank's performances which had fizzled.

My last semester was spent at Heidelberg, where I lived in a boarding house "Anlage 51-A", along with a number of students. It was the custom for them to gath in the little room off the dining room and go in together to dinner. One evening--Ju 13, 1912, as I came in, one of the German girls pointed across the room to two America girls who had come in that afternoon, and just because a little book which they h said German was spoken in 51-A, had selected that house for their one night in t house register. I moved without delay across the room, and said "Good evening"; "Oh said the older girl, "Do you speak English?" Thus was inaugurated the process which not many months brought Dad a daughter-in-law, named AGNES (Hulburd). Post cards a letters helped the process along, past its early stages.

After my second year was up, I came back, this time with thirty cents in my pock but Dad and Mother, again, were at the New York pier. By 1912 Walt had finished Cornell and set up as a contractor in New Jersey. Later he worked for Mc Clint Marshall. In October Mother gave me her birthday present money so that I could go Clarksburg where Agnes was teaching, and at Clarksburg, on October 26th, we decid that it was for keeps. I had to borrow money from Agnes to get back to Owego, but an- way it was a sound investment. In the spring I finally landed a job, sight unseen, the Presbyterian Church at Rice Lake, Wisconsin. In the fall I went to Hyde Park, Ve- mont, of course, for the wedding.

Sometime along in those years the Owego Bridge Company weakened, and Dad and Mot- er decided to pull out. By this time, Walt was coming up the line with the Trus Steel Company, and was in their Dallas office, so Dad and Mother went down to live Texas. Dad was attached to the office and Mother was interested in the huge Bapti Church presided over by the fire-eating Dr. Truett. They roomed with a family nam Brooke, and were happy in their new surroundings, though anxious about Agnes and , away off in Siberia working for the war prisoners, and anxious about Walt when he we into the army.

Walt did all right in the army, at El Paso; one night a very cute little danc came out to entertain the troops. When Walt went straightway to her house he fou it garrisoned by a good part of a regiment; the only way he could get in was to go the house for breakfast and stay right through. That technique gave Dad his sec daughter-in-law, our precious little Winnie.

1918 was a year of double bereavement for us. On June 6, Grandmother Conger, after Dad and Mother moved to Dallas had gone back to Groton and lived with Aunt N Steinberg, ended her more than half a century of wandering from the home of one re- tive to another, and peacefully passed away at the age of 94.

With all her comparatively easy, peaceful life in Dallas, Mother's health, ne too robust, began to grow worse. On March 13, leaving behind a letter in which expressed some wishes about her things, she went to a hospital for a serious operat She rallied somewhat from this one but a still more serious one followed. Dad and had moved from the Brookes' home at 4706 Swiss Avenue to another house at 5129 Reig Avenue, where they had a room. There, on Sunday afternoon, November 17, quite with any unusual symptom, Mother quietly closed her eyes, and was gone. She was just a days older than 60 years. She had gone with us through all the struggles that we h been through, but did not live to go with us through our more successful years.

Now followed a series of rapid changes in our family's life pattern. Walt Winnie were married June 11, 1919. They set up housekeeping on Lora Avenue at Youn- town, and the young husband applied himself mightily at the Truscon office. About t time Dad came to be increasingly at home at "Barton's Camp", two miles east of Oweg

From Youngstown, July 11, 1920, came a telegram: "Dandy baby boy arrived t afternoon looks like his Dad says hello to his grandpa, aunt uncles and friends. Wi- fred doing splendidly. Walter." Thus was the planetary manifestation of Will Beech Conger. Dad spent more and more time, working at Youngstown, though his tr and his voting place remained at Owego. At last I finished enough of the work for

D at Columbia so that I could take a teaching job; through the influence of my old end John Coss I was recommended for a fill-in appointment at the University of Min-sota. I had given up hopes as the project seemed to have foundered, but when I came ck from Barton's camp to Palisades Park I was astonished to receive a letter saying t I had been appointed assistant professor of Philosophy, at a salary of $2400. So es and I moved to Minneapolis in the fall.

So things ran along with the new locations and adjustments. We were all saddened n on February 28, 1922, word came the Benn Conger had died very suddenly, from a rt attack. And on June 9 came the telegram saying that Agnes' sister Marjorie had n killed in an automobile accident. Some time later Jay was found dead down in the ement of the store. Sorrows and joys mingle in this world; on December 1 came an-ter telegram: "Robert Perrigo Conger arrived eight o'clock tonight seven three quar-es pounds Mother doing perfectly you will have to hurry or we will use up all the ily names. Walter."

Dad lived with the Youngstown outfit for a time, but as the offspring asserted mselves more and more in characteristic Conger fashion, Dad wrote me, "I am going to k away from this." And "Away from this" was the Truscon branch office at Harris-ug, so Dad pitched his tent in the Penn-Harris hotel. He, as we might say, doubled in ss. With one hand he sold mesh and metal lathe, and with the other, or rather with feet, ran errands, especially over at the State Capitol. His health continued be pretty good, though once when he was confined to his room upstairs in the hotel, contractors downstairs, disregarding Truscon's competitors, filled in the contract lks and sent them up for Dad to sign. He came to be known as the patriarch of them l. He retained his faculties, and handsomely got past the time when he sat down on a ir which, as it happened, was not there. He wearied of hotel life--and no wonder, r the large helping of it which he had had. At the hotel he became acquainted with Kister, who worked in the check room, and eventually the Kisters invited him to e out to 2659 North Sixth Street and make his home with them. He lived there for e ten or fifteen years.

When he was nearly 80 he suddenly had to have an appendectomy, but gradually re-red from the effects. One Christmas the Kisters had gone away and left Dad, none well, at home alone. The Truscon boys at the office thought that Dad needed cheer-up, so they went out to the house to see him. The cheering up was cheered by some-g out of the cellar, with the result that Dad, at his age and condition, had to put two cheerer-uppers to bed. He himself was cheered, and how!, when, at the highway - s annual banquet, he was called up to the head table and presented with a greeting containing eleven hundred signatures of well wishers, and a printed copy of the known poem, "The House by the Side of the Road"--"Let me live in a house by the of the road, where the race of men go by....and be a friend of man."

In his later years, Dad was increasingly troubled by a bronchial disorder which, gh not diagnosed as T.B., made him subject to fits of coughing. Nothing seemed to ove it, and Dad began quietly to set his affairs in such order as he could. His year was saddened by the death of Mrs. Kister, after much suffering. Eventually Kister prepared to marry again, and Dad did not know where he could go. On June 6, 4, he wrote to Walter and Winifred: "Walter, come here as soon as you can. My nition bad. I had the worst before last night and worst day I ever had. I have got et away from this climate. Some hospital. It would be nice if a private hospital, a middle aged lady; don't need professional nurse. The new Mrs. Kister cannot for me. I never was so weak. Sorry my boy but who else can I go to. Love to All. d"

He wrote that afternoon to a laboratory in Mount Gilead, Ohio, of which he had d, but before anything came of this the Harrisburg doctor had him taken to the City ital for a check-up. At eight o'clock some man from the office came to see him and talked business, but at about eleven o'clock, when he was alone in his room, he fered a paroxysm of coughing which at last was too much, and, as Walter heard first, phoned me at Minneapolis, "Dad passed." He never received the telegram which we sen that day to cheer him.

There was a service at Harrisburg,which I conducted, and a similar service in t Congregational Church at Groton. I closed with the same verse with which I had clos my words for Mother twenty-three years before. The burial was beside her grave, in t cemetery on the hill. Those who bore him there were Jay Conger, Ben Steinberg, Ra mond Morey, Percy Morgan and the two grandsons.

His affairs required no great amount of work in settlement. There might have be more, except for the few hundred dollars of bad debts which attested to his generous way with some of his friends,to say nothing of the several thousand dollars which we lost when the Benn Conger estate went to pieces. His bank balance was divided equal between his sons,after outstanding expenses had been paid. His Lincoln clippings we gratefully received by the Lincoln National Foundation at Fort Wayne, his McKinl clippings received by the McKinley museum at Niles, Ohio, and his Roosevelt clippir by the Theodore Roosevelt House in New York City. We have a recording of his voice.

The Highway Builder,a trade journal, carried an article which I wrote at the ed tor's request. In it I mentioned one incident which I will report here at the end. t the time of the panic of 1907, the Owego Bridge Company, for a wonder, had about t thousand dollars on deposit in one of the shaky Morse banks in New York; the cashi of the bank was E. O. Eldredge, once of Owego, and a valued friend. The question w raised as to whether it would not be well to withdraw the money. "No", said Dad, "I we take that money out, Ed will think we don't trust him. We'll leave it, and if we lose it we'll all work a little harder!" As it turned out, neither money nor friend- ship was lost.

So WILLIS NATHANIEL CONGER, after a long life,was gathered to his fathers. "Ye saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors. And their works do foll them."

In1856 a Thomas Sage 18 and William Sage 13 were living in the household. Zacharia, age 34, was a cripple. It would seem that Henry, Frances and John may have been sons of Benjamin, for whom there is no record.

Zacharia Conger enlisted in the 15th Reg of Inf; was promoted to Ensign on 17 Mar 1814, and promoted 3rd Lt. of Capt Joseph L. Barton's Co..He was discharged 15 June 1815 at the close of the war.

This 15th Regt was known as the New Jersey Regiment, and was organized under an act of Congress on 23 June 1815. Its officers and privates were almost entirely New Jerseymen. This is the same regiment in which Moses Conger of Woodbridge or Elizabeth enlisted in.

According to Omer T. Conger 1835, Zacharia's nephew, his uncle was wounded and later drew a pension. He and his family removed with his father David Conger 1760 to Dearborn county, Indiana, and remained there until about 1840,when he removed to Iowa, near Ottumwa. After the death of the parents, all this family removed to Oregon, but we have never been able to find any descendants, except those of Enoch (as of 1910).

The 1860 Iowa census shows Benjamin Conger, 43, born in Indiana, listed as a farm laborer in Jefferson county. Nearby is John B. Conger, 37, b. Ind, and wife Martha, 29, with five children.

Zacharia Conger and Pamela Davenport were sweethearts, but broke up and each ma ried someone else. When Zacharia returned from the Civil War they were reconciled an married. No one seems to know what happened to their first mates. Zacharia died cancer of the ear and face at the home of his son Joseph Jonas Conger. He had been h with a mini-ball during the war, which probably caused the cancer.

Will Conger, Zacharia's son by his first marriage, was married several times bu had only one child, and that by his first wife. She took back her maiden name and raised the child as "Andrews" instead of Conger.

Willa Dean Beall Eaves wrote, "From all the descendants of Zacharia I have talk with, I keep hearing the story of how the Congers owned the land which is now the pr area of downtown Atlanta, on which the largest bank and the Henry Grady Hospital sit The courthouse was burned in Gwinett county in 1871 and through some sort of fraud a no records of proof, the Congers lost the land. My great uncle says my grandfath (Joseph Jonas Conger) was born on that very land. Bounderies have changed so much, a I believe that section has now become Fulton county."

The following biography of Geneva was written by her daughter Sylvia:

"My mother, Geneva Wilcox Clark, always felt the responsibility of the care of r own mother, Dora Ann Conger Wilcox. She was raised in the home of her grandther, Nancy Margaret Slaton Conger, who had lost her own husband, Paton. Paton, as d his own father, Elisha, kept the custom of this area of "sitting-up" with a ighbor" who had died of typhoid fever. Both Paton and Elisha died of the same ilness soon afterward.

"Mother's uncles, Albert, "Doss" and Charles, lived nearby and helped their own ther, Nancy, with her crops. Dora Ann also worked in the garden and fields. Frail linda, who later died of T.B., helped in the house.

"When Mother was educated and grown, she accepted the responsibility of the total support of her mother, Dora Ann. Mother taught two years in a 'one-room' county school to afford Lockyear's Business College in Evansville, Ind. After graduation she became a secretary and bookkeeper in local offices of Marion Flourspar Offices. My grandmother and mother 'pooled' what money they had from the sale of my great-grandmother's farm with money earned in order to purchase a small home. (I grew up in this home before a new one was built in 1948.)

"After marriage, I came along to stop her from her position. Times were difficult in those depression years, causing Mother to feel obligated to return to her position when I was about three years of age. Grandmother Dora kept me, helping with the cooking, etc. My sister arrived and Mother continued working.

"Dad had begun contracting to build homes, as well as sell lumber and other building materials. As the business grew, so did Mother's responsibility as book-keeper, salesperson, etc. Today, March 1969, Mother still maintains the book work of Clark Building and Supply Co, with the aid of my sister, a Bowling Green Business graduate. Sam Smith, Linda's husband, works with Dad along with other help. Dad discontinued contracting several years ago in order to slow down. Dora Ann Conger always lived and worked in Mother's home until her death in 1961."

There is a follow-up for all the children except John William Crowell, who died arried. He was a drummer boy at the age of 18. He was in the service only four ths when he died of Spotted Fever; bd at Jefferson National Cemetery at Jeffer- so Barracks, St. Louis, Mssr.

So far as is known, Hiram had one brother named Sylvanus, who was a mill-wright a sisters Martha (Starkey & Acres), Elizabeth (Newkirk), Lorena and Elmira (Steb-). According to some family notes, the mother died en route to the "west", and the father died soon after arriving in Ohio. The father had brothers John and Royal Crowell who stayed in New York.

According to his obituary, Hiram "came with his parents to the West when but a child of 9. At the age of 20 he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church, and a few months later he experienced religion." Also, "After his physician had informed him that he must soon die, he called his family around him, he gave them his last counsel and advice, solemnly charging each of them to meet him in heaven; and when he could no longer articulate, he conversed by signs with his deaf and dumb brother-in-law (Elias Milton Conger 1816) about his prospect of soon getting to heaven."

Hiram was a cooper by trade, and he worked in a shop on his home place until hi death in 1853. A year later his widow Mary sold the land, and with her nine childre (the youngest born 4 months after Hiram's death) she emigrated to Monroe county, Iowa in a covered wagon with her son-in-law Omer Palmer and her brother Edward to assist her on the journey. She settled at Bluff Creek Township, where all her children grew to maturity.

Hiram seemed to prefer spelling his name CROEL, as shown by a letter he wrote in 1847. However, on his property deed he spelled it CROWEL on one page, and CROEL on another.

It appears that Mary's parents preceeded her to Iowa and settled in Monroe Coun ty. Her uncle, Elias Gregory Conger 1806, had settled in Appanoose county. Mary bought 160 acres of land @ $1.25 per acre, and cleared it with oxen. She deeded an acre of land on the corner for a Methodist Church. Across the road was a grocery store, cheese factory and school. In later years her son Wilber attended the store, and once a week would drive to Oskaloosa for the mail. This little community was known as "Bluff Creek", in the township of the same name, and was near the prosperous town of Buxton, a mining town of about 5,000 people. For many years the only remnants of the town were the abandoned railroad tracks and the re-built schoolhouse which was razed in 1963.

The Iowa Monroe County Census, 1860, revealed that Mary Crowel had 60 acres of improved land, 140 acres unimproved with cash value of $2,500, implements worth $750 also 2 horses, 1 milk cow, 2 oxen, 8 sheep, 5 swine valued at $160; 35 bu wheat, 300 bu corn, 48 lbs wool, 200 lbs butter, 8 tons hay, 30 gal molasses; Value of animals slaughtered, $50. In 1870 her real estate was valued at $6,300 and personal property at $1,580.

At the age of 66, Mary was shown in the Las Vegas, New Mexico census, visiting her daughter, Electa Jane Sutfin, accompanied by her son Wilber Fisk Crowell.

Mary will 40 acres apiece to her sons Wilber and Hiram, and the remaining land was divided equally among the other children. David ("D.G.") acquired this 80 acres by buying and trading with others--in one instance, giving a sewing machine to one of his sisters for her land. Recipient of the 40 separate acres of timber land is not known. Mary is bd at Hayden Chapel near Eddyville, Monroe, Iowa. (See David S. Conger 1787 for letter written by Hiram and Mary to her brother, John S. Conger 1818)

CROWELL, David Goble = b. 7 Dec 1847, Dearborn Co Indn, d. 2 Oct 1919, Wapello Co. Iowa, bd. McIntosh Cem, Ottumwa, Iowa, son of Hiram Croel & Mary Conger 1814. Md 17 Oct 1872 to Mary Ellen Wilson, b. 7 Apr 1847; d. 24 Dec 1924, bd with David.

An excerpt from the MONROE COUNTY NEWS, dtd 23 Oct 1902 states (from "Out Among the Farmers"): "D.G. Crowell, an old subscriber, is a carpenter and builder. He ha been 32 years engaged in carpentering and bridge building and thinks he has built more bridges than any other man in Monroe county. He has also built some good residences, among them the fine residence of James Neill near the East line of Bluff Creek Township."

However, D.G. was most remembered for his "miserly" ways. He bought all household supplies, and never anything that wasn't absolutely necessary. His wife Molly hoarded sugar, a spoonful at a time, until she had enough to make a small cake. This she did when he was in the field, for she didn't dare serve him any. His frugal way of living was really for his family, or this would not have been mentioned. He sent his youngest son to college to study chemistry, built a home as a wedding present fo s second son, and left his homestead to his eldest son, a bachelor, who never did day's work in his life!

Russell Crowell was a painter, and lived at Ottumwa, Iowa. He kept the family records for many years, thereby making it possible for his work to be compiled and extended. He was a big man, with a hearty laugh. He organized the CROWELL-CONGER family reunions for many years at Ottumwa. He was so jolly as he handed out "pop" ied in tubs to the children, which was a rare treat in the late 1920's.

He had his own paint store, which was later taken over by his son Raymond, who later branched off into interior decorating. As a result of strokes, Russell became bdfast and lay helpless for ten years before his death. The only word he could say ws "no". He sobbed with joy when a copy of the Crowell book was presented to him i 1962. His face lighted up with recognition at each name and picture.

Russell's son, Howard RAYMOND, was b. 30 May 1917 at Ottumwa, md 2 Aug 1939 to Lcille Bell. They had daus Linda Lou and Susan Ann Crowell.

Joyce Crowell was a professor of chemistry at Iowa, City, Iowa until World War I when the government called him to help perfect dyes. Afterwards he was called to extract oil from coal. According to Wilber's son Henry, who was 16 when his parents died, there was ever a cross word spoken in frontof the children. Henry claims he never saw his mother angry. Wilber apparently loved "Maggie" so much that he lost his mind after her death and died less than a month later from grief.

Wilber went to Las Vegas, N-Mx to visit his married sister, Electa Jane Sutfin, and there met Maggie. His sister and husband sold their hotel and moved to Kansas City, but Wilber stayed and worked on the railroad.

He had casually mentioned that rail-roading was hard work, due to coupling the cars by hand with pins. After his death, the man who bought the house found some papers in the attic that proved Wilber had invented the coupling device that was being used by the railroads in the early 1900's, but that his plans had been stolen and patented by someone else!

Wilber took his family to Iowa after his mother's death and he farmed the 40 acres he inherited. He also taught music--except to his own children. After his death the land sold for $100 per acre. The recollections of Mary Eliza Sutfin Koogler speaks of her Uncle Will as being very jolly and a lot of fun--that he played a coffe in the band, and a guitar. Since he lived next door to the church, he was the janitor. He once joked about having a lot of popcorn to eat after removing the decorations from a Christmas tree at the church.

Henry Norton Crowell was a carpenter and auto-body maker. Md 26 Aug 1914 at Ottumwa, Iowa to Violette Wright, b. 3 Dec 1892, Yorkshire, Engl, dau of Matthew Wright & Louisa Pearce.

Henry, like his father, was even-tempered. He was honest, kind and trusting--always a hard worker and ready to lend anyone a helping hand. Because of his trust in others, he lost a farm in Colorado, and an auto-building business in Des Moines, Iowa. His salesman's embezzling wiped out his business, but rather than take bankruptcy, he personally paid off each debt several years later. He worked on WPA for awhile, and then the Railway Express Agency as carpenter until his retirement.

Henry met Violet when he attended a "red hog" sale, as she was working for the people sponsoring the sale. They were married in Ottumwa, Iowa, and after their first child was born they moved to Des Moines. They bought an acre of land and spent many years building on and remodeling the house in which they lived 48 years.

Violet had poor health all her married life, although she never complained about it. She had abdominal surgery after Maxine's birth, a goiter removed, and three spinal fusions, where bone was taken from her leg and grafted into her spine. Just as she was getting around pretty well, she became a victim of arthritis and resorted to a wheel chair in 1950. Despite this, she did her own housework except the laundry or running the sweeper. They moved to Valley View Retirement Home in Des Moines in 1965. Violet died 29 Feb 1972.

They had Floyd David Crowell, b. 19 Jun 1915 at Ottumwa, md 7 Aug 1936 to Cecelia Ekwall (div), md 13 Jun 1946 to Hazel Rubandall; 2. Helen MAXINE Crowell, b. 5 Apr 1919, Des Moines, md 28 Jul 1944 to Laurence Otto Leonard. Maxine is the compiler of this book.

Clarence Lemly Crowell was md 29 Jan 1916 at Sterling, Clrc to Alice Marie Thompson, b. 22 Feb 1897, Danforth, Illn, dau of Jacob Thomas Thompson & Sarah Agnes O'Hara.

Clarence and Alice settled on a farm near Sterling, but the land was so poor they couldn't make a living. They left there with three small children and about $25.00 cash, and went to California, where Clarence went to work for the water company.

Clarence never knew what his middle initial "L" was for until he visited his brother Henry in 1958 and was told his middle name was "Lemly". This was the first reunion of the two brothers since Henry left Colorado in 1914--a period of 44 years. Clarence was 9 and Guy was 6 when their parents died, and they were left in the custody of their aunt, Mary Rebecca Neill. Their oldest brother George petitioned for their guardianship in 1909 when he married and homesteaded in Colorado. Henry went with them at the same time and purchased a homestead, but returned to Iowa in 1914 to get married and never went back.

The first three children were born in Sterling; the others in Los Angeles. Res: 644 W. Lennox, Yreka, Clfr, 96097.

After 26 years of service, Larry retired from the army on 1 Nov 1967, holding the ranks of Master Sergeant, Regular Army, and Captain, Reserves. He has been completely around the world, serving in the CBI theater, Austria and Korea. Due to combat disability and hearing loss he was released as an officer, but given limited service as a master sergeant. He tried farming after retirement but found the work too strenuous, and is now engaged in the Dairy Queen business. Maxine is bookkeeper.

Larry was serving in Austria when Brian, aged six, died in Des Moines of polio. When Maxine and Brant joined him they took advantage of the opportunity to adopt Hans Neumann and Karin Stoiser, ages six and three.

Maxine is the compiler of this book. Stricken with Rheumatoid Arthritis at the age of 37, she turned to genealogy for something to do. She had five foot operations, the knuckles and wrists of both hands repaired, and through chiropractic has returned to a fairly normal life. As a Latter-Day Saint, she teaches, directs the choir, and puts out the monthly ward paper. She directs the Waterloo Mothers Chorus (a community group of 35), and sings with the Sweet Adelines.

Besides typing the entire CONGER manuscript, she did most of the mimeograph work alone. She is preparing for publication the records of the CROWELL, WRIGHT, BOWLER, LEONHARDT, and WILLSON families. Through the Willsons, Larry is descended from William the Conqueror, whose lineage goes back to Rollo, 1st Duke of Normandy, born in the early 800's.

Parker b. 14 Feb 1867 md Mr. Smith. (from Mrs. James Ahlstrom, 1236 Oakhill Ave, Fairborn, Ohio.)

Following is Grandma Heryford's account of her life written at request of Milton Hammersly.

"I, Mary L. (Parker) Heryford, was born in Eldora, Hardin co. Iowa, January 25, 1859. My father, Dr. R. L. Parker, was born in Ohio January 5, 1830. My mother, Nancy E. Conger, was born July 10, 1834. They were married December 19, 1850.

"Mother was born near Springfield, Illinois. They went to Iowa with her parents. My brother, Wm W. Parker, was born near Eldora October 11, 1853. My sister, Ellen H. Paker, was born in Eldora February 14, 1867. In 1864, we, in company of a few other families, less than a dozen, went with horse teams to California. My father had two teams and mother drove one all the way. We were four months and a few days on the way and had no serious trouble with Indians or otherwise on the way. One day a band of warriors came to the camp (where we were laid over for the women to do their washing, baking, etc.,) and demanded something to eat and of course they had to be fed, for there was about forty of them and less than a dozen men in our train, as it was called.

"One other night, the loose horses were stampeded by Indians and run off. Of course they were hobbled and could not go very fast so before the next night all but two of them were recovered. The man whose horses they were had another team and he traded them for oxen and joined an ox team train.

"We went to Yolo county, California, to friends of ours, Patton by name, who had gone there two years before us. My father rented a small place about seven miles from Woodland and my brother and I went to the Planefield School.

"My mother did not like to leave her widowed mother (Lydia Howell Conger) and sister and go so far away but my father told her we would try it a couple of years, then if she was not satisfied he would take her back, and of course she wanted to go back when the time was up.

"On May 14, 1866, we started on our return trip from California, to Iowa, with but one team of our own instead of two, so my mother did not have to drive on our return. We were less than four months on the way this time, I do not know why. The roads may have been in better condition, or part of it might have been a different route. We had no trouble at all with the Indians or otherwise.

"Those days, a doctor, when needed, went to his patient when called, night or day, no difference what the weather was, and my father decided to do something else for a change, so that fall we went to Jasper county Mo. and he went into the sawmill business with a friend. We lived in a small town, Preston by name, twelve miles from the town of Carthage. In the summer of 1871 he sold out to his partner and moved to Kansas, what was then Rice county, and afterwards Reno county, a prairie county very thinly settled near the little Arkansas River, plenty of buffalo, grass, coyotes, prairie chickens, prairie dogs, rattlesnakes, and occasionally a buffalo or two that had strayed away from the herd, came wandering through the neighborhood. They were quite plentiful not many miles farther west of us, and were killed for their meat, also their hides. We used to dry and make jerky of a good deal of the meat. We located on a nice stream (Cow Creek) not far from where it emptied into the river, and a good stream for fishing, and no brush on the banks to interfere. The soil was good and we raised good gardens and plenty of corn, but sometimes the grasshoppers were quite numerous.

"Wichita, thirty miles away, was our nearest town on the railroad, but in the spring of 1872 some surveyors came and laid out the town of Hutchinson. Like all R.R. towns it grew very fast. It was three miles from us and soon was a nice prosperous town.

In the spring of 1874 my aunt who lived with my grandmother, passed away and my mother, sister and I went back to Iowa to be with my grandmother, but my father and rother remained in Kansas for about three months, then sold out and went to us. In the late summer my grandmother died. A few years after we came back from California, the Patton family went from there to Oregon and wanted my parents to come to them. They were in a valley called Crooked Creek Valley, just over the ridge from the north end of Goose Lake Valley.

"On August 25, 1875, we started for Oregon, came as far as Reno, Nevada, on the emigrant train. We were nine days on the way, and were met there by my brother with a team. He had come out that spring along with two nephews of Mr. Patton, one was single and the other had a wife and baby. She and the baby were with us. My father had expected to buy a team and wagon on our arrival at Reno, but our first night, in Council Bluffs, he was robbed - his billfold was taken from under his head, his money, about $1,000, taken out, and waybills put in place of it. He discovered the loss the next day but of course could do nothing about it. There were several of us to ride from Reno, so could take not much else beside our camp outfit. It took us several days so they had to make another trip for the remainder of our belongings.

"There were four other families in Crooked Creek Valley, a nice community. The fall of 1876 we moved to Ashland so my sister and I could attend school. Then we moved back to Lake county. August 12, 1877, Henry Heryford and I were married, and I went to live at the north (or upper end, as it was called) of Goose Lake Valley, where we lived until 1892, when we (in the fall) bought a house in town and moved in on account of school. The Chinaman Tom was left at the ranch to keep house and cook for the men. Henry was out there most of the time.

"At this time our family consisted of six children, Nell, Lem, Ollie, Harry, Fred and Willard. Hazel was born in August 1893. In 1897 Henry sold his company interest to his brothers, William and Jim, and sold the home in town and bought the Hammersly ranch north of town and raised thoroughbred Hereford cattle. On February 14, 1900, Hildred was born and on April 5 of the same year, our boy Fred passed away.

"In 1901 Nell and Fred Ahlstrom were married. In 1902 Lem and Selma Avarignete were married. In 1903 Ollie and Andy Hammersly were married. March 4, 1905, Ollie died and left a baby five weeks old, Milton. Harry and Bessie Wise were married in 1908. That left but three children at home, Willard, Hazel and Hildred. We sold in in 1909 and moved to Lodi, California, and bought a home. In the spring of 1912, Henry decided he would like to go to the coast to live, so went to Santa Cruz, and bought a few acres just outside of the city limits on the North. In 1919 his health got bad and he sold and we moved in town and he passed away December 12 of that year. The next year we went to Butte Falls, Oregon, where my mother (Nancy) lived, also my sister and brother. Hazel was living there too, she and George Barker were married in 1912 and were there. Hildred was married to Everett Abbott in 1921 (her second marriage, she was married to Henry Smith in 1919 and divorced.)

"On April 3, 1923, my mother passed away at the age of 88 years and nine months. Soon after, I went back to Lodi to live and Willard went to work at McCloud, California. About the next year I sold my home there and went to McCloud to keep house for Lem and Willard. In 1926 Lem and Clara Gerlicher were married, then about six months later I went back to Lodi and Mrs. Welch and I rented an apartment and lived together. In 1928 Hazel Barker moved to Eugene and soon after Nell and Hazel went up there also. They asked me to come to them, so in April 1929, Willard and I moved up. We lived in town for two or three years, then I bought a home about four miles north on Howard Lane. We had a few chickens, raised nice gardens, lots of corn and huge sunflowers for chicken feed. The last year or two while there we had a cow and made our own butter.

"About this time Nell moved back to McCloud and Hazel Barker decided she wanted to move to Sacramento, but did not want to leave us behind, so in the spring of 1938, I traded my place for five acres at Grants Pass. Nell and Fred came up from McCloud to help us with our undertaking so we brought our cow along. After we had bought two or three more we decided the place was not large enough for the number of cows we wanted, and I traded it in on a larger place, 107 acres, ten miles from town, at Wild-erville. We moved out there February 9, 1940. Soon after, Eston brought two cows from Santa Rosa, and now and then, he would bring a heifer or two. At the end of seven years, the little dairy had increased to sixteen cows. In 1947, Eston's moved up from Santa Rosa and took over both cows and ranch. Then I bought a house in town and July 11 of the same year we moved in and here Nell, Willard and I live up to the present time, June 26, 1950.

The children are buried at Hayden Chapel near ddyville. Electa gives recollections of her family as follows:

"My father, Hiram Crowel, was born in New York. His parents died when he was 9 ears old. He went to Dearborn county (Ind.) when a young man and married Mary Conger. hey lived there until his death.

"David Conger, my mother's father, was born in New Jersey. When about 20 years ld he went to Ohio, and there married Rebecca Sharp. (She lists the four boys and six irls). They lived in Ohio for some time, then moved to Indiana, lived there until he children were all grown. The year 1851, I think it was, they moved to Monroe co. owa. My grandmother died in the fall of the same year they got settled in their new ome of typhoid fever.

"My father died when I was about 17 years old, leaving mother to care for and ear eight children. Mother sold her farm in Indiana about two years after father's eath and moved to Monroe county, Iowa. She bought a farm about 10 miles from Albia. e travelled overland from Indiana to Iowa, mother's brother driving the team. The ousehold goods were shipped by railroad.

"I was married Dec 25, 1855 to John Henderson Sutphin. We had five children. In ugust 1862 my husband enlisted and went to war. He was gone three years. Co. D. 36th

Reg. Iowa Volunteer Infantry. I cannot describe the trouble and sorrow I was called to pass through during that time.

"My oldest brother (John W.), 18 years old, a drummer boy in the same company and regiment as my husband, died at Jefferson Barracks, St. Louis, Dec 2, 1862, four months after leaving home. He was only sick about 12 hours until death came and claimed him. The disease was Spotted Fever.

"My husband contracted lung disease while in the service, and was very sick for a long time after his return home. Dr. Buck, our home physician, gave him up and said he couldn't get well. He went to Cincinnati, Ohio, to Dr. N. B. Wolf, a specialist for lung diseases, and took his treatment for three months. With the remedies and my persistent care he finally regained quite his normal health.

"The year 1870 we moved to Denver, Colo. We had been there only a short time when James (our oldest living son) was taken seriously ill with rheumatism of the heart, and from that time on was afflicted with that disease. We lived in Denver seven years, then went to Hot Springs and Las Vegas, New Mexico, thinking it might help James, but he received very little benefit. He died of Endocarditis at the age of 19.

"I will now mention some of the incidents that occurred during my girlhood days. I had relatives in Cincinnati, Ohio, and in Madison, Indiana, whom I visited often, going by steam boat. Consequently I made many trips up and down the Ohio River.

"I remember one thrilling incident that occurred on one of our trips. Father and I took passage on a large boat called the 'Fashion' at Lawrenceburg, Indiana, for Cincinnati. Our boat had just gotten under good headway, when all at once everything in the ladies cabin was shaking and rattling. We couldn't stand or walk without holding onto something.

"Father said, 'We willl go below and see what the trouble is.' The 'William Penn had challenged us to a race to Cincinnati, and we accepted the challenge and that's all--just a little race on.

"We went down below, where we could see all that was doing on the deck of the other boat, but could only hear the noise of our boat. There stood the big mate with a gun in his belt and a 'billy' in his hand. Those deck hands going on a trot rolling barrels of tar up to those monster red hot furnaces that looked like the very 'demons' they were, consuming those barrels of tar one after another as the firemen rolled them in. And those poor fellows knew well and good what was coming to them if they did not obey those loud commands. We could see quite a good many large portly men standing around betting on the race. When we landed at the wharf in Cincinnati our boat rounded in about ten feet ahead of the 'William Penn'. My, but they cheered lustily for the winner!

"When visiting at Madison, Indiana, sometimes my uncle John Conger (see his diary of the Mexican War) would take me with his wife and baby out in a skiff to ride the waves of the big steamboats. Sometime we would be eight or ten feet up--then down to the level--then up again. My, I wonder how I ever did such a thing!

"Our parties and amusements were very different those days than now. We had Apple Peelings, or Apple Cuttings, Quiltings, Corn Shuckings, and sometime play parties. Some farmer and wife would invite the girls for all day or the afternoon to quilt, and the boys at night to shuck corn by moonlight. They would have them pulled and thrown in piles to shuck. They would run races and have so much fun. And my! What good things to eat! The tables would be loaded down with the best of everything.

"Many a day I would spin my dozen knots of yarn at the big wheel, go out at night, and never feel tired; would get up next morning and go at it again. Horse-back riding was the way young people would go those days. Some ten or twelve couples would go off together, several miles to a camp meeting or the 'Cathedral' on Easter Sunday to see the special services of the Catholics--always a great crowd on that day.

"Sleigh riding was another thing we enjoyed very much. There was usually good sleighing most all winter."

xcerpts are as follows:

"When father went to war in 1861 I was expected to help work on the farm. I gathred eggs and milked as soon as I could do that. Father was in the war for three ears. When he returned I was eight years old. That was the age I started to school. e went to the Barber School in Iowa. It was at the corner of the 'Barber Place', and wned by Aunt Sabina (Conger) Barber. It was a 2½ mile hike to school. We went when he days were so that we could. We started at daylight. We went through the fields o school. I was scared to death of the horses and cattle, and the woods made us araid.

"Uncle Vic (Crowell), mother's oldest living brother, was a good musician. He led band and played every instrument. He led a brass band for years in Albia. He never ad any lessons--just picked it out. He was in the Cavalry in the Union Army. Later e was a carriage painter.

"Mother's youngest brother, Will (your compiler's grandfather), also played in he band. In fact, the whole family played in the band. He was very jolly and full f fun.

"Father contracted tuberculosis during the war and returned home on a stretcher. t last in 1870, in an effort to benefit his health, the family decided to move to enver, Colorado. Father was still ill at the time. I was fourteen years old, but ery little, sickly and thin. My brother, James Harlan, was about nine, very thin nd small, and John, as a baby of two had pretty curls. Father took his dental books nd equipment. He had studied dentistry in Oskelusie (Oskaloosa), Iowa.

"Uncle Vic came over and ate supper with us the first of June 1870. At eleven hat night we went through the woods in a big old lumber wagon to the little place here we took the train. Father couldn't even walk at that time. At age fourteen I ad never been on a train before. The sparks and coals frightened me, and the train ade me so 'seasick'.

"When we came to Albia, Uncle Vic left us. There were no Pullman cars. We ferried at Omaha, Neb. and took the Union Pacific westward to Evans, Colorado. A box of ooks burst open after we got off the train to take the ferry. Mother had to collect hem and fix them, as father was so ill and couldn't help. We went fifty miles by tage-coach to Denver. Later we watched the gold spike railroad come into Denver.

"The stage-coach had men on top to guard against the Indians. There was a caraan of six coaches--four-horse carriages. The rolling of the coaches made all of us ick. A German girl watched while I got ver sick, and then she said, 'Let me by the indow. I just have to wommit', and she did. I was so sick I could hardly hold my ead up.

"We arrived in Denver at 3 AM and stayed first at the American Hotel. The Crossens amily made us welcome and we stayed there three or four days while finding a house to ent. We rented a two-story brick house with a little square house in front of it. bout 25 foot frontage, and located on Stout Street and about 16th. Indians would ften come through the trail to the house. They were Ute Indians, with red blankets nd all on horseback. Mother and I would run up to the attic and hide.

"Mother bought an adjoining lot, and Father opened his dentist office. We went o the Lawn Street Methodist Church. There we got acquainted. Father and I both oined the Red Cross Society. We were both officers in it.

"At school there were 19 kids. My parents were so strict. A good many fellows, rom Sunday School, and some from school, wanted to come see me, but my father forbade t. A Mr. Stinson, a nice young man who was an officer in the Red Cross, was allowed o walk by my side from the meeting to my home, if father and mother walked behind. I ent to a church social once with Mr. Stinson, but we had to be home ny 9:00 o'clock.

"A stock man from New Mexico, a patient of father's from whose throat he had aken a fish bone, suggested we go to New Mexico. They thought the Hot Springs near as Vegas might be beneficial to my brother James, who was about fourteen then, and ho had a rheumatic heart. While in Denver we had home-steaded a place and built a ute little complete cottage, but we let it go.

"In July 1875 we left for Las Vegas, New Mexico. We had three covered wagons, seven horses, one $900 stallion. A little riding pony we had had to be broken every day. A storm had covered up a narrow plank bridge, but we drove over it anyhow. It rained every day or night of the trip. Trees were often across the road. Often there was no road at all. We had to build it out of the mud. Once we had to take a wheel back 9 miles to get it fixed. Indians would come buying and begging. They talked about my hair and picked it up and handled it. They wanted one of my light curls.

"It was September when we arrived in Las Vegas. There were no trees. Green's ranch was the only thing on the East side of the river when we arrived. We could stand in the door and see wagons on the nine-mile hill--a hill nine miles away. There was nothing to obstruct the view.

"Father practiced dentistry and medicine in Las Vegas, and built the Grandview Hotel, the first four-story building in town. It had roses. It was well sodded, and had red flagstone walks.

"At first we lived right over the newspaper office. I saw Mr. Koogler often. We started going to church together, and then he went everywhere with me. We were married in April in the old Presbyterian Mission. We had a big wedding supper at home. We took all the furniture out to make room for all the tables. Then we all went to the Exchange Hotel and danced until morning.

"We were invited to all the Mexican dances because of my husband being a newspaper man. We went to the old Romero home to parties. They would give a freshly dressed kid as a present of esteem to the 'American Newspaper Man'.

"The mail coaches came from Santa Fee right down Pacific Street at four in the morning. You could hear them yelling three or four blocks away--then come rattling past our windows, change horses, and started off again. The Eastern mail came in the daytime.

"My husband and father had their efforts rewarded when the Santa Fe Railroad chose Las Vegas for their route to the West. They were in the ceremony for this event and my father had a coach which met the trains. The hotel bus, with four horses, turned over one day on the steep activity on the way back from Hot Springs. My husband got hurt pretty bad protecting our daughter Nell, who was sitting on his lap.

"Actors and actresses stopped at father's Grandview Hotel on the way to the west coast. Lew Wallace (author of 'Ben-Hur') and his daughter stayed in the hotel for months. Col. Sellers lived there a long time. There were many big parties in the Grandview Hotel Placita.

"When 'Billy the Kid' was killed, they brought him right past our house, thrown in the back of a cart. No respect was given to the corpse at all. My husband often aroused the ire of outlaws and others of that caliber because of his newspaper editorials or his activities as a lawyer, but he never wore a gun as did most of the men!

In 1883, John Hampden Koogler sold the "Gazette" and opened a law office in Muskogee, Indian Territory, Oklahoma. After the death of his partners he returned to Kansas City and attended the Homeopathic College of Medicine and graduated in 1902. He practiced medicine in Kansas City until his death 5 March 1918. Mary's parents, John and Jane Sutfin, joined them in Kansas City where they spent the rest of their lives.

This grandchild was Mary Thompson, who lived with her cousin, Martha Archer Conger, even after her marriage to Gov. Tiglman M. Tucker. Before her marriage to Gov. Tucker, Martha A. Conger made a will, which provided handsomely for Mary Thompson. After her marriage she made a second will leaving the bulk of her estate to "Miss Mary C.
